TATE'S TIPS

DISPOSING OF SURPLUS.

Two Ways and Their Effect.

As this article is written there exists throughout this country an oversupply of gladioli, as the result of which prices on this particular flower have become demoralized. Gladioli that a few weeks ago sold on the wholesale market at $10 per hundred can be had at this time as cheap as $1, $2 and $3 per hundred.

It is the end of the week; the commission man wants to empty his storage vaults. He realizes that on Monday morning a fresh supply is sure to arrive, and who can blame him for wanting to clean up? Let us for a moment take into consideration the nature of the business he conducts. On every dollar's worth of stock he sells he receives 15 cents; he would not be human if he did not sell all he possibly could. The consequence is that the surplus is thrown on the market through the street peddlers, and often the department stores, who keep buyers on the outlook for such opportunities. But some make the claim that this is not detrimental to the trade, that in this way the blooms get into the hands of a class of people who are not naturally flower buyers and so teach them to "Say It with Flowers."

Let us look at this phase of the question for a moment. For this purpose we will first consider the method of the street merchant in doing business. First he buys his stock in lots; by this I mean that he will offer $50 or $100 for a lot of gladioli. He has a staff of young men who do the actual selling; he is the manager. When he gets his original purchase price, plus the cost of selling, he is, to use his term, "on velvet"; it is then a case of getting all he can out of the remainder. These sales usually take place on Saturday; the stock is perishable and must be cleaned up at once. What is the result? Fine stock is often sold at prices that are ridiculous.

Effect on Florists' Campaign.

What effect does this have on the campaign of education now being conducted by florists? Take, for instance, one who has come into contact with the slogan, "Say It with Flowers"; he has perhaps read it in some magazine. A fine bunch of gladioli is offered to him on the street, at a price that anyone familiar with the business knows would not pay for the handling of them, to say nothing of the cost of production. These suggest to him that he will "Say It with Flowers" once as an experiment. The consequence is that he is well pleased with his purchase and at some time wants to repeat the experience. But he then finds no flowers on the street; the glut has passed. He naturally turns to a retail store, where he is asked a normal price for the flowers. Is this man to blame for thinking that florists are a set of profiteers? He has no idea why the gladioli were so cheap on the street. He does not know that the price asked by the florists was in reality fair. So every time he reads the slogan he is reminded of his experience and rehearses it to some friend as an example of florists' profiteering.

Let us take another case. Consider last winter, when prices were near the breaking point. Take a man, for instance, who, reading some magazine, sees the national publicity committee's advertisement for Mothers' day. He studies the picture, notes the suggestion to "Say It with Flowers," and determines this is the right thing to do. He knows nothing of Mothers' day except the fact that white carnations are associated with it. So he naturally determines to say it with white carnations. But when he goes to place his order he comes to the conclusion that it is not such a good thing after all.

These are just two cases. If space permitted, I could go on indefinitely. But readers will say, "What is the use of telling us all this? We know this already? What is the remedy?" Well, if you were sick, the first thing you would do would be to call in a physician. His first thought would be to diagnose your case; in other words, to find out the cause of your malady in order to remove the cause.

Cause and Remedy.

After making a close study of the flower market during the last year, my conclusion is that the cause is mainly the lack of organized coöperative machinery for the marketing of floral products to the best advantage of growers and consumers. This is admittedly one of the chief economic problems facing the florist today. There is no solution that will prove satisfactory which does not take into partnership the millions of consumers. They are the growers' ultimate customers, and the closer the two can come together, the greater will be the benefit to each.

Now, this does not necessarily presuppose the elimination of the wholesaler, or middleman, but it will, instead, serve to regulate him and protect the grower against ruinous loss and the consumer against imposition. There is no more reason to scoff at this idea than at many other changes in business

Rocks That Rock the Boat

The very rock that you fasten your business boat to, is the very rock that will rock it if you are not mighty careful.

You know, I am no pessimist, but when I take up the papers, and see how prices on so many things are being slashed, I kind of begin looking around into the corners of our business.

You and I have seen many a business boat rock, simply because the owner thought it was anchored to so stronga rock, nothing could affect it.

Getting a business chest, it seems to me, is one thing.
Getting chesty about your business is quite another.
One means strength.
The other weakness.

That's what I mean by saying that a business rock, sometimes rocks the boat of business.

It's why I take especial care of all F. T. D. business from you.
It's also why I take particular care in sending my F. T. D. orders to particular florists.

methods which are now recognized as unescapable. One thing is too obvious to dispute; that is, that neither the self-interest nor the intelligence of the vast majority of Americans will patiently acquiesce in the fluctuation of flower prices.

Three weeks ago the National Flower Growers' Association was definitely launched at Cleveland. No one can predict accurately what its outcome will be, but to my mind in its hands is the solution of the whole question. In this organization, with a local body operating in every community, each local might have a committee to act in the capacity of a board of trade. When gluts occurred of any particular flower this committee could work out a scheme whereby, after the legitimate retail trade was supplied, the surplus would be used for advertising purposes and thereby turn to the benefit of the entire trade instead of to its detriment. In opposite conditions this same committee might, in times of scarcity, add to the cost of production a fair profit and then see to it that stock got into the hands of the retailer at a fair price. I talked with retailers of all classes last winter about high prices, and every one assured me that he was only adding 100 per cent to the wholesale price of stock, which was the lowest margin upon which he could conduct his business.

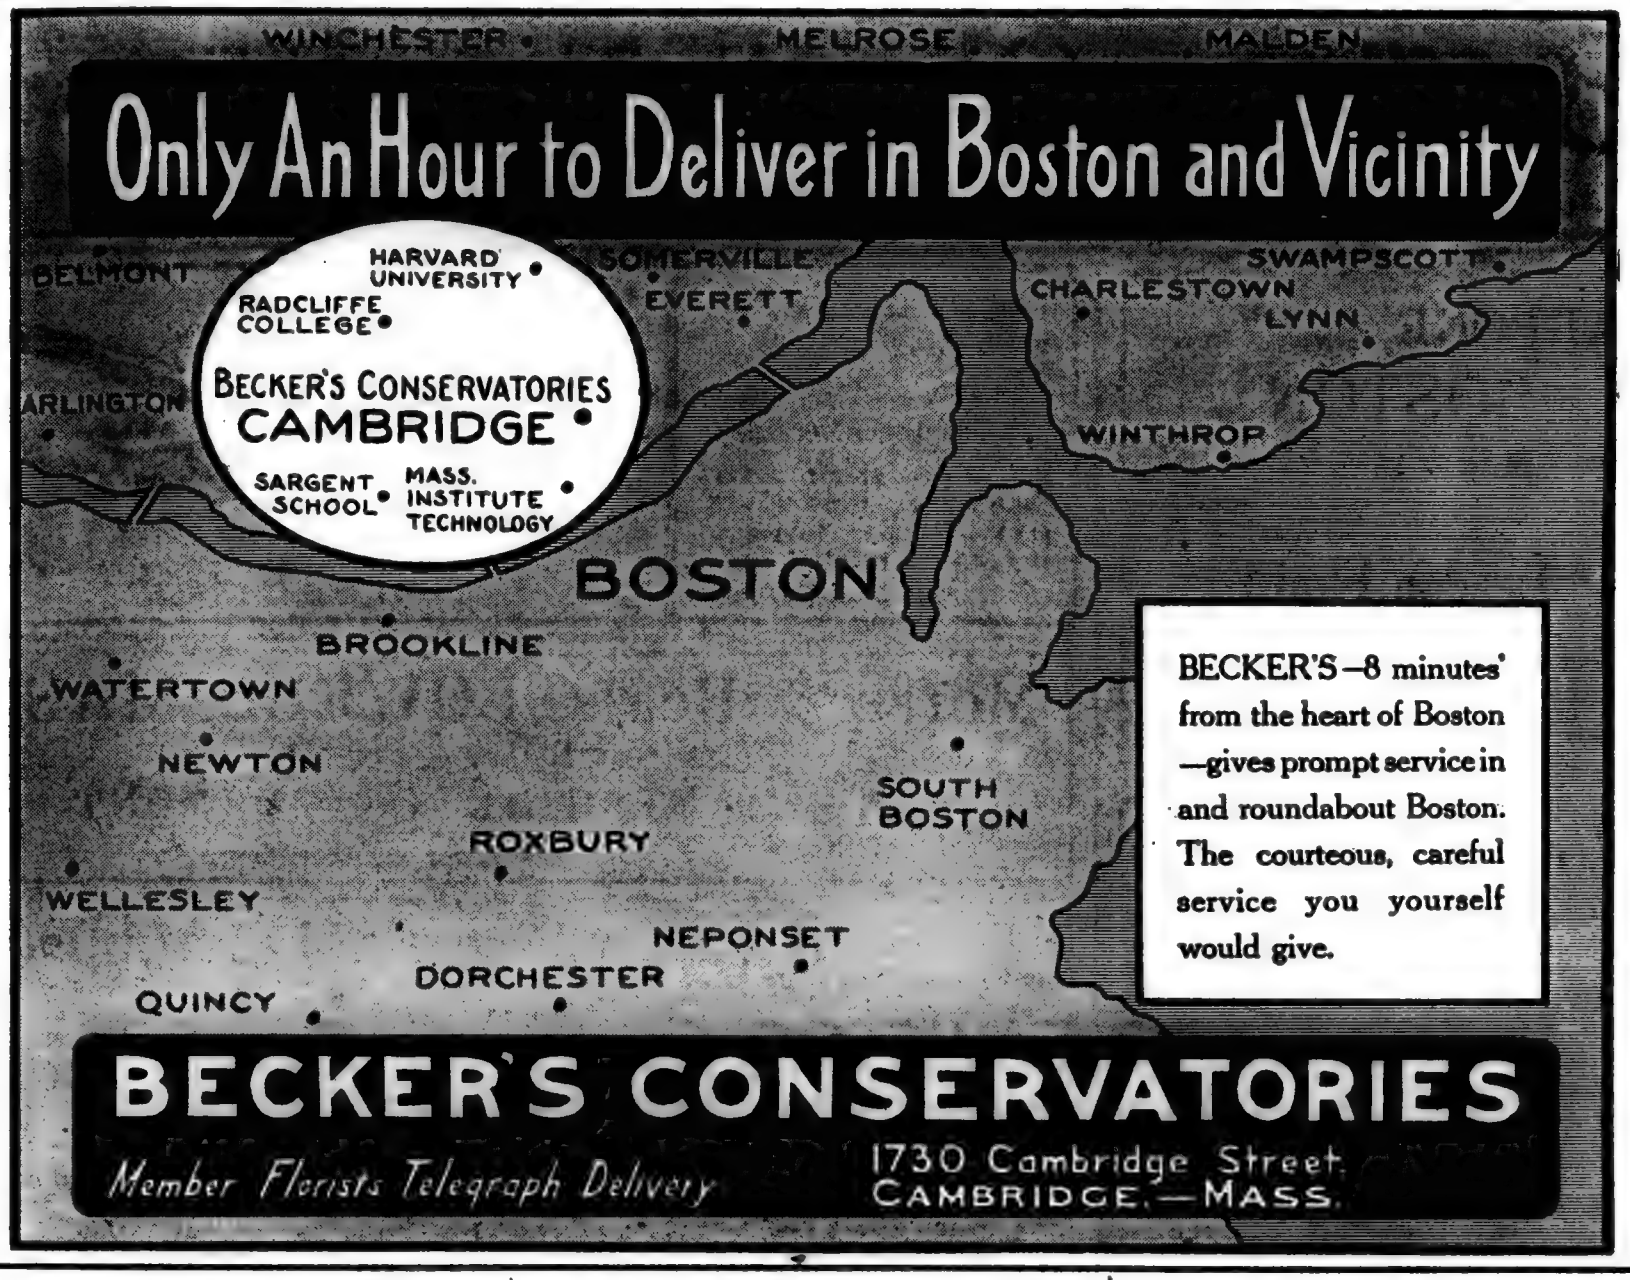
oil, any ingenious person having pipe tools and drills at hand can construct an oil burner as good as the best. A particular advantage is that he can make it of just the right size to suit his requirements. If he does not wish to do it himself, his machinist can do it.



To construct a burner of the smallest size practical, the following materials are needed: Eighteen inches of 1/8-inch pipe, eighteen inches of 3/8-inch pipe, three 3/8-inch nipples three inches long, one close 3/8-inch nipple one inch long, one 3/8-inch tee, one 1/2-inch tee, one 3/8-inch cap, some pieces of round brass to thread and plug the 1/8-inch and 3/8-inch pipe, also the front end of the steam tube, four inches of polished 1/4-inch rod for the needle valve stem and a plate or wheel suitable for the hand in turning the valve when opening or closing.

The Needle Valve.

Perhaps it is best to make the valve first. Saw a 3/8-inch coupling in half to screw over the nipples when threading inside, to prevent them from splitting; one end of the ⅜-inch tee. Then take the close nipple and thread as you did the one three inches long, except that the plug should be three-fourths of an inch long or nearly through the nipple; center, and bore through this plug a hole of suitable size to thread clear through with a twenty or finer ¼-inch tap. Screw the open end of the close nipple into the other end of the ⅜-inch tee; if the holes in these nipples have been bored true, they will be in line, as they must be if the valve is to be successful.

Now file one end of the polished rod down to a fine needle point and back at least one-fourth inch; turn as you file, so that the point will be in the center of the rod. Then put it in a brace or chuck and bore it into a piece of hard wood as deep as it is tapered; put some emery dust in the hole you have made and turn the point of the stem back and forth in emery until it is perfectly smooth and true. Run a thread on from the needle end back far enough so that it may be screwed into and through the threaded hole in the close nipple far enough to reach and close the oil hole in the first plug. Then take it out of the wood and thread the blunt end far enough to screw on hand wheel and lock nut to hold it. Now screw the valve stem in place, bore ¼-inch hole in the center of the ⅜-inch cap; slip it over the valve stem; fill well with packing and tighten up on close nipple; tap out plate or wheel; screw it on the end of the stem, and put on lock nut. Close the valve tight and try to blow through nipple No. 1; a leak will easily be detected; closing the valve quite tight and opening a few times will generally seat it so that it will not leak.

work on the front of my own boiler is ten inches thick, consequently the extra length of my steam tube was eleven inches. Measure and cut your steam tube.

The next step is the making of the oil tube and great care must be taken to get it right. Screw a ⅜x½-inch bushing into the 18-inch piece of ⅜-inch pipe and into one end of the ½-inch tee and tighten up. Pass the ⅜-inch pipe through the hole for the burner in the boiler front until the tee is about even with the iron front; reach inside and mark the pipe one inch inside of the brickwork, and then cut the pipe. Now take the pipe with the bushing out of the tee and ream or file out the inside of the pipe. If the pipe has been cut with a hack saw, no filing will be needed.

A ⅜x½-inch bushing should now be put on the 3-inch nipple No. 2 and the nipple plugged inside of bushing, centered and bored large enough to start a ⅛-inch pipe tap; then the hole should be threaded. Run a ⅛-inch pipe thread on one end of the 18-inch piece of ⅛-inch pipe back an inch or more to allow for lengthening or shortening when finally adjusted. Then run the ⅛-inch pipe through the steam tube and note whether its fit is tight or loose. It should be quite loose; if it is rather tight, it must be dressed down with a file later.

Assembling the Burner.

Now assemble the burner as follows: Screw the ⅛-inch pipe into nipple No. 2 about one-half of the threads you have cut; slip the ½-inch tee over the ⅛-inch pipe, which is the oil tube, and screw up the bushing into the tee; then slip the ⅜-inch pipe, which is the steam tube, over the oil tube and screw into the tee; set both bushings and pipe up rather tight; make a plain mark on the oil tube at the end of the steam tube; take the oil tube out and cut it three-fourths of an inch shorter than the mark indicates; thread it on the inside, plug, center and bore a $\frac{5}{32}$-inch hole in it. Reassemble and screw free end of nipple No. 2 into the side opening of the needle valve; close the needle valve, place thumb over the side opening in the ½-inch tee and try to blow through the steam tube. If no leak is apparent, remove thumb from tee and try it again. If you find that you can blow through the steam tube with little or no effort, it is all right, but if the blowing seems hard, it means that the oil tube is oversize and must be dressed down with a file; be careful to keep it round and file until it is quite easy to blow through the steam tube with the oil tube inside. Be sure to keep the needle valve closed while making these tests.

The Final Touches.

Now cut a thread inside the tip of the steam tube thread; screw in the brass plug to the depth of one-half inch; saw off flush with the end of the tube; center, and bore a $\frac{7}{32}$-inch hole in the plug. Take a file or small chisel and cut a

V-shaped slot from the extreme outside edges of the plug directly across the center of the hole and as deep as possible without marring the hole on the inside. Looked at through the steam tube from the back end, the hole should appear round; looked at from the outside, it should appear as a slot across the tip seven-thirty-seconds of an inch wide. Now taper off the tube and plug quite to the edges of the slot. This completes the burner.

Put a ⅜x½-inch bushing on ⅜-inch nipple No. 3 and screw into the side opening of the ½-inch tee for the steam connection. Adjust the oil tube so that it will reach to within about five-sixteenths of an inch of the plug in the steam tube and see to it that the holes in oil tube and steam tube align. Put unions on nipples No. 1 and No. 3 and the burner is ready to connect up.

A burner of this size will take care of any boiler up to twenty horsepower. Two of this size, with a third made with a ½-inch steam tube, a ¼-inch oil tube and valve and holes in proportion, will take care of a boiler up to 100 horsepower. The larger burner could be used alone most of the time; in particularly cold weather that could be cut out and PRODUCING PYRETHRUM POWDER.

A Shortage in the Supply.

There is sufficient reason at all times for special interest in the pyrethrum, since the flower in its dried form is a deadly poison to insects, but harmless to higher forms of life. When it is announced that there is a prospect of a shortage in the supply of pyrethrum, the interest is increased. There is a less vital interest in the fact that the pyrethrum under consideration is really a species of chrysanthemum. Though it is sometimes known as Pyrethrum Parthenium or Parthenium Matricaria, botanists now declare that its right name is Chrysanthemum Parthenium.

Like a great many other industries in Japan, the production of pyrethrum flowers and manufacture of insect powder greatly increased during the war. Prior to 1914, says a recent United States government report, the chief source of supply was Dalmatia, Persia and some Kens, based upon August market prices, shows: Peppermint, $600; grasses for straw braids, $260; pyrethrum flowers, $240.

The pyrethrum plant is a biennial, dying out at the end of the second year, and its production prohibits the use of land for other purposes during the same year. On the other hand, grasses grown for straw braids are produced in addition to a food crop, so that the return per acre planted in grasses is greater than that shown above. For this reason, as well as because of the shortage of foodstuffs in Japan, many farmers formerly producing pyrethrum are turn-

Japanese Exports of Pyrethrum.

In 1918 the total exports of pyrethrum from Japan were: Flowers, 3,223,845 pounds; powder, 815,050 pounds.

In the year 1913 the largest foreign purchaser of the Japanese flowers was Great Britain, which imported 184,930 pounds, while China purchased the largest amount of insect powder, 77,084 pounds. During that year the exportation to the United States amounted to only 30,736 pounds of flowers and 16,027 pounds of powder. In 1918, however, the United States was by far the largest purchaser of the flowers, exports to that country amounting to 2,721,993 pounds, or eighty-four per cent of the total exportation. China, however, is still the leading purchaser of insect powders; exports to that country amounted to 206,682 pounds in 1918, while the exports of powder to the United States amounted to but 120,949 pounds, or about fourteen per cent of the total exportation.

The production of flowers, which in 1918 amounted to 6,720,000 pounds, fell off greatly during 1919, to 2,479,680 pounds. As already mentioned, the cost of production and the rate of return on an acre of pyrethrum flowers make it more profitable for farmers to turn their fields to other crops. Basing the production per acre upon the average for the years 1915, 1916 and 1917, it may be estimated that the acreage in 1918 amounted to 10,474 and in 1919 to only 3,809.

The Rising Prices.

part of the Japanese pyrethrum crop left for export during the coming year—that is, after deducting the average quantity for Japanese consumption—will be 2,710,575 pounds, equal to about eighty-four per cent of last year's exports of flowers. It will thus be seen that there is a scarcity of this product in Japan. This shortage has gradually forced up the price, until flowers now stand at about $500 per long ton above the price ruling in January, 1919. With this year's crop already gathered and showing a considerable shortage in supply, there seems little hope for a decline in price as a result of the new harvest.

There was only a little planting this year, for reasons already mentioned, and a great many of the fields which produced their second-year crop this year will not yield in 1920. It is estimated that the decrease in acreage caused by failure to replant will cause a decrease in the 1920 production to approximately 630 long tons (1,411,200 pounds), or less than the production in 1913.

During the first six months of 1919 exports of pyrethrum flowers amounted to 3,581,453 pounds, or twice the amount exported during the same period of the previous year. This export is, of course, out of the 1918 production, but it indicates a demand which cannot be met from Japanese production, as shown by the 1919 harvest and forecast of the 1920 crop.

WHERE ARE YOUR HOGS?

"Do you think it healthy to keep your hogs in the house?" a social investigator asked a native of Arkansas.

"Waal, I dunno," he drawled. "But I been a-keepin' my hawgs there for fourteen years and I ain't never lost one of 'em yet."

This tale expresses the effect which our publicity campaign has had on many. Some of the florists have been fortunate in being able to get along in spite of the unbusinesslike methods they had previously used. Many have turned a deaf ear to any movement of progress, particularly our "Say It with Flowers" campaign, although they have gone along "fair to middlin'."

When a call is extended to participate in a publicity campaign that will entail a small expenditure in order to bring in returns of good dividends, they have allowed themselves to go on in the same manner as formerly, without a bit of change, much like the native of Arkansas.

Wake up, my brother, and get a little of the "sanitation" in your system!

Contains 429 pages of text, besides eighty-two full-page half-tone illustrations. Published by E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.]

Preparatory to the successful writing of a book of this nature, it is necessary that the author's education comprise what may be called an entire course in both theory and practice, in both technical science and everyday experience. Without this twofold preparation, he would not be able either to see the subject from the right point of view or to

It appears that the equipment of the author in this case is complete and well balanced. No, he is not a commercial grower; if he were, he would not be likely to have either the opportunity or the special aptitude for the writing of such a book. But, as head of the division of plant pathology and physiology at one of the most important experiment stations, he has probably come more in contact with plant diseases and pests than has almost any ordinary grower—and that is saying a good deal. Moreover, he has been accustomed to fight these plant enemies more systematically than have most growers. Like a military officer, he has developed a facility for planning definite, strategic campaigns. Or, to change the figure and liken the author to an experienced physician, he has acquired proficiency in diagnosing diseases and administering the correct course of treatment.

OUR CAREFUL ATTENTION

The book seems to be logically arranged. The author, like a physician again—the right but perhaps too rare sort of physician—attaches prime importance to the prevention of disease by the maintenance of wholesome conditions. Therefore he starts the book with descriptions of what he terms sick soils, and prescribes the needed remedies. For instance, he shows how such deleterious qualities of soils as alkalinity and excessive acidity may be counteracted. Pernicious organisms in the soil must be destroyed; so a dozen pages or more are devoted to accounts of different methods of soil sterilization. Suggestions are offered on the proper regulation of light, ventilation, humidity and other details of greenhouse management.

Then, in chapter 7, begins the actual classification of plant diseases, with the methods of combating them. Both vegetables and flowers receive attention. Pests as well as diseases come under consideration; in fact, the pests and diseases are often inseparable, being linked together as cause and effect or as constant companions.

The eighty-two full-page illustrations, which are nearly all made from photographs, do their part well in throwing light on the subject.

September 2, the members of the association made trips to the trial grounds of the Livingston Seed Co., where tomatoes were the main object of interest, and to the range of W. S. Weiant & Son, Newark, O., where the Lord & Burnham greenhouses were having their summer rest, but were of distinct interest in themselves. The annual banquet of the association was held Thursday evening, August 26, at the Southern hotel.

Trade Exhibits.

The trade exhibition was staged in several rooms in the horticultural building of the Ohio State University; the sessions were held in the same building. Five different tractor cultivators were shown, in a room by themselves. The other exhibits included fruits, fruit containers, chemical manures, machinery for tying bunches of vegetables, glazing compounds and the displays of greenhouse builders. The exhibitors were as follows:

Atlantic Machine & Mfg. Co., Cleveland, O.
Barrett Co., New York.
Beeman Tractor Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Callahan Duo-Glazed Sash Co., Dayton, O.
Dietsch Co., A., Chicago.

TORONTO, ONT.

The Market.

With the largest annual exhibition in the world in full swing and the coming to the city of thousands of visitors, counter sales are larger. With the opening of the schools, people are returning from their summer homes and a decided improvement in the florists' trade is looked for immediately. With the exception possibly of the third week in August, business has been generally good for summer trade. Stock has been plentiful and large quantities of asters have been sold across the counter. Gladioli have been plentiful and some beautiful stock has been seen. Gladiolus Lady Borden was the subject of many favorable comments.

Various Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Simmons have returned from Muskoka lake, where they spent the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. McFadden have returned from Otter lake.

Arrangements are being made to complete the Canadian organization of retail florists. President George M. Geraghty and Secretary S. A. McFadden have been conferring with a view to getting the executive committee together to map out plans for improving conditions in the business.

With the coming of September the various organizations are showing activity in the city. The Gardeners' and Florists' Association will meet the third Tuesday of this month. St. George's hall has been sold and members are requested to note the new address, 22 College street.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, H. G. Hastings, Atlanta, Ga.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

S. F. LEONARD, Chicago, celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday anniversary September 4.

D. A. COULSON, secretary-treasurer of J. A. Simmons, Ltd., Toronto, Can., died last week.

A GENERAL scarcity is noted in both big-podded peas and named varieties of sweet peas.

THE W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, received two carloads of Dutch bulbs August 31; they are moving nicely.

A SHORTAGE of beet and radish seed in France is reported. Onion seed in Italy is considered to be fairly plentiful.

THERE has been a general decline in asking prices to the growers of the Pacific northwest on all grass seeds within the last fortnight.

F. B. DAWSON, representing Cooper, Taber & Co., London, England, was in Chicago September 1 to 3, going thence to visit the trade in western cities.

JOHN LEONARD, of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, returned August 23 from a week's vacation; he could not afford, he said, to spend any more time away from business.

WASHINGTON growers of pea seed have twenty-two threshing machines at work now, and in every case a crop short of early expectations is reported. This is attributed to the lack of rainfall in June and the early part of July.

C. O. WILCOX, at one time with the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, and lately with Wood, Stubbs & Co., Louisville, Ky., has joined the forces of the M. G. Madson Seed Co., Manitowoc, Wis. He will spend, as heretofore, most of his time in the southeast and southwest.

THE unusual interest of this year's meeting of the American Seed Trade Association, held at Milwaukee last June, is reflected in the increased size of the volume of proceedings, which has just reached members. The book is a third larger than last year, containing 160 pages. Its excellent appearance carries commendation to Secretary C. E. Kendel.

THE production of practically all small vegetable seed crops will be considerably less this year than in 1919 or 1918, according to reports received by the bureau of markets of the Department of Agriculture. The reductions range from eighty-eight per cent for spinach to twelve per cent for lettuce. Increases are shown for garden pole beans, garden peas and onion sets.

THE growers in the Colorado cantaloupe section have had a great deal to contend with this year. The season is backward, cold nights and hail having retarded the plants. Approximately twenty per cent of the original acreage in the Rocky Ford section and twenty-five per cent in the Ordway section was eliminated by three hail storms early in the season, the worst of which occurred early in July. A few fields in the neighborhood of Swink were replanted after the last hail. Other fields have partially recovered from the hail, and from these a partial crop is expected. In the Rocky Ford section the growers have been fighting aphis for some weeks. Grasshoppers, too, are proving troublesome. The fields in the Ordway section have not been bothered by either the aphis or grasshoppers as yet.

J. BOLGIANO & SON, Baltimore, Md.

J. E. CURRY, inspector for the seed division of the Washington state department of agriculture, has issued a warning to growers and farmers of that state to avoid doing business with all houses offering to sell them seeds by mail. He cites an Iowa concern as offering seed under a misleading name, at prices below the market, which failed to germinate well. He is the second state inspector who has recently aroused seedsmen's criticism by branding all mail-order houses for the practices of one.

MORE DUTCH BULBS.

August 31 the season's eighth shipment of Dutch Bulbs came into New York from Rotterdam on the steamer J. Luckenbach, which brought 5,093 cases. Just a year and a day before that the first shipment of the season of 1919 reached New York on the Verentia. The J. Luckenbach's cargo, with the 2,971 cases brought by the Noordam September 1, brought the season's total to date up to 18,886 cases.

The consignments on the J. Luckenbach were as follows:

THE JAP BULB SITUATION.

Backed by the knowledge that the 1920 crop of giganteum bulbs is materially less than last year, the Japanese believe they should receive for them prices even higher than last year. The business at the moment is practically at a standstill, however, because of the refusal of the principal dealers in America and England to meet the exporters even halfway in the matter. That too much money was paid for the 1919 crop now is generally admitted. Most of the dealers and not a few forcers have their profit on 1919 purchases still tied up in bulbs in cold storage, a precarious place in view of the near approach of another shipping season. A considerable quantity of the 1919 bulbs no doubt will be held, because they can not be flowered now at a profit, and forced for Easter, 1921. The 1918 bulbs paid well when flowered for Easter, 1919, but it is likely to be another story when stock from a later crop is in competition. At any rate, the possession of a quantity of last year's bulbs deters many a buyer from placing any orders now; there will be no haste in such a matter, at least until the trend of the season's business has developed. Most of the bulb dealers fear they can not sell bulbs this year at last year's prices and they feel, also, that by holding off, the Japanese will in the end get down to terms, because the crop, such as it is, is made and must be marketed for what it will bring.

ACREAGES AND STOCKS.

Reports both from European countries and from various sections of the United States indicate generally decreased acreages devoted to seed production. These decreases are due somewhat to high labor costs, but chiefly to seed prices which are either too low to meet the cost of production or too low to compete with other uses to which the land may be put.

At the same time fairly big surpluses are being carried; a considerable part of these surpluses in several lines is having to be written off as a bad debt because of deterioration in germination power, but the remainder of the surpluses is likely to be large enough to make up for the diminished acreage this year. After another season, however, most of the surpluses bought at high prices will have been moved, giving an opening for new acreages and fresh stocks to be grown for delivery after the harvest of 1921. Those who have not contracted ahead for their seed will probably be caught by yet higher prices. The existence of present surpluses and the desire to escape future high prices as far as possible are indicated not only by direct reports, but by the frequency with which contracts rather than orders are given.

CROP REPORT FROM HOLLAND.

In their crop report August 3 Sluis Bros., Ltd., Enkhuizen, Holland, say, as to flower seeds, that they had favorable weather during the early part of the summer, but lately have had too much rain and are uncertain as to what their harvest will be. Nasturtiums for seed have so far had a luxuriant growth.

rabi, leek, onion, parsnip, radish, winter radish, rutabaga, spinach and turnip seed is, in general, that a fairly good crop is expected, but from a small acreage; that holds true also for Swiss chard and cauliflower, except that the acreage is large. The acreage for broad beans has been considerably reduced because of last year's low prices and the crop has suffered somewhat through insects. Table beet and stock beet seed is likely to have a good crop from a considerably reduced acreage; some fields have been infested with lice. Chervil and corn salad seed have been harvested; the yield is good. A shortage is expected in Brussels sprouts, cabbage, red cabbage and Savoy cabbage. The lettuce, celeriac and chicory crops have developed well so far. A fair crop of cress and dill is expected from a fairly good acreage. Parsley will have a light crop from a greatly reduced acreage.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

FRUIT STOCK SOURCES.

[This is the second half of an address on "Fruit Tree Stocks Used in Propagation," delivered by H. P. Gould, of the Department of Agriculture, at the last meeting of the Tennessee State Nurserymen's Association. In the first half, which appeared in The Review September 2, Mr. Gould discussed the prevalent dependence of American nurserymen on Europe and the orient for their fruit stocks or for seeds for propagating stocks. Here he offers suggestions for improving the situation.]

I turn to a somewhat speculative phase of the matter. I wonder how the French crab came to be the stock almost universally used in this country in propagating apple trees? I'm not at all sure that the French crab is the best stock there is. It is abundant under normal conditions, or has been in the past, and that is, of course, important. But that is not the only important thing. It stands to reason that there are more angles to the stock problem than commonly realized. We recognize wide differences in the regional adaptability of our different fruit varieties. Why deny the existence, as is virtually done by our practice, that such differences exist in the stocks we use for propagation purposes? We have the humid conditions of the east and the arid conditions of the far west. We have the cold of the north and the milder climates of the south. We have the cold, bleak, more or less snowless conditions of the upper Mississippi valley, where we know the ordinary stocks fail, and we have the irrigated valleys of the west. Yet, in the main, we have only one stock for all these regions.

Too little is known about the influence of the stock on the resulting tree. That influence is much greater and more important than we have let ourselves believe. We admit the influence of stock on scion when we use Paradise and Doucin stocks to dwarf apple trees; and the quince to dwarf pear trees; and when we double-work pears, because some varieties grow poorly or not at all when worked directly on the quince. If this much is conceded, why stop there?

Seeds Variable.

The French crab seeds used in this country and in France come from the cider mills and they represent a wide mixture of varieties. The bearing French crab trees are as widely variable as are our varieties of apple trees in size, vigor and habit of growth. There is no reason that I can think of why the seedlings grown from the seeds of fruit produced on such trees should not be widely variable and as a matter of fact they are just as one would expect them to be. The Department of Agriculture has several hundred French crab trees that have now been allowed to grow two seasons in the nursery. They are widely variable. Perhaps some of the named French crab varieties themselves may possess superior value as stocks. If this is true, then it becomes a matter of propagating such varieties as stocks.

This opens a large field for investigation. It means substantially growing stocks from cuttings or some other asexual method. But the suggestion may brand me as an ignorant heretic, a bland idealist. Stranger things have happened than that we may in the future be growing apple stocks from cuttings.

There is obviously much to be learned and much investigational work to be done before the limitations of propagation by cuttings are definitely known, but the potential possibilities make this method worthy of the most serious consideration. The perfection of some method whereby apple and other stocks could be grown successfully from cuttings would eliminate many difficulties now commonly experienced.

Apple stocks are the most important and at the same time fairly typical of all the rest. I want to call attention among the pears to a stock that has come out of the orient within the last few years which now seems promising because of its apparent immunity to blight. I refer to what is known as Pyrus ussuriensis. But actual proof of its commercial value and its ability to revolutionize pear propagation awaits future revelation.

Limited Use of Plums.

In plums, we have in this country some twenty or more native species and fourteen or fifteen species of cherries which ought to be worth something for stock purposes. Some of them are used to a limited extent, but how much is really known of their value for stock purposes from an industrial standpoint?

The office of foreign seed and plant introduction in the bureau of plant industry has brought into this country scores of things that are regarded as possessing great possible value for stock purposes. These potential possibilities need to be fully tested, as is being done as rapidly as limited means and facilities permit. These new and untried things present new problems in congeniality, the ability of stock and scion to unite well, making not only a physically strong union, but one that is durable for the natural life of the tree and one, moreover, so perfect that the top will nourish the roots and the roots, in

PAINESVILLE, O.

The shipping season for nurserymen will soon be at hand. Even at this early date orders for perennials and shrubs have been shipped, but the big rush will begin about September 20.

F. W. Van Oven, of the Naperville Nurseries, Naperville, Ill., and Edwin Hauser, of Emsworth, Pa., made a business tour of the local nurseries last week.

W. B. Cole has been away from the city over a week, visiting the different nurseries to keep in touch with the trade.

C. C. Hallinan has an excellent lot of perennials this fall. Mr. Hallinan started in business five years ago and his list of varieties now numbers many.

S. R. Welch, in charge of the display of the Storrs & Harrison Co. at the S. A. F. convention, says for two weeks the company has been filling orders received at the convention. The Storrs & Harrison Co. was well represented at the Ohio Nurserymen's Association convention, held at Clyde, August 23, with Robert George, general manager; J. H. Dayton, secretary, and C. H. Shumaker, treasurer. The meeting was strictly a business affair.

The Wayside Gardens Co., at Mentor, O., is busy sending out the new fall catalogue and price list. This firm makes a specialty of perennial plants and gladioli.

W. H. Nichols is in Cleveland taking contracts for landscape plantings.

The greenhouses of Carl Hagenburger, at Mentor, O., never looked better. They are well filled with plants to be grown for the holiday trade. The large stocks of Cleveland cherries, French hydrangeas and cyclamens are worthy of special mention.

R. A. Cawley has had an exceptionally fine display of gladioli, consisting of many of the rare varieties. Mr. Cawley intends to specialize in this particular line.

Bela Kallay, of Kallay Bros., and family have returned after spending their vacation at Willobeach Park.

Boston, Mass.—George L. Carr, a foreman for Arthur F. Capers, Wellesley, is enjoying a short vacation at Swampscott, Mass.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

The market, although heavily stocked with flowers, is holding its own remarkably well. Stock continues to be quite good, but rains are much needed in this locality. Cooler weather has set in.

There was an abundance of funeral work last week and weddings have been quite numerous. Good hardy hydrangeas are seen and sell well. Many of the city people who have been away for the summer are returning and a good demand for ferns, palms, etc., has been noticed this week.

Immense quantities of gladioli arrive each day and move well; large numbers are sold weekly by street venders. Asters are also arriving in large quantities, but meet a good demand, both local and shipping.

Roses have fallen off considerably in both quality and quantity during the last week or so. Sweet peas are entirely off the market at present. Good Golden Glow chrysanthemums are seen, but arrive only in small quantities. Excellent zinnias from a special strain of seed arrive daily and sell readily. Good hardy hydrangeas are seen and sell well.

Various Notes.

Charles E. Gow, of the Rochester Floral Co., is away on his vacation, which is being spent in Toronto, Canada.

Milton Trimby, who on several occasions has assisted during the busy seasons at Wilson the Florist's, was married to Miss Emily Otto, Saturday evening, September 4, at Asbury Methodist Episcopal church.

E. R. Fry, confined to his home by pneumonia, is slightly improved.

A new Lord & Burnham boiler, in eight sections, with a 36-inch grate, is being installed by H. E. Rogers, at Spencerport, N. Y. Good business during the summer months is reported by Mr. Rogers.

Mrs. George Ehle, stenographer at the wholesale house, is on an automobile tour and will visit Hamilton, Ont., and the Toronto fair.

WASHINGTON FLORAL COMPANY

Carnation Growers WASHINGTON, PENNA.

turned from a month's camping trip in the Adirondack mountains.

Special cemetery bouquets of asters, etc., were offered by Salter Bros. at their East Main street store Saturday.

Many of the farmers from the outlying villages are bringing into the public market large quantities of gladioli and asters, which they are selling for almost a song.

William J. Keller, of J. B. Keller Sons, is ill at his home. His condition is not considered serious.

Charles W. Curtis is growing some good Rochester asters, for which he finds a good local demand. He is cutting fine Golden Glow mums. His fields of gladioli this season have been exceptionally good.

An account of the exhibits at the Rochester exposition appears on another page. H. J. H.

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

The chrysanthemum season is opening. The early yellow blooms are beginning to come into the market, each day bringing a little larger supply. Asters and gladioli, however, still form the bulk of the stock. Hydrangeas are also plentiful now and are used a great deal for piece work, in addition to other flowers.

Various Notes.

Charles Luthy, 363 Springfield avenue, reports that he has had several weddings recently. Funeral work has been rather slow and transient trade is slower yet.

William Gahr, 312 Springfield avenue, says that business was quite slow during August, but that better trade is expected now that September has arrived. R. B. M.

POEHLMANN BROTHERS CO., Morton Grove, Ill.

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

There was as much business last week as could be reasonably expected at this season of the year, and there was a fair demand for good stock. There is a good supply of dahlias, asters, zinnias and other outdoor flowers, with the exception of gladioli, which are gone. Dahlias bring from 75 cents to $4 per dozen, according to the variety and quality. Asters sell from 75 cents to $2 per dozen. Zinnias may be had from 25 cents to $1 per dozen. There is a fair crop of Columbia roses at this time and the demand for them is good. They bring from $2 to $6 per dozen retail and from $5 to $12 per hundred wholesale.

There is a good demand for stock from the retail florists of other southern cities, and the florists here who have a surplus find a good market for it. If there is an oversupply at any time, all that is necessary to move it is to let the florists in the cities nearby know about it. Knoxville does not have enough glass to supply its own demands and do a great deal of wholesale business during the winter season, but beginning with peonies and Lilium candidum in the spring and throughout the gladiolus season the Knoxville florists ship large quantities of flowers, and still the demand is much greater than the supply.

The excessive rainfall we are having at this time is detrimental to outdoor stock. This condition has prevailed since August. The rainfall for August alone was eleven and one-half inches, which is seven inches more than the average for one month.

R. E. M.

Holland, Mich.—The Twelfth Street Florists are cutting an abundance of beautiful gladioli and asters, which they are growing on their grounds just outside the city. The drought has not affected them, since a Skinner system was installed last fall. Henry Huizenga, the proprietor, was in Chicago last week.

Greenhouse Heating

HARD COAL SCREENINGS.

We have the opportunity to secure a large quantity of hard coal screenings at $2 per ton delivered, but, as we have always used only three-quarter-lump soft coal, we should like some positive information regarding the comparative values of the two fuels, also information regarding the best method of firing with the screenings. The suggestion was made that the two fuels be kept separate and some screenings thrown onto the fire after the soft coal was half consumed. Our impression is that the fuels would burn more satisfactorily if thoroughly mixed.

L. C. S. & S.—N. Y.

The value of the hard coal screenings will depend considerably upon the method of firing. With a good draft and frequent attention they would be an excellent fuel at the price mentioned. They could be mixed with the lump soft coal, or after a good fire has been started with the soft coal, a thin layer could be spread over the surface and additional layers could be added as needed. The screenings also could be used for banking the fire in mild weather, while a night fireman could use them to good advantage in severe weather.

NEED LARGER BOILER.

I am sending you a drawing of my greenhouses and wish you would let me know what is wrong. Have I enough pipe and a large enough boiler? I have a 7-section hot water boiler, rated for 1,350 square feet of radiation. When it is zero weather the most heat that it gives is 40 degrees. I must have 55 or 60 degrees in zero weather. The lower ends of the coils are three feet from the boiler room floor. L. S.—Pa.

The sketch shows two greenhouses, 18x75 feet, with one foot of glass for fifty feet of the south wall of the south house; the remainder of the south wall is boards. The walls are four feet high.

One of the houses has a 3-inch feed pipe, presumably overhead, with ten 1½-inch returns. The other house has one 2-inch flow pipe on one side and five 1½-inch returns on the other side of the house. The total amount of radiating surface is 1,000 linear feet of 1½-inch pipe in the coils, amounting to 500 square feet; eighty linear feet of 3-inch flow pipe, giving about seventy-five square feet of radiation inside the greenhouses, and about 160 feet of 2-inch pipe, with 100 square feet of radiation. This gives a total of 675 square feet of radiation, of which about 420 square feet is in one of the houses. As shown by the sketch, the amount of glass to be heated is 3,250 square feet. To heat this area of glass to 60 degrees in zero weather, you should have nearly 1,100 square feet of radiation and you should not expect more than 40 degrees when 675 square feet of radiation is furnished.

From the arrangement of the piping I infer that the coil on the south side of the north house is expected to heat the north side of the south house. While the rating of the boiler would indicate that it is sufficiently large to supply 1,100 square feet of radiation, you

TO THE MAN WHO NEEDS A BOILER

"The customer's interest first"—is the basis of the KROESCHELL standard. This principle makes the KROESCHELL Policy the most liberal of all in the Greenhouse Boiler business. The great variety of boilers that we make places us in a commanding position. It is the KROESCHELL principle to supply only the type of boiler best suited for the conditions. For this reason we always furnish the most efficient boiler unit in every case.

TELEGRAPH ORDERS AT OUR EXPENSE

The KROESCHELL has proven its worth in many of the large establishments in this country. It has frequently been selected by the most careful buyers in competition with all other types of boilers. Its efficiency and capacity are completely beyond any other boiler.

KROESCHELL BOILERS have no bulky, soot accumulating surfaces—you avoid the disagreeable work and trouble indispensable to cleaning boilers with complicated and tortuous back and forth passages.

The superiority of our boilers has resulted in the removal and abolishment of hundreds of cast iron sectional boilers—in every instance KROESCHELL BOILERS give more heat with the same piping with less fuel.

should select one twenty-five per cent larger, especially if soft coal is to be used.

There is a 12-inch brick smokestack fifteen feet high, with an iron stack ten inches in diameter and twelve feet high on top. This is not far from the proper size, although I prefer a stack a little higher for a boiler rated at 1,600 square feet, which is desirable for these houses.

While one 3-inch flow pipe might be used for each of the houses, it is suggested that you use three 2½-inch flow pipes in each house and, instead of using fifteen 1½-inch returns for the two houses, use eight 2-inch returns in each house, with three 2½-inch flow pipes, or ten 2-inch returns if one 3-inch flow pipe is used. However, 1½-inch returns may be used in houses seventy-five feet long and twelve will be required with one 3-inch flow, or ten 1½-inch returns with three 2½-inch flows.

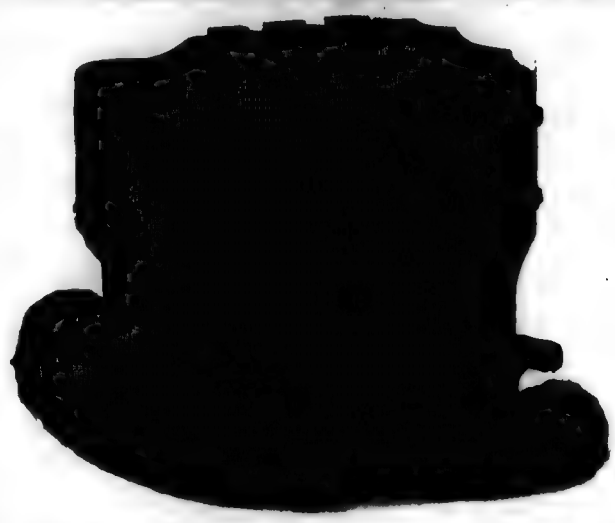
Sink the boiler so that the lower end of the return pipes will be above the top of the boiler.



1¼-INCH PIPE FOR HOT WATER.

I am sending you a plan and photograph of my greenhouse, which is 11½x60 feet and seven and one-half feet high at the ridge; it runs north and south and has a service shed and boiler house across the north end. I have a No. 1 Kroeschell boiler, which will be set in the boiler pit six feet six inches below the surface level. I want to maintain a temperature of 55 degrees at 25 degrees below zero. It is a hot water system. Can I use 1¼-inch pipe, as I have some of that on hand? I shall have two side benches and a center walk. There is no glass in the walls of the greenhouse; the walls of both greenhouse and sheds are of fluted tile. More greenhouses will be erected east of this one and parallel with it.

Shall I have to bring mains under the service shed floor and run the pipes straight into this house, or can the mains be left near the boiler and the house pipes slanted until they reach the place where they enter the house? Can I put the highest point of the pipe system in the service shed and have the flow pipes fall going south and the returns fall going south, or must the flows rise going south? There are no upright supports in the house and the roof is held up by cross braces. The service shed is three feet higher than the highest point of the greenhouse. D. R.—Neb.

While it would be preferable to use 1½-inch or 2-inch pipes for the returns, it will answer if the 1¼-inch pipes are used with overhead flows. One 4-inch main will be sufficient for two houses of the size stated.

It would, of course, be possible to use one 3-inch flow for each of the houses, but, if the boiler has a 4-inch flow port, it would be better to use it for a 4-inch main and to carry it along the south side of the service room and take off two 2½-inch flows for each house. Then arrange to have the flow pipe run downhill and carry it three or four feet below the ridge of the lean-to. Locate the expansion tank a few inches above the highest point of the system, with which it should be connected.

The Market.

Business seems to be showing some tendency towards coming back to normal. However, there is still plenty of room for improvement. Large quantities of gladioli and asters are coming into the market daily. The stock is good. Roses are exceptionally good for this time of the year, especially the shorter grades. Carnations are beginning to come in regularly. This stock is also good. Natural fresh statice was selling in this market last week at 50 cents per bunch.

Various Notes.

Charles Dougherty, of McKeesport Pa., has sold his business to Miss Selma Florin and Harry Forrest, Jr. Their shop will be known as the F. & F. Floral Shop, McKeesport, Pa. Mr. Dougherty intends to take a motor trip to Florida this fall.

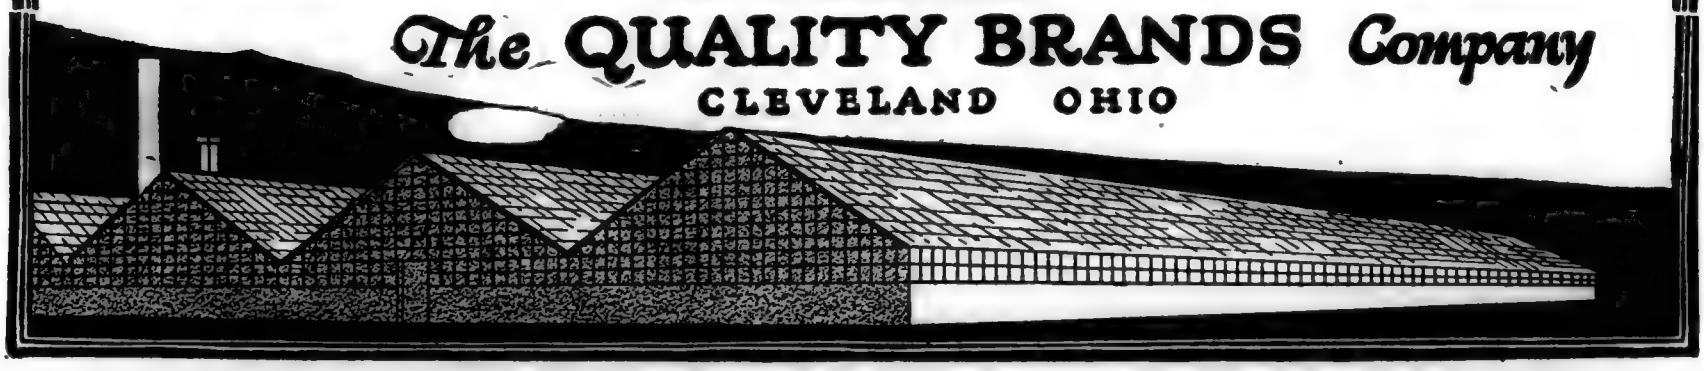
GLAZING COMPOUND

Some Day We Hope That Your Greenhouses Will Prove This Little Talk

After several barrel tests, the big F. R. Pierson greenhouses, located at Tarrytown, New York, decided to "cover 'em all" with VITAPLASTIC GLAZING COMPOUND.

That was last year.



Well, the "cover 'em all" order went through and we figured we were through for a good many years ourselves, BUT last week another "cover 'em all" order showed up and we started worrying. What's wrong with Vitaplastic?

Then Mr. Pierson told us he had taken over another big range of glass and, of course, wanted Vitaplastic.

If your greenhouses are not absolutely tight, and you contemplate doing any glazing work and saving yourself some greenback money on coal, write us and we will gladly tell you why a Vitaplastic user will say to you, "Cover 'em all" with Vitaplastic.

Our Service Department will be glad to serve you and help you with your paint and glazing problems

The Market.

Funeral work has kept up to a marked degree, so that the first week of September goes on record as the best week which the trade has experienced for a couple of months.

The supply continues good, with asters in the lead. Although the quality is excellent, these are selling as low as $2 per hundred, on account of the overabundant supply. Gladioli run a good second, but they do not meet with so good a demand. Later varieties of dahlias are arriving, as are also goldenrod, zinnias, late cosmos, a few greenhouse sweet peas and snapdragons, which are meeting with a fair call. Roses are showing much improvement in quality. Hydrangea paniculata is being used largely for funeral sprays. Cattleyas are scarce and are bringing $1.50 each, wholesale, while oncidiums, vandas and cypripediums are more plentiful, the latter wholesaling at 50 cents each.

Various Notes.

John Doswell, of the Doswell Floral Co., reports an active summer season. This firm has redecorated its retail store and has also put in extensive improvements at its greenhouses. A new 100-horsepower tubular boiler has been installed at the range. Miss Bonnie Doswell returned to her duties at the store last week after a several weeks' vacation trip, which included a visit to Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Detroit.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey have engaged a new orchid expert, Nelson Butler, who had charge of the private orchid collection of George J. Gould, at Lakewood, N. J., for the last few years. Mr. Butler came to this country from England in 1912. W. J. & M. S. Vesey intend to greatly increase their collection of orchid plants. This firm has at the present time six orchid houses, in which cattleyas, oncidiums, vandas and cypripediums are now in flower.

A pair of ducklings in the summer window of the Blossom Floral Co. attract considerable attention. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blossom motored last

The Market.

Business is holding up remarkably well, owing to a large number of funerals. Flowers are quite plentiful, the supply including roses, carnations, asters, dahlias, gladioli, etc. The new crop of roses and carnations is showing up well.

Various Notes.

The Wm. Blackman Floral Co. reports a heavy business, with a good supply of flowers. The new crops of roses and carnations are good.

Mrs. J. C. Elspermann reports a big business, the larger part being funeral work.

Royston & Fenton are cutting some nice asters. Their new addition is up and ready for the glass. It makes their total about 6,200 feet of glass. The geraniums in the field have made nice growth and are full of cuttings. Their specialties this season will be coleus, geraniums and pelargoniums.

"Oh Boy" Automatic Glazing Gun

S. A. KOST, Inventor. Patent applied for.

The last word in one-handed guns for the application of

EVERTITE
GLAZING CEMENT

Use Evertite for all your Glazing—for your new work, for tightening leaky roofs and for repairing broken glass.

Evertite Glazing Cement is made from pure rock asbestos, non-drying adhesive oils and Gilsonite—it will not check, crack, run or harden under the extremes of temperature—but will always remain in a plastic, rubber-like condition.

Evertite Glazing Cement, because of its composition, will contract and expand under the stress of vibration in wind storms—but will not crack.

Evertite flows from our "Oh Boy" Gun (which we give you gratis) in a thick, pencil-like stream and stays where you put it, never gathering in puddles.

Go over your glass once with Evertite Glazing Cement and then forget your glass for a long time—Saving not only the money, but also the labor. In fact, if putty were furnished you gratis—Evertite would still save you money—because of lessened labor cost.

Evertite Glazing Cement is inexpensive—it is sold for less than competing articles on the market.

It can be had in barrels, half barrels and kegs.

Write us and we will give you further information

The Market.

Trade remains quiet and stock plentiful. Gladioli and asters are in oversupply. The quality is excellent. Roses are about equal to demand. Prices are low, gladioli selling at $1 to $2 per hundred, asters at 50 cents to $2 per hundred and roses at $4 to $8 per hundred. Some carnations are coming in, but they are short-stemmed. Most growers are finishing carnation planting. Mum stock in general is looking fine. Some fine Early Frost were on the market during the week.

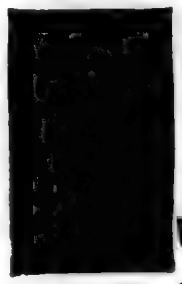
Various Notes.

The trade's exhibit in the horticultural building at the state fair was quite an attractive feature. August Kellner, E. J. Hamme, E. Eberhardt, Holton & Hunkel Co. and E. Haasch & Son were the principal exhibitors of flowers and plants from this city.

E. Haasch took a trip in one of the aeroplanes at the fair and dropped roses with his card attached while passing over the fair grounds.

The C. C. Pollworth Co. shipped a car of Paper Whites this week to various points.

The "Say It with Flowers" song was sung at both the Palace and Majestic theaters last week. More publicity for the slogan.



The Florists' Club held its regular monthly meeting Thursday, September 2. On account of the light attendance, little business of importance was transacted. P.

A wise business man figures costs by the year, right down the line, and especially so if his business has to do with greenhouses. He knows, either by experience or from a close study of the subject, that the only businesslike method of determining material costs in greenhouse building is by the year—first cost and up-keep cost.

CYPRESS, "the wood eternal" for greenhouse construction, is positively the cheapest wood to use, figured by its years on the job, without repairs or replacements.

All good constructors in these days are insisting on genuine "Tide-Water" Cypress, "The Wood Eternal"—every board and bundle bearing the famous Cypress Trade-mark.

Vol. 8, CYPRESS Pocket Library, is a little book filled with a big bunch of facts and figures about greenhouse construction—profitable reading. There are 48 books in the "Library," all of which give useful facts and plans about HOW, WHEN and WHERE to use CYPRESS, "The Wood Eternal," AND WHY. Which one shall we send you?

Is Just Like Calling a Doctor.

You call a doctor in case of sickness, and not a musician, because a doctor makes his work a specialty. For this reason you should use Advance Equipment in your house throughout, for our middle name is "Specialty" in this line. If it were possible to make our material better, we are the concern who would do it. It is time to investigate and see if you do not need a special doctor in this line.

FORT WORTH, TEX.

Fort Worth has another new flower store, opened August 16 by two former employees of the leading florists here. The Flower Shop, which is located in the Flatiron building, has as president and general manager W. H. Klebold, formerly with Baker Bros. The vice-president and assistant manager is George E. Maxon, who was with the Drumm Seed & Floral Co. before the war and who is only now taking up his former pursuits. The secretary and treasurer is J. D. Stephens, who is not a florist but who is versed in the financial affairs of corporations through long experience. The store was fitted up in modern style by the fixture department of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, and will rank as among the best equipped in the state. Although opened before the flower buying season had actually arrived, the reception accorded by the public has been such as to indicate that a good business may be quickly developed.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, IA.

This city has a new flower store, well located on Broadway and handsomely fitted up. The proprietor is F. R. Shaw, who is well known to the trade through his long connection with the J. F. Wilcox business. He calls his new place the F. R. Shaw Flower Store and is starting on an active campaign of advertising, planned to increase the use of flowers by the prosperous people of the community. It is his intention, evidenced by the equipment installed, to have everything of the best and to do a strictly high-class business.

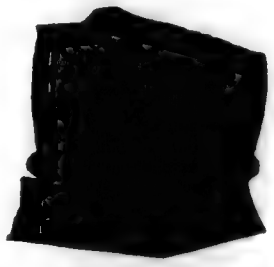
CHRISTMAS BULBOUS STOCK.

Will Paper Whites come in right for Christmas if planted ten or twelve weeks before that date? When should French Roman hyacinths be planted for Christmas? These will be grown in a carnation temperature; we begin firing about Thanksgiving. C. B.—Ala.

Paper Whites started three months before they are wanted in bloom will be all right. Roman hyacinths should be placed in the soil as soon as you can secure them; they need a longer period than Paper Whites. Keep both the Paper Whites and the Romans in cold-frames or outdoors after they have been placed in flats. Of course, you can plant direct in the benches, but flats will give you better results and are under better control. Cover the flats with sand or fine coal ashes until the tops are well started. C. W.

LUPINES AND CALENDULAS.

What time should lupines be sown for winter flowering? At what distance apart should they be planted? Would a carnation temperature suit them? Do they need tying up like carnations?
When should calendulas be planted and at what distance? C. M.—Can.



Both lupines and calendulas grow well in a carnation temperature in benches or solid beds. I prefer the benches for midwinter blooming. The annual pink lupine can be started now and should flower for Christmas. Sow thinly in rows eighteen inches apart. The more robust-growing sorts, like mutabilis and Hartwegii, need wider spacing and twenty-four inches should be allowed between rows. Water carefully in winter to prevent damping off and avoid spraying in dark weather or it will start mildew.

The calendulas are quite robust flowers and I would suggest starting plants in 2½-inch pots; then plant in rows twenty-eight to thirty inches apart, allowing eighteen inches between the plants. This may seem needlessly far apart for a time, but you will be surprised to note how speedily the plants will fill the space. A good carnation or rose soil will be found suitable for both lupines and calendulas and neither should require any stakes or supports of any kind whatsoever. C. W.

STOPS THE GRASSHOPPERS.

When grasshoppers threaten to overrun your outdoor crops you can take the hop out of them by using the following method:

Scatter a poisoned bran mash out in the surrounding fields early in the morning—it takes from five to seven pounds to cover an acre. The poison bait may be made by using the following proportions: Fifty pounds of bran, alfalfa meal or middlings and two pounds of Paris green or white arsenic and two pounds of salt. Mix all these thoroughly. Take one ounce of the cheapest lemon extract and pour into a bucket of water. Stir the water into the bran and poison, adding more water until the bran becomes thoroughly moistened and crumbly. Scatter broadcast over the infested fields early in the morning while the dew is on the grass.

Williamsville, N. Y.—Oscar Loewindorff has sold his interest in the Williamsville Nurseries to George C. Messing. The firm in future will be Sandiford & Messing.

The Beardless House at Beardsley Park

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.

Know why we call it a "beardless house"?
That's a long story—but here are the main points in brief:
A prospective customer wanted to see some of our houses.
Wanted, also, to see some that were not ours.
So we gave him names of both and suggested that, uninfluenced by any of us, he go and make unbiased comparisons.

Which he gladly did. Said he liked the way we were going to stand or fall by the comparison of our houses with others.
The last one he went to see was the Beardsley Park house, where we then met him.

His first remark was: "Your houses always look as if they had just had a shave. No rough spots. The workmanship is smooth and clean. Some others I have seen looked like they were growing a beard."

So that is why we call the Beardsley Park house, "beardless."
To which let us add that our friend bought a Hitchings house.
Bought it mind you. We didn't sell it. He sold himself.
Or rather, our houses sold him on our way of doing things.
You know we go anywhere for business.
Or to talk business.

You have heard a lot of talk about valving or not valving coils. There is no talk in this case. Here are the valves.

Right down to the very last thing, everything is as-it-should-be, which means that the frames are heated.

Being a park job, this attractive little reception or anteroom is an essential.

What of the Future?

Have you ever looked the facts in the face? Have you ever looked over figures showing the exact position of your trade and from them read your chances of success or failure?

Statistics show that the United States has a population of 100,000,000 people. And statistics show that there are only $45,000,000 a year spent for flowers, while $50,000,000 are spent on chewing gum.

Think of it! A per capita expenditure per year of 50c for chewing gum

45c for flowers

And there are no exclusive retail gum stores; gum is not the proper thing to use at commencements, weddings, funerals, big dinners, in the sick room, or even to take to your best girl. And yet—more money is spent for gum than flowers.

There can be but one answer to this—
You haven't scratched the surface yet!

There are two ways to increase this expenditure for flowers to a respectable amount. Both ways must be worked to the limit.

The first is national florist advertising. This is no one-man job, nor yet a job for a select few. It is one that needs the help of every man and woman in the trade. And there is an easy way to give this help. Subscribe now to the Florists' National Publicity Fund.

The second way is to get your old customers to spend more for flowers by using flowers for more purposes and to get new customers. The best way to do this is to get ready for greater business—to make your flower business a living, progressing, vital thing; life, progress and awakeness always attract favorable attention. And you can't attract favorable attention in business without attracting money. Do you want it? The future holds it for you if you only know the combination.

This is it.

What of the Future?

Have you ever looked the facts in the face? Have you ever looked over figures showing the exact position of your trade and from them read your chances of success or failure?

Statistics show that the United States has a population of 100,000,000 people. And statistics show that there are only $45,000,000 a year spent for flowers, while $50,000,000 are spent on chewing gum.

Think of it! A per capita expenditure per year of 50c for chewing gum

45c for flowers

And there are no exclusive retail gum stores; gum is not the proper thing to use at commencements, weddings, funerals, big dinners, in the sick room, or even to take to your best girl. And yet—more money is spent for gum than flowers.

There can be but one answer to this—
You haven't scratched the surface yet!

There are two ways to increase this expenditure for flowers to a respectable amount. Both ways must be worked to the limit.

The first is national florist advertising. This is no one-man job, nor yet a job for a select few. It is one that needs the help of every man and woman in the trade. And there is an easy way to give this help. Subscribe now to the Florists' National Publicity Fund.

The second way is to get your old customers to spend more for flowers by using flowers for more purposes and to get new customers. The best way to do this is to get ready for greater business—to make your flower business a living, progressing, vital thing; life, progress and awakeness always attract favorable attention. And you can't attract favorable attention in business without attracting money. Do you want it? The future holds it for you if you only know the combination.

This is it.

Greenhouse Builders

Another Educational Greenhouse For Texas

One Of Our Standard Houses 25 Ft. Wide

Before me lies a most welcome letter from the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, which is located at College Station.

It says:

"This greenhouse of ours is really an all-purpose one.

"It is, however, mainly used for our classes in Plant Propagation and Vegetable Gardening.

"Also for carrying a number of our ornamental plants over the Winter.

"Although we have had some Texas high winds and rain, no damage has resulted to the glass, although on one or two occasions the ventilators were up during the storm.

"Believe we have as good a greenhouse as can be found in the South."

You note that this letter makes no sweeping statements or claims.

It is just a straight from the shoulder, plain fact kind of a letter that inspires real confidence.

It states, "The house has given perfect satisfaction."

Also words to the effect that in all the South they believe nowhere is there a better house to be found.

As near as we can make out, that is the proposition in a nut shell.

To which let us add, that we considered it a genuine privilege to build for the College, and take no little pride in having one of our houses linked with so worthy an educational purpose.

ALL HOL

We have never seen them better —all up to size, well cured. All our Bulbs have been supplied by growers who are members of the Bulb Growers' Association, which is a gurantee of quality and trueness to name. Our own man was in Holland to inspect the fields during the growing season. Our Vice-President is now in Holland and will return with our last ship-

HYACINTHS

REFRIGERATORS FOR ALL PURPOSES

And, for the Floral Trade in Particular

THE McCray Refrigerator is the favorite with the floral trade. Many successful Florists have used McCray Refrigerators for years and years with perfect satisfaction. They have unbounded confidence in the refrigerator which bears the name "McCray" for it stands for quality and unequalled service.

Viewed solely from the selling end, the McCray has superior qualities—for it aids in selling flowers and at the same time puts a stop to waste from spoilage. The various compartments are of different sizes and accomodate the different lengths of cut flowers.

Both the exterior and the interior of the McCray Florist Refrigerators are handsomely made and easy to keep clean. You may have either heavy plate mirror or white enamel for the interior lining. The exterior may be of any finish to match your woodwork or fixtures.

There is a McCray built to suit your requirements. The styles illustrated here are designed for Florists, but this is not our complete line. Our Catalog No. 74 shows many more refrigerators. Get a copy of this Catalog—it will tell you more about the McCray and what it will mean to your business.

Send for Catalog—Let us send you a catalog that describes a great variety of designs—one to suit every requirement: No. 74 for Florists; No. 71 for Grocers and Delicatessens; No. 63 for Meat Markets and General Stores; No. 95 for Residences; No. 52 for Hotels and Restaurants.

This variety is endorsed by all the leading retail florists. It will hold the flowers much better than Gloire de Lorraine.

4-inch, heavy.....$75 per 100
5-inch, heavy.....$125 per 100
6-inch, heavy.....$24 per doz.

BEGONIA KONKURRENT

A Greatly Improved Begonia Cincinnati

The above variety is a German introduction, and we have tried it for three years. It makes a much better shaped plant than Cincinnati, is freer flowering, more shapely, and, next to Norwood, is the best keeping Begonia we have ever handled, the original flowers remaining on the plants for several months.

150,000 NEPHROLEPIS

(In variety.)

We are the largest growers of Nephrolepis Ferns in the country; in fact, we are headquarters for them.

NEPHROLEPIS NORWOOD

The most beautiful form of Nephrolepis to date; graceful, compact and symmetrical; a vigorous, healthy grower. All growers are invited to inspect it at our Norwood greenhouses.

Strong Plants.

2¼-inch pots, $3 per doz.; $12 per 100; $100 per 1000
4 -inch pots.....$6 per doz.; $45 per 100
Orders filled strictly in rotation.

NEPHROLEPIS VERONA

Makes a good plant in all sizes. Much finer frond than any crested sort outside of N. Smithii. The fronds are carried on a heavy, wiry stem. We consider it one of the best of the newer introductions.
2¼-inch pots.....$10 per 100; $90 per 1000

NEPHROLEPIS BOSTONIENSIS, DWARF

This is a dwarf form of the old Boston Fern; same character, form and graceful habit.
6-inch pots.....$12, $15 and $18 per doz.
8-inch pots.....$24, $30 and $36 per doz.

NEPHROLEPIS ELEGANTISSIMA COMPACTA

A dwarf, compact form of Nephrolepis Elegantissima, each plant making an ideal shape.
2¼-inch pots.....$10 per 100; $90 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$5 per doz.; $35 per 100

NEPHROLEPIS SMITHII

The greatly improved Amerpohlii. It is a compact form, much finer than Amerpohlii and does not break down in the center. The fronds are carried on wiry stems. This variety will have a wonderful sale up to a 6-inch pot, being particularly showy for basket work.

2½-inch pots.....$10 per 100; $90 per 1000
4 -inch pots.....$6 per doz.; $40 per 100

NEW DOUBLE DAISY CRAIGII

A sport of Mrs. Sander. Much freer, large flower, having golden yellow center with white petals. Produces fewer single flowers than Mrs. Sander. Makes an ideal variety for either cut flowers or pot culture. Stock ready now. Orders filled strictly in rotation.
2¼-inch pots.....$20 per 100; $150 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$50 per 100; $450 per 1000
6-inch pots.....$18 per doz.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Owing to the very great increase in price of all materials used in packing of plants, we find it necessary to make a small charge for same, as follows, much lower than the percentage plan:

Full size cases.....$1.50 each
Three-quarter size cases.....$1.00 each
Small size cases.....$0.50 each

Would suggest taking plants in paper pots whenever possible. It is a big saving in both packing and express charges.

TERMS. Cash With Order.—Kindly send sufficient to cover the entire bill. We do not make shipments C. O. D. unless remittance has been made on account to guarantee acceptance. This does not apply to regular customers. Remittances.—Remittances should be made by money order or New York drafts. If money is sent, letter should be registered. All prices quoted in this list are strictly net. Shipping Instructions.—Give your name, post office, county and state and the name of your nearest express office to which shipment is to be made. We have always made it prominent in our printed terms that our goods are sold F. O. B. cars at the point of shipment and are at the purchaser's risk while in transit. Because of the present unsettled conditions we wish to emphasize still further that we do not guarantee safe delivery. The ownership of all goods sold by us passes to the purchaser on delivery by us to the carrier, and the issuing of the receipt by the carrier ends our responsibility. Any claims for damage should be made promptly to the agent at the point of delivery. Correspondence.—We endeavor to answer all correspondence promptly, but owing to the pressure of business we ask that all requests be clearly and concisely stated. Errors.—Keep a copy of your order. We aim to have our orders correctly filled. When we are at fault we shall make satisfactory correction.

CATCHING COIN WITH CALENDULAS

Calendulas are exceptionally easy to grow, says this writer. Yet his notable success in their culture surely is not due to the simplicity of the process, but is the result of his exact knowledge of the plants' requirements. Here he gives other growers the benefit of his experience with this crop.

By GEORGE J. BALL.

PLANTING the seed any time after July 1, twelve to fourteen inches apart, in a rich, deep soil, and maintaining a temperature of 50 degrees—these cover in a general way all the essential points in growing calendulas. There is perhaps no greenhouse crop which is more easily handled or which can be exposed to a greater variation of temperature. According to the writer's experience, there are no plants that are more easily bred to a fine standard. While not so profitable as our big crops, being more of a catch crop, calendulas can be grown under conditions impossible for the big staples. Furthermore, the cut flowers keep well when properly stored, they have a pungent odor that is pleasing to most people and the flowers of all types are richly endowed with color. Easily as calendulas are grown, however, there are a number of details in their culture which may profitably be noted.

Several Sowings.

Seed is sown as early as July 1 for the main crop. This planting is carried on until Christmas, or as late as St. Valentine's day. By that time the early plants are well cut down, but if left standing they will break out freely and get into heavy crop for the spring months. However, when head room permits, it is preferable to plant sweet peas for the spring crop. If beds are not available until October or November, seed should be sown about September 1.

It is advisable to pot the seedlings, particularly for the early planting. Transplanting seedlings to an open bed during hot weather is often a losing game; the roots, remaining too close to the surface, burn out. Shade and careful attention to watering partly overcome this, but a well rooted 2-inch or 3-inch pot plant stands a better chance. For late use these plants can be left out in a frame, as a light frost does them no harm.

Best Stems in Solid Beds.

We have grown splendid early-planted calendulas until Christmas in a north bench almost completely shaded by sweet peas. Really the only requirements are two feet of head room and a deep, well manured solid or ground bed. Any balanced manure will do. A raised bed will grow good flowers, but it does not produce the strong growth required for long stems unless strong forcing is resorted to. The reason so many flowers about the market have the appearance of having undergone a 40-day fast is obvious. The calendula is a rank grower and must be treated accordingly, or short-stemmed flowers are the sure result.

As to the distance between the plants, we give them a square foot of space, which is sufficient when disbudding is practiced. If all the growth is allowed, which means small and short-stemmed flowers but plenty of them, a space of fourteen inches each way is better.

Except to keep the growth out of the walks, we use no supports; even long-stemmed, disbudded stock holds itself up well. When the drainage is free they can hardly be overwatered.

Disbudding.

Unless the plants are making vigorous growth, disbudding is hardly possible because of the lack of stems, but under favorable conditions the stems lengthen and the laterals are removed as from any other stock. The first bud appearing on the young plants should be broken out. This puts more vigor into the lower growth.

We allow all these growths to come from early-planted stock. Eight to ten of them should produce flowers by Christmas.

As to insects and other pests, the green cutworm that the mignonette grower must watch will make a "short order" out of calendula seedlings unless some form of repellent, such as Paris green, is used. After they are safely through the cutworm stage, which generally lasts until freezing weather, the green fly must be fought by spraying. The heavy growth on a low bed is not easily reached by fumigation.

The last few seasons we have noticed a form of yellows among our plants. It seems to have the same deadly effect that the streak disease has on peas. This is, no doubt, a form of fungous trouble, for which we can only suggest the removal of affected plants. We have grown them without a trace of the trouble on beds which had been affected the previous season, while soil that had never grown calendulas developed it.

Another fungous trouble to which the calendula is subject is a form of rust which apparently is identical with the rust of the antirrhinum. Last October our plants were attacked by this in a serious way. We are reasonably certain that this was caused by a forcing condition we were maintaining for a lot of early chrysanthemums, for the plants were able to grow out of it promptly in a cool, dry, airy atmosphere.

Plants' Power of Resistance.

The best safeguard against any form of fungous trouble is the building up of the resisting power of the plant. No form of fungicide will do more than destroy a small fraction of the existing germs that are ready to prey on plants whose vitality falls below par.

Well grown calendulas produce an abundance of heavy foliage, which, under some conditions, requires more moisture than the stem is able to absorb. Consequently, flowers and foliage wilt badly. We cut the flowers before they are fully developed, strip off about half the lower foliage, tie them in bunches of thirteen and wrap them in paper. After standing in water twenty-four hours in a cool room, they are ready to travel and rarely give trouble.

The flowers should never be allowed to lie around out of water and should not be left on the plant until fully developed.

The calendula presents a number of variations, all of them attractive. Orange King is the standard and is grown more exclusively, perhaps, than it should be. Excellent strains of it have been developed, which produce larger and more double flowers than the other types. The rich, clear orange color of this variety is responsible for the great popularity of the modern calendula. However, the following varieties also are almost indispensable: Lemon Queen, which has been used as the principal material in some of the finest made-up basket work that the writer has ever seen; Nankeen, a combination of cream and apricot, with a dark eye; Royal Trianon, a sulphur or lemon yellow, with a rich brown eye.

There are others and more are coming, but, as is true of most plants grown from seed, it requires time to "true them up." However, most of the breaks in the lighter-colored ones add a pleasing variety and give the grower a chance to work out his own strains by selection.

An Improved Strain.

For several seasons the Chicago market has been handling calendulas of unusual size, uniformly double and on stems eighteen inches to two feet long. This strain is the result of selections made three seasons ago. A dozen plants were lifted from a bed of Orange King and were grown as far from one another as possible, in order to get the true characteristics of each plant. Then the seeds of each were grown separately. A single superfine plant of this lot became the parent of the new strain.

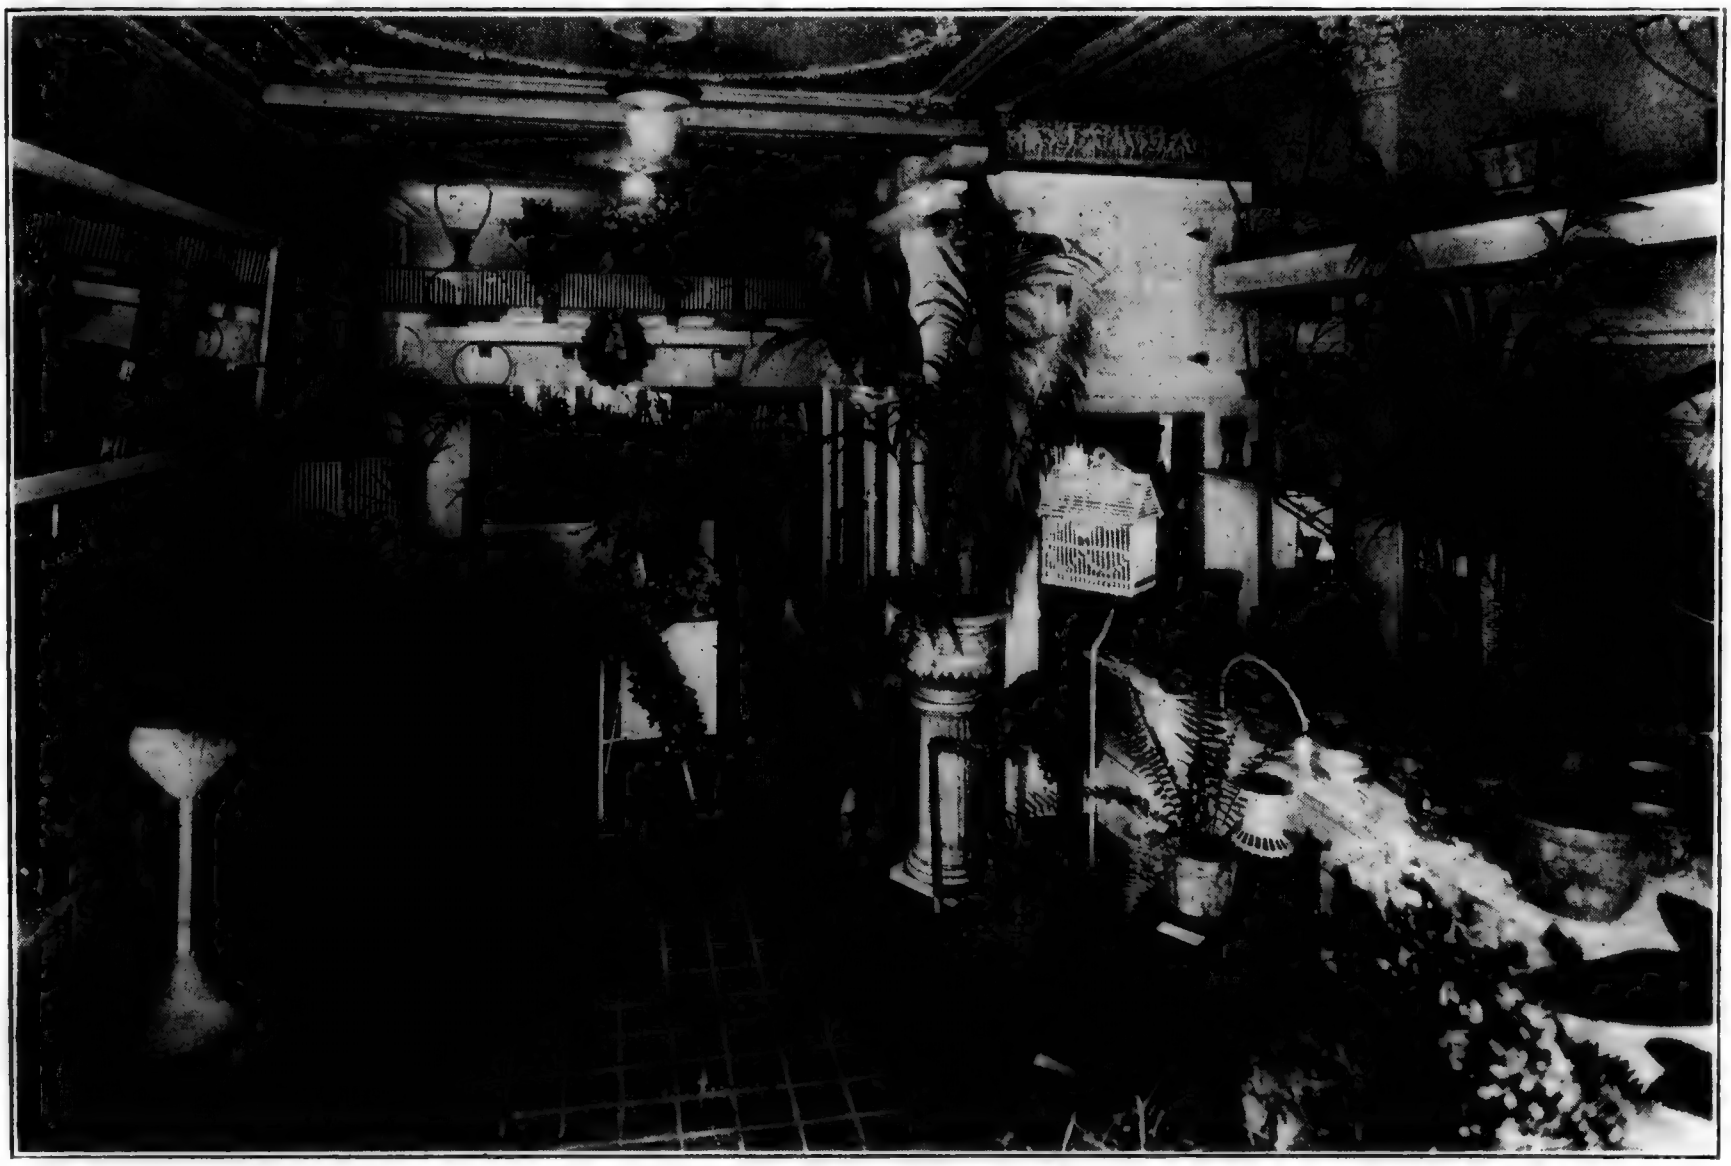
This is a phase of our business that requires patience and a real interest in one's work to be successful. Crops grown from seed require constant, careful selection in order to improve the stock or even to maintain the high standard of the original strain. In the ideal conditions that may be provided in the greenhouse, the plants acquire desirable characteristics that the outdoor seed grower misses; conditions are radically different. It follows that the greenhouse man is in an advantageous position for developing his own strains of important cut flower crops.

Artistic Exterior Sets Off Window Displays of New Kansas City Store.

NEWELL'S NEW HOME.

One frequently notices that the longer a man expects to stay where he is, the more care he takes to make his abiding-place comfortable and suited to his needs. The traveling salesman has to live in more or less desolate hotel rooms and the migratory worker who harvests the crops has to wander with the seasons, but the man with a steady job in one place can afford to buy his house and lot, have a garden, cover his porch with vines, have something better than a portable house for his garage and literally make himself at home.

So when A. Newell, of Kansas City, Mo., moved to the corner store at 211 East Eleventh street and signed a long lease for it, he made himself at home. It is more comfortable that way and it pays, for one's customers also tend to feel at home. The smaller of the accompanying illustrations shows how Mr. Newell has taken advantage of his position on a prominent street corner. The outside front is set in copper, with a 2½-foot wainscoting of black Belgian marble.



The interior of the store, with its white, delicately ornamented ceiling, its semi-indirect lighting system, its well chosen and well arranged furnishings and its floor of red tile, outlined in black, is certain to strengthen the favorable impression made by the window display. The window space is done in green tile, trimmed with white enamel tile. The furnishings of the store, as shown in the larger of the two illustrations, are worthy of closer examination as well exemplifying the purpose and appeal of such a store. While the icebox, standing for cut flowers, occupies a commanding position, all the varied accessories help to strengthen the æsthetic appeal. The ferns and palms on ornamental standards and in decorative containers of basketwork and of pottery, the cross and other designs, the window boxes of wickerwork and of clay modeled in classic reliefs, the large assortment of baskets, jars and vases, the distinctly ornamental bird cages, the side mirrors increasing the impression of spaciousness, the unobtrusive, yet pleasingly designed, desk and chair, where the customer may write his or her card—all together form a powerful combination in pursuit of trade. It is a store in which both proprietor and customer may well feel at home. Mr. Newell's thirty years in the trade have given him that keen knowledge of what best makes a successful flower store.

INDIANA STATE FAIR.

Flower Competition Keen.

This year the Indiana state fair came close to breaking all records for attendance. The weather was good practically the entire time and great crowds swarmed through the grounds and buildings. The displays were unusually attractive. This was especially true of the floral exhibition, where the competition was keener than in the last few years.

Temperley's, Florists, had an excellent plant display, taking practically all the blue ribbons on their collections. Their displays of ferns and Chatelaine begonias were excellent. They also took first on their collections of ten plants each of variegated-leaved plants and ten different types each of begonias and coleus. They also received the blue ribbons on their specimen Boston, Farleyense and crested form of nephrolepis ferns.

Cut Flower Awards Scattered.

The awards for the cut flower exhibits were more divided. The race for first prize on the wreath was hard fought. John Rieman won first with a large white oval wreath made of asters and carnations, with a loose spray of rubrum lilies, Columbia roses and album lilies on the lower edge.

Three unusually attractive baskets were displayed. Temperley's received first on a lovely basket in blue and pink, carried out in light blue delphinium and Columbia roses and tied with blue and pink ribbon. The delphinium was of excellent quality and shaded into a delicate pink in the center of the bells. John Rieman exhibited a large basket of American Beauty and Russell roses tied with tulle in these shades.

Temperley's also received the blue ribbon on their bride's bouquet. This was made of white roses, valley and cattleyas, with an elaborate scarf and shower. John Rieman ran a close second with orchids, valley and Sweetheart roses.

Floral Arrangements.

The hardest race was made for the blue ribbon on the floral arrangements. The pieces were quite different. The Roepke Floral Co. exhibited a large urn made of white asters, which held a large bouquet of roses, lilies and delphinium, which took first. John Rieman received the second prize on a design featuring a picture of the White House, over which hung a shield made of red, white and blue flowers; suspended from the shield was a large question mark. Temperley's displayed a large plaque of light pink asters, on which were inscribed the letters in flowers, "Welcome, G. A. R." Around the rim were roses, tuberoses, gladioli and cycas leaves. Over the top an American flag was fanned. This was made appropriate by the national convention of the G. A. R. in this city next week.

The floral displays received a great deal of favorable comment. The exhibits of loose cut flowers included some excellent blooms. The Joseph H. Hill Co. displayed some elegant Premier roses. Baur & Steinkamp had a splendid display of carnations, showing several new disseminations. The aster and dahlia displays were not so large as usual, but the quality was not below the standard.

A. F. J. Baur was the assistant department director and W. W. Coles was the judge.

The Awards.

The awards in full were as follows:

Display of potted greenhouse plants, to cover 100 square feet—Roepke Floral Co., first; Temperley's, second; Walter Lewis, third.

THAT $10,000 LOAN

WARNS AGAINST S. A. F. LOAN.

W. N. Rudd Writes Officers.

Finding the action of the S. A. F. at Cleveland, authorizing the loan of $10,000 from the permanent fund to the general fund, reason for concern regarding the society's welfare, W. N. Rudd, past president of the S. A. F., has written the officers of the society a letter of admonition. This, together with an explanatory reply from Secretary John Young, was last week placed in the hands of each member of the board of directors of the S. A. F., in order that full consideration may be given this phase of the society's affairs before their next meeting in Washington.

Under date of September 3, Mr. Rudd addressed, from Morgan Park, Ill., the following letter to President A. L. Miller, Treasurer J. J. Hess and Secretary John Young:

The writer firmly believes that the withdrawal of the sum of $10,000 from the permanent fund of this association on a mere resolution, introduced without previous notice and passed without the knowledge of a large number of the members present at the late convention and of all the members who were not present, is not only highly improper but is illegal, and will subject the officers withdrawing and expending the money, under the said resolution, to personal legal responsibility. I, therefore, suggest to the president and the secretary the advisability of not issuing warrants for this withdrawal and to the treasurer the advisability of refusing payment for any warrant so issued.

It has appeared to the writer that there has been of late an orgy of expenditures of the society's funds, although, as he has not been in a position to make careful examination of the details of the expenditures, this may be a mistaken impression.

If this money, or any part of it, has been withdrawn, I trust that you and the other directors will see the necessity of getting it back into the treasury where it belongs, and getting it back quick.

Secretary Young's Reply.

In response to Mr. Rudd's communication Mr. Young wrote as follows:

This will acknowledge receipt of your circular letter under date of September 3, which was sent to Mr. A. L. Miller, president; Mr. J. J. Hess, treasurer, and myself, as the secretary of the society.

The contents of this communication have been duly noted and a copy of same will be sent to each member of the board of directors.

The writer wishes to take this opportunity to say that he, as secretary, has not issued any warrants for the withdrawal of any amount or amounts from the permanent fund and under no circumstances would he prepare such voucher without the proper authority. I am satisfied that the directors and other officers of the society will give the matter careful consideration before doing anything of the kind.

At the recent convention an amendment was unanimously voted to our constitution and by-laws: "That the finance and audit committee should have the power to make temporary loans for the society or any of its duly elected committees and shall have charge of the investment of all funds of the society subject to the approval of the executive board." Every member of the society received due and legal notice that this proposed amendment would be offered and voted upon at the convention.

A motion was made at the convention (and to which you no doubt refer), by Adolphus Gude, as follows:

"I would move, if I am in order, that the proper authorities be permitted or be authorized to borrow money from the permanent fund, $10,000, and place it to the general fund, and replace it when they get the money."

The motion was seconded by Z. D. Blackistone and was carried by a unanimous vote of the convention.

I mention this for your information. Regarding the increase of the expenditures of the society's funds to which you refer, I would say that your opinion is shared in and was shared in by the members of the executive board in session at their meeting held in Cleveland last January. This matter was carefully looked into and a committee was appointed to audit these expenditures and recommended that an audit and finance committee be appointed. Hereafter no bills incurred for the work of the society will be paid unless approved by the chairman of this audit and finance committee, as well as the secretary and president of the organization.

It was mainly on account of these heavy expenditures that the board of directors decided to accept advertising in the columns of the Journal of the society.

I believe that the twenty-six members of this board have the best interests of the society at heart and contemplate doing nothing with any of the funds of the society that they believe would not meet with the approval of the rank and file of the organization.

A Matter of Record.

In this connection it is interesting to note how great was the uncertainty on the part of most of those present at the Wednesday morning session of the Cleveland convention, August 18, in regard to what actually happened. Comparison of the reports given to readers in the trade papers illustrates this notably.

One paper's convention report, for example, made no mention of this important subject at all, stating only that "the matter of financing the S. A. F. publicity campaign was then taken up and freely discussed, but postponed for further action."

Another paper stated in its issue of convention week: "Adolph Gude moved that $10,000 be borrowed from the permanent fund and repaid when the publicity committee is able to do so. On motion of George Asmus the discussion was tabled until a later session, when the report of the finance committee will be presented." In its following issue, after it had opportunity to study the official stenographer's record of the meeting, the same paper printed the following paragraph:

We desire to correct an error in last week's issue that the motion to authorize the proper authorities to borrow $10,000 from the permanent fund and place it to the credit of the general fund, for the temporary use of the publicity committee, to be replaced when the general fund warranted it, was laid on the table for future action, when in point of fact it was passed at the Wednesday morning session.

Of all the trade papers The Review was the only one which told its readers just what happened at this session in the issue that came out convention week. In the August 19 issue, which appeared the day after the convention session in question, the report of the Cleveland meeting carried, under the subhead, "Draft on Permanent Fund," the following paragraph:

After much frank discussion of the publicity campaign and the result to the society's finances from the appropriations made to it, it was decided to empower the proper officers to effect a loan of $10,000 from the permanent fund to the general fund, to be returned "when circumstances allowed."

HOME-GROWN BULBS

MADE IN TENNESSEE.

Baum's Bulb Display.

Probably the most interesting feature of the season in Knoxville, Tenn., from the florists' view was Baum's bulb display, in a window of the Board of Commerce building. The board has been featuring home-made and home-grown products in its show window for some time, endeavoring to illustrate what can be accomplished in eastern Tennessee and showing the wonderful opportunity for advancement along various lines.

After learning of Baum's bulb enterprise the officials of the board were anxious to feature a window of the different species and varieties as soon as the bulbs could be dug. The display was arranged September 6 and remained on exhibition for two weeks. It consisted of the matured bulbs neatly arranged on paper plates, one plate of each variety, forming a border around the edge of the window. The center and background were made up of the growing bulbs just as they came from the field, and each article was labeled according to species and variety, for the benefit of the public. Following is a list of the bulbs on display: Lilium speciosum, Lilium rubrum, Lilium roseum, Lilium tigrinum, Lilium giganteum, Lilium candidum, narcissi, tuberoses, hyacinths, tulips and the following varieties of gladiolus: Europa, America, Niagara, Halley, Willy Wigman, Master Wietze, Hohenstaufen, Blue Jay, Golden West, Yellow Hammer, Carmine, Brilliant, Lily Lehman, Princeps, Pink Perfection, Augusta, Schwaben, Klondyke, Mrs. Frank Pendleton, Peace, Glory of Holland and, finest of all, the new variety, Wilhelmina Gude. Many more varieties might have been displayed had it been later in the season. The lily bulbs were of excellent quality and ranged in size from small bulblets to bulbs four and one-half inches in diameter. Gladiolus corms ran from tiny hard cormlets to bulbs three inches in diameter.

Attracted Much Interest.

The window attracted much attention and many people manifested their interest by asking questions regarding the display and expressing their desire to purchase bulbs when ready. One of the leading daily papers thought enough of the exhibit to give it a 2-column write-up on a prominent page in the issue of September 6.

It is not the display itself that makes the feature unique, but rather the fact that an outside and disinterested agent should manifest such a keen interest and of its own accord advertise the flower business in general to the people of Knoxville and eastern Tennessee free of charge. The value of such publicity cannot be estimated. It not only suggests flowers to the minds of the people, but it tends to put the florists' business alongside of other progressive enterprises, where it belongs, and is another way of impressing the national slogan, "Say It with Flowers."

HOLD BEETLE HEARING

PROTEST STATE RESTRICTIONS.

Would Limit Beetle Order.

Strong and vigorous protest was made by nurserymen and plant growers at the hearing held by the Federal Horticultural Board, September 10, against the board's proposed imposition of blanket restrictions on shipments of stock from the entire states of New Jersey and Pennsylvania because of a small region in both states being infested with the Japanese beetle. With the exception of the government officials, the opinion of all those who spoke seemed to be that the board would be going far enough to apply the restrictions against the area affected with a safety zone of approximately ten miles around it, and that the wide publicity given to the proposed action injures the growers in both states.

Dr. C. L. Marlatt, chairman of the board, who presided at the hearing, which was attended by a large number of nurserymen and plant growers as well as by state and federal officials, stated that it seemed impossible to exterminate the pest and that the infested area would undoubtedly widen and that the board deemed it best to declare a quarantine covering the entire states but only to place restrictions on shipments from the area actually infested. This, he said, would enable the board to extend the area of restriction if necessary from time to time without the necessity of further publicity and further hearings in Washington. He maintained that this was in the interest of the nurserymen and growers, as it really avoided continued publicity and gave assurance to consignees in other states that shipments from New Jersey and Pennsylvania were not open to suspicion, as in the case of goods being shipped from the infested area there would be a certificate showing inspection by the government, and there would be no restrictions on shipments from non-affected territory. He admitted that the word quarantine carried with it something of a scare, but he declared that he did not think that the proposed regulations when understood would cause any trouble or loss whatever outside of the infested area.

Small Area Infested.

According to the statements made at the hearing, the Japanese beetles infest an area in New Jersey of about sixty square miles and one in Pennsylvania of about ten square miles, both areas adjoining.

J. J. Davis, in charge of the board's work in New Jersey in connection with the beetle, made an extended statement, in the course of which he declared that it was hoped to cope with the Japanese beetle by introducing its natural enemy or enemies. He said the board has an expert now in Japan working on the matter, C. P. Clausen, who has been in that country for about two months and has already made one shipment of a predacious ground beetle which feeds on the Japanese beetle, its grubs and eggs, and that experiments are now being conducted with this beetle.

Mr. Davis said that extermination of the Japanese beetle seemed questionable, because it would require an immense sum of money. He said that the characteristic habits of the beetle are against extermination. "It will feed practically on everything," he said, "from the lowest growing weeds to the highest growing trees. It is easily carried by uncontrollable means." To show the abundance of the beetle in the infested area in New Jersey, Mr. Davis said that in the last two months boys have been paid 80 cents a quart for them and in this way about 4,000,000 were destroyed.

Preventive Measures.

The suggestion was made that the board prepare a circular on the subject of the Japanese beetle, its habits and methods of prevention, to be used by nurserymen and growers to guard against it or cope with it if it made its appearance. Dr. Marlatt said that this would be done.

Mr. Davis said that the present restrictions are justifying themselves and that while the beetle cannot be controlled or exterminated, wide jumps of the pest can be prevented, or coped with if they take place, by the proposed widening of the regulated area. In Japan, Mr. Davis said, the pest does not seem to do any particular harm and is not specially reckoned with.

Pyle Protests State Order.

Robert Pyle, president of Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., said that he could not but feel that there would be harmful effects to follow the imposition of restrictions on the entire state of Pennsylvania simply because of a small infested area in the southeastern portion of the state.

"We feel that if it is possible for a section to be set apart and to be named in a restricted area, it would work less hardship," he said. "We respectfully ask the board to direct this order for restriction and control to the areas of known infestation and a safety zone, instead of a blanket order covering the entire states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, in harmony with the plan followed by the board in the case of the corn borer and in harmony with the law.

"We also ask the board, in the event of the issuance of orders, to avoid the use of the word 'quarantine.'"

Gude Criticises Publicity.

William F. Gude, representing the Society of American Florists, said that he wanted to go on record as favoring the suggestions of Mr. Pyle, that the action of the board be confined to the infested areas and not take the form of blanket restrictions covering the states. He also protested against the form of the press notice issued by the board to daily newspapers in connection with the hearing. He said that in the opening paragraph a scare was thrown by the statement that "a quarantine upon the states of New Jersey and Pennsylvania to prevent the spread of the Japanese beetle" would be considered by the board, and the statement was added that "the hearing will take up the question of placing restrictions on the movement from these states of farm, garden and orchard products of all kinds," etc. These statements, he said, were responsible for the scare headlines which had appeared in newspapers concerning the proposed action of the board and that but few persons would read the last paragraph, which explained what the board really had in mind, the first sentence of which, he declared, cleared up the matter and should have been placed at the beginning of the story. This sentence read as follows: "If it is found advisable to quarantine the entire states of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, the restrictions imposed on these products will be limited substantially to the areas actually determined to be infested by the Japanese beetle."

A. A. N. Officials Oppose.

Lloyd Stark, president of the American Association of Nurserymen, protested against a blanket order covering the two states. "The public will get the impression that the entire state of New Jersey and the entire state of Pennsylvania have been blacklisted, so to speak," he declared. "I believe I am safe in saying that the farmers, nurserymen and the horticultural and agricultural industries involved are anxious that this impression shall not go out. I think that they all feel that the board's proposed action in regard to this matter does not agree with our experiences in such matters and that it will have an injurious effect on sales in other states. The moral effect will be that the people will not want to buy from New Jersey or Pennsylvania if the entire state is to be put under the ban."

John Watson, secretary of the American Association of Nurserymen, Princeton, N. J., said that the word quarantine sounds serious and ominous. As a matter of fact, he said, it was not a quarantine at all, as proposed, but merely regulation by way of inspection and certification. He advocated calling the action something else, and if this were done, it would allay suspicion and fear.

Cut Flowers Included.

Request was made that cut flowers and other products be eliminated from the quarantine, but statements made by Dr. Marlatt indicated that if the order is issued, as in all probability it will be, in the form as proposed, there will be no exceptions, because of the possibility of anything of a plant nature being a carrier of the beetle or its grub.

Dr. Marlatt said that no restriction whatever was contemplated on seeds and that bulbs will be certified without inspection.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture

E. D. Ball attended the hearing and said that he sympathized with the attitude of those who desired that the proposed action interfere as little as possible with their business. He declared that "if the florists would come out and say they wanted this quarantine it would relieve the whole situation," that publicity given such action would take the sting out of the order.

Short statements were made by other nurserymen and plant growers in addition to those mentioned above and all favored placing restrictions on the infested area rather than on the entire states as proposed by the board.

Siebrecht Files Protest.

Following is the text of a protest filed by W. H. Siebrecht, secretary of the New York and New Jersey Association of Plant Growers, against the blanket order covering the two states:

Whereas, the Federal Horticultural Board has proposed a quarantine affecting parts of the states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey on account of the Japanese beetle, and

Whereas, the members of the New York and New Jersey Association have assembled to consider such proposed quarantine and its necessity;

Resolved, That the New York and New Jersey Association of Plant Growers is in favor of necessary quarantines, but is opposed to any quarantines not proven necessary.

Resolved, That the New York and New Jersey Association of Plant Growers is opposed to the quarantine proposed by the Federal Horticultural Board upon which a public hearing will be given September 10 to quarantine parts of the states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey on account of the Japanese beetle, because the proposed quarantine has not been shown to be necessary, and because such quarantine has not been shown to be actually necessary particularly as applicable to plants and flowers grown under glass, and for the further reason that said pests can readily be discovered upon such plants and flowers and can be held and kept under complete control.

Resolved, That such a quarantine as now proposed would be ruinous to the plant growers of said states because their natural market is in the state of New York and would work irreparable loss and render idle their establishments which have been built and planned to grow such plants and flowers and would cause great financial loss to their owners.

Those Present.

The following attended the hearing: Bertrand H. Farr, president of the Wyomissing Nursery Co., Wyomissing, Pa.; George H. Peterson, president of the George H. Peterson Co., Fair Lawn, N. J.; J. D. Headley, West Grove, Pa.; B. F. Barr, representing the Lancaster County Florists' Club, Lancaster, Pa.; John Williams, representing the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, Haverford, Pa.; Wilmer W. Hooper, West Chester, Pa.; J. F. Anderson, West Hills, N. J.; A. F. Burgess, Melrose Highlands, Mass.; H. G. Taylor, secretary of the Pennsylvania State Horticultural Society, Riverton, N. J.; E. Runyan, president of the Elizabeth Nursery Co., Elizabeth, N. J.; H. B. Weiss, New Brunswick, N. J.; James C. Clark, Riverton, N. J.; Henry F. Michell, Philadelphia; F. W. B. Green, Washington; Lester C. Lovett, Little Silver, N. J.; L. A. Stearns, Leesburg, Va.; A. M. Henshaw, president of the New York Florists' Club, New York; W. H. Siebrecht, Jr., representing the New York and New Jersey Association of Plant Growers, New York; A. L. Miller, Jamaica, N. Y.; H. S. Mabie, Maywood, N. J.; J. W. Roat, Manheim, Pa.; George E. Stern, Wrightsville, Pa.; Paul C. Stark, Wrightsville, Pa.; Julius Roehrs, Rutherford, N. J.; W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.; Anton Schultheis, College Point, L. I.; J. H. Fiesser, North Bergen, N. J.; C. W. Starkwell, Riverton, N. J.; E. H. Siezler, Washington; C. H. Hadley, Riverton, N. J.; A. A. Niessen, Philadelphia; E. A. Harvey, Brandywine Summit, Pa.; James Keewson, Cheltenham, Pa.; Wesley Webb, Dover, Del.; Henry T. Moon, Norristville, Pa.; C. H. Perkins, Newark, N. J.; Lloyd Stark, president of the American Association of Nurserymen; Thomas B. Meehan, Philadelphia; John Watson, secretary of the American Association of Nurserymen, Princeton, N. J.; Robert Pyle, West Grove, Pa.; William Henshaw, Murray Hill, N. J.; Thomas Rakistraw, Kennett Square, Pa.

T. O. M.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

There was a large demand for flowers last week, unusually large for exposition week, but several good-sized weddings have taken place. Funeral work has also been heavy and stock has been worked up closely. Asters and gladioli have had a heavy demand from the eastern markets; this has kept the market cleaned up about every day.

Rains last week had gratifying results with the outdoor stock, which continues to come into the market as freely as ever; the quality is excellent. Rubrum lilies in pink, white and brown are plentiful. Roses last week showed some improvement and the demand has been good. Carnations are not plentiful and the quality is poor. The outdoor flowers, such as candytuft, bachelor's buttons, scabiosa, zinnias, buddleias, gaillardia and coreopsis, all sell readily at low prices. Greens of all kinds are plentiful and meet all demands.

Various Notes.

Miss Louise Henriette Suhr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Suhr, of Summerville boulevard, was married Thursday afternoon, September 9, to Roswell George Schneider, of this city. The bride carried a shower bouquet of White Killarney roses and snapdragons. The bride's table was decorated with Ophelia and Columbia roses. The color scheme used in the decorations was pink and yellow. Smilax, gladioli, asters and hydrangeas were used in profusion throughout the home. After a stay in the Adirondacks, Mr. and Mrs. Schneider will be at home at 22 Ridge road, east, after October 1.

James Macgregor, of Grand avenue, spent September 5 and 6 with friends in Syracuse, N. Y., making the trip by automobile.

George B. Hart is building a 65-foot concrete block chimney at the Fairport range. He is also building a concrete chimney at the wholesale store. The wire shop will soon be removed to an adjoining building, thus giving the supply department much needed room.

Among the visitors to the exposition and flower show were S. A. Anderson and party, from Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Clayton E. Risley, of Hamilton, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. James P. Boyle, of Lyons, N. Y., and S. W. Morgan, of Le Roy, N. Y.

Miss Lillian Wheeler, of H. E. Wilson's force, is seriously ill at her home, 622 Plymouth avenue. Specialists have been called into consultation, but no report has so far been given out.

Approximately ninety acres of asters and ten acres of hardy phlox at the trial grounds of James Vick's Sons, at Ogden, N. Y., are in their best bloom now. Some good rains last week helped them along.

J. W. Vick, of Charlotte, N. Y., has been busy for the last week or so with a good quantity of funeral work.

Charles W. Curtis, of Irondequoit, N. Y., is supplying the trade with some excellent Golden Glow chrysanthemums and Rochester asters, which sell readily.

H. J. H.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

There was a noted improvement in the demand last week, due to a large number of weddings and several store openings, in addition to a number of funerals of prominent persons. General trade is also better.

While there is still a great oversupply of outdoor flowers on the market, the supply of gladioli is slowly dwindling. Asters are flooding the market.

Roses are showing great improvement in quality, and good stock brings good prices, although there is a quantity of poor stock that can be used only for set pieces. Lilies, especially the Japanese lilies, are almost a drug on the market, as the supply is so far ahead of the demand. Cattleyas and valley are scarce.

Dahlias and cosmos are appearing. Single-flowering tuberoses are used by some of the florists here. Carnations are scarce yet, and the quality is poor. The demand for greens was good all the week and there is plenty of Sprengeri and plumosus.

Various Notes.

The opening of the Lincoln National bank called for a large quantity of flowers September 11. Huge baskets of roses, lilies, asters and gladioli were sent from the stores of the Blossom Floral Co., Lanternier's, Flick Floral Co., Doswell Floral Co., Ralph Tinkham, Ed Wenninghoff and Knecht & Freese.

Miss Margaret Vesey left a few days ago to resume her duties at the Y. M. C. A. in St. Louis, Mo. Miss Catherine Vesey is spending several weeks visiting her father, Judge W. J. Vesey.

Herman Leitz, of the New Haven Floral Co., has had an active demand for both weddings and funerals the last two weeks. His greenhouses at New Haven, Ind., are all in prime condition. From present indications, he will have an excellent carnation crop this winter.

The decorations for the opening of the Strand theater September 11 were in the charge of the Blossom Floral Co. Several cases of southern smilax were used, and a large number of floor baskets and vases were filled with gladioli, roses and lilies. The decorations of the Jewish synagogue, for the Jewish New Year, were also executed by Mr. Blossom.

Mrs. Mary Patten has returned home after several weeks' visit with her daughter, Miss Helen F. Patten, of the Patten Flower Shop, Toledo, O.

Visitors to this city last week were H. A. Anderson, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, Ill., and I. M. Bayersdorfer, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

OPEN FALL SEASON

NEW YORK FLORISTS' CLUB.

First Meeting of Fall.

The first meeting of the New York Florists' Club after the summer vacation was held in the club's rooms at the Engineering Societies' building, September 13, with a fair attendance.

President A. M. Henshaw announced that since the last meeting he had appointed the nominating committee for the selection of candidates for office during 1921, which included C. B. Weathered, W. A. Manda, Richard Hughes, Max Schling, Emil Schloss, W. H. Siebrecht, Sr., and John Canning.

Joseph Manda made a report as delegate of the club at the meeting June 15 of interests affected by Quarantine 37, which was fully reported in The Review at the time.

C. Lowther, for the transportation committee, reported that the party traveling to the Cleveland convention was sixty in number. On motion, the committee's expenses in connection with the trip were ordered paid and a vote of thanks awarded the committee.

On motion of Secretary Young, the chair was directed to appoint a transportation committee to arrange for travel to the Indianapolis convention of the F. T. D., October 12 and 13. C. Lowther, Max Schling and Chas. H. Brown were appointed.

C. B. Weathered, Anton Schultheis and Richard Hughes were appointed delegates of the club to the meeting, September 15, at Syracuse, of the New York Federation of Horticultural Societies and Floral Clubs.

Club Finances.

Treasurer W. C. Rickards, Jr., reported that there had been a meeting of the board of trustees that day, at which his books and accounts had been audited. His report showed a balance in the treasury of $19,337. The report was, on motion, received and ordered filed. C. W. Knight, for the board, reported that the board had recommended that two small bank accounts be closed and that the sum of $2,500 be withdrawn from the funds of the club and invested in Third Liberty bonds. The recommendation was adopted.

Walter Scott, Rutland road, Flatbush, N. Y., was nominated for election to membership at the next meeting.

Joseph Manda, F. H. Traendly, W. H. Long, Wallace R. Pierson and President Henshaw reported on the S. A. F. convention and, on motion, a hearty vote of thanks was given the Cleveland Florists' Club for courtesies and hospitalities extended to the club's members at the convention.

An extended discussion ensued, covering largely the objects of the new National Flower Growers' Association. W. R. Pierson made an eloquent address, in which he disposed of some misunderstandings which seemed to exist, and expressed his belief in the necessity for such an organization, especially in its relation to the national publicity campaign. In regard to the latter, he deprecated what he considered to be hard and unnecessary work for the publicity committee in obtaining many small subscriptions, and scored those who had guaranteed subscriptions and had failed to make good on their guarantees. It was reported that about $10,000 was outstanding on guarantees.

Publicity.

Secretary Young supported Mr. Pierson in a vigorous address. Bills rendered recently for the sums outstanding on these guarantees had resulted in the payment of barely $300. Mr. Pierson pointed to the action of the Allied Florists' Association, of Chicago, in collecting a large sum for publicity work, of which twenty-five per cent was to be turned into the national publicity fund and the remainder devoted to local publicity. Secretary Young expressed great approval of this action, and suggested that similar work organized by a committee of the club ought surely to be able to accomplish like results.

F. H. Traendly and C. H. Totty lent additional support to the suggestion, and finally, on motion of W. G. Badgley, the chair was directed to appoint a committee to consider ways and means of forming a local publicity organization on the lines of the Chicago body.

C. H. Totty, who returned recently from an extended trip through Europe, gave an eloquent account of his travels, in his usual amusing style.

Exhibits.

John Scheepers, Inc., New York, staged a collection of dahlias, which was highly commended.

The Springfield Floral Co., Springfield, N. J., showed a vase of mixed dahlias and received a vote of thanks.

C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J., showed a vase of seedling dahlias, which was awarded a vote of thanks.

Geo. Schlegel, Brooklyn, N. Y., showed a vase of Dahlia Mrs. G. Schlegel and was awarded a vote of thanks. J. H. P.

LORAIN, O.

The firm of Hody & Tulea has been dissolved, but each of the partners will continue in the business here. L. Hody has taken over the greenhouses at Eleventh street and Oberlin avenue and will operate them in a wholesale way only. He has 30,000 feet of glass in good condition and will enlarge as circumstances make advisable. J. E. Tulea has retained the three stores the firm has conducted and will continue them for his individual account. The headquarters store is at 725 Broadway, this city, with a branch at Ohio and Vine streets, Lorain, and another at 378 Broad street, in Elyria. Mr. Tulea acquires the firm's F. T. D. membership.

CONTRIBUTIONS

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

Committee to Consider Delinquents.

The publicity committee is to meet at Indianapolis October 12, during the convention of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association. At this meeting plans will be made for additional publicity, and various details in relation to the campaign will be discussed and arranged.

One important matter will engage the attention of the committee, and that is the nonfulfillment of the subscription guarantees of a number of subscribers. The committee has, all along, been hampered in its plans because of money expected not being available. The secretary has a number of guarantees which have no negotiable value, and unless those who made them will honor them, they only serve as reminders of so many broken pledges. Statements were recently mailed to all these delinquents, but the response would hardly seem to have warranted the postage expense. It is hoped that these obligations will be discharged before the committee meets, as the list of them will not make pleasant reading.

An Object Lesson.

It should be a pleasure for any florist, as well as a duty, to subscribe to our campaign fund. There is absolutely no doubt as to the benefit which has, so far, been accomplished. Many of us remember what S. R. Latshaw told us, at Cleveland, the raisin producers had accomplished through their magazine publicity. He said: "The raisin growers were unable to market their entire crop, even at most unsatisfactorily low prices, ruinously low in fact. The per capita consumption of raisins per year in this country at that time was one pound. The problem was to increase the consumption of raisins. The raisin association did it with a national magazine educational campaign. They purchased beautiful color pages illustrating luscious raisin desserts that made the reader's mouth fairly water in anticipated delight. They suggested to the housewife new, better and more profitable ways to use raisins. And as a result, in three years they raised the consumption of raisins to three pounds per capita. The price for raisins today, while low, is satisfactory, and instead of there being thousands of tons to carry over, the crop is thousands of pounds short."

All we need is that the florists enthuse a little in this publicity work, We used to point with pride to the florists as being a remarkably generous body of men, yet we find that their generosity was outside of their calling—they certainly are not showing much generosity to themselves, if we are to judge by the general contributions to the fund. Mr. Latshaw said truly: "Comparatively few have borne all the expenses up to the present. But the benefits have been shared by all. When you, as a whole, understand the problem before you and the opportunity, and realize that you have a practical method for solving that problem and improving the opportunity, surely then no man would be such a cheap skate and a piker as to wish to benefit and ride on the shoulders of his fellow florists who pay his bills for him."

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The condition of the flower market of the last few weeks is not materially changed. The demand, on the whole, is perhaps a little stronger on some days, yet weaker on others, so that the volume of business remains about the same. Most of the arrivals are outdoor stock, asters, gladioli and dahlias figuring chiefly.

The supply of roses is not large, yet quite sufficient for the demand. American Beauty cannot boast of much quality, but the hybrid tea stock is pretty good for the time of year, and the price range, $1 to $8, with some varieties bringing a dollar or two more, is well maintained.

The supply of carnations is increasing, but the flowers are principally from field plants, few growers sending in any benched stock. The price range is $2 to $3 per hundred, with selected stock commanding as much as $4.

Cattleyas are scarce, but the demand for them is not at all active. A few of the labiata variety are coming in.

There is a good supply of white lilies, and L. speciosum rubrum is coming in fairly well. Lily of the valley continues scarce. Considerable Bouvardia Humboldtii is arriving and it brings as much as $1 per bunch, in a way taking the place of lily of the valley.

Arrivals of chrysanthemums are increasing, but they consist of only one or two varieties. About $1 to $3 per dozen is the price range.

There is a heavy supply of miscellaneous flowers, and clearances are quite difficult.

Various Notes.

The directors of the New York Botanical Garden have invited the members of the American Rose Society to hold a meeting in the garden September 29. With the exhibition of the American Dahlia Society in progress in New York at the same time, it is expected that the attendance will be large.

Arthur Herrington, Madison, N. J., gave a talk September 9 to the visitors at the exhibition of the Bedford Hills Garden Club, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

The New York Botanical Garden will inaugurate a series of special "Greenhouse Lectures" from November 5 to December 11, inclusive. The lectures will be given in the Museum building, Bronx park.

A party comprising James Stuart, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; B. Hammond Tracy, Wenham, Mass.; J. A. Manda, West Orange, N. J.; George Hildenbrand, C. B. Weathered, C. Lowther, J. H. Repper, W. F. Sheridan, F. H. Traendly and W. C. Rickards, Jr., of New York, were taken by President A. M. Henshaw, of the New York Florists' Club, to Short Hills, N. J., Saturday, September 11, where he entertained them at his residence, afterwards taking them on to Madison, to visit C. H. Totty. At Madison the party looked over the Totty greenhouse establishment, being later taken to Morristown, where they were entertained at dinner at the Mansion House, the guests of Mr. Totty. At Madison, Arthur Herrington and A. Ruzicka joined the party. The occasion was one of much enjoyment.

Charles Stanley, Plainfield, N. J., has disposed of his greenhouses, and it is understood that they will be dismantled.

Is it to be flowers and fruits or flowers and candy? In Europe many, perhaps most, high-class florists also handle fancy fruits. In America many confectioners have put in flowers as a side line, but not many florists have added either fruits or candy to their dealings. However, many New York florists combine both fruits and candy with their baskets of steamer flowers and J. H. Small & Sons have arranged with Sherry's for a supply of their high-grade goods for Small's customers.

There will be an exhibition of dahlias September 25 and 26 in the Museum building, New York Botanical Garden, Bronx park. Schedules are now ready for distribution and may be had by addressing the secretary of the Horticultural Society of New York, George V. Nash, New York Botanical Garden, Bronx park.

DENVER, COLO.

The Market.

Business showed a decided change for the better during the week ending September 11. Cooler weather and some funeral work were largely responsible. The immense oversupply of outdoor stock is decreasing somewhat now, but everyone is waiting for the first frost. Some fine roses are coming in now and bring $6 to $25 wholesale. Carnations are scarce and not much in demand, and probably will not be so long as asters last. Sweet peas have been damaged by the hail and are about out of the running. Dahlias are good and bring $2 and $3 per hundred wholesale. Pot plants are scarce, though a few asters and begonias are to be had. Shipping has been good.

Various Notes.

The most destructive hail storm that we have had in years visited the market garden district known as Wheatridge, August 27, and florists in the path of the storm suffered heavy losses, the greatest being that of Graul Bros., whose place was probably damaged to the extent of $10,000. Through Mr. Arnold, representing the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Charles Graul secured 650 boxes of glass. The rose range has already been reglazed and another week of good weather will complete the work. The stock was not damaged as much as was first thought. The next heaviest loss was at the Idlewild Farm Greenhouses, which were damaged to the extent of $5,000. Al Hamberger lost about 5,000 feet of glass. The Oakes Home Greenhouses lost 1,250 feet of glass and stock was somewhat damaged. The Crown Hill Greenhouses lost 1,000 feet; the stock in the houses was not much damaged, but the outdoor stock suffered heavily.

The Bright Spot Greenhouses are cutting a fine crop of Columbia. William Kash reports a busy summer, both in repairing and sales.

The Elitch Gardens Co. is cutting some fine roses from the new range. The young carnations look well.

Conrad Lingenfelder recently purchased a new Standard Eight automobile. He is cutting some winter quality carnations.

Fred Meyers is bringing in some extra fine Columbia and Key.

Mr. Gross, of the Alpha Floral Co., is fishing at Granby.

Robert Newcomb passed through here last week on his way east from Los Angeles. R. E. H.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

The volume of business last week showed a fair increase, due to the unusually large amount of funeral work. The chief demand for stock was for this purpose, and local members of the trade had their hands full to meet the demand for special pieces, casket covers and other miscellaneous work. Some fine Easter lilies were on the market and brought fair returns. The supply of white roses and swainsona fell far short of the demand. Several calls for orchids were received, but they were scarce and had to be accepted at almost any price. The supply of dahlias was fair, but, due to the wet weather, they would not hold up any length of time. Potted ferns of good quality moved fairly well. The market was well supplied with greens throughout the week.

Club Meeting.

The Washington Florists' Club held its regular monthly meeting September 7. Prior to calling the meeting to order, J. Harper Hetherington, president of the club, made the following remarks:

"The Florists' Club of Washington is to be congratulated on a number of things. First, on having been selected by three of the largest trade organizations in the country to be hosts at their next conventions. Second, we can boast of having among our members three national officers, Z. D. Blackistone, vice-president of the Chrysanthemum Society of America; D. G. Grillbortzer, vice-president of the American Carnation Society, and Adolph Gude, vice-president of the S. A. F. I do not think that there is a club in the country that can equal our boast. I know that we are going to show the other clubs that Washington is on the map in great big letters. F. H. Kramer and Z. D. Blackistone will be able to tell us of the strides being made in the work of staging the chrysanthemum show and convention. That is immediately in the limelight, because it will take place shortly.

"Before the evening's work is concluded, I hope that there will be offered a suitable resolution, congratulating the three men I have named upon their selection as national officers, and another resolution, thanking the members who went to Cleveland for their efforts in winning the 1921 S. A. F. convention for Washington."

It is needless to say that the resolutions were unanimously adopted and the entire club feels most proud of these members.

Members of the club received an invitation to attend a dahlia show September 29, which will be given by R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., of White Marsh, Md. It was voted to send a letter of thanks for the kind invitation and no doubt the club will be well represented. The trip will be made in machines.

It was also voted to send a letter of appreciation to the Baltimore Florists' Club for the kind offer to extend any possible help in connection with the chrysanthemum show and convention.

Mum Show Committee Meets.

Plans for the annual convention of the Chrysanthemum Society of America and the national capital flower show are well under way. An important meeting of the general committee was held at the New Ebbitt hotel September 9. A fine lunch was served at 1:00 p. m., and immediately after this was over, the members settled down to business.

Plans for a formal opening of the show were discussed, and the suggestion to ask Mrs. Wilson to press a button to open the show was favored. It was voted to appoint a committee to present Mrs. Wilson with a special basket of flowers on the opening day. Plans for music and programs were also discussed.

The following members were present: Fred H. Kramer, Z. D. Blackistone, Adolph Gude, Wm. F. Gude, J. Harper Hetherington, O. A. C. Oehmler, G. E. Anderson, George White, Edward Neidomanski, Albert Schnell, George V. Schultz and Mrs. Stauff.

Arthur Niessen was in town from Philadelphia at this time and the florists were glad to have him present.

George W. Hess, superintendent of the botanical gardens, was also present at the meeting and showed much interest in the work.

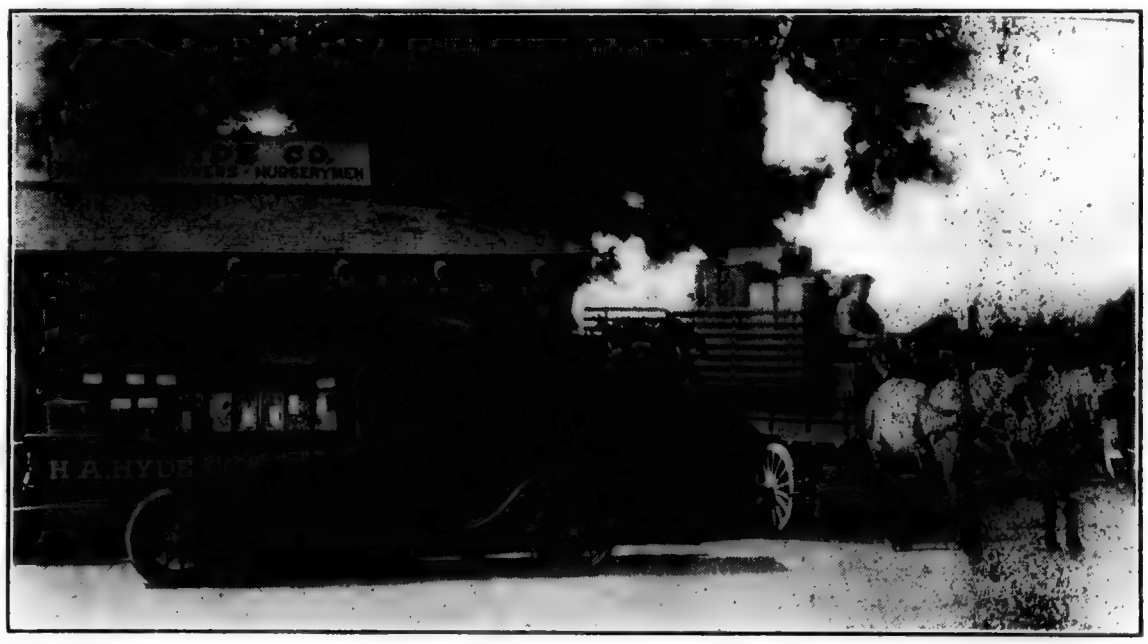
Various Notes.

Victor W. Fortwengler, of Marche & Co., is back in town after enjoying a good vacation.

George Comley returned from Canada last week. Mr. Comley spent his vacation with his mother.

Arthur Niessen and E. Harvey were in town for several days last week.

The Washington Floral Co. is still keeping up its reputation for casket covers. They made several last week. J. H. Small & Sons also had several lately.



Everybody is glad to hear that Elmer C. Mayberry's wife is home from the hospital after a serious spell of illness.

The local florists are not holding back on their promise to donate flowers for our soldier dead from abroad. Mrs. Wm. F. Gude, leader of the War Mothers of America, reports the number of flowers needed, and the florists never fail to double the amount.

The entry lists for the national capital chrysanthemum show, to be held in the old Masonic Temple, Ninth and F. streets, N. W., Washington, D. C., are now ready. All growers are invited to participate. Information can be obtained from Z. D. Blackistone, Washington, D. C.

The Florists' and Growers' Union, 17387, held its regular meeting September 1. The meeting was well attended and several new members were taken in. The working rules committee reported its progress during the last month. Fred Myer and Frank Slye were appointed on the membership committee. The local was well represented at the picnic and barbecue which was held at Cabin John park under the auspices of the Central Labor Union.

The Washington Floral Co. has been cutting some excellent Ophelia, Radiance, Columbia and American Beauty roses. G. V. S.

Fifty-five Thousand Calla Bulbs in One Express Shipment on Way to Railroad.

CALLAS FROM CALIFORNIA.

Since the introduction into this country of the Godfrey calla, in 1908, this lily has rapidly increased in popularity until today it is one of the most profitable of florists' flowers. In pace with this rapid increase in popularity the production of its bulbs has grown at the same time. This item is one of those on which the state of California has given the trade valuable aid, by reason of its genial climate. How valuable is indicated by the illustration on this page, which shows an automobile truck and an express dray bearing to the railroad station one express shipment of 55,000 calla bulbs. H. A. Hyde has been growing callas at Watsonville, Cal., for sixteen years and the favorable conditions of that locality have brought him much success in producing them.

PERHAPS now that people are buying automobiles with less rapidity, they will be spending more for flowers.

THE new rose, Pilgrim, has won the praise of eastern retailers, who have handled it most, particularly for its color.

FLORISTS can add to autumn business by urging home plantings now. Many things do better for being put in the ground at this time instead of next spring.

LESS than a month away is the meeting of the F. T. D., at Indianapolis, October 12 and 13. Plans and prospects are for a largely attended and highly interesting gathering.

BUSINESS methods must improve. The day will come when a severe penalty will be inflicted on any man who cashes a check for stock he can not ship until he finds it somewhere.

THE Classified columns in this issue occupy nearly fifty per cent more space than they did a year ago. These business-bringers have demonstrated their power to the trade in all parts of the country.

NUMEROUS new flower stores are opening this fall, most of them managed by young men who have had training in established stores and who have acquired the money for a start for their own account.

THE florists' trade as a class still is reluctant to pay the market price for doing business. It's well to be careful, but there's nothing in quitting. Pay what necessary things cost and push the selling.

STEPS are being taken by wholesale coal dealers to oust the speculators from that trade. They realize that too great ascension in price, even on such a necessity, may bring reaction to their own detriment.

DOES the retailer realize how many advertising helps are provided at Secretary Young's office, 43 West Eighteenth street, New York? They include seasonal folders, monthly blotters with "Say It with Flowers" calendar, slogan billboards, transfer signs, electric flashing window signs, lantern slides, motion picture film, window posters, slogan cuts and stickers.

THE florist who keeps close watch on collections and pays his own bills promptly need fear least any effect of business depression.

THE distribution of flowers, rather than their production, is what needs to be studied. Develop the outlet and production will keep pace.

WHEN growing costs hold high while other commodities go down, there is now the greatest need for economy and resourcefulness in producing flowers.

NOWADAYS there are so many labor-saving devices manufactured for greenhouse men that a grower spends all his time growing and need not put in hours tinkering with home-made makeshifts.

BUSINESS on the whole is extremely good in the florists' trade. There never has been a summer during which the public has bought so many flowers. That prices have been low was due solely to the unusually large production, which naturally followed last winter's scarcity and which was helped by an extremely favorable growing season.

WHEN one orders at the lowest price is it a matter for surprise if the stock turns out not of the highest quality? And when one buys second-hand material, "unsight and unseen" as boys say when they trade jackknives, is it to be expected the glass will be clean and the woodwork freshly painted? Some people expect too much in this world.

LAST week the editor's desk was graced by blooms of J. K. Rugowski's asters, whose great size and excellent color have excited the praise of those who know this flower best. Pure Honor, Meritorious Pink and Purple Honor are the most notable of his varieties, but there are others of much interest also. He promises a deep yellow aster for next year.

THIS publication does not sell advertising space on "credit"; a large number of accommodation accounts are carried, to afford the publication's customers the convenience of monthly settlement, but such arrangements are made only with the understanding that payment will be made each thirty days as bills are rendered. A similar practice is recommended for selling flowers.

IT DOESN'T SEEM TO.

Calling attention to the following paragraph under "Harbor Activities" in the weekly bulletin of the Portland, Ore., Chamber of Commerce, Clarke Bros. remark that "Quarantine No. 37 didn't keep 'em away":

Millions of little black Manchurian flies were destroyed when the Columbia-Pacific Shipping Co.'s North China line steamer West Nomentum was fumigated last Tuesday. The flies came aboard with the taking on of a cargo of soya bean oil at Darien. The stowaways were swatted with scientific accuracy.

STEEL REPORT SIGNIFICANT.

Many persons besides greenhouse builders regard the monthly unfilled tonnage report with much interest, considering it a barometer of the trend of business and of freight traffic during the preceding month. In the minds of these, the August report, issued last week, confirmed the sentiments expressed in many circles that shipments were greatly increased, production much improved, cancellations active and new business largely curtailed. These factors were quite clearly illustrated in the figures given.

The unfinished business on the books of the corporation August 31 represented a gross weight of 10,805,038 tons, a decrease of 313,430 tons when compared with the month previous. This was actually the first decrease in unfilled tonnage since March of last year and of important significance as indicating the prevailing trend of business activities.

The report was not altogether an indication of large cancellations, since shipments were largely improved and production showed steady progress as well. The corporation's operations, which are now near an eighty-five per cent level, were from five to ten per cent better than in July, while car shortage was not as hampering as in the previous month. Moreover, it is interesting to note that the production of crude steel last month made a gain of 197,614 tons over July, which also tends to show a better supply of finished products.

HAVE YOU SEEN HIM?

Charles Russell, recently of the United States Army and the government greenhouses at Washington, D. C., is reported to have suddenly departed with some property belonging to Bertermann Bros. Co., Indianapolis. He is of South America Indian parentage, speaking Spanish and Portuguese, and is alleged to have worked for Wilcox & Sons, Council Bluffs, Ia., and bore a letter of recommendation from Mrs. Freeman, at Washington, D. C. He will be readily recognized. He evidently has had several years of experience in the flower business. Any information in regard to this gentleman will be appreciated by Bertermann Bros. Co.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Sioux City, Ia.—Application for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the flower department of the Olympia Candy Co. was made last week in the District court by Peter D. Rorris. The hearing on the application was fixed by Judge W. G. Sears for September 10. The petition sets forth that December 11, 1918, the plaintiff and the defendants signed an agreement whereby Mr. Rorris was to take charge of the florists' business of the company and have an equal share in the profits and losses of the business; he also paid $100 for a half interest in the business, he says. The plaintiff asserts that he was wrongfully discharged by the defendants July 27, 1920. As a result of the florists' business, there accumulated $1,000 worth of stock now in the possession of the defendants, $1,600 on deposit in the Continental National bank, $2,300 in book accounts and $300 due from the American Express Co., declares the petition. The plaintiff states that the defendants have refused to permit him to conduct the business further, or to account for the stock on hand, or to permit him to collect his alleged share of money on deposit or the amounts collected on accounts. If the business had been conducted until December 11, 1920, the day of the termination of the contract, Mr. Rorris would be entitled to $1,200 profits, he says. He sues for this sum of money and half the stock on hand, as well as for the appointment of a receiver.

OBITUARY

Gerald L. Holsinger.

Gerald L. Holsinger, 50 years old, president of the nursery firm of Holsinger Bros., Rosedale, Kan., died Friday night, September 10, while at a dinner party at the home of M. E. Chandler, of the Chandler Landscape & Floral Co. The party was to celebrate Mr. Chandler's fiftieth birthday.

Mr. Holsinger had gone to the party with his wife and had just been seated at the dinner table when he placed his hands over his heart and fell forward. Dr. G. I. Blanford, a close friend of Mr. Holsinger and a guest at the party, attempted to revive Mr. Holsinger, but was unsuccessful. He died within a few minutes. Heart disease was said to be the cause of death.

Wallace Holsinger, the only child of Mr. Holsinger and a student at the Kansas State Agricultural College, was also present, as were Mr. Holsinger's sister, Mrs. L. E. Wilson, and brother, George W. Holsinger.

Mr. Holsinger was a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, and a veteran of both the Spanish-American and World wars. He was born in Rosedale, Kan., July 6, 1870. Except the time spent at school and in the service of his country, he lived in Rosedale. His father, the late Major Frank Holsinger, veteran of the Civil war, was a well known horticulturist and left his sons the property which has developed into the present nursery business. Besides the brother and sister who were at the party, surviving are his mother, Mrs. Fannie Holsinger, who lives in Rosedale, another brother, Clarence Holsinger, who lives at Ames, Ia., and two other sisters, Miss Edna Holsinger, a teacher in the Rosedale high school, and Mrs. George F. Wilson, also of Rosedale.

Mr. Holsinger graduated in 1886 from Palmer Academy. He received an appointment to the United States Naval Academy and in 1893 graduated from that institution. Shortly after graduating, however, he resigned from the navy and returned to Rosedale, where he engaged in the nursery business with his brothers. Then came the Spanish-American war, for the term of which he was navigation officer on the Vulcan, a repair ship. He returned to Rosedale and his business at the end of the war. When the United States entered the World war, he offered his services again, and was assigned to duty in charge of construction at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. He made two trips to France before hostilities were concluded. On his second trip he developed a serious illness and was in the Brooklyn hospital about six weeks. He was discharged from the service in 1919 and returned to Rosedale.

Mr. Holsinger was secretary of the Kansas State Horticultural Society, of which his brother, George W. Holsinger, is president, having held that office for a number of years. He was a member of the Rosedale chapter, Royal Arch Masons, a member of Ivanhoe Commandery, Knights Templar, and of Abdallah Shrine.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, September 13, at the First M. E. church, of Rosedale. The pallbearers were Clarence Chandler, Albert Espenlaub, Ralph G. Payne, M. Barnett, Elmer McCall and Fred Phillips. Burial was in Forest Hill cemetery. The Masonic order had charge of services at the grave.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.

The Market.

A plentiful supply of outdoor flowers is holding back the sale of greenhouse stock. Asters and gladioli are still arriving in large quantities, but prices remain unchanged. Cool nights the last two weeks have helped roses, and plenty of fine stock is now offered, with little call. Cecile Brunner roses, marigolds, belladonna and other good outdoor stock clean up well at all times. Mums are beginning to arrive in small quantities.

Various Notes.

Robert Newcomb, of the Burlington Willow Ware Shops, Burlington, Ia., called on the trade recently.

C. H. Hoida, of the Englewood Floral Co., Butte, Mont., stopped in town last week. Mr. Hoida has spent six weeks on the coast, visiting leading florists, and is on his way home.

Fred W. Gust, of the McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., spent last week in this city visiting the trade.

The Miller Floral Co. now has a fine crop of roses at its greenhouses at Farmington. Columbia is extra fine and has the big call.

Al Alt, of the Huddart Floral Co., is back on the job after two months' vacation. G. J. B.

CINCINNATI, O.

The Market.

Business picked up slightly last week, probably due to the fact that the vacation season is over and almost everybody has returned.

Gladioli and asters continue to swamp the market and consequently bring prices down considerably. Some good dahlias arrived and went well at $4 to $8 per hundred. Outdoor snapdragons are arriving in better condition than at any previous time this summer.

Roses are arriving in good condition and large numbers are going well at $4 to $15 per hundred. Lilies seem to be the scarcest flowers and only a limited quantity is to be had; they are selling at $15 per hundred.

Some exceptional Boston and Whitmanii ferns are coming in and are selling well, due to the fact that they are being sold at a popular price.

Various Notes.

C. E. Critchell is back on the job again and does not look any the worse for his accident of a few weeks ago. Business at his store has been quite brisk of late.

H. W. Sheppard reports the best August business he has ever had and says that September has started excellently, with a good number of large wedding orders already booked.

R. A. Kelly has returned from his trip through the east, where he visited a number of florists; he reports business strong at all of the eastern stores.

The William Murphy Co. is receiving some good Kaiserin roses from Anders Rasmussen, of New Albany, Ind.

Ray Ruttle, son of Robt. I. Ruttle, of Covington, Ky., was married Saturday, September 11, to Miss Anastasia Carrell, also of Covington, at St. Mary's cathedral, which was beautifully decorated with lilies and roses hung in garlands on aisle posts. Mr. Ruttle and his bride are spending their honeymoon in Cleveland, where the bride has relatives.

Frank Ball, of Ball & Betz, left last week on an extensive road trip.

Visitors last week included the following: J. E. Thomas, of the Circleville Flower Store, Circleville, Ind.; C. G. Anderson, of the Rolf Zetlitz Co., Lima, O., who was in town selling plants; William F. Thomas, of the Burlington Willow Ware Shops, Burlington, Ia.; Wm. J. Julius, of Jeffersonville, Ind.; Nelson A. Wootan, of Middletown, O., and Mrs. Martha Rasch, of Albany, Ala.

The Paradise Flower Store, of Seventh street, has changed hands. It is now managed and owned by John Rutenschroer, of Price Hill, who has a wide reputation for being a good dahlia grower. G. H. K.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

It would be trite to say that the market was dull last week, for who ever heard of its being otherwise in the fifty-second part of the year which marks the passing of Labor day and the reopening of the public schools? In addition to the customary handicaps, this year the week was marked by almost midsummer temperatures and nearly complete absence of funeral work. Chicago seldom has been more healthy than at present and it cuts a big figure with the local demand for flowers. The shipping demand continues much stronger than the city business, although just why is not apparent, as it is reported there is an abnormal supply of flowers in every other market as well as here. Considering all the factors, one must decide that it is remarkable so many flowers have been sold and that no really active market is to be expected until the weather turns and the great load of outdoor flowers is removed.

Many of the wholesalers believe that the receipts of gladioli and asters will go down rapidly during the next few days and that the market will improve in proportion, but at the present time there are so many outdoor flowers that the trade can not consume them all; the surplus goes either to the dump or to the places where flowers are not combined with art in the selling. There has been a marked deterioration in the quality of asters and even in the dull days of last week there were none too many good asters, although a big surplus of poor ones. Gladioli continue both plentiful and good. There are, however, a number of growers who do not cut their spikes soon enough; the best goods are those cut with only one or two flowers open and not bunched, but packed loose, in small boxes. The spikes of fully developed flowers must be used quickly, while the others actually improve for two or three days in the hands of wholesalers or retailers who take care of them.

ROSES

WE believe it is no exaggeration to state that AMLING'S this season has the largest and finest supply of Roses ever known in the whole history of the Chicago Market. We have increased the supply by additional houses built by several of our growers and we have added to the list of varieties, which will include several novelties not to be had elsewhere.

VALLEY

Plenty here for your autumn wedding work.

LILIES

You make money by having them in your box.

NOTE—A Full Line

Amling's supply includes everything the market affords—a good many novelties not to be had elsewhere.

The supply of outdoor flowers has been augmented by the arrival of considerable quantities of dahlias. Some of these are of superfine quality and carefully handled, but this market never has taken to dahlias and they are difficult to sell in quantity or at other than low prices.

The receipts of carnations show rapid increase. As yet most of the stems are short, but the stock is good for the season, especially that which was grown indoors all summer. There are a few chrysanthemums, too, both white and yellow, but there is no real demand for them as yet.

Easter lilies are not so abundant as they were recently, but auratums have come to take the place of the departing rubrums. Valley is slightly more abundant than during the midsummer months.

With such a load of other stock, it is only to be expected that roses would find the market dull, but still it is the fact that the rose gets the bulk of the out-of-town demand and the better grades move fairly well, although prices continue low. There is no use telling what might have been, but it is apparent that had weather conditions been less favorable for outdoor stock this summer, rose growers would now be reaping a harvest instead of wondering how they are to meet the coal

Kroeschells to Build.

Kroeschell Bros. Co. and Kroeschell Bros. Ice Machine Co., both of which do a large business with florists, announce that they are to start work at once on a new factory building which, with the site, will cost around $750,000. A tract of land about 300x600, on the south side of Diversey avenue, just west of the St. Paul tracks, has been bought from the Healy Industrial district, through J. H. Van Vlissingen & Co. Plans have been drawn by Davidson & Weiss, architects, and Neiler, Rich & Co., engineers, for a machine shop, boiler shop and a two-story administration building, all fireproof. The Kroeschell companies have been for many years at the northeast corner of Erie and Kingsbury streets.

To the F. T. D. Meeting.

Chicago will be well represented, next month, at the Indianapolis meeting of the F. T. D. The dates are October 12 and 13. Apparently actuated by the fact that a lower berth from Chicago to Indianapolis now costs $4.05, Michael Barker, chairman of the Florists' Club's transportation committee, has arranged for the Chicago party to leave at 5:30 p. m., railroad time, October 11, arriving at Indianapolis at 10:30. Members passing through Chicago en route to Indianapolis are invited to join the Chicago crowd. It is recommended that space be arranged for well in advance.

Peter Reinberg in the Movies.

President Peter Reinberg, florist and chairman of the county board and the forest preserve, "registered" pleasure when he made his debut as a motion picture star one day last week. Supported by an all star cast, consisting of members of the county board, Chief Forester Kennicott, of the forest preserve, and 200 poor children, their mothers, nurses, doctors and camp attendants, President Reinberg made his first appearance in a pictorial weekly. According to reports, the pictures, which will show the world what Cook county can do, were taken at Camp Reinberg in the forest preserve, and show the president feeding candy to the kids, and smiling, despite the Sunday Closing.

During the summer a large number of retail stores have remained closed on Sunday. Many of them have closed at 6 p. m., or at least 7 p. m., on week days, possibly excepting Saturday. The approach of autumn indicates a disposition on the part of some of those who have worked short hours to resume the longer day and the 7-day week. Particularly on the near north side, these retailers are being urged strongly to stick to the present practice. William Wienhoeber, of the Ernst Wienhoeber Co., is one of the principal advocates of the short hours. He says the public has become educated to buying and thinking of flowers during business hours and that it no longer will pay anyone to be open nights and Sundays. There will, of course, always be some stores, especially those where the proprietor lives on the premises, which practically will never close. But so are there all-night restaurants, though they never are of the better class and they do not seem to keep trade from going to the places which keep short hours. And did you ever notice, the progressive retailers ask, that the never-close flower stores seldom seem to have any help?

"Tell the World."

"Tell the world," writes Percy Jones, in mailing advertising copy to The Review. "Gladly," say we, "if by 'the world' is meant the world of florists, nurserymen and seedsmen." Of The Review 12,000 copies are printed each week; every reasonable effort is made to confine their distribution to the trade, to keep them from going into the hands of persons not entitled to buy at wholesale prices.

Here's What We Like.

Chief among the complaints of the growers and wholesalers is their belief that the retailers make inadequate effort to sell flowers in times of abundant supply. Therefore the practice and success of Mr. Wolf, of the Armitage Floral Co., 2065 Milwaukee avenue, is a matter of more than passing interest. That Mr. Wolf has made his method pay seems to justify the urge on others to do likewise.

recent weeks of large supply Mr. Wolf has been in the market in quest of any good flowers that could be bought at low prices. As an example, last Saturday he picked up 3,500 bunches of asters. Taking them to an outdoor stand at Milwaukee avenue and Rockwell street, he sold them to the throngs on this busy transfer corner. Content with a small profit, he has put a pretty penny in his pocket every Saturday during the dull weeks of summer. He has added an appreciable sum of money to the growers' incomes and he has demonstrated that the retailers could go far toward handling the surplus if they cared to make the effort.

Various Notes.

per cent of the quantity there at this date last year. He says they have all gone into winter-flowering sweet peas instead of mums.

It is slightly easier to get coal, but not, as yet, easier to pay the bill.

The Chicago daily papers have more than doubled their advertising rates since the general cost rise began, a fact which has an important bearing on the publicity work of the Allied Florists' Association.

The employees of the bulb houses have been earning their living by the sweat of their brows the last few days. Handling 250-pound cases in carload lots is not light work and makes sore muscles for men whose principal occupation is booking orders.

Bassett & Washburn report the opening of the pompon season last week. The only variety ready for cutting is their early double white.

A. J. Zech motored last week to Mercer, Wis., to devote a fortnight to his favorite diversion, fishing.

The opening of the gardenia season is reported by the Joseph Foerster Co., although the supply as yet is small. Auratum lilies are said here to sell at fifty per cent more than giganteums.

The box supply will not trouble the Chicago Flower Growers' Association for a few weeks at least. They have just taken in a carload of knocked down shipping boxes. Manager Klingsporn believes the saving in purchase price will more than cover the cost of setting them up.

J. C. Nielsen, who travels by motor car, has started on a trip to the Twin Cities, accompanied by his wife. Mr. Nielsen obtained his full citizenship papers September 9.

The E. C. Amling Co., which believes in the policy of being forehanded, has sixty tons of overissued Newses stored in its basement.

August Jurgens, Jr., is no longer in the employ of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association.

C. J. Michelsen drove his Packard to Milwaukee last week. He says he found the market there, in comparison to its size, as badly overloaded as this one was.

R. Scheffler, of Wheaton, has twelve houses planted with chrysanthemums. There are in all about 150,000 plants, about half of which are pompons. He grows specially for a late crop and will be cutting for Christmas. The mums are to be followed by sweet peas.

CELOSIA, or Cockscomb

A flower which has been overlooked for commercial use.

CELOSIA is a commercial flower which has been perfected, and wonderfully grown by Mr. S. Bryson Ayres, at his Sunnyslope Farm. There you will find acres of over a hundred varieties, from a Tiny Red to a Giant Celosia Mum, some of which measure from eight to twelve inches across. The flowers vary in price from $2.00 per 100 to $5.00 per dozen.

May we suggest, for a trial shipment, an assortment for $5.00, $10.00 or $20.00.

YOU CANNOT LOSE ON THIS FLOWER. If it is not sold while fresh, dry it and use while flowers are scarce.

show. There was a large display of gladioli and Mr. Campbell considers that the keen competition increases the honor accorded him with first prize for his display.

A. F. Poehlmann is able to be about. The dislocated shoulder causes him more pain than any of his other injuries.

September 8 a remarkable aster show was staged at the store of the E. C. Amling Co. From Manitowoc, Wis., J. K. Rugowski brought two big boxes of his asters, the largest ever seen on this market. Some have petals of reflex type, like chrysanthemums, while others are incurved. In size and color they are notable. Mr. Rugowski ships no flowers, growing them only for seed. He carried home several large orders for seed from Chicago houses.

Visitors.

E. G. Hill and Mrs. Hill were in Chicago three days last week, called from Richmond by the death of a relative of Mrs. Hill. The veteran rosarian, who celebrated his seventy-second birthday anniversary September 11, visited many friends in the trade, who were pleased to see him looking so well after his trip to Europe.

Mrs. George H. Angermueller, wife of the St. Louis wholesaler, has been here this week on a purchasing tour.

Miss McDonald was here this week, making preparations for the annual visit of Santa Claus at Logansport.

B. F. Kent, of the W. W. Barnard Co., is taking his vacation coincidentally with the visit of his brother, Maurice C. Kent, of Newark, O., who conducts a steadily growing florists' business there.

J. E. Kennedy, right-hand man of L. R. Bohannon, of the Kansas City Wholesale Cut Flower Co., Kansas City, passed through Chicago last week on his way home from a vacation trip east.

SCRANTON, PA.

The Market.

Business last week was brisk. Funeral work was plentiful. The fall weddings have started and a number of stores had some good orders. The fall openings in the stores have created a big demand for palms, ferns and other decorative plants. Baskets of assorted cut flowers were also much in demand.

Carnations are beginning to come in and are quite good for the first. Roses are plentiful, the supply so far exceeding the demand. Asters, dahlias and gladioli are the popular choice just now. A few Golden Glow chrysanthemums are seen in several of the stores. Greens of all kinds are plentiful.

Various Notes.

The coal strike is causing the growers a little worry, as no coal is being sold at the breakers. It is hoped that the vacationists will return to work soon.

FRAT-M'S

Frat-Ms are a great help to florists who make funeral work. They are gold, and color embossed, in the different colors, as required by each Fraternal and Labor organization.

The florist is saved keeping such a stock of wire frames, and different colored flowers. Just use such flowers as you have and then attach a Frat-M with paste to chiffon, or by the hanger that comes for each one, as a card, and that is all there is to it, excepting the comment and commendatory talk for the florist.

Just pick out a dozen of the most used, from the list following, enclosing $2.00 per dozen, and if they don't make you TEN times their cost, return those unused and get your money.

Square and Compass, Chapter, Commandery, 32nd Degree, Shrine, Eastern Star, Royal Neighbors, M. W. A., Maccabees, Odd Fellows, Red Men, Knights of Columbus, K. of P., Moose, Jr. O. U. A. M., B. R. of T., B. R. of Clerks, B. of L. E., Br. of Blacksmiths and Helpers, Eagles.

Bulis Florist-Boxes

—Strength with Lightness

Parcel Post and Express shipments of flowers are kept safe and fresh in Bulis Corrugated Fibreboard Boxes. No crushing under the weight of other packages. No gaping of the boxes and exposing the flowers.

Bulis Patented Corner Clasps, that fasten like a glove and never let go, hold the cover secure. "Fishhook" fasteners hold the corners of the box while it is being filled, and reinforce it in shipment.

Bulis Florist-Boxes are convenient. They come to you flat, and occupy little space. Just fasten the corners and the box is ready. No glue nor tools required. Bulis Boxes comply with all postal and express regulations. Made in twelve different sizes. Can be used over and over, thus cutting down the box cost.

HEADQUARTERS

For Florists' Ribbons, Chiffons and Novelties

Walter Hoover, formerly grower for C. W. Baldwin, has severed his connection with Mr. Baldwin and has accepted a position as head grower for the Penn Floral Co., at Fortyfort, Pa.

Anton Schultheis was a busy man during the state convention of the Knights of Pythias in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. William MacDonald and family have returned to the range, after spending the summer at their cottage at Falls, Pa. Mr. MacDonald can tell a few good fish stories now.

The meetings of the Scranton Florists' Club will be resumed Monday, October 4. It is hoped that the first fall meeting will start with an added social session.

The sympathy of the trade is extended to Miss Mary O'Hara, of Kennedy & O'Hara, on the loss of her brother, Private Edward O'Hara, who died from being gassed in France.

John Brown and Joseph Creedon, of the Brown Florist Co., are spending their vacations touring around New York state, Detroit and Chicago.

Callers on the trade last week were Mr. Larson, of L. Baumann & Co., Chicago; Louis Berg, of Lion & Co., New York; Carl Ness, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, and T. J. Nolan, of this city, with his fall line of supplies.

A. L. Besancon & Co., in the Scranton Life building, report a busy week.

Roses are exceptionally good and the demand for lilies continues. Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri are quite in demand for fall decorations. The supply just about takes care of the demand.

Various Notes.

Reports from the road salesmen on florists' supplies have been most encouraging. All florists are planning their needs for a good fall business.

The Pittsburgh Florists' and Gardeners' Club held its regular meeting in the basement of the Carnegie Library, on the north side, Tuesday, September 7, at 8 p. m. Gladioli and other outdoor flowers were the subject of the discussion of the evening. There was a fair attendance.

The establishment of the late Mrs. E. A. Williams, at 621 Penn avenue, has been incorporated under the laws of the state of Pennsylvania. Harvey C. Sheaff is president and E. M. Brunner, secretary and treasurer. Directors are Harvey C. Sheaff, E. M. Brunner, Frank F. Hehman and Charles G. Ulmer.

T. P. Langhans, secretary of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., and his wife and son, Oliver, have just returned from Atlantic City. They report the weather and water quite good.

C. E. Stenson, of Stenson & McGrail, Uniontown, Pa., has been confined to a hospital for the last four weeks by nervous breakdown. It is reported that he is improving.

Mrs. Edward Leizmann, of Latrobe, Pa., is recovering after a severe operation.

P. P. De Muth & Sons, Connellsville, Pa., report a successful sale this year of Chadwick and Golden Chadwick mum plants. Bert De Muth is spending a few weeks at Atlantic City.

W. R. Wampler, representative of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., has just returned from a successful trip through the south. He reports the southern florists aggressive.

J. Irwin Dowdell, former manager of the Fitzgerald Flower Shop, Beaver, Pa., will open a new shop, at 629 Third

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The fall glories are just coming into town. Magnificent dahlias from the Jersey specialists add their rich, warm colors to the market. The names of the dahlia kings, Peacock, Wofrum, Maytrott, Hugo Kind, are heard in the wholesale commission houses. The prices they obtain for the fancy flowers are surprising; $10 and $12 are mentioned in whispers, $6 and $8 are not uncommon, $3 and $4 will buy ordinary stock, while $1 and $2 are cheerfully paid to that increasingly alert body of semi-professional gardeners who delight in trading with their retail florist.

Asters, mostly from New York state, are as fine as, maybe finer than, at any previous time this season. Gladioli are fair to middling. There are lots of short, some medium and a few long roses, plenty of lilies, a few apologies for carnations, some new Golden Glow chrysanthemums and a rather dull market.

The September Meeting.

Few of the members who admired Warren Maytrott's California dahlia novelties or discussed the raise in the Adelphia's rent, knew that the event of the evening was not on the program. They discovered it, however. Secretary Kift told them of the hearing to be held before the Federal Horticultural Board in Washington September 10 and J. Otto Thilow followed with a full explanation of the facts and an eloquent appeal for concerted action to meet the emergency. Mr. Thilow said that the government proposed restrictions on shipments of produce, nursery stock, plants and cut flowers from New Jersey and from Pennsylvania in order to prevent the spread of the Japanese beetle. He said that such restrictions would be unjust and that the club must be represented at the hearing to protest such a decision. This was unanimously agreed to and a committee was chosen to represent the club in Washington at the hearing.

The Hearing in Washington.

There were nearly 100 persons present at the hearing held by the Federal Horticultural Board in Washington the morning of September 10. Pennsylvania had a strong body of representatives. Among them were James C. Clark, William Warner Harper, Edmund A. Harvey, W. W. Hooper, Robert Kift, Thomas B. Meehan, Henry F. Michell, Henry T. Moon, Arthur A. Niessen and Robert Pyle. Mr. Pyle acted as spokesman for the florists and nurserymen.

The meeting was the most satisfactory that has been held by the Federal Horticultural Board, because there was a clear understanding that all those present had one purpose—to meet and overcome a danger.

The government officials explained that the Japanese beetle was confined to a limited area in New Jersey and to

DAHLIAS

You can handle DAHLIAS successfully and they are money-makers if you will get your supply from us.

We handle the entire cut of the Peacock Dahlia Farms, the greatest Dahlia Specialist in the country.

Bear in mind we carry no Dahlias in stock. Orders must be placed in advance. You should place a regular order for shipment every day or twice a week, according tc your needs.

The varieties of Dahlias that we furnish are the best for cutflower purposes. It is a careful selection of the better kind, new introductions and novelties.

A sample shipment will convince you of the superior quality of Peacock's Dahlias.

We still have plenty of good ASTERS, in fact the BEST we have had this season.

Our list of Carnation Plants is still complete. Look for our Classified advertisement.

an even smaller district in Pennsylvania; that they want to prevent it from spreading farther until they find how to destroy it; that to do this certain restrictions were necessary, keeping down weeds, inspection of outgoing shipments, and so on. They did not propose interference with business in trees, plants or cut flowers that was not necessary. They thought that the Japanese beetle could be controlled just as the potato bug is controlled. The federal authorities aim that anything sent out from the infested territory with their inspection shall be free from beetles.

Those present agreed to aid the government to the utmost in its effort to prevent injury to food crops and heartily approved of the measures that are being taken for protection.

The New Manager at Wallingford.

An interesting arrangement has just been made between Milton H. Bickley, proprietor of the Bickmore Greenhouses, of Wallingford, and Clarence Alwine, of Secane. By this agreement Mr. Alwine becomes manager of the Bickmore Greenhouses, recognized as one of the finest commercial establishments near Philadelphia. Mr. Alwine will devote his time to the Bickmore Greenhouses, leaving his own place (formerly the Philadelphia Carnation Co. or Crawford place) to the care of his assistants.

The stock in the Bickmore Greenhouses is in the pink of condition. Some of the carnations are the heaviest ever seen at this season. More Laddie has been planted this season. Benora, Matchless and Mrs. C. W. Ward are showing a few early flowers. Chrysanthemums come next to carnations in numbers, the two new houses being filled with them. Last season's varieties were so satisfactory that there has been little change. Easter lilies fill an entire house. A field of 100,000 gladioli were flowered last summer.

The Secane place is devoted to roses, carnations and Easter lilies. It is also in fine shape. The entire cut of both places will be marketed by Berger Bros. John Berger, managing partner of Berger Bros., believes the new combination is a strong one; that it is the right man in the right place.

Various Notes.

J. D. Eisele and Mrs. Eisele returned from their visit to California by the way of the Canadian Pacific September 10.

Samuel S. Pennock returned from Rhode Island September 15.

Charles E. Fliegel and Emil Christiansen have purchased the business, store and two greenhouses of the late Mrs. Mary A. Alburger, on Ridge road, opposite North Laurel Hill cemetery. The rear of the property will be sold for building lots.

Ludwig P. Vollers will open a retail flower shop at the northeast corner of Twelfth and Sansom streets September 25.

William A. Leonard has returned to Lansdowne.

The Market.

Business has lagged somewhat the last few days and prices on some lines show considerable decline. This reaction is unlikely to be more than short-lived, as outdoor flowers are steadily growing fewer, while indoor stock is not at all abundant. An early frost is liable to come now at any time and when this comes prices will make a quick upward bound. Roses are not yet arriving in any considerable quantity and prices on them are well maintained. Only a limited number of medium long-stemmed flowers are seen, the bulk averaging 6-inch to 12-inch lengths. Carnations are a little more plentiful, but the flowers are small and stems short. They compare unfavorably with asters. A good number of Golden Glow chrysanthemums have appeared. These sell well at $2 to $4 per dozen.

Gladioli of good quality sell at much better prices, but a large number of small, inferior spikes find purchasers with difficulty. Asters continue abundant and prices are lower than a week ago. Lilium longiflorum and L. speciosum remain about as quoted a week ago. Small lots of dahlias, cosmos, candytuft, helichrysums, bachelor's buttons, hunnemannias and other flowers are seen. Valley is in fair demand for weddings, while cattleyas are scarce. A little Bouvardia Humboldtii finds a ready market. In the way of pot plants a few browallias, French hydrangeas and begonias of the Chatelaine type are seen.

Annual Dahlia Exhibition.

That dahlias have a strong hold on the general public was evinced by the crowds of interested visitors seen at Horticultural hall September 11 and 12, when the annual exhibition of these popular flowers was held. The exhibits filled the main and small halls and, in addition to dahlias, there were fine displays of gladioli, orchids, herbaceous perennials, stove and greenhouse plants, fruits and vegetables.

For twelve varieties of show and fancy dahlias, C. Louis Alling led, with S. L. Loker second.

For twelve decorative dahlias, there were nine splendid collections, first prize going to A. M. Hayden, with superb flowers of Mrs. W. J. Rowe, Slocombe Red, Comeliness, Setting Sun, Ben Wilson, Wm. Slocombe, Millionaire, Snowdrift, Leading Lady, Pink Lady, Carmencita and Glory of Newhaven. The decoratives with the peony-flowered types proved magnets for many visitors.

C. Louis Alling was also first for twelve cactus, with Mrs. C. Cooper, Seedling No. 9, Guardian, Biazzar, Ivory White, Pierrot, Mrs. Edna Spencer, Glory of Wilts, Valiant, Mrs. Douglas Fleming, Phenomenal and Pathfinder; second, A. E. Doty.

For twelve peony-flowered, competition was keen, C. Louis Alling again winning, with T. J. Murphy a close second.

In the pompon class Mr. Alling once more led, with A. E. Doty second.

For the largest and best collection comprising all types, C. L. Alling led, with T. J. Murphy second. The latter made a wonderful display of decorative varieties.

ceived a silver medal for an artistic display of dahlias and gladioli, which included some 200 varieties. John K. Alexander, the East Bridgewater dahlia king, filled nearly one-half of the main hall, having seven large tables of dahlias, which received a silver medal. He also made an extensive display of gladioli in numerous varieties.

The Blue Hill Nurseries had a fine group of gladioli, phloxes and hardy perennials. Joseph Breck & Sons received honorable mention for a collection of dahlias and the Breck-Robinson Co. a similar award for gladioli and cannas. The Boston Cut Flower Co. upheld its reputation with an artistic display of dahlias and gladioli in baskets.

W. H. Golby, superintendent for E. A. Clark, had a fine group of foliage and flowering plants, including gesnerias, browallias, standard heliotropes, crotons, Glory of Moordrecht ferns and excellent vases of cut roses. D. R. McLean had a fine collection of hybrid tea roses from outdoors. Peter Arnott, from the E. S. Webster estate, had a handsome group of Celosia Pride of Castle Gould in a variety of pleasing colors, awarded a cultural certificate.

For a fine group of Vanda Sanderiana, Douglas Eccleston, superintendent for A. C. Burrage, received a silver gilt medal. Oliver Lines, head gardener for A. N. Cooley, Pittsfield, Mass., received a silver medal for the beautiful Cattleya Thebes, var. Britannia, and a first-class certificate for a splendid form of Læliocattleya luminosa aurea.

A CUSTOMER who discontinued his order about two years ago, writes: "We should like to get our cut ferns from you again, as we have never been able to find a quality as good elsewhere."

Horticulture at Waltham Fair.

Waltham is a part of Greater Boston and within easy reach of 2,000,000 people. It is not surprising that the first fair held there, under bright, alert managers, should have proved a great success, and this in spite of one dreary, wet day, the only one of its kind we have had in many weeks. The energetic committee on flowers and plants, consisting of E. A. Peirce, J. Frank Edgar and Henry Stewart, deserves congratulations on the splendid flower show got up at quite short notice, the best which I have seen at any fair held in this section. The trade was well represented and the displays were of a notably high order.

On the opening day, September 9, C. W. Brown, Ashland, Mass., won first prize for an artistic group of gladioli, covering fifty square feet, B. Hammond Tracy being a good second. A grand collection of named varieties was put up by Jelle Roos, Concord, Mass.

For the best vase of gladioli, prizes went to L. J. Kelley and J. W. Kohe.

For the dahlia group, John K. Alexander was once more in the lead, with his usual fine and varied display; J. B. Collins, second.

First prize in the aster group went to Henry Stewart, gardener for Miss Cornelia Warren, other premiums going to J. P. Conley and Mrs. W. M. Bryant.

For a 50-foot group of flowering and decorative plants, Henry Stewart won from four other competitors. He showed a handsome lot of dipladenias and Oncidium flexuosum. George F. Stewart, head gardener for A. T. Lyman, who was second, showed some fine Fuchsia fulgens and standard heliotropes in his group. The W. W. Edgar Co. had a fine group of palms, ferns, speciosum lilies, etc. The Harold A. Ryan Co., in its group, featured caladiums and palms, while H. S. Sears had a fine lot of achimenes and gloxinias.

The Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co. made an attractive display of dahlias and gladioli.

The second day in the basket classes the Boston retailers were out in force and outdid themselves. Competition was keen and the judges, P. Welch, F. E. Palmer, S. J. Goddard and W. N. Craig, had no sinecure in making awards.

For the most artistic basket of gladioli, other flowers and greenery being permissible, a dozen handsome baskets were shown. The Houghton Gorney Co. won with a delightful arrangement. Clematis paniculata was the only other flower used. Sidney Hoffman, who was second, showed exquisite taste in his arrangement. T. F. Galvin, Jr., was third; Penn the Florist, fourth, and H. R. Comley, fifth. All the prize baskets were most artistically arranged.

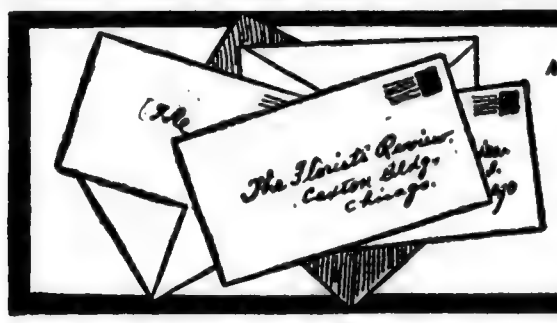
The Houghton Gorney Co. won for basket of asters, with H. R. Comley second and John J. O'Brien third.

For a dahlia basket, the Houghton Gorney Co. was once more in the lead, with a charming arrangement of mostly the decorative and peony-flowered type; second, John J. O'Brien.



Some beautiful baskets of flowers and fruit were shown and nothing could have been more pleasing than the prize arrangement of the Houghton Gorney Co. A croton plant and clusters of gaillardias were used with extremely good taste. Sidney Hoffman had a most beautiful basket of fruit, which

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, H. G. Hastings, Atlanta, Ga.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THERE is a feeling that the general run of seed prices have touched bottom and that a gradual recovery is to be expected.

LAST spring's poor seed demand was directly connected with labor shortage and high wages. Possibly next season a different set of conditions may prevail.

GARDEN-MAKING never appealed to a lazy man and seldom to a worker with a well-filled pocketbook. The seed trade's best seasons have been those of rather more than average unemployment.

IN considering the question of a 5-cent or a 10-cent packet for next season, it is well to remember that the home gardener seldom has room to plant all the seeds in a packet. He will be satisfied with less.

THE annual picnic of the employees of the Chas. H. Lilly Co., of Seattle, Wash., was held recently at Wildwood park, across Lake Washington. Sports were enjoyed during the day and followed by a huge dinner, a minstrel show and dancing until a late hour. Every employee of the company was there.

THE annual house party at the Grass Lake seed farms of the Jerome B. Rice Seed Co. has been called off this year. The excessive rains during the summer months and the cold weather following have about ruined the otherwise interesting melon and vine seed trials. This and the disastrous fire at the farms recently caused the postponement of the gathering till another autumn.

NEWS FROM JAPAN.

A Chicago importer of giganteum bulbs has shown The Review the translation of a cipher cable received September 10 from one of the largest exporters of bulbs at Yokohama. The statement is made in the cable that the present estimate there of the giganteum crop is three million bulbs. It will be remembered that last year's crop was estimated at seven million bulbs. The cable says there are hardly any bulbs of the larger sizes; the 6 to 8 and 7 to 9-inch sizes will constitute about ninety per cent of the crop. Because of the small crop, the bulbs are rapidly passing into the hands of the exporters and the season will close earlier than usual. Growers are demanding even larger prices than last year, though American dealers are exerting pressure to force the market down. Credit is refused; payment must be made before shipment and the American dealer takes all the risks. The losses from sprouting and freezing have been serious during the last few seasons.

LARGE TOTAL OF FRENCH BULBS.

The last three cargoes of French bulbs have shown a steady decrease in the number of cases. The latest cargo of the season was that brought by the steamer Madonna to New York from Marseilles September 8. But the 225 cases brought by the Madonna, added to the 24,543 previously imported, bring the season's total up to 24,768,

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.

Morris S. Smith, of the M. G. Madson Seed Co., Manitowoc, Wis., mentioned the completion of the greenhouse range intended to furnish the store with plants and cut flowers, in addition to the mail order department.

The Paul H. Baermann Seed Co., Milwaukee, Wis., is well pleased with this, its first season in the market garden seed trade.

George H. Hunkel & Co., Milwaukee, had their usual success at the annual state fair. A good season is reported.

W. E. Dallwig, the pioneer seed man, of Milwaukee, Wis., recently experienced the sensation of the settling of the front part of the new building. "We do not propose to sink out of sight; quite the contrary," observed Mr. Dallwig.

The Helms Seed Store, Janesville, Wis., following a successful career of over a half-century, is likely to change ownership. Proprietor Helms recently lost his partner and feels he needs a rest.

The L. L. Olds Seed Co., Madison, Wis., reports business good, but the high cost of production will cause a close scrutiny in the make-up and circulation of catalogues for the coming year.

R. H. Shumway, Rockford, Ill., is 98 years of age and believes he is the oldest active member of the seed trade. He is still to be found on the job, ably assisted by his two sons.

H. W. Buckbee, Rockford, Ill., on the eve of a half-century in the seed trade, is going strong, according to J. T. Buckbee. H. W. Buckbee is enjoying a brief vacation.

"With clover seed $16 per bushel less than at this time last year, members of the trade who have carried over any stock will suffer a serious loss on this item alone," observed W. T. Phillips, of the W. T. Phillips Co., Toledo, O., "and so on through the whole list

TATE'S TIPS

NEED FOR GROWERS' BODY.

Help from New Organization.

The S. A. F. convention held at Cleveland in 1920 is going down in history as accomplishing more benefit for the florists' industry as a whole than any other convention that the society ever held. In years to come you will hear this convention spoken of as the one at which the National Flower Growers' Association was formed.

At the beginning of the life of this new organization it would not be amiss to stop and consider, first, its mission; second, if there is need for such an organization, for the writer recognizes the fact that overorganization is possible in any enterprise, and third, its relation to the parent society. These are the three points on which I have heard arguments advanced for not giving support to this new organization.

As to its need, let me remind you that in the last five years the florists' business has taken strides that have placed it in the front rank of the recognized industries of the country. To be frank, the business has gone beyond the ability of those conducting it. I can hear some of my readers saying this is a ridiculous statement; to such I would quote that old proverb, "Truth is mighty and will prevail." We need only go back to last winter, when the business was in a state of confusion from one end of the country to the other. I heard retailers actually begging for stock to fill orders. The demand was far in excess of the supply. The result was that actual values were not considered. It was a case of everyone getting as much as he could for his stock. Everyone but the grower and the commission man was dissatisfied. In many cases the retailer had to sell his stock at a figure that left him but a small margin of profit, to say nothing of the complaints of the consumers. Right here it is well to remember that this all happened when the financial condition of the country was abnormal. It is a question whether the business will stand such a situation now that financial conditions have returned more nearly to a normal state.

All in Same Boat.

It is clearly the duty of the grower to take every care of the interests of the retailer, for he is the distributor of the stock. When we take into consideration the increase in the cost of production, we must also remember the increase in the cost of distribution; one is just as great as the other. To use Thomas Roland's words, "one cannot rock the boat without imperiling himself as well as the others." To sum up on this point, the fact is that the florists' trade has now reached a position where nothing but the most systematic business methods must be used, both in production and distribution; this is one of the penalties in becoming great. These methods can be best gained by close and systematic organization.

In these days we hear of a florists' labor union in Washington that is part of the American Federation of Labor. A walk-out in all of the greenhouses of the country is not a remote possibility, for labor unions grow quickly.

These are only a few of the needs to be met by this new organization. Have we any organization that is now coping with them? If we have I am not familiar with it.

Forestalling Gluts.

Let us look at the mission of the organization. Part of it is to regulate production. For instance, as I am writing this we are just passing through a gladiolus glut; the finest kind of stock is being sold at a price that hardly pays for the handling of it, to say nothing of the cost of production. But, you will say, how is organization going to remedy this? Well, your business has now reached a stage where, in the large flower centers, a permanent secretary for the local growers' organization should be kept, whose business it would be to know approximately what each of the members was going to grow during a given season and in this way estimate the production of a special line of stock, comparing this estimate with the previous season's market. In this way an immense amount of waste could be eliminated. But I can hear some saying that the writer is a dreamer and asking what flower center could afford to pay a secretary permanently to do such work. I reply that one man cannot fill the position of secretary alone; he will need a staff of assistants.

There is another point to be considered, and that is coöperative buying. For instance, at the organization recently of one of these locals, which the writer attended, this question was gone into; space will only permit me to cite one instance, automobile tires. It was demonstrated by correspondence with one of the most reliable tire factories in the country that $10 could be saved on a single tire; this means $40 on a set. In other words, with such an organization in existence, the companies would be obliged to solicit but one central buying agency instead of the individuals that make up its membership. When we think of coal, fertilizer, hose, insecticides, glazing materials and

Happily Some Of Us Like The Aspen Will Never Grow Up

By mail this morning came a letter from a friend in Colorado enclosing a delightful little bit of printed matter entitled:

"The Aspen Will Never Grow Up," by Enos A. Mills.

It is so full of charm, and withal a moral, that it would be pure selfishness on my part not to share it with you.

So here it is:

"The bare-legged Quaking Aspen, with its restless, childlike ways, is a little tree that is good to know. Look for it with bare-legged children, playing along a brook, or knee-deep among wild flowers. Alone, it seems lonely and trembling, as though just a little afraid in this big, strange world. But generally a number of aspens play together. Their leaves are ever shaking and jumping in the sunshine, or whispering, and listening to secrets in the moonlight. One autumn day I came upon a circle of merry little aspens who were using a grand old pine for a Maypole to dance around. Each little aspen wore its gayest colors.

"Some were in gowns of new-made cloth of gold.

"For an instant their golden leaves were still; they had paused to glance at me; then they romped merrily on, and the old pine stood still in the sunlight.

"The aspen's joyous activity, dancing out of one thing into another, expresses the bounding, boundless hopefulness of youth.

"Never is it serious.

"The aspen will never grow up!"

All of which kind of makes a fellow think that mayhap some of us grow old a long time before we are old.

What a thing it is to keep the crispness, and optimism of youth, tempered just a bit by the wisdom that should come with years!

Flowers being the symbols of youth and happiness, sort of reckon we can sell more flowers if, like the aspen, we never really grow up.

the numerous requirements of the grower, the wonder is that they have so long conducted their business without such an agency. And remember, these are merely modern business methods and can be worked out. In the face of these facts, can anyone truthfully say the National Flower Growers' Association is superfluous? I'll say it is a necessity.

Relation to Parent.

But now let us look at its relation to the S. A. F. Well, it is a child of this organization, and one of its first duties, as that of any normal child, is to honor its parents. As I read over the list of men who dug down into their jeans for $100 each to loan the new organization, the thought struck me that the majority of them, at least, were life members of the S. A. F. It's like the boy who has reached a position in life where he sees an opportunity to better his condition. Does the right-thinking father stand in his way? No; he encourages him in his new venture. Does that boy ever forget his father? He is always ready to help him when he needs it. The S. A. F. needs this organization right now; its greatest asset is threatened, the national publicity campaign. This organization can bring to the parent society a system of collection of funds that will insure the future of this cam-though the downtown retailers report that transient trade is beginning to revive as the society folks return from their summer vacations. Several bargain sales were put on at the various downtown stores, but they did not appeal to the buyers as sales of this kind will later on.

There is a big glut of asters and dahlias and stock of good quality sold cheap in order to make room for new consignments. Gladioli are nearing the end of their season and many of the local growers are cut out of them; still a good number come in from outside points.

Roses are excellent in all varieties and the receipts are so heavy at present that these, too, had low prices. Premier, Russell, Ophelia and Milady of fine quality are seen daily in this market. Carnations are coming along nicely and need cool weather for quality; it is well that the market is not overtaxed with them as long as asters rule the market.

A few chrysanthemums are coming in daily and sell well when good quality is shown. Fine Easter lilies are coming in and many excellent shipments are seen. The market also affords valley of good quality.

All greens have a daily good demand, with equal supply.

at 1 o'clock and arrived at the meeting place at 2 o'clock.

The meeting was held in the big packing room and a large number of members were present when President Hummert called the meeting to order. Every officer, from the president down, was present.

The chair called for final reports of all committees. The trustees reported that they had audited the books of the secretary and treasurer and had found them correct and in splendid condition; also that the next meeting of the club would take place in Kirkwood at the establishment of the W. A. Rowe Co., at the invitation of the president-elect.

The publicity committee reported, through Chairman Bourdet, that it would meet September 14 and arrange for the fall work for the members; also that Hilmer V. Swenson, of Chicago, would be present at this meeting to talk on publicity and advertising as laid out by the Chicago committee.

State Vice-president W. J. Pilcher, of the S. A. F., reported on the trip to the Cleveland convention and said that the plans for transportation as laid out by him had been successfully carried out and that all had a most pleasant trip. H. C. Irish, who had charge of the department of floriculture at the Missouri state fair, at Sedalia, last month, spoke of the fair in general and said that the exhibits in his department were not particularly encouraging and that he looked forward to another year, when larger premiums would insure larger entries.

The committee on the reprinting of the by-laws and of the membership list was given full power to proceed with the work.

Hugo Gross, who sold his greenhouse range recently, tendered his resignation, which was accepted. Edwin Niebling, of the Bergstermann Floral — is a good motto.

"FAIR AND SQUARE"

A "straight talk" from us to you, ought to make us acquainted, if anything will.

On our part, we want to get acquainted with you, because, like yourselves, we are florists. We wish to help you when we can, just as you may wish to help us, when the occasion offers; just as one man or florist should help one another.

Now, Boston is some little town when you come to think of it, they (that means everybody), say that it is the heart of New England (and this is no dream); they also say that New England is the mother and mainstay of horticulture in this glorious country of ours. Surely nowhere are there more or better greenhouse establishments crowded together than right here in New England and especially near and around Boston. Maybe one reason for this are the unexcelled shipping facilities and opportunities for rail and steamship trade.

And in Boston, we ourselves are located in the very heart of the city.

On Tremont street, under Park Street Church, one of the best known landmarks of the city, is our store. On one side is Park street and the historic Commons, a block away is the State House and Beacon street, in another direction Washington and Boylston street. The big hotels, churches, theaters and stores are on every side.

We are proud of our location, but this would not do us or you any good if we did not also have a good reputation for excellent work, fair dealing and prompt shipping. We have gained this reputation by hard work and with the help of a trustworthy, able and faithful staff.

This is the end of our "straight talk" to you. It tells you where, who, and what we are and if it induces you to favor us with the execution of your telegraph orders you will find out that we have told nothing but the truth, and you may rest assured that your order will be attended to as you would wish to have it done.

Co., applied for membership in the club. The committee in charge of membership applications reported favorably upon the following: W. Blair Impson, S. F. Legser, Mrs. F. Richard, Alex Johnson, Jack Weis, Roland Hoerr, Claude Wisley, Frank Hespen and Fred Michel. On motion the secretary cast the ballot for the members present, which duly elected these applicants to membership.

The installation of the officers-elect then took place. President Hummert appointed two former presidents, J. F. Ammann and F. J. Fillmore, installing officers and the following officers-elect were duly installed: President, W. A. Rowe; vice-president, William Ossick; secretary, J. J. Beneke; treasurer, William C. Smith; 3-year trustee, L. Baumann; 2-year trustee, Oscar Ruff, and 1-year trustee, L. J. Bourdet. Ex-president Hummert, in turning the gavel over to the new president, thanked the members for their support during his term of office and hoped that the same would be given to his successor. President Rowe, in turn, thanked the members for having elected him to the office of president and his first official act was to extend a rising vote of thanks to the retiring officers.

Secretary Beneke's report showed that the membership of the club September 1, 1919, was 131 and that during the following twelve months there were eighty-three applicants for membership, making a total of 214. The net gain was seventy-four. During the year the loss in membership was one by death, one by resignation and seven dropped for nonpayment of dues, leaving the total membership to date 205. The total attendance during the year was 697, an average of fifty-eight per meeting.

Treasurer Smith's report showed a healthy balance of $737 in the club's treasury, with $342.50 due the club in dues.

president for eastern Missouri to be made to President-elect Thomas Roland, of the S. A. F., was next acted upon and Ex-president A. H. Hummert was the choice of the members for this office; the secretary was instructed to advise Mr. Roland of the recommendation.

Geo. H. Pring spoke on the convention of the National Association of Gardeners and asked the support of the members in entertaining the delegates.

The attendance prize, a box of cigars donated by the retiring president, A. H. Hummert, was won by P. J. Jablonsky; the cigars were distributed among the members.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to the members of the H. J. Weber & Sons Co. for the afternoon's entertainment.

The meeting then adjourned and the members were invited to a fine spread of good eats, with refreshments and good cigars. A photograph of those present was then taken by H. C. Irish. After an inspection tour through this well kept place, the members started for home. Long will be remembered the 1920 September meeting of the Florists' Club.

Various Notes.

Frank X. Gorly returned last week from a summer trip to the Pacific coast with Mrs. Gorly and is highly enthusiastic over the wonderful sights which he saw and the many good friends in the trade whom he met in his travels. He brought back many novelties for use in the new Washington avenue establishment.

The "Say It with Flowers" bowling league held a meeting at the store of the Windler Wholesale Floral Co. September 8 and completed all details of the arrangements for the opening night, September 15. The recent bridegroom, President Frank A. Windler, presided over the meeting and was showered with congratulations by the members.

H. G. Berning is making extensive improvements by building an addition to the west building; this will give him the much needed floor space to display his large consignments received daily. The upper floors will be fitted up for storage rooms.

John Kern, well known in trade circles, has returned from a year's stay in New Mexico and has taken a position with Vandervoort's floral department.

this season, but, on account of their abundance, the price has been low. Good varieties bring only $3 and $4 per hundred.

Roses have been in good supply. The quality is excellent for this time of year. Ophelia and Columbia continue to predominate. However, some good Russell, Sunburst and Hoosier Beauty are available. A few Killarney and White Killarney are also on display in some of the stores.

Carnations are gradually appearing in larger numbers. Some good Laddie is being shown. The other varieties are of fair-sized bloom, but the stems are none too long.

Easter lilies are scarce. These bring

State Florists' Association Meets.

Occurring during the week of the Indiana state fair, the September meeting of the Indiana State Florists' Association is generally exceptionally well attended, especially by out-of-town members. This year was no exception. The meeting was held the evening of September 9 at the store of the Smith & Young Co.

No new members were proposed. The chairmen for the various committees appointed for the F. T. D. convention made their reports. Everything is progressing nicely for a splendid meeting in this city October 12 and 13. The entertainment committee has planned some unusual features. A large attendance is expected and the housing committee has completed arrangements to take care of the large number.

The pros and cons of the coal situation and the advisability of buying a mine were discussed. The attitudes of the various members differed greatly in regard to the coal question, ranging from one extreme of pessimism to the opposite extreme of optimism. However, no conclusion was reached.

The meeting adjourned early. The

The advance guards of cosmos, dahlias and chrysanthemums have made their appearance, but not in large enough quantities to affect the market in any way. There is one thing quite noticeable, however; that is, from the first offerings of these three flowers, like all other lines of summer stock, they promise to be of finer quality than heretofore.

Roses are in fair supply, and for this season the quality is as good as can be expected. White is still on the short side; indeed, all good varieties are short, but as the demand is greater for white, the shortage is more apparent. Carnations are also beginning to appear, but only in small quantity, and the quality as yet is most variable.

For the next two months there will be no special demand for carnations; there will be plenty of fall flowers to fill all requirements. It might be a good policy to pinch all carnation buds so that strong and vigorous plants might be had when they are wanted.

All of the wholesale houses and the retailers in the center of the city closed half a day September 6, Labor day.

A Tour of the Retailers.

The wholesale houses all report excellent business for this season. A visit to a number of the retail stores verified this statement. Everyone I visited was in the midst of funeral orders, and everyone reports the best business during August in his experience. I inquired as to the class of business done, and the reply in every instance was the same, funeral and hospital work, so that it is quite evident that more flowers are being used for both of these occasions.

On Labor day I paid a visit to a number of the retail stores, and my first stop was at Mary Johnston's. Here I found that Mr. Johnston was confined to his bed, but I was assured it was nothing but a heavy cold, and he was expected to be about in a day or two. Mrs. Johnston and Miss Glenn were as busy as they could possibly be, with funeral work. Both show the benefit of their summer's rest and are preparing for the big season that they both feel confident lies ahead.

At Samuel Feast & Sons, I found Mrs. Fannie Hill and Gilbert Daily both busy on a large funeral order. Mrs. Hill has just returned from her vacation. I did not ask her where she had spent it, but from her appearance one would suppose she had found in her wanderings the spring that Ponce de Leon searched so diligently for. Mrs. Hill, too, is looking forward to an unprecedented business this winter, and this is not all optimism either. She bases her reasons on sound business principles; their summer business has been the best on record, and September, which is one of the most trying months of the season, has so far run ahead of all expectations. Charles Feast stated that a significant fact was the way the business houses were starting out this season to "Say It with Flowers." This firm, which does a large amount of decorating for the department store openings, says that orders are much more elaborate than on former occasions. Hochschild, Kohn &

Co. are using 300 palms alone; some of the largest palms in the firm's range were used. This is the first opening handled by Samuel Feast & Sons this fall, and is only an example of how the business men are waking up to "Say It with Flowers."

Over at John Cook's I found Miss Cook and the entire staff busy with a big order for the Offutt funeral. Miss Cook was quick to say that more flowers are being used for funerals than ever before. For instance, she quoted the fact that the increase in deaths does not account for everyone being so busy with funeral work. Compare the death rate today with that of twenty years ago, and you will find the difference is not so great, but who ever heard of the florists being busy every day in the summer with this class of work then? Or take hospital work. True, there are a greater number of these institutions, and more people now take advantage of hospital service, but there was a time when hospital orders were not considered at all. Miss Cook says her father is enjoying the best of health, getting about the place every day, and is able to give advice on conducting the range. When we remember that this veteran was born in 1833, this is, to say the least, remarkable.

At Wm. J. Halliday's Miss Groves reports business as wonderful for this season of the year. But I am sure that everyone connected with the trade will be sorry to hear that Mr. Halliday is still confined to his bed. For one who has always been so active this must be extremely trying. I am sure I voice the wish of every member of the trade when I say that we all hope he may soon be himself again and that we may have the pleasure of soon welcoming him among his old haunts and friends. Tate.

Richmond, Ky.—M. S. Pontrich has remodeled his greenhouses and installed a new Moninger boiler. His carnations and chrysanthemums are in fine shape and prospects are for an excellent business season. His only complaint is about the price of coal, now $15 a ton.

took second. His flowers, however, were rather too sparse.

For an artistic vegetable basket, Sidney Hoffman beat the Houghton Gorney Co. with a handsome, well arranged basket.

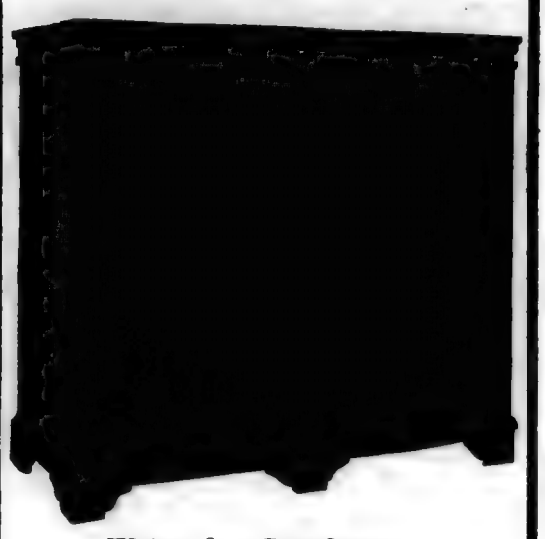
H. R. Comley received honorable mention for old-fashioned bouquets. Matthew F. Ruane, of Waltham, had a fine stand of flowers and plants in one of the tents. On the closing day, when Governor Coolidge attended, a handsome basket of gladioli was presented to the Republican vice-presidential nominee from the horticultural interests of Boston. Waltham has made good and I look to see it do even better and bigger things a year hence.

Various Notes.

The next meeting of the Boston Florists' Association will be held the first week in October.

J. R. Shield, the well known Medford landscape gardener, has charge of all the grading and landscape work on the new Keith Memorial park, Brockton, the estimated cost of which is over $200,000.

Penn furnished a handsome blanket of Ophelia roses and many other designs for the funeral of a prominent Dorchester man September 12.



The next exhibition at Horticultural hall will occur September 26 and 27. It is the annual fruit and vegetable show, but many seasonable flowers will also be shown.

Donald McKenzie is back from a two months' trip to England and Scotland. He experienced wet weather while away. In visiting leading orchid establishments, like Louis Sander's and Charlesworth's, he found stock in surprisingly good condition.

Meetings of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club will resume September 21 and a large attendance is looked for. There will be vacation experiences from members who have visited Europe, Canada and various points in the United States. Samuel Knowles, of the Norfolk Agricultural School, will give a practical lecture on poultry and tell members how to secure maximum egg production while prices are high.

John K. M. L. Farquhar returned from Europe this week after a most enjoyable trip in several countries and speaks most entertainingly of horticulture abroad.

Thomas H. Meade, the well known representative of the Fottler, Fiske, Rawson Co., is slowly recovering from a painful injury to a nerve in his right leg. His many friends in the trade will be pleased to see him around again.

Elmer E. Randall, formerly with McManmon's, of Lowell, and A. C. Burrage, Beverly Farms, has accepted the superintendency of the estate of Mrs. H. C. Frick, Prides Crossing.

The Houghton Gorney Co. is receiving many congratulations on its remarkable success at the Waltham fair, where, in the face of keen competition, this firm captured four first prizes and one second prize on five entries September 10.

A letter received by the writer from Andrew Christensen, of Stoneham, who is on a visit to his aged mother in Sweden, states that he spent several days in Great Britain, including a whole day at Kew gardens, which he found as interesting and attractive as ever.

The high cost of living, with the advances in the prices of all materials, is responsible for an advance in stall rentals at the Boston Flower Exchange, which will soon go into force.

Frank Edgar is growing fewer chrysanthemums in benches this season, but he has a grand lot of Boston and other ferns. His big cyclamen house is a perfect picture, while poinsettias and begonias are extremely good.

Visitors last week included John C. Wister, president of the American Iris Society; A. F. Faulkner, New York, and Miss M. E. Pomeroy, of Orene, near the Mexican border in Texas. Miss Pomeroy was much interested in the Boston dahlia exhibition. She considers Texas a great country and is a large grower of cannas for the wholesale trade. W. N. C.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Large shipments of chrysanthemums from San Francisco and other places around the bay have helped out the locally grown stock. Most of these are yellow and arrive in good condition, but the pinks and whites are poor as yet. Local Golden Glow is fine and some Monrovia is in. October Frost is poor, even for this kind, and there will be a scarcity of good shipping stock for some time.

Dahlias are still arriving in good condition and are useful for decorative work. The new-crop carnations are an improvement on those recently arriving and, with the cooler weather in the desert sections, shipping trade will doubtless improve.

Retailers all report good business and say that they have not felt the summer dullness nearly so much as in former years. Plants are scarce and poor in quality, but the demand is slight.

Various Notes.

It is always a pleasure to look around Ed. Rust's nursery, at South Pasadena, the air of cleanliness and order being always apparent. Just now Mr. Rust is busy with Phœnix canariensis, of which he has a big stock in all sizes. He is shipping two carloads of palms to New York this week, the demand from the east, as well as locally, being good. His stock of Cocos plumosa in large sizes for landscape work is one of the finest on the coast.

Several useful greenhouses have been added to the equipment at Groen's nursery, at Montebello, and they are already filled with choice young stock of ferns, cyclamens and other plants. Outdoors the gladioli, delphiniums and other varieties of cut flowers are looking well and the whole place is neat and well kept. W. Clark has his residence finished and is living in it.

Fred Westrem, who has been associated with Wright's Flower Shop for fifteen years, is going into business for himself at 404 South Hill street, having purchased the business run for several years by Brown the Florist. This is a fine location near one of the Pacific Electric depots and Mr. Westrem should do well, even with transient trade. He intends to make some improvements in the store and to put in a choice line of stock. Well known and respected in the trade, Mr. Westrem goes into business with the best wishes of everyone, including his present employers. He will open there October 1.

The Alexandria Florist reports fine business. Manager George Eischen says that the quality of the chrysanthemums and roses coming from the north is extra fine.

The L. A. Floral Co. is handling big consignments of green moss from Washington and Oregon.

Besides their "Suntested" seeds, R. G. Fraser & Son, of Pasadena, are handling the florists' end of the seeds for J. Bodger & Sons Co., thus having the almost unlimited supply of fine seed raised by the latter well known firm.

Purdie & Co. have made several alterations in their store and business is good. Their windows are always attractive.

A. Knopf has returned to his desk at the offices of the Redondo Floral Co. and looks fit and sunburned after his vacation. He and A. F. Borden agree that they never had such a summer's business in the history of their firm.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The Market.

The shipping of chrysanthemums is the big factor in the San Francisco market at present. The first refrigerator car, which left September 1, carried a number of consignments of mums, as well as vegetables. The date of the weekly car service has been changed by the express company. Hereafter, if the present schedule continues, the refrigerator car will leave this city every Friday evening. The car goes via Ogden, Cheyenne, Omaha and Chicago, to New York. It leaves at 6:40 p. m. and is attached to the second section of the Union Pacific fast train. It is hoped that enough flowers may soon be shipped to secure a semiweekly service.

Roses have gone up somewhat in price. The cost of chrysanthemums will, it is expected, come down in about a week. Dahlias have been having their day in display windows, as the dahlia show at the Palace hotel has given them much publicity. Their lack of shipping qualities, however, confines dahlias chiefly to the local market.

Dahlia Show.

The best dahlia exhibits ever seen in California drew record crowds to the fifth annual dahlia show, which was held at the Palace hotel under the auspices of the California Dahlia Asso-

HOW TO RAISE CASH

NEW ZINNIA, DAHLIA-FLOWERED
Novelty of our own recent introduction. It is a sure winner commercially. Flowers the exact type and size of the Giant Show Dahlia; 6-8 inches in diameter; 7 new colors and shades unknown to Zinnias heretofore. Trade pkt., 500 seeds, $1.00.

Improved Centaurea Cyanus, Double—(Fraser's True Blue). The color of this charming centaurea is the best blue yet. This strain is fixed, and is highly desired by the Florist Trade. Trade pkt., 1000 seeds, $1.00.

Eventually every Florist will plant Fraser's "Sun-tested" California Asters, Delphiniums and Zinnias.

ASTER AMERICAN BEAUTY—(new colors mixed).—A neighbor wholesale grower, John Bodger, has become famous for his American Beauty Asters. We are handling his seed for the Florist Trade. It is the greatest Aster novelty of the twentieth century, and will stand the test of time. Trade pkt., 1000 seeds, $1.00.

ROBERT G. FRASER & SON, Seed Growers, PASADENA, CALIF.

ciation, September 2 to 4. There was marked enthusiasm over the exhibits, which were most artistically displayed, ferns and palms being used as a background to bring out the vivid coloring of the dahlias. Many devotees of the dahlia attended every day's exhibit. The gate receipts amounted to $2,301.

The committee in charge of the show was headed by J. W. Davies, president of the Dahlia Society of California. He also acted as show manager. Other members of the committee were F. C. Burns, secretary; Frank D. Pelicano, treasurer, and the following directors: H. Hennig, Mrs. Jessie Seal, Mrs. Bessie Boston, A. Twitchet and R. Lohrman.

The west corridor of the Palace hotel and several rooms, including the west banquet room, were given over to the display, which ran from ordinary garden stock to the latest varieties. Gold medals were awarded to Frank D. Pelicano, for the best general display for effect; to Mrs. Jessie Seal, for the most meritorious display; to J. W. Davies and Mrs. H. T. Hennig. Frank D. Pelicano was also awarded the Almond Growers' Exchange blue diamond trophy. The special prize donated by Dr. Harry Tevis for the best dahlia in the show was awarded to an unnamed seedling grown by Mrs. Jessie Seal.

Prizes for exhibits coming from the farthest point for exhibition were awarded to Alex Waldie and the Advance Dahlia Gardens, both of Los Angeles. Special awards were also won by R. Lohrman, of San Rafael; Harold Butler, the Hallawell Seed Co., and the Fruitvale Dahlia Gardens. The prize for the most artistically arranged display, won by Joseph's, was put up by G. Wagner.

Other prize-winners in the trade were the Star Dahlia Farm, Peterson & Hayward, Art Floral Co., Cyprus Lawn Cemetery and Golden Gate Dahlia Gardens.

Various Notes.

Gen. A. J. Gooch took advantage of the summer season to close his place of business and take a long automobile trip with Mrs. Gooch. He has just returned full of enthusiasm for the journey, which embraced Eureka and Crescent City, along the state highway. General and Mrs. Gooch then crossed the divide to Grants Pass, Ore., and visited Crater lake. They came back by the new road, via Susanville, Truckee and Kit Carson Pass, down to Jackson. General Gooch has a paper pattern, an exact duplicate of a trout he caught at Rocky Point, in Klamath lake, which he says offers the finest trout fishing in the world. This trout was over two feet in length and wide in proportion. General Gooch reached home in time to ship out chrysanthemums by the first refrigerator car.

The E. W. McLellan Co. reports it could ship many more chrysanthemums if refrigerator cars were more frequent. The company is doing excellent business, however, with the service as it is.

"We expect to do a tremendous chrysanthemum business this fall," stated J. A. Axell. "We have a number of standing orders and our regular business is good."

Enomoto & Co. are shipping many orders of chrysanthemums to points as far east as New Orleans. This firm also reports a number of orders on strawflowers. An especially good shipping variety of the latter is the strawberry-colored gomphrena.

The United Flower & Supply Co. has just received a big consignment of baskets and straw mats from Japan. Henceforth all kinds of supplies, including tape, will be carried. Chrysanthemums are the main business just now.

Joseph's is displaying some artistic pine flowers, which they manufacture from California pine cones. These ornaments are strikingly effective when combined with fall foliage.

Podesta & Baldocchi have been kept busy by funerals during the last week.

Manager Louis J. Capurro, of the MacRorie-McLaren Co., states that his firm has been busy with wedding decorations. The landscape department on both sides of the bay is much occupied just now. Fred Hammerstrom, of the landscape department, is receiving the congratulations of his friends on the arrival of a fine baby boy.

The Terminal Florist, on the Embarcadero, is doing a great deal of work in connection with the Admission day parade of Native Sons and Daughters. El Capitan, a parlor of Native Sons, and the Dorino parlor of Native Daughters have their float in this florist's hands. The Misses Hannon store, on Sutter street, is also participating in float decorations.

San Francisco dahlia growers will participate in the Los Angeles dahlia show, at the Hotel Alexandria, September 23 and 24. M. M.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

Increased offerings of fall flowers, better transient business as the result of the reopening of schools, bringing families back into town from their summer residences, and generally satisfactory growing conditions sum up the last week locally. There has been an increase in the cut of both dahlias and mums, the fine weather has led to no reduction on gladioli, and rubrum lilies and asters are still coming in freely. Funeral work continues to be the trade's life-saver.

There was a general observance of the Labor day holiday among the local florists, all of them closing for a half-day and several of the shops not opening on Monday morning beyond the hour or so necessary to fill funeral orders already booked. The funeral September 7 of one of the city's laber leaders gave every shop a chance to use its older stock and start the real trading week in good style.

Golden Glow mums and several of the larger white varieties are being shown by outdoor growers. Each day sees an increase in the varieties of dahlias on the market, Cherokee and Miss Warren being two of the finest added during the last week.

There has been a steady increase in the cuts of roses of late, with the new Butterfly stock making an especially fine showing. Dunlop also is of fine grade, while one grower has been delivering some of the best Russell seen here this season. Ophelia and Columbia are also coming to hand in nice shape and growers all agree there will be plenty of Crusader this year. There has been some decline in the cuttings of Ulrich Brunner, with Cecile Brunner just about normal.

The local cut of orchids is falling off, and several growers say it is now at the low mark of this season. However, there is only a limited demand. Gardenias are in much heavier supply.

Snapdragon is in small supply, although of fine color. Zinnias, calendulas

RANUNCULUS
IMPROVED GIANT HYBRIDS

A splendid strain of Ranunculus for florists' use brought to perfection after many years of careful selection, producing over 75 per cent double and semi-double flowers in the most pleasing colors; showing stems from 18 to 30 inches long; an excellent cut flower and a good keeper, also highly desirable for bedding. We have grown this variety several seasons, for the cut-flower market, and consider it one of our most profitable crops. Our books show that flowers from this strain brought $4.00 per 100 on the Los Angeles market.

and coreopsis are popular. There are a few water lilies still being received.

Various Notes.

Ernest Meyers, for some time in charge of the Hollywood Gardens greenhouses and one of the best known growers in the northwest, has branched out in business for himself. He is putting up greenhouses in the Rainier valley. He has been succeeded by Charles Tabel, who recently came here from Kansas City.

The Woodlawn Flower shop showed a most effective Labor day window, designed and installed by Robert Simmons. At the back of the window an arch and tablet painted to represent marble were erected. The tablet was inscribed "In Honor of the Great American Workingman" and announced "His Achievements: Pennsylvania Railroad, Panama Canal, Woolworth Building, Lincoln Highway, Battleship New Mexico, Brooklyn Bridge." Various combination baskets were grouped in the foreground.

Silvio Rosaia, of San Francisco, is in the northwest visiting his brothers. He will probably be here the greater part of a month, as he plans to spend most of his vacation here. Rosaia Bros. attracted attention in their window last week by the use of a full-grown grapefruit tree mounted in a large tub, with a considerable quantity of fruit practically ripe.

Miss Wharton, of the Hollywood Gardens, has returned from a month's vacation trip to points about San Francisco bay. This firm is showing some nice asters and Golden Glow mums and will soon have Crusader roses of its own growing.

Tom Rhoades, formerly with the Woodlawn Flower Shop, has returned from an extended eastern stay and, after a vacation trip, will resume work in a local shop.

The Woodlawn Park Floral Co. is sending in some nice Russell and Columbia roses. The Orpheum Floral Co. has been featuring Russell roses with good results.

Anna J. Burns, of the Burns Floral Co., was recently a visitor at Olympia, where she went on business. H. M.

Pullman, Wash. — H. Hoffman, of Cromwell, Conn., a graduate of Cornell University, has been appointed florist for the Washington State College and will assume his new work at once.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

ACCOUNT of the death of Gerald L. Holsinger, president of Holsinger Bros., Rosedale, Kan., appears in the obituary column of this issue.

FRIENDS of Adolph Muller, owner of the De Kalb Nurseries, Penn Square, Philadelphia, who left with a friend the latter part of July for a big game hunt in Alaska, have received word that the pair, accompanied by a guide, have gone to the head of the Donjek and White rivers, where the hunting is expected to begin. They plan to be gone about six months.

VIGOROUS protests against the imposition of blanket restrictions on shipments from the states of New Jersey and Pennsylvania on account of the Japanese beetle were made at Washington September 10 by nurserymen's representatives. President Lloyd Stark and Secretary John Watson, of the A. A. N., both were in attendance. Full account of the hearing appears on another page of this issue.

PARK SUPERINTENDENTS MEET.

Elect Officers in Louisville.

In the concluding session of the convention of the American Association of Park Superintendents, held in the Seelbach hotel, Louisville, Ky., September 9 to 11, the following officers were elected: President, Henry W. Busch, superintendent of parks, Detroit, Mich.; vice-president, Julius V. Burgevin, New York; secretary-treasurer, Emmett P. Griffin, East St. Louis, Ill. Mr. Busch, who had previously been vice-president, succeeds John W. Thompson, of Seattle. Mr. Griffin, who is editor of Parks and Recreation, the official publication of the organization, was reëlected. Walter Wright, Chicago, and Charles W. Davis, Memphis, were elected members of the board of directors for 3-year terms, succeeding George W. Hess, Washington, D. C., and Edward R. Mack, Wilmington, Del. Detroit, Mich., was selected as the place for the 1921 convention.

Membership Dues Increased.

Resolutions were adopted by the association increasing the annual dues of members from $5 to $10 and of sustaining members to $25, also contributing $100 to the committee on horticultural nomenclature to carry on its work.

In an address on "The Duties of a Park Superintendent," Theodore Wirth, superintendent of parks, Minneapolis, Minn., said that the usual salary of an efficient park superintendent was not in accordance with his services; Mr. Wirth, however, added that the superintendent keenly interested in his profession would find an abundant compensation in the realization of the benefits derived from his efforts.

The members of the association made automobile trips inspecting the various parks and the grounds of the Audubon Country Club. They also made a sunset excursion up the Ohio river on the steamer America. After the convention was over, some of the members made a party to visit Mammoth cave, some left for St. Louis to attend the convention of the National Association of Gardeners and a few went up to Evansville, Ind., where the Indiana park superintendents were in session September 13.

CEMETERY SUPERINTENDENTS.

Most of the sessions of the convention of the American Association of Cemetery Superintendents September 7 to 10 were held in Hamilton, Ont., but for the concluding session, when much business was accomplished, the association went to Toronto.

The papers presented to the association included one on "Landscape Design in Cemeteries," by H. B. Dunnington-Grubb, a landscape architect of Toronto; one on "Winter Work in the Cemetery," by P. C. Caldwell, superintendent of Hollywood cemetery, Brookline, Mass., and one on "Stonework in the Cemetery," by J. C. Scorgle, superintendent of Mount Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, Mass.

Those who attended the convention were taken to inspect several cemeteries in Hamilton and Toronto. They also had an evening sail on Lake Ontario and an informal banquet, "Dutch treat" style, at the Royal Connaught hotel, Hamilton. Superintendent S. L. Landers, of Hamilton, had a large share in making the local plans for the convention.

GYPSY MOTH ALARMS F. H. B.

Brought up at Beetle Hearing.

The gypsy moth has made its appearance in New Jersey and New York, and Dr. C. L. Marlatt, chairman of the Federal Horticultural Board, states that the probabilities are that the board will at an early date issue a call for a public hearing in Washington on the subject. Dr. Marlatt laid the situation before those attending the hearing at Washington on the Japanese beetle order, September 10, stating that he would take advantage of the presence of the nurserymen and growers to hold an informal hearing and to outline the situation to them.

A. F. Burgess, who has charge of the board's work in New England, said that about July 1 his office received word that a colony of gypsy moths had been found on the Duke estate in New Jersey and that about the same time a colony had been found at Brooklyn, N. Y. The Brooklyn infestation does not appear serious and the state authorities are handling it, he said, but the situation on the Duke estate was a much more serious one.

This estate is near Summerville, N. J., and comprises about 2,500 acres and is owned by J. B. Duke. During the last seven years shipments of trees or plants have been made from the estate to sixteen states and the District of Columbia, and efforts have been made to trace and investigate them.

New England Funds Scant.

Mr. Burgess said that there are practically no funds on hand for extermination or suppression work, and he directed attention to the fact that the estimate for work in connection with the gypsy moth in New England had been cut from $400,000 to $250,000 and that the work in the New England states was being seriously retarded.

Thomas J. Headlee, state entomologist of New Jersey, advised Dr. Marlatt that he was forming an organization to secure $100,000 to meet the outbreak on the Duke estate, and that as the state legislature was in session, there was every prospect that the money would be forthcoming, as the governor had a fund of $250,000 for such purposes, but it would require legislative action.

Mr. Burgess estimated that it would take $400,000 to undertake a plan of extermination in New Jersey and that all the department now had at its disposal was $250,000 and this was not sufficient for New England.

Dr. Marlatt said that the board was already receiving letters on the subject and was beginning to regard it as an emergency situation and one that might become serious. Mr. Headlee stated that at the present time shipments from an area surrounding the Duke estate were under an arrangement between the state authorities and the shippers which provided for inspection and certification. This was informal, Mr. Headlee said.

Dr. Marlatt stated that additional information would be secured, when a call for a public hearing would be issued by the board looking to the issuance of orders to prevent the spread of the moth from the Duke estate and also to cover places which may have become infested as the result of shipments from the estate.

George G. Atwood, director of the bureau of plant industry, New York, in the course of the informal hearing said that five years ago in Westchester county the sum of $250,000 was spent on 1,000 acres in exterminating the gypsy moth by spraying the trees and surrounding earth and rocks and also in burlapping the trees.

Mr. Headlee, in response to questions by Dr. Marlatt, said that he had conferred with Mr. Duke as to what he proposed to do in connection with the outbreak on his estate and that he was not at liberty at the present time to make public what Mr. Duke's intentions were. However, it was intimated that money to be spent by Mr. Duke would be contingent on the amount spent by the state or the federal government. T. O. M.

NEW VIOLET "DUCHESS"

This is a great improvement on Princess of Wales—Deeper shade and more uniform, also a much better and surer producer and better keeper and shipper, also more fragrant. General appearance when bunched away ahead of other varieties. Exceptionally easy to propagate. Should be planted in the beds earlier than Princess.

It will pay you to go in for DUCHESS. And DO IT NOW—before this fine lot is all grabbed up. We offer large, field-grown clumps of DUCHESS, and the other ones as follows:

WIZARD BRAND

Shredded Cattle Manure

is selected quality manure taken from brick paved Stock Yard cattle pens—dried and sterilized by a high temperature direct heat process which kills weed seeds, fungus and disease germs. Packed in 100 lb. bags in coarse shredded form for mulching or top-dressing. Largely used for mixing with bench and potting soil and liquid manuring. Unequaled for lawn and garden fertilizing.

Insist on WIZARD BRAND through your supply house or write us direct.

THE PULVERIZED MANURE CO., 33 Union Stock Yards, CHICAGO

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

Supply and demand are about evenly balanced; both have been good. Outdoor flowers form the greater part of the receipts. Asters are the leading flowers, with the best types in their glory. Gladioli are not so plentiful as they have been, although they are a good second in importance. Dahlias are just beginning; a few blooms of choice varieties are setting a high standard. Cosmos has come, also fall delphiniums. Hydrangeas add decorative variety. The acquisitions to the indoor list are carnations and Golden Glow chrysanthemums. Roses are getting few now.

Various Notes.

Columbus florists are busy with funeral work and weddings. These are taking all the flowers that can be had. The Fifth Avenue Floral Co. had much funeral work and about five weddings last week. This company is making many improvements in the range, putting in a new heating system, building a larger coal house, making all new benches and putting on black glazing cement.

The seventieth annual Ohio state fair was held in Columbus recently and was the largest ever held. The Fifth Avenue Floral Co. had the largest showing in cut flowers and plants and took a large number of prizes, including first prize for the dining table, on which were used, besides the table settings, Ophelia roses, orchids and maidenhair fern. The Indianola Floral Co., the Munk Floral Co., Helm Bros. and the Rolf Zetlitz Co. each took a number of prizes.

James McKellar and his wife have motored to Chicago and are visiting his brother, Charles McKellar.

T. J. Ludwig had the family blanket for the funeral of Mrs. Bush, who was recently killed in an automobile accident in the east. Other firms which had much work in connection with that funeral were the Munk Floral Co., the Fifth Avenue Floral Co., Underwood Bros., E. Metzmaier, McKellar's, S. F. Stephens & Son and the Franklin Park Floral Co. W. F. F.

Greenhouse Heating

Subscribers are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

EXTENDING SYSTEM.

Will you please give me a heating plan for a greenhouse 25x100 feet, which is ten and one-half feet high to the ridge and is all glass except the north end, which adjoins the boiler room. The eaves are six feet high. There are 4-foot benches along the side walls and at the south end, with two benches in the middle.

The house is to be heated with a Wilks hot water boiler, 30x48, which can be sunk in a pit of desired depth. A temperature of 60 degrees is wanted in zero weather. A wood partition runs across the house thirty feet from the boiler room. This section of the house is piped with a 1½-inch pipe on each eave. The two pipes almost meet at the center of the partition and are highest at this point. There is a drop here to two 1-inch pipes under the benches. There is also a 1-inch pipe connected to the 1½-inch pipe at the north end of the house that runs two lines on each side wall. They are all connected to the returns, which are the same in size as the flow pipes. The expansion tank is connected to one of the flow pipes close to the boiler and the bottom of the tank is twenty inches higher than the highest pipe in the house.

This system has given entire satisfaction, and I should like to pipe the remaining seventy feet and not disturb this any more than would be necessary to get the best results. This house has been heated with a 24x42 Wilks boiler. R. P. F.

I am not able to make out just how the north thirty feet are piped, but if I have made no mistake, there are two 1-inch returns under each of the four benches and two upon each of the side walls. I understand that there is a 1½-inch flow pipe upon each wall, besides one or two 1-inch pipes which supply the wall coils.

I suggest not to extend the present system so as to heat the full length of the house, owing to the small size of the pipes, even though they give good results in a house thirty feet long. It will be possible to put in a heating system in the south seventy feet of the house without disturbing the present system, although the main flow and return pipes will pass through the north part of the house. For the south part of the house I suggest that you use five 2-inch flow pipes and ten 1½-inch returns. It would be possible to take out the flow pipes now in the north end of the house and connect each of the coils with the mains leading to the south part of the house by means of a 1½-inch pipe.

The flow pipes should be run down-

Heat Your Houses with Kroeschell Boilers

YOU'LL BE HAPPIER
YOU'LL BE RICHER

TO THE MAN WHO NEEDS A BOILER

"The customer's interest first"—is the basis of the KROESCHELL standard. This principle makes the KROESCHELL Policy the most liberal of all in the Greenhouse Boiler business. The great variety of boilers that we make places us in a commanding position. It is the KROESCHELL principle to supply only the type of boiler best suited for the conditions. For this reason we always furnish the most efficient boiler unit in every case.

TELEGRAPH ORDERS AT OUR EXPENSE

The KROESCHELL has proven its worth in many of the large establishments in this country. It has frequently been selected by the most careful buyers in competition with all other types of boilers. Its efficiency and capacity are completely beyond any other boiler.

KROESCHELL BOILERS have no bulky, soot accumulating surfaces—you avoid the disagreeable work and trouble indispensable to cleaning boilers with complicated and tortuous back and forth passages.

The superiority of our boilers has resulted in the removal and abolishment of hundreds of cast iron sectional boilers—in every instance KROESCHELL BOILERS give more heat with the same piping with less fuel.

hill and the highest part of each flow should be connected with the expansion tank. A 24x42 Wilks boiler should be able to give sufficient heat to two houses of that size. It will be helpful if the top of the boiler can be placed below the lower ends of the returns.

USING NATURAL GAS.

I have a small coldframe, 14x18 feet, having a door and walks so that I am able to stand up under the glass. I wish to winter over several hundred geraniums. In the spring of the year I use an oil heater to keep the temperature from the freezing point, but it would not be sufficient here in winter. Would it be possible to use natural gas in a stove, or stoves, with a pipe to carry off the fumes, without injury to the plants? L. J. S.—Pa.

If it were possible to burn the natural gas without allowing any of it to escape into the house, it would be an excellent fuel for the purpose mentioned, but I have never seen it done. If a small amount of gas escaped it would be seriously injurious, though geraniums would be injured less than most plants.

To heat the house I should suggest the use of a small hot water boiler, rated for 100 to 125 square feet of radiation. With one 1½-inch flow pipe below the ridge and four 1¼-inch pipes on each wall, there should be no difficulty in maintaining the required temperature. The heater may be in the cellar of an adjoining building, but in that case the connecting pipes should be covered with some insulating material. Allowances should be made for the extra piping in the selection of the heater.

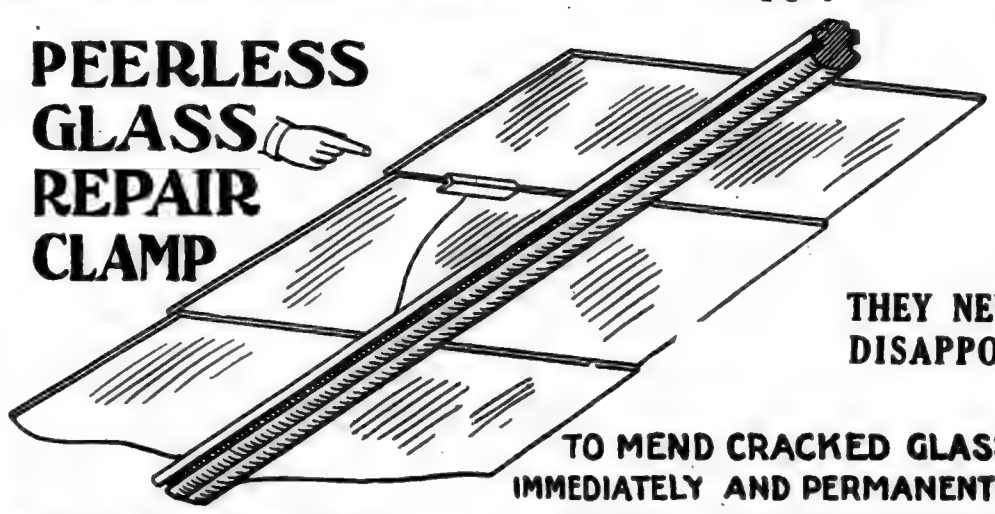
Florists Organize.

The florists of Cumberland county, Me., held a meeting with Alexander Skillin last week and during the afternoon enjoyed a ball game. Each florist and his family carried a picnic lunch and enjoyed coffee and corn prepared by Mr. Skillin and his wife.

After supper the florists elected a chairman and proceeded to organize a florists' club and elect officers. The officers elected were: President, George H. Meloon; vice-president, Alex Skillin; secretary, Mrs. Allen; treasurer, Howard Blanchard. The committee on by-laws includes Alex Skillin, L. B. Miller and Mason Vose. The committee on publicity and membership is Mrs. Minnie Smith, Clarence Minott and Morris Leighton. The committee on program is Mrs. Alex Skillin, George Minott and Niles Nelson.

The committees are to report at a meeting sometime during September, to be held with the firm of Dyer & Small, at South Portland. G. H. M.



NEWPORT, R. I.

Alexander MacLellan has returned from Youngstown, O., where he went to attend the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of his uncle and aunt. An interesting incident of the occasion was the meeting of the four MacLellan brothers—Alexander, of Newport; Robert L., of New York; Richard, of Lincoln, Neb., and William, of Youngstown. Alexander and William had not met for thirty-eight years.

Mrs. John T. Allan was elected president of the newly organized Newport Emblem Club. W. H. M.

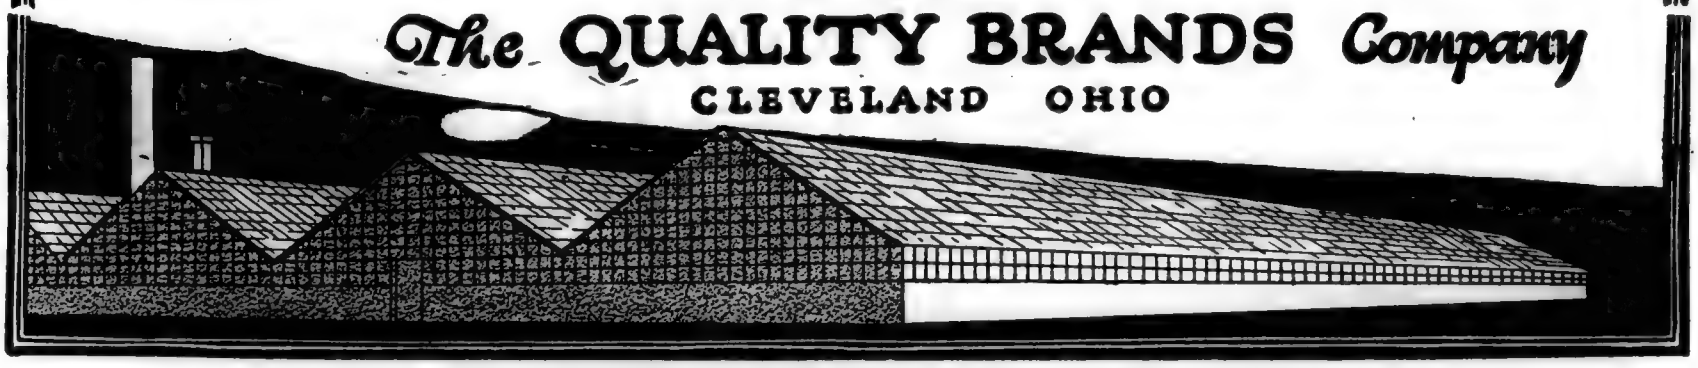
VITAPLASTIC
GLAZING COMPOUND

Some Day We Hope That Your Greenhouses Will Prove This Little Talk

After several barrel tests, the big F. R. Pierson greenhouses, located at Tarrytown, New York, decided to "cover 'em all" with VITAPLASTIC GLAZING COMPOUND.

That was last year.



Well, the "cover 'em all" order went through and we figured we were through for a good many years ourselves, BUT last week another "cover 'em all" order showed up and we started worrying. What's wrong with Vitaplastic?

Then Mr. Pierson told us he had taken over another big range of glass and, of course, wanted Vitaplastic.

If your greenhouses are not absolutely tight, and you contemplate doing any glazing work and saving yourself some greenback money on coal, write us and we will gladly tell you why a Vitaplastic user will say to you, "Cover 'em all" with Vitaplastic.

Our Service Department will be glad to serve you and help you with your paint and glazing problems

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

It continues to rain and trade remains dull. However, a comparison with last year shows the first ten days of the month ahead in the volume of sales. There is scarcely anything doing except funeral work, with an occasional order for the sick room. It is well that the demand is light, as the supply of stock is rather low at this time. Dahlias are the main dependence. There is not a surplus of them, but, despite the unfavorable weather, the quality is good. There is only a fair offering of roses, and these are cleaned up daily.

Various Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Trobaugh, Morristown, Tenn., were in Knoxville last week. While here they purchased a cash register and other fixtures for their store. They reported a fair trade, with good prospects for fall and winter business. This firm operates two stores, one in Morristown and one in Greeneville, Tenn. Mr. Rhea has charge of the Greeneville store and greenhouses, while Mr. Trobaugh has the management of the Morristown establishment. They are hustlers and are building up a good business in upper eastern Tennessee.

Asbestfalt

An Elastic Cement That Expands and Contracts With the Weather

Make your greenhouse weather-tight with Asbestfalt, the elastic cement that never gets hard, cracks or peels in cold weather or runs in hot weather.

You can't get anything better no matter how much more you pay. The ingredients are of the purest; weighs but 10 pounds to the gallon.

With the scarcity of coal and its high prices, the careful application of Asbestfalt will more than pay for itself by keeping your greenhouse air-tight.

To insure best results, apply Asbestfalt with our Liquid Putty Machine, price $2.00. With every barrel purchase of Asbestfalt, one machine free.

CLEVELAND, O.

The Market.

The market last week tightened up slightly, but not enough to make a great difference. Roses are coming in much more plentifully than before, but other stock, such as asters and gladioli, are becoming slightly scarcer and poorer in quality. The first chrysanthemums of the season made their appearance; they were few and small, but still they were mums. Gladioli are not nearly so good as heretofore. The first carnations made their appearance this week, being poor and short of stem.

Various Notes.

Miss Charlotte Megchelsen, formerly with Wm. H. Temblett, has opened a store at 1983 East One Hundred and Fifth street.

The trade heard with regret news of the death of Miss Wyckoff, of the Wyckoff Floral Co., Chagrin Falls, O. Miss Wyckoff was a sister of the late Mr. Wyckoff and kept store for him until her death.

George Semones is back from a two weeks' tour through Canada and reports a splendid time.

Fred Steinbrenner has returned from a trip to Detroit.

Steve Berthold has left for a two weeks' fishing and hunting trip.

What HENRY F. MICHELL COMPANY writes about MELROSINE:

Philadelphia, Pa., August 21, 1920

The Garden Chemical Company.

Gentlemen:

I am pleased to say a good word for Melrosine, the rose-bug destroyer. I have used this preparation in my rose garden. The first application killed all the bugs that came in contact with this. During this spring I gave them two applications, and I had the best roses for many years past.

I believe we bought two lots of Melrosine from you, and a large number of customers reported to us that Melrosine is the best rose-bug destroyer they have ever used, and will use same again in the spring of 1921.

Yours truly,

HENRY F. MICHELL COMPANY,

MELROSINE—It Kills Rose-Bugs

Our policy will be to sell at wholesale only —except for introductory purposes—allowing dealers a liberal discount and co-operating by extensive advertising.

Contracts are now being entered for next season's initial stocks, and dealers now ordering will be assured of delivery.

Let Melrosine make money for you. Now is the time to get in line.

There is no substitute for Advance Ventilating Apparatus and Greenhouse Fittings

Thousands of Florists buy what they require in this line from us. There is certainly a reason. Don't you think it would pay to investigate? We are always willing to explain.

Just think for a moment about the numerous places around your establishment where a neat fitting would improve the appearance of your place 50% to 100%. There are circumstances of this particular type in every greenhouse plant. Any one of your employees could attach the part if you had it.

Now, while you are looking around, make a memorandum of these places and what you need. Send the list to us and we will see that the material is immediately sent forward.

We know that these facts are true, and the sooner you install these fittings, the better for you and your products. Understand that no big expense is attached to making these so-called repairs.

It would be well to have one of our catalogues before you when making this memorandum. Write for one today.

Greenhouse Builders

A glimpse in Baldwin's Iron Frame orchid house, built to meet ideas of his own.

Speaking of Orchids
What Do You Know About
The Baldwin Way of Doing Business?

Yesterday I ran across a letter from the G. E. Baldwin Co., of Mamaroneck, N. Y., that opened my eyes to what modern merchandising methods are now being applied to the greenhouse business.

It was a letter to a prospective orchid buyer. The last clause of the letter stated that: "Purchasers are reminded that they run no risk in sending orders by letter, telegram or 'phone, as we supply all orders on the distinct condition that, should any plants sent not be found equal to description, or in any way not satisfactory, they may at once be returned."

How's this for a square deal?
Look's like Baldwin had come to the conclusion that his business was equally divided between selling orchids and selling satisfaction.

It's evident that you don't have to be an orchid expert to buy satisfaction from Baldwin. He sells you the orchids and gives you the satisfaction.

Along with that letter I saw, was a loose leaf catalogue of orchids that looked to me like it would make an orchid buyer's mouth water.
When I mentioned this to an orchid fancier, he remarked: "Those Baldwin people certainly have some choicey things. They had nerve enough to buy up some of the finest private collections during the war times, when everybody was panicky about coal.
"Because they had the nerve to buy then, is why they have such orchids to sell now."

Baldwin, in like manner, showed his nerve several years ago when he had us build an iron frame orchid house of a design all his own.
Frankly, we were not exactly keen about it at the time, but it sure has proved to be an ideal orchid house.

Volz's Double Cinerarias

REGISTERED S. A. F. & O. H.

The Florists' Review

The exhibit of the evening consisted of several pots of double cinerarias raised by Frank A. Volz, of Cincinnati, O. These were in violet, blue, lavender and various shades of red. They were sturdy in growth and highly decorative in appearance. Peter Pearson, when called upon by President Kohout for his opinion on the exhibit, said that the plants seemed to be of good habit and, because of the season at which they came, should fill a distinct demand.

A discussion, participated in chiefly by Otto Amling, Peter Pearson and N. J. Wietor, of prices and of ways of educating the public to a wider and stronger demand for flowers, was of interest value to all pre

An Opportunity for Orchid Buyers!

Such As There Never Has Been In America

The Celebrated

Clement Moore Collection of Orchids

Is Ours To Sell and Yours To Buy!

Here indeed is a rare opportunity for all who love the Orchid—flower of fascination for the amateur or grower.

If you know Orchids at all—either for pleasure or for profit—you know of the wonderful collection of Clement Moore.

For a quarter of a century Mr. Moore has gathered, from every known source, the very cream of the stocks of growers and hybridizers of the wonder-flower.

In addition to the wonderful things he has obtained, there are the results of his own many years of most careful hybridizing.

So that, altogether, there are some 500 Rare and Exclusive Species and Hybrids

This famous collection, then, is one of the greatest ever got together anywhere, and unquestionably the greatest opportunity ever offered to Orchid lovers and Orchid growers in this country to add to their stocks.

Mr. Moore's fancy ran particularly to Cattleyas, so that among these, especially, are there rare finds to be had.

As an example of some of the things we have to offer you, in this great collection, there are in bud and sheath the following:

400 Cattleya Labiata.
100 Cattleya Fabia alba (Cattleya Labiata x C. Aurea).
200 Cattleya Ballantineana (Cattleya Trianae x C. Gigas).

You know how long it takes to get a Cattleya Hybrid to flower. Getting these, you save many years.

Send Today for Complete Price List and Descriptions.

Of course, there is not room to begin to describe here, the scores of rare and choice plants—many never in commerce.
If you are interested, you will send at once for our complete list, with prices.

The plants themselves may be seen or bought at Hackensack, N. J., or drop us a line to make an appointment.

From the inquiries we've had already, since the news leaked out that Roehrs had the disposal of this unsurpassed collection, we would suggest your acting promptly. That is, if you wish the advantage of selecting from the full range.

Grimm and Gorly
ONE OF THE GRIMM & GORLY SHOWCASES
BURLINGTON WILLOW WARE VASES USED EXCLUSIVELY

THE picture above is worthy of your closest attention. Notice the beautifully harmonious appearance of the Grimm & Gorly display—all the same tone—rich, distinctive and splendidly setting forth the beauty of the flowers themselves.

This picture explains why so many of the foremost flower shops in the country are using Burlington Will-O-Ware Vases exclusively in their displays. They make displays distinctive—last for years and require little attention.

There is no glass in them—they are unbreakable. When soiled a coat of paint applied by the errand boy makes them new and fresh. When not in use they nest into each other and take up very little space.

WHEN Grimm & Gorly furnished their new store they purchased the best of everything. Naturally, one of their orders was for Burlington Will-O-Ware Vases. They had tried these out previously and the fact that we received a big order for their new store, proves conclusively what these up-to-date and progressive retailers think of these vases.

NEW DOUBLE DAISY CRAIGII

A sport of Mrs. Sander. Much freer, large flower, having golden yellow center with white petals. Produces fewer single flowers than Mrs. Sander. Makes an ideal variety for either cut flowers or pot culture. Stock ready now. Orders filled strictly in rotation.

2¼-inch pots.....$20 per 100; $150 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$50 per 100; $450 per 1000
6-inch pots.....$18 per doz.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Owing to the very great increase in price of all materials used in packing of plants, we find it necessary to make a small charge for same, as follows, much lower than the percentage plan:

Full size cases.....$1.50 each
Three-quarter size cases.....$1.00 each
Small size cases.....$0.50 each

Would suggest taking plants in paper pots whenever possible. It is a big saving in both packing and express charges.

TERMS.

Cash With Order.—Kindly send sufficient to cover the entire bill. We do not make shipments C. O. D. unless remittance has been made on account to guarantee acceptance. This does not apply to regular customers. Remittances.—Remittances should be made by money order or New York drafts. If money is sent, letter should be registered. All prices quoted in this list are strictly net. Shipping Instructions.—Give your name, post office, county and state and the name of your nearest express office to which shipment is to be made. We have always made it prominent in our printed terms that our goods are sold F. O. B. cars at the point of shipment and are at the purchaser's risk while in transit. Because of the present unsettled conditions we wish to emphasize still further that we do not guarantee safe delivery. The ownership of all goods sold by us passes to the purchaser on delivery by us to the carrier, and the issuing of the receipt by the carrier ends our responsibility. Any claims for damage should be made promptly to the agent at the point of delivery. Correspondence.—We endeavor to answer all correspondence promptly, but owing to the pressure of business we ask that all requests be clearly and concisely stated. Errors.—Keep a copy of your order. We aim to have our orders correctly filled. When we are at fault we shall make satisfactory correction.

WIRE WINDOWS PROVE THEIR WORTH

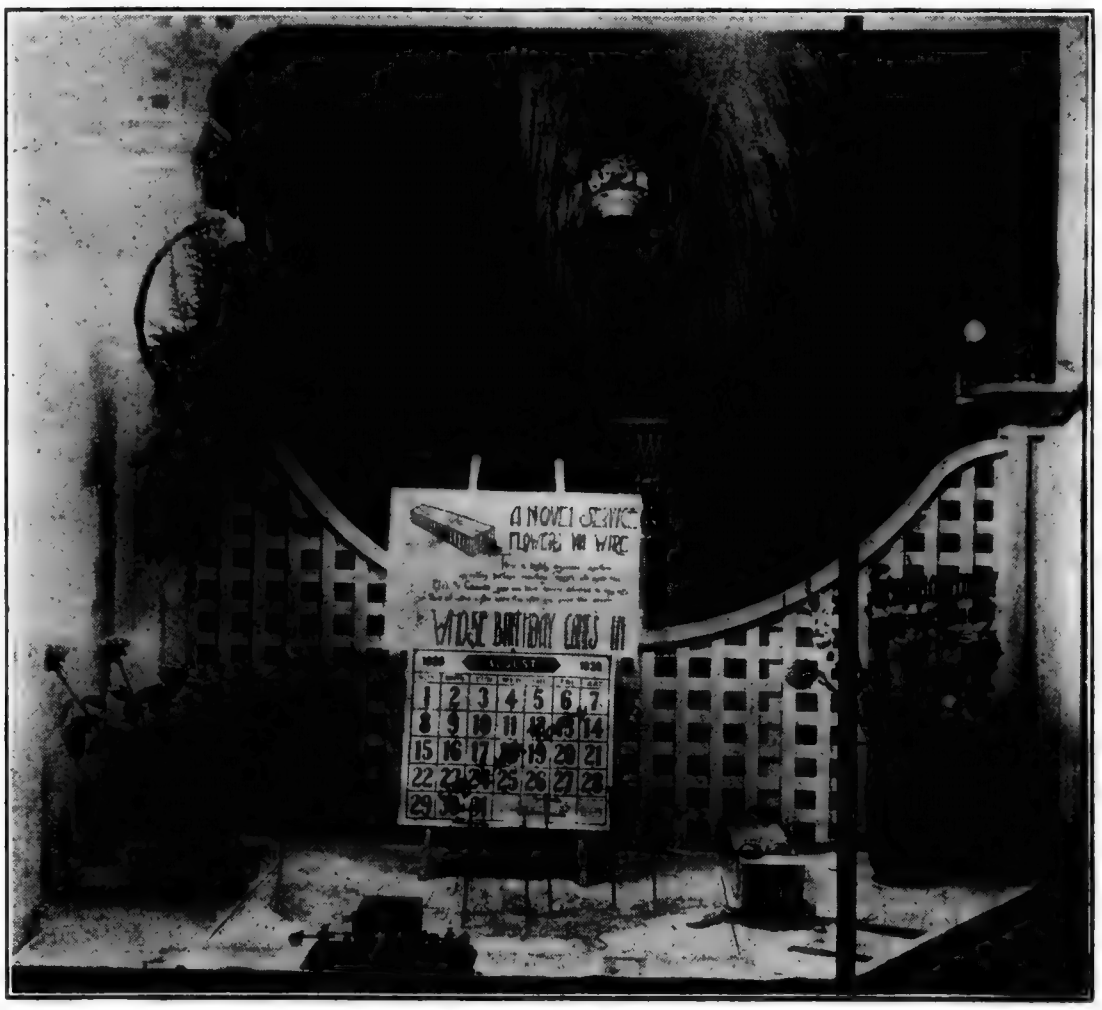
Already the advertising importance and financial value of window displays presenting the florists' telegraph delivery service have been dwelt upon in these columns. That such displays may be staged simply and inexpensively, in small towns as well as big, is shown in this article.

FOR the florist window dressing is a side issue; however important its value in his business, still it's a side issue to him. But there are some men to whom it is not. There are some to whom it is a full-time job, a never-ending study and a daily object of mental concentration. They are the professional window decorators, who conceive the elaborate outlays in the department store windows and estimate a display not in dollars and cents, but in thousands of dollars, forgetting the decimal point altogether. To them expense is not a consideration, for elaborate and expensive materials are at their hands; the prime object is something novel or distinctive enough to get the attention of those who pass.

These men declare that the most important part of a display is not its expense, its color-scheme or its novelty—though each of these is of great moment—but the idea it carries. If the idea is novel enough or big enough or interesting enough, an attention-compelling display is but a matter of staging it well. The window with the forcible idea attracts attention away from the expensive setting, the startling color-scheme or the bizarre effect. The big thing, say these men, is the idea.

Here It Is.

At hand for florists' use in window displays is one of the biggest ideas that the trade has known. Some are aware of it already. Some have demonstrated it. It needs no proof here. Florists' telegraph delivery of flowers has won so much attention in window displays during the last year, to say nothing of the years before, that every member of the trade should know its attention-compelling power, as the ad-writers say. Those who have not learned it for themselves should know it from the pages of The Review, where window displays of this sort have been described and their striking results been told. To enforce these accounts, here are two more instances—two more florists who have learned the bigness of the idea of telegraph delivery of flowers in window displays.



A Confessed Plagiarist.

In sending the photograph reproduced on this page to The Review, the Wichita Floral Co., at Wichita Falls, Tex., confesses to "plagiarizing almost in toto ideas set forth in The Review." But that is not plagiarism. The ideas were given in The Review for just the purpose of inducing more florists to stage such displays. And these two successful cases are cited here to urge the good work on.

The window of the Wichita Floral Co. was not an elaborate and costly one. On the contrary, it was extremely simple and inexpensive. Such a window is within the power of every florist, in small towns and big, and the results it yielded should prompt many more florists to use their valuable window space for this end.

Aside from the vase and baskets of flowers that tastefully decorated the window, there were used several things a florist does not have in his store, but they are easily obtainable. The floor of the window was covered by a large map of the United States. On spots representing the principal cities were placed miniature telegraph poles strung with wire. In the front of the window was a telegraph instrument and next to the glass were floral telegrams. Above a calendar with the familiar slogan across it was a placard which read: "A Novel Service—Flowers via Wire. Through a highly organized system operating between reputable florists all over the United States and Canada you can have flowers delivered in any city or town all within a few hours' time after you place the order."

"The new 'Say It with Flowers' Western Union blanks came the day after these photographs were taken and of course we immediately substituted them in the window display," states the Wichita Floral Co. "The only original feature was put in the same day and consisted simply of one of our bills from the Western Union hung in the window. It was nearly five feet in length and attracted a very considerable amount of comment."

Simple Window Displays on Telegraph Delivery Prove Most Effective.

Its Worth.

The success of this display excited much enthusiasm on the part of Edwin A. Bebb, manager of the Wichita Floral Co. Mr. Bebb has only been operating this business since his discharge from the army and yet the store and the business are among the best in that section.

With him are associated in the company Robert Bebb, M. R. Bebb and Forrest Bebb. The company operates a store at 706 Ninth street, in Wichita Falls, Tex., and greenhouses at 1706 Ninth street. Wichita Falls is not a large place and the success of such a window there is evidence that telegraph business can be developed in small towns as well as in big cities.

In addition to bringing to the attention of Wichita Falls the telegraph delivery service, this window served a second purpose, which immediately yielded a cash return. This was in "birthdaygrams," as Mr. Bebb calls them. The calendar with "Say It with Flowers" across it carried the question, "Whose Birthday?" to many observers with such force that they used flowers for gifts on friends' and relatives' birthdays to an extent that had a marked effect on the cash register.

Telegrams, Music and Flowers.

A second window that carried the idea of sending flowers by wire is shown on page 21. This was staged in the big windows of the Schmidt Music Co., at Davenport, Ia., the result of cooperation between that firm and G. F. Forber, who has an attractive and successful flower store at 313 Brady street. From the photograph reproduced herewith, one would say the florist got an abundant share of the display's advertising. The advertising for the music store reënforced the florist's, for the song copies displayed across the bottom of the window were of Albert von Tilzer's song, "Say It with Flowers." A placard above read: "'Say It with Flowers.' A beautiful song. Easy to sing," and another advertised the price. This much, with the cabinet phonograph and grand piano, composed the music store's share of the display.

The handsome baskets of flowers and the pots of ferns attractively arranged about the window won the eye to the florist's art, and a placard stated: "Flowers and Music. Both are indispensable to the family circle." And, of course, a card in front gave the name of the florist coöperating in the display and his address.

Center of Interest.

But the center of interest in this window was the map of the United States on which were miniature telegraph poles strung with wire, presenting the telegraph delivery of flowers to observers' attention. The telegraph instrument at the side reënforced the idea. As its share in the display, in return for supplying the necessary paraphernalia, the Western Union Telegraph Co. had one of its sign bulbs in a corner of the display.

"This was the first display of its kind in the Tri-Cities," relates G. F. Forber. "At the time, the city of Davenport was crowded by visitors to the Mississippi River Valley Fair from all over the United States, who took particular interest in this display."

These two examples serve to reënforce the assertion that the telegraph delivery of flowers is an idea so interesting and important to the general public that window displays presenting it are certain to bring attention to the florist in a decided way. How simply it may be presented is shown in these two displays. The opportunity is open to every florist who has a store window. And those who have not might borrow some one's else, whether it's a music store's or not.

HEAVY HAIL LOSSES

HAIL STORM IN RHODE ISLAND.

Greenhouses Destroyed.

Hailstones accompanied by a 45-mile-an-hour gale ruined crops of all kinds and damaged buildings in various sections of Rhode Island just before noon Monday, September 13, causing a loss of more than a million and a half dollars in a period of less than fifteen minutes. Greenhouse men especially were targets of the storm and lost heavily.

No insurance protection, so far as has been ascertained, covers any of the losses, which are the greatest resulting from such a cause in Rhode Island's history. Nothing approaching the storm has been experienced since 1869, when a terrific September gale visited the state. In consequence of the great damage to glass, this material has been in demand and at a heavy premium.

Market gardeners and florists in the Auburn, Cranston, Washington Park and Edgewood districts of the Providence suburbs and over the state line in Rehoboth, Seekonk and Swansea, suffered losses that will exceed half a million dollars and it is feared that several of those who were more seriously damaged will find considerable difficulty in recovering from the blow.

About $250,000 damage was suffered by the Budlong Rose Co., whose greenhouses and truck gardens at Eden Park are the largest in the state. In discussing the havoc wrought at his place James A. Budlong said the hail broke every piece of glass in his greenhouses and flattened every growing thing in the truck gardens. He added that no storm insurance was carried on the property. Valuable roses and other flowers in the greenhouses were torn from their trellises and benches and scattered in windrows in the aisles. The company has about 150 plots of garden truck under cultivation. Beets, cabbage, carrots, parsnips, turnips and cauliflower were grown, and after the storm had passed every plot was in the same ruined condition.

Some Heavy Losers.

Edgar L. Nock, whose greenhouses at 180 Wheeler avenue, Providence, housed one of the best known orchid collections in New England, lost all his greenhouses and every flower and plant. His loss on orchids alone is estimated at $40,000. Mr. Nock, who began his collecting and growing of the rare blooms as a hobby, soon became known as the possessor of some of the rarest specimens of the exotic flowers in New England, and was steadily forging to the front rank of successful orchid growers.

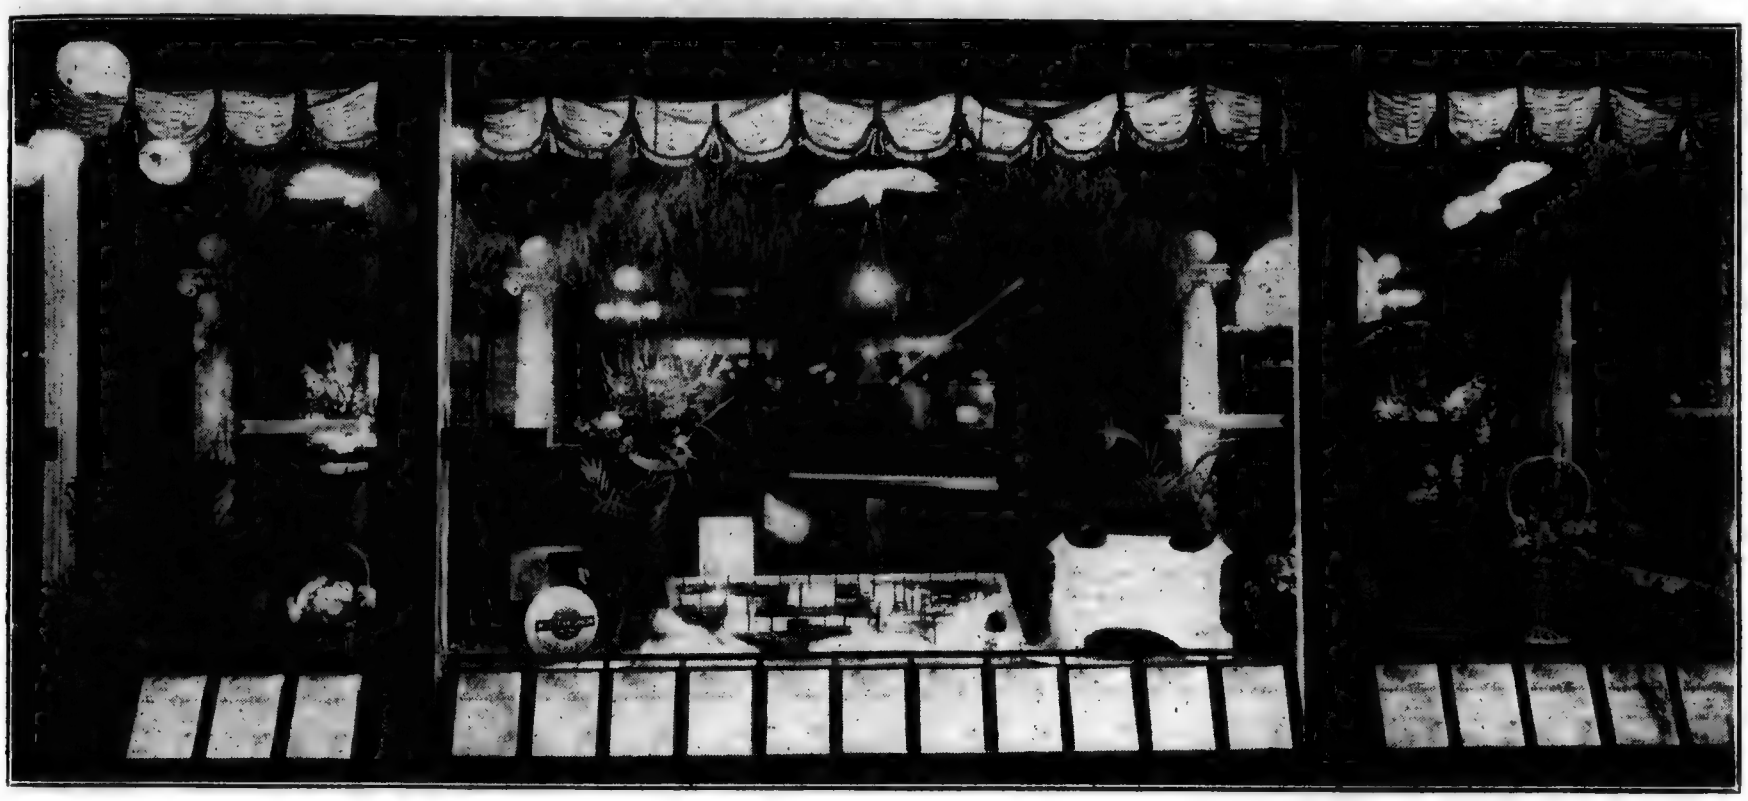
The Potter Farm, on Elmwood avenue, Auburn, was also a heavy loser in the storm, a large acreage of garden truck being destroyed. Charles Potter said that the farm specialized in the cultivation of pansies for the spring market and that they had 200,000 plants set under glass. The hail wrecked the greenhouses and completely ruined every pansy bed, besides inflicting other damage. The loss sustained was fully $10,000, none of which is covered by insurance.

Other Losses.

Other florists in the Elmwood, Auburn and Cranston sections who lost heavily were John G. Jansen, whose greenhouses at Broad street and Shaw avenue were stripped; Miss Florence Willard, of the Hope Greenhouses, Massachusetts avenue; W. Hamilton, on Wheeler avenue; George Johnson & Son, at 521 Elmwood avenue; each of whose losses will run well into hundreds of dollars. Practically every florist and greenhouse man in the southwest section of Providence and its suburbs suffered damage.

In East Providence, the storm swung across Narragansett bay and, striking the east side, caused about $35,000 damage at the range of houses owned by Joseph E. Koppelman. Here practically every pane of glass in the ten large houses was broken and in four large houses benched with roses that would be in crop in a short time the plants were beaten down. What the loss on his crops will be Mr. Koppelman is unable to estimate. The stated loss is on his buildings alone.

The hailstones were of extraordinarily large size and were driven with terrific force by the wind. In some places the accumulations of hail were several inches in depth and from numerous sources reports were made of stones larger than hens' eggs. W. H. M.



GO TO INDIANAPOLIS.

F. T. D. Like Big Brother Movement.

Have you been interested in the nation-wide work of the Big Brother movement, helping to lift up and look after the interests of those who need aid? Many of you have undoubtedly received wonderful satisfaction from the results obtained, and the pleasure money couldn't buy.

Well, doesn't the work of the F. T. D. from its earliest inception to the present day strike you as the best parallel possible? From the beginning, when only a handful could see its merit, it builded on foundations strong enough to carry on under present-day methods and modern machinery. We are still able to add to our structure without its foundation having to be reinforced, and that's going some. Have we not had master builders, who provided for the past, present and future? What a source of pleasure to think of the underlying principles of your F. T. D., which has stood the test of growth from its first few members to our present 1,700, and has concerned itself with not only the interchange of telegraph orders, but also the morals and ethics of building a better flower business!

The members have found extreme pleasure in meeting one another for the interchange of ideas and suggestions, each having only the interests of his fellow member at heart in assisting to lift up the florists' industry to its proper level, and everyone meets at the shrine of one for all and all for one yearly at our F. T. D. conventions. The purpose must be elevating to all who join our ranks, as the Golden Rule is the only principle acceptable to our members. Now and then we hear of a fault, but the member is ever ready to remedy it, and this fact has been a source of gratification to others in the craft, who have noted cases in which individuals have been better boosters of the association after such cases were remedied.

What an achievement for an association to boast of! To think of a body of florists situated everywhere, wherever civilization extends, that has for its mission confidence in its members, who can telegraph, cable or mail an order and feel that it will be given the same attention as each would give it himself! And without a personal introduction every member knows the other through membership in our association. What a feeling it is to meet the men that you have been sending orders to, or receiving orders from, to have a hearty handshake or exchange warm words of greeting, many times ending in personal friendship which lasts for years! Those are some of the pleasures that exist for those who come to our F. T. D. meetings year after year, and the oftener you meet them the better you like them.

Promoter of Progress.

Much of our present-day progress has been directly the outcome of personal suggestions from one member to the other, which helps to make meetings more interesting.

If you are a member, come to Indianapolis, October 12 and 13. If you are not a member, come and see what you have been missing. Join the big brother movement and tie up to the F. T. D. principles, and you will have done the best thing for your own purpose that you have done for a long while.

Our association has been behind every movement of progress and will continue to do so, and by giving your support to the various functions in which our committees are interested, you will directly benefit yourself.

Some of the Benefits.

The scope of the association is of necessity destined to be world-wide, and membership in it means that you have credit with florists that is international. This phase is only one of the benefits. How about the money exchange with our friends across the Canadian border, where our members are saved many times the membership fee in sending checks to our secretary's office for the Canadian accounts, thereby showing enterprise on the part of the officers in the members' behalf?

There are so many benefits to be derived that it would take days to explain. But best of all, go to the convention and you will leave with the satisfaction of having spent two days that will be the best paying dividend you ever received.

Many florists get an order now and then, who do not belong to the F. T. D., feeling that membership is unnecessary. Thinking of them, I am somewhat reminded of the old-time story of the small storekeeper who put up in his window an elaborate new blind. Quoth his neighbor, "Nice blind of yours, Isaac." "Yes," was the reply. "Who paid for it, Isaac?" "The customers paid." "What! You say the customers paid for it, Isaac?" "Yes, I put a leedle box on my counter and labeled it, 'For the Blind,' and they paid for it."

So with many who are not F. T. D. members; they get a few orders now and then, but overlook the many that would come their way were they enrolled in the association. Henry Penn.

CINCINNATI, O.

The Market.

Owing to the fine weather last week, dahlias and other stock are in a better condition than they otherwise would have been. Business conditions are improving as the winter season approaches. Asters and gladioli are almost finished and are losing quality noticeably. On the other hand, dahlias and delphinium arrived in fine condition and quality last week and sold well. Carnations are still small, but are on the market because of the inferiority of the asters.

The first mums of the season arrived and were disposed of. Roses are coming in well, with the exception of white roses, which are rather scarce. Lilies come in only once in a while. Outdoor snapdragons and gaillardias are finding a good market.

Various Notes.

The Cincinnati Florists' Club met at H. W. Sheppard's store, 532 Race street, Monday, September 13, and interesting matters were discussed. The club is organizing to advance itself to first place among Ohio florists' clubs.

Charles Ferguson, of H. W. Sheppard's staff, was married to Miss Mary Johnson, of Covington, Ky., Tuesday, September 14, and is now away on his honeymoon. Mr. Sheppard's store has been a busy one of late.

C. E. Critchell has received the first shipment of California mums in Cincinnati. They arrived in good condition, but did not sell well on account of their high price.

E. G. Gillett, Thomas Hardesty, W. H. Gear and a number of other florists were kept busy entertaining out-of-town brother Knight Templars last week. There was a meeting in Cincinnati of that fraternity.

The Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange has received some excellent Easter lilies and snapdragon.

Visitors last week were: George Wiegand, Indianapolis, Ind.; Isaac Bayersdorfer, Philadelphia, Pa.; A. Miller, of the American Bulb Co., Chicago, Ill.; H. C. Hansen, of the E. C. Amling Co., Chicago; Edward A. Merrian, manager of Forest Hill cemetery, Chattanooga, Tenn. G. H. K.

Tarrytown, N. Y.—The twenty-second annual flower show of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society will be held November 3 to 5. Secretary E. W. Neubrand is receiving entries. F. R. Pierson is chairman of the board of directors.

FIRE THE FIREMAN

NEW AUTOMATIC STOKER.

To Save the Weary Night Worker.

Of late years no invention has been put on the market which may have such great importance to all who are burning coal, especially greenhouse establishments, as the device invented by Ivan Risdon, of Seattle, Wash. This invention will relieve us of the meanest and most exacting duty the average greenhouse owner has to contend with—the firing problem. Not only is this problem growing in importance year after year because it eats into our pocketbooks a little deeper each year, but with the labor problem in addition forms our greatest concern as to how we can solve it best and still make life worth while. That to many a hard-working florist becomes at times rather a negative question, especially when things all go wrong, the fireman quits, cold spells require night sessions with the boilers, while the daylight hours have to be used to the limit to keep things going right. Frequently a beautiful, promising crop that has cost months of careful labor and attention is suddenly brought to the point where its value is almost ruined in one chilly night, simply for the fact that a weary worker fails to wake up just at the right time to look after the fire.

Combined with Thermostat.

I shall try to the best of my ability to explain what is meant by good management in firing with the Risdon stoker. The stoker automatically feeds coal over a fine grate through which flows a stream of air fed by an electrically driven fan; this is exactly as you all have seen it in blacksmith forges. A certain thickness of fuel bed is needed in order that all the incoming air may be used in the process of combustion. If the fuel bed is too light, not all the air rushing in is used in the consumption of the fuel and the heat generated is needlessly cooled by this excess of air. When insufficient air reaches the fuel bed it will cause a waste of coal, as the feeding apparatus keeps on supplying fuel regardless of whether it is being burned or not; this surplus coal passes over the grate to fall beyond into the ash pit. The apparatus is provided with facilities to regulate the flow of air and also the speed of the coal feed. When experiment has ascertained what is the proper adjustment for a given grade of coal, the stoker may be left alone as long as the same grade of fuel is being used, regardless of weather conditions. It may strike you as an odd statement that the fire should not be changed in mild weather after severe weather, or vice versa. While odd, it is nevertheless one of the unique features in firing with the Risdon stoker.

The stoker, being driven electrically, is also regulated electrically by means of a switch. A thermostat is the device that regulates the stoker so as to maintain a desired temperature. This thermostat is the means of adjusting your fuel consumption so that you get the desired heat and no more. I have set our instrument to the point where it will run the boiler heat from 110 to 140 degrees; once the high mark is reached, it throws the switch out automatically, the electric motor stops at once and the fire stops burning for lack of air. When the water cools off and gets down to 110 degrees the switch is again thrown in and in a short time the fire goes full blast until the temperature rises to the point where it shuts off the electric current. A half hour to an hour may be needed to generate the highest temperature needed in the boiler and then the fire may remain dormant for one to two hours, depending on the outside temperature. No fuel is consumed when the fire is dormant, but while the fire is active, fuel is burned much faster than by the ordinary method of firing, on account of the forced draft.

No Smoke and No Soot.

The fuel element is so completely consumed that no smoke is noticeable after the fire has been going a few minutes and soot-clogged flues do not hinder the heat from being absorbed by the water circulating through the boiler. This freedom from soot in boiler flues is one of the important features of economy. Soot is well known to be an insulator. In properly working boilers the gases escaping into the chimney should be of a lower temperature than that of the boiler they are passing through, a fact which is not often observed in the average heating plant. A certain amount of ash dust will be deposited, however, in the flues, requiring an occasional cleaning to insure the best efficiency of the boiler. A little observation will soon demonstrate how frequently this flue cleaning task has to be taken care of.

It is hoped that the manufacturers of this stoker will in time find it possible to give detailed instructions as to how to install the stoker under various conditions and boilers, so that Mr. Average Florist may do this task himself where he has difficulty in finding mechanics who know how. My experience of last winter shows me an actual cash saving of $135 out of a normal average expenditure of $500. However, the comparison could not be based on exact figures, as weather conditions and fuel prices have been different. Besides that, it must be said in favor of the stoker that our greenhouse temperatures were absolutely constant all the time, something that even the best fireman cannot accomplish all the time, as occasional neglects are unavoidable by hand firing.

The labor-saving value estimated as effected with this apparatus is practically the total cost of the whole system in one season alone. Of course we do not all consider that the time put into the firing task is cash out of our pockets, but, while life is short and plenty of tasks are always waiting for a greenhouse man, why consider firing time of no value when it would pay richly if devoted to other neglected duties?

From a paper read by J. G. Bacher, of the Swiss Floral Co., Portland, Ore., at a recent meeting of the Portland Florists' Club.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

The Alpha Floral Co., Kansas City, Mo., recently executed an order for the funeral of a Shriner, which embodied all the various characters carried out in colors. It was admitted by capable judges as perfect in detail and was the most elaborate work seen in quite a long time.

• • • •

R. S. Brown & Son, Kansas City, Mo., have cleared part of their land in town, keeping the original range for retail trade. The veteran head, now in the nineties, can be found daily at some task around the place. Our old friend remarked that he still ran across an idea that was even new to him after spending a lifetime in the business.

• • • •

The vast store of the W. L. Rock Flower Co., Kansas City, Mo., is putting on its autumn garb in the form of the usual elaborate decoration only possible in a place of such size. "Never were we better equipped for the season's business," observed Mr. Rock, "and we believe our anticipations for a profitable one will be realized." Speaking of the nursery being established at Independence, Mo., Mr. Rock stated that forty acres have been added to the first plot. Hardy stock is grown for the wholesale trade. So far results are quite satisfactory.

• • • •

"Dignity with simplicity," quoting Samuel Murray, Kansas City, Mo., is seen in the window decoration. Crotons, variegated pineapple, Cibotium Schiedei, Tritoma Pfitzeri, with adiantum and autumn foliage, give a rich and glowing effect. Telegraph orders for the last twelve months have averaged more than $1,000 per month. "Our business in this particular branch is steadily increasing," observed Mr. Murray, "and this condition should generally prevail." At the Murray greenhouses Boland Sharp has a fine batch of Begonia Melior that, in his own phraseology, "are as erect as a regiment of soldiers." Solanum Cleveland is also promising for Christmas. The idea this season will be to produce all blooming plants in medium, rather than extremely large sizes.

W. J. Barnes, vice-president of the newly formed Kansas City Florists' Club, is a live wire and intends bringing the trade into closer touch with the commission men, who are felt by many to be a real help to the trade. W. M.

GARDENERS AT ST. LOUIS

NATIONAL GARDENERS MEET.

At St. Louis.

At the annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners, held at St. Louis, Mo., September 14 to 16, the following officers were elected:

President—W. N. Craig, Brookline, Mass.

Vice-president—George H. Pring, St. Louis, Mo.

Secretary—M. C. Ebel, New York.

Treasurer—Peter Duff, Orange, N. J.

Trustees—W. H. Waite, Arthur Smith and D. L. Mackintosh, all of New Jersey.

Delegates-at-large—L. P. Jensen and Ernest Strehle, St. Louis.

The meetings were held on the second floor in the Marquette hotel. The room was artistically decorated with plants provided by the park department.

Large Local Attendance.

The attendance from out of town was not so large as had been expected, but the attendance of local members at the meetings was large during the three days' sessions and greatly helped to make the meetings interesting for the out-of-town members who attended. The attractive program planned by the local committee was carried out to the letter. The local committee was composed of G. H. Pring, R. Strehle, H. C. Irish, L. Baumann, Hugo Schaff and John Moritz.

The meeting of trustees and directors was held at 10 a. m., September 14, and the convention was opened at 2 p. m. by an address of welcome by Dr. George T. Moore, of the Missouri Botanical Garden, who, after a few well pointed remarks, welcoming the members to the city, said that he had been instructed by the mayor to turn over the keys of the city to the convention. Secretary Martin C. Ebel responded to the address of welcome.

Dues Are Increased.

President L. P. Jensen then read his address, which was followed by reports from the secretary and treasurer. The association voted in favor of increasing the annual dues from $3 to $5 and the life membership fee from $25 to $50.

Lengthy discussions, in connection with committee reports, then took place on the following questions: Service bureau, publicity fund, Quarantine No. 37, school gardens, the problem of interesting young men in the gardening profession and coöperation with the Federal Vocational Board.

To New York in 1921.

The selection of the next meeting place followed. P. W. Popp, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., in a splendid talk, invited the association to hold its 1921 meeting in New York city. Since no other invitations were presented, New York was selected.

At 8 p. m., Tuesday, a reception to the president was held in the large dining hall; it was largely attended. During the evening an illustrated lecture was given by Montague Free, of the Brooklyn Botanical Gardens, on "Rock Gardens," followed by a reception held by the St. Louis Association of Gardeners.

Wednesday the morning session opened at 9 a. m. with an address by Frederick W. Pape, park commissioner of St. Louis; it was responded to by Secretary M. C. Ebel.

Stimulating Discussions.

The remainder of the morning's session, after next year's officers had been nominated, was devoted to discussion of the examination for and classification of gardeners and the inducements for young men to take up the gardening profession; August Koch, J. Baxter, Montague Free and George Pring were among those who made valuable remarks.

Mr. Pring entered his new pond lily, which he has named Mrs. Edward Whitaker, for the association's gold medal, which was awarded to him, on the report of a committee.

In the afternoon session, beginning at 2 o'clock, the following interesting subjects were discussed: "The Threatened Food Crisis; How Can the Gardeners and their Association Assist in Relieving It?"; "Will Farmerettes Solve the Problem of Help Shortage on Country Estates?" and "The Signboard Nuisance Defacing Our Highways; How Can It Be Combated Effectively?"

The Shaw Banquet.

The members were then invited to attend the banquet given annually to florists, gardeners and nurserymen in accordance with the will of Henry Shaw. This took place in the floral display house in the Missouri Botanical Garden. Covers were laid for 100 and the menu was excellent. At the conclusion of the banquet, Dr. Herman von Schrenk, president of the City Garden Club, gave an illustrated lecture on "The Trees of the Pacific Coast," after which all were invited over to Tower Grove park to view the illuminated aquatics.

Thursday, the third and last day of the convention, the meeting opened at 9 a. m. As only one nomination had been made for each office, the secretary cast one ballot for the members present. After all unfinished business had been cleared up, the meeting adjourned.

W. N. Craig.
(Elected President of National Association of Gardeners.)

Tour of Inspection.

The delegates were then taken in hand by the members of the St. Louis Association of Gardeners for the rest of their stay in the city. At 11 a. m. fifty filled automobiles left the sunken gardens at Fourteenth and Locust streets for an inspection tour of the St. Louis park system, the Missouri Botanical Garden and country estates. Luncheon was served at Bevo Mill, on the invitation of the St. Louis Garden Club, and the trip wound up at Forest park, by invitation of the St. Louis Park Department Association. The members of the association took part in a big barbecue.

This ended the annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners, which in a final resolution said that the 1920 convention would long be remembered by all who had attended. Among those commending the entertainment features were Philip J. Foley, of Chicago; George McMahon, Des Moines, Ia.; E. H. Peters, Chicago; Montague Free, Brooklyn; Jack Baxter, Forest Hill, Ill.; Donald Shepard, Duluth, Minn.; Peter Duff, Orange, N. J.; A. Buschke, Noroton, Conn.; Conrad Wolf, Hibbing, Minn.; C. O. E. Boehm, Davenport, Ia.; P. W. Popp, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; M. C. Ebel, New York; August Koch, Chicago, and John B. Hay, Philadelphia. J. J. B.

TWO WAYS OF ADVERTISING.

In the comment in Women's Wear, one of the largest trade journals in the mercantile field, on a florists' advertising there is a hint which those who haven't given their printed sales talk so much attention as has Max Schling might find profitable. The old form of "business card" printed in large space has been superseded by a more specific and compelling sort of advertising, a sort that combines artistic and persuasive appeals to the possible purchaser. This is the way Women's Wear put it:

MAX SCHLING KNOWS.

Max Schling the florist knows better than to advertise that he has roses, violets, chrysanthemums and potted plants in season. It is true, but it doesn't register with that part of the human being that buys flowers. For you know the part of us that reads is not always the part of us that decides to purchase.

Max Schling took a little corner in the paper and used a sketch of a telegraph pole with wires. But what he did to the pole whispers a secret to anybody who has a best girl somewhere. Little thorns sprout along the pole and at the top a full blown rose bursts out into flower. The wires stretch away, and as if to be sung, the words rest against their lines like notes on a staff, giving this suggestion, "Wherever SHE IS—you can send her flowers by wire."

"The world is so full of a number of things" that all merchandise becomes generality—and only so much impersonal stock—till the work of advertising genius sees a way to make some particular appeal and address it to some specially responsive chord in the "market." Who would be most eager to buy flowers? A man who wants to please his sweetheart, perhaps. So the Schling advertisement is addressed to that man—and his sweetheart—"Wherever She Is," and the visualized idea is a rose by wire—growing right up out of the telegraph pole, in fact.

George H. Pring.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

At New York Botanical Gardens.

The directors of the New York Botanical Gardens have invited the members of the American Rose Society to hold a meeting in the gardens September 29. This date will permit those who wish to do so to attend the annual exhibition of the American Dahlia Society in the Pennsylvania hotel September 27 to 29. The program follows, with the hours given in daylight-saving time:

10:30. Meet in the Mansion, situated on the east side of the Bronx river a short distance north of Pelham parkway. Men will be stationed at the elevated station, the Botanical Gardens station and the Pelham parkway subway station to direct visitors upon inquiry.
10:45. Visit rose garden, which is quite near the Mansion.
12:00. Lunch in the Mansion. Members are requested to bring basket lunches.
1:00. Business meeting, followed by an interesting program.
4:00. Inspection of the grounds and buildings, including the dahlia garden, etc.

Larger Dues for Greater Work.

At the business meeting the proposed changes in the constitution and by-laws, as mailed to all members in the 1920 American Rose Annual, will be considered. These changes affect especially an increase in the annual dues for 1921 from $2 to $3 and the establishment of a group of research and sustaining members. Membership in the society now approaches 2,500. With proper activity on the part of the present members this membership will total 5,000 in 1921. The increased cost of publishing the American Rose Annual and the members' handbook and other expenses of the society make the present membership fee inadequate. The members of the executive committee feel that the value of the society to its members will make them ready and willing to sustain the present good work of the society and to increase its usefulness by cheerfully paying the increased dues. An interesting program is being prepared. There will be a real rose feast. Come and enjoy it.

Registration Approved.

The registration of the following variety has been approved by the registration committee of the American Rose Society, and unless objections are received by the secretary within three weeks of publishing of this notice the registration will become permanent.

Offered for registration by H. L. Collier, Seattle, Wash.:

Name—Eugenia.
Class—Pernetiana.
Parentage—Sport from Madame Edouard Herriot.
Description—This variety is similar to the parent in all respects except that the flowers are flecked or striped with yellow.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The demand for cut flowers is a little more active, but there is little diminution in the supply noticeable. About the only short item is roses, the supply of which is barely sufficient to go around. White roses are quite scarce. Gladiolus shipments are lighter, and the quality of most arrivals is poor, so poor in fact that $1.50 seems to buy as much stock as an ordinary man can carry. Some shippers are sending in flower stalks that are really worthless. The supply of dahlias is larger, naturally, and some fine flowers are seen.

A sharp frost Sunday night, September 19, however, seemed likely to curtail shipments for a day or two. Frosts at this season are somewhat rare, but weather conditions throughout the summer have been somewhat irregular and anything may be expected.

Banquet in Honor of Visitors to Gardeners' Convention in Display House of Missouri Botanical Garden.

American Beauty roses are in moderate supply only, and the price for really good flowers in special grades has gone to $50 per hundred. Hybrid teas are not overplentiful, and special grades, when available, are bringing more than the top range quotations of the last few weeks. New varieties, such as Crusader, are bringing prices a little better than the staples. White roses, in which White Killarney seems to be the representative variety, are quite scarce, and there is little above the No. 3 grade to be had.

Carnations from newly benched stock are making an appearance. Two or three growers who usually bench early are in with a cut, but $4 per hundred is about the top price for the best stock. The demand, however, is poor, as buyers want stems as well as flower heads.

Cattleyas are in better supply, but there is little improvement in the demand. The labiata variety is in cut now, but market prices have to fall to the demand. The best flowers are bringing about $1 each, and plenty may be had for funeral work at 50 cents or less.

White lilies are plentiful and are likely to be so from now on. There is a wide choice. Lilium speciosum rubrum is in good supply. Lily of the valley is scarce, but there is little demand for it, recent high prices having made it unpopular with retailers.

Outdoor flowers are more or less interesting to buyers who want to give much for a little money, and dahlias, good varieties, at $1 to $6 per hundred, move fairly well. So also do bouvardia and zinnias. Chrysanthemums are in larger supply.

Various Notes.

Robert Craig, of Philadelphia, last week spent a few days in New York, visiting various growers and his many friends.

Frank L. Deery, formerly with J. H. Small & Sons, is now manager of the New York store of Dolansky & McDonald, in the Eighteenth street market.

Richard Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md., is enthusiastic over the prospect for the success of the show of the American Dahlia Society, of which he is president, which opens in the roof garden of Hotel Pennsylvania Monday, September 27. The exhibition quarters are superb. It is a "pay" show this year, but the trade may obtain trade tickets of admission, large numbers of which are in the hands of seedsmen and others throughout New York.

The fall exhibition of the Horticultural Society of New York will be held at the American Museum of Natural History, November 4 to 7.

John H. Bockman, of the H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, was a visitor last week. J. H. P.

Harry H. White, for the last nine years employed by Schloss Bros., Ribbons, Inc., has formed a company for the importation and manufacture of ribbons, under the name of the Whitehouse Ribbon Co.

TORONTO, ONT.

The Market.

Flowers are fairly plentiful, but last week saw an advance in prices. This synchronizes with a little better business, there being a better demand than has existed during the last few weeks. There have been a good number of weddings in September and considerable demand for design work. People are getting settled in the city again and an improvement in trade conditions may be expected.

Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Toronto Retail Florists' Club was held at 12 Adelaide street, west, Monday, September 13, with President H. G. Dillemuth in the chair. This was the annual meeting and reports of the officers showed the affairs of the club to be in a prosperous condition. The treasurer, George Hatcher, reported several hundred dollars in the general account and $267, in addition, in the advertising account.

John H. Dunlop offered the club the use of quarters for its regular meetings. The offer was accepted and the secretary was asked to send a letter to Mr. Dunlop thanking him for his offer.

The following officers were elected: President, Silas A. McFadden; vice-president, J. J. Higgins; secretary, Harry W. James; treasurer and financial secretary, Len Waters; directors, Mrs. Waters, Mrs. Moore, E. S. Simmons, George Gard and S. A. Frost, and the past presidents, G. M. Geraghty and H. G. Dillemuth; auditors, E. S. Simmons and G. M. Geraghty.

The retiring president, H. G. Dillemuth, thanked the members of the club for their support last year and asked that they give the same loyal support to the incoming president. He spoke of the necessity of pulling together to secure the coöperation of the growers in improving conditions in the business, of securing a standard grading and of spreading the gospel of good will among all connected with the business.

The incoming president, S. A. McFadden, thanked the members for their expression of confidence in him and stated that he had several plans he wished to have carried out. A program would be mapped out and an endeavor made to interest all the retailers in the club and secure their regular attendance. The executive will be asked to approve of a set program of papers and addresses apart from the social features, and he thought that they would be able to arrange for something to benefit all. In addition they would attack the problems confronting the retailer and endeavor to secure better conditions in the retail trade.

The next meeting will be held October 4, as many of the members will be at the F. T. D. convention at Indianapolis the week after that.

John Milligan was proposed as a member.

Various Notes.

Fred C. Brown, of Cleveland, was a welcome visitor to Toronto for a few days last week.

George Yavner has returned from six cast one ballot for the members present. After all unfinished business had been cleared up, the meeting adjourned.

Tour of Inspection.

The delegates were then taken in hand by the members of the St. Louis Association of Gardeners for the rest of their stay in the city. At 11 a. m. fifty filled automobiles left the sunken gardens at Fourteenth and Locust streets for an inspection tour of the St. Louis park system, the Missouri Botanical Garden and country estates. Luncheon was served at Bevo Mill, on the invitation of the St. Louis Garden Club, and the trip wound up at Forest park, by invitation of the St. Louis Park Department Association. The members of the association took part in a big barbecue.

This ended the annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners, which in a final resolution said that the 1920 convention would long be remembered by all who had attended. Among those commending the entertainment features were Philip J. Foley, of Chicago; George McMahon, Des Moines, Ia.; E. H. Peters, Chicago; Montague Free, Brooklyn; Jack Baxter, Forest Hill, Ill.; Donald Shepard, Duluth, Minn.; Peter Duff, Orange, N. J.; A. Buschke, Noroton, Conn.; Conrad Wolf, Hibbing, Minn.; C. O. E. Boehm, Davenport, Ia.; P. W. Popp, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; M. C. Ebel, New York; August Koch, Chicago, and John B. Hay, Philadelphia. J. J. B.

TWO WAYS OF ADVERTISING.

In the comment in Women's Wear, one of the largest trade journals in the mercantile field, on a florists' advertising there is a hint which those who haven't given their printed sales talk so much attention as has Max Schling might find profitable. The old form of "business card" printed in large space has been superseded by a more specific and compelling sort of advertising, a sort that combines artistic and persuasive appeals to the possible purchaser. This is the way Women's Wear put it:

MAX SCHLING KNOWS.

Max Schling the florist knows better than to advertise that he has roses, violets, chrysanthemums and potted plants in season. It is true, but it doesn't register with that part of the human being that buys flowers. For you know the part of us that reads is not always the part of us that decides to purchase.

Max Schling took a little corner in the paper and used a sketch of a telegraph pole with wires. But what he did to the pole whispers a secret to anybody who has a best girl somewhere. Little thorns sprout along the pole and at the top a full blown rose bursts out into flower. The wires stretch away, and as if to be sung, the words rest against their lines like notes on a staff, giving this suggestion, "Wherever SHE IS—you can send her flowers by wire."

"The world is so full of a number of things" that all merchandise becomes generality—and only so much impersonal stock—till the work of advertising genius sees a way to make some particular appeal and address it to some specially responsive chord in the "market." Who would be most eager to buy flowers? A man who wants to please his sweetheart, perhaps. So the Schling advertisement is addressed to that man—and his sweetheart—"Wherever She Is," and the visualized idea is a rose by wire—growing right up out of the telegraph pole, in fact.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

At New York Botanical Gardens.

The directors of the New York Botanical Gardens have invited the members of the American Rose Society to hold a meeting in the gardens September 29. This date will permit those who wish to do so to attend the annual exhibition of the American Dahlia Society in the Pennsylvania hotel September 27 to 29. The program follows, with the hours given in daylight-saving time:

10:30. Meet in the Mansion, situated on the east side of the Bronx river a short distance north of Pelham parkway. Men will be stationed at the elevated station, the Botanical Gardens station and the Pelham parkway subway station to direct visitors upon inquiry.

10:45. Visit rose garden, which is quite near the Mansion.

12:00. Lunch in the Mansion. Members are requested to bring basket lunches.

1:00. Business meeting, followed by an interesting program.

4:00. Inspection of the grounds and buildings, including the dahlia garden, etc.

Larger Dues for Greater Work.

At the business meeting the proposed changes in the constitution and by-laws, as mailed to all members in the 1920 American Rose Annual, will be considered. These changes affect especially an increase in the annual dues for 1921 from $2 to $3 and the establishment of a group of research and sustaining members. Membership in the society now approaches 2,500. With proper activity on the part of the present members this membership will total 5,000 in 1921. The increased cost of publishing the American Rose Annual and the members' handbook and other expenses of the society make the present membership fee inadequate. Fred C. Brown, of Cleveland, was a welcome visitor to Toronto for a few days last week.

George Yavner has returned from six weeks' sojourn in the States, much improved in health. He is expanding his business, taking large quarters in the same building on the third floor, in which all design work will be done. He will also stock his supplies in the new rooms and will carry on the business of making artificial flowers for winter trade. Some of the florists find this works in well with the cut flower business without hurting it in any way. Mr. Yavner has joined the F. T. D.

Arrangements are being made to visit the F. T. D. convention at Indianapolis in full force. Several motor cars will carry those who wish to go and Mrs. Percy Waters, J. H. Dunlop and H. G. Dillemuth have offered their cars and there will be others. Any florist, whether a member of the F. T. D. or not, who wishes to make the trip is invited to inform George M. Geraghty, who will arrange for his accommodation in the cars. It is hoped that the 1921 convention will be secured for Toronto.

Gordon P. McCrostie, of Guelph, has been appointed professor of plant breeding at McDonald College, St. Anne Bellevue.

The beautiful displays in the floral building at the Canadian national exhibition won much admiration both from professionals and amateurs. Some of those which were particularly admired were those by Thomas Manton, grower for Sir Henry Pellatt; Dale Estate, Georgetown Floral Co., St. Thomas Horticultural Society, T. H. P. Hammett and A. B. Ormsby. The beautiful new gladiolus of A. Gilchrist, which is a perfect shell pink, was much admired by the trade, who see in it a good commercial flower. Mr. Gilchrist has named it Gladiolus A. Gilchrist.

A. Lange, Chicago, was a recent visitor.

J. J. Higgins had a moss window recently, asters and gladioli being tastefully arranged in baskets.

GROWERS' MEETING

CHICAGO GROWERS GATHER.

Discuss Questions of National Interest.

The discussion which formed the main part of the initial fall meeting of the Commercial Flower Growers of Chicago, held Thursday evening, September 16, at the Randolph hotel, was largely for the purpose of indicating the growers' opinions and offering suggestions to Otto Amling, director of the National Flower Growers' Association, so that he might know better how to represent the Chicago district at the meeting of the national association's directors to be held at Indianapolis in October, when the question of dues, left over from the organization meeting, will be considered. Since the next meeting of the local organization will be held October 21, this was the last opportunity which Mr. Amling had to consult with his constituency as a whole.

Since the question of increasing the local assessment for publicity had not been mentioned in the notice of the meeting, it was felt that no binding action could be taken and the matter was made special business for the October meeting. However, an unofficial test vote showed that the thirty or more members present were practically unanimously in favor of increasing the percentage of the assessment on growers' sales from one-half of one per cent to five-eighths of one per cent. According to figures presented by W. J. Keimel, president of the National Flower Growers' Association, one-half of one per cent on sales, the present amount paid to the Allied Florists' Association of Illinois by its grower members, is about equal to $4 per thousand square feet of glass. Therefore the additional one-eighth of one per cent would equal the $1 per thousand square feet which has been suggested as the basis of assessment; of this amount half would go to the local and half to the national organization.

Percentage and Square-foot Plans.

Much of the evening's discussion turned on the relative merits of the percentage basis and the square-foot basis of assessment, with the general sentiment of the meeting in favor of the former. President Kohout suggested that the percentage plan was better where the growers were organized and the square-foot plan better where they were scattered and unorganized, so that the matter might well be left to the individual locals for decision. Remarks made by W. J. Keimel, Otto Amling and others were to the effect that the percentage plan takes care of the grower of gladioli, peonies and other outdoor flowers, who has no glass, and of the grower whose glass is either vacant or unproductive because of some accident, disease or pest. The grower who pays a percentage on his sales feels that his advertising expense is determined directly by his returns.

The association voted that its representative, Otto Amling, should recommend to the national directors the adoption of the percentage plan, recognizing, however, that if the national assessment was based on the glass-area basis the local organization could do its own assessing on the other basis and make its returns to the national association on the basis of the square feet of glass. When the discussion reached the question of what proportion of the money collected for local advertising in connection with the Allied Florists' Association should be turned over to national advertising, the association voted that the proportion should be twenty-five per cent, up to March 1, 1921, when the retailers' agreement also ends.

Publicity and the Slogan's Use.

From the question of dues for national publicity the discussion turned naturally to national publicity itself. Mr. Pearson emphasized the need for continuous publicity for natural flowers in order to ward off any danger from artificial flowers, which, he believed, were being stored away in large quantities for later use. He also reminded the growers present of the large amount of free publicity which flowers were getting, partly in connection with the slogan and partly in the increasing use of flowers in advertisements of other commodities, and said that the florists' national publicity campaign was being closely watched by other producers. J. K. Rugowski, of Manitowoc, Wis., said that national advertising was certain to bring in $2 for every dollar spent and told of his own use of motion pictures of his aster fields for advertising.

Two particular features of national publicity which were considered were the slogan billboards and the use of flowers when the slogan song is sung in vaudeville houses. H. V. Swenson urged the purchase of these $50 billboards, of which the national publicity still has a large supply on hand. Mr. Pearson and Mr. French told of having visited local vaudeville or movie houses when the song, "Say It with Flowers," was sung and how the flowers which were distributed at the time were received with much enthusiasm.

Some Asters.

The exhibit of the evening consisted of three vases of asters from the J. K. Rugowski Seed Co., Manitowoc, Wis. At the invitation of President Kohout, Mr. Rugowski told how he had begun growing asters thirteen years ago, sending his blooms first to the C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee. The four kinds exhibited, which he had named Pure Honor, white; Meritorious Pink, pink; Dwarf American Beauty, red, and Purple Honor, purple, were of his raising; he said that he had got the first three 100 per cent pure, but that Purple Honor as yet came about seventy per cent pure. President Kohout appointed Hans Yepsen and Henry Wehrman to judge them. In reporting, Mr. Yepsen was so influenced by the size of the blooms that he called them chrysanthemums and had to correct himself; he said that they marked a wonderful improvement in the aster family, but that the judges had been able to consider only the pink variety, since the others were in vases of mixed colors. To Meritorious Pink they awarded ninety points, as follows: Color, 25, from a possible 30; size, 40; stem, 15, from a possible 20; substance, 10.

The chief points in the more routine business of the evening were the election of Joseph Trovsky, of Gross Point, Ill., to membership, and the acceptance of two resignations, including that of Joseph Hill, of Richmond, Ind. President Kohout said that a number of such resignations might now be expected, as new locals were organized in Indiana and southern Illinois, which would claim the allegiance of a few present members of the Chicago association.

STABILIZING OUR MARKET

By JOSEPH KOHOUT.

GROWERS have plenty of problems to think about following the establishment of a publicity bureau, and among them is stabilizing the marketing of cut flowers, wherever such a system will adapt itself to a particular locality. I believe the Chicago market is best situated to try such an experiment. These are my individual views, which I hope will further the discussion of this subject toward a settlement before another season is upon us. This subject was but slightly referred to in a previous article, and I venture now only to express what I think would be the benefits derived in stabilizing the marketing of cut flowers.

The present system of the wholesale marketing of cut flowers was inaugurated by the commission dealer. The continual changing and shifting of the growers, with the continual division among the commission dealers, brought on the competition we now have in marketing our products.

Already Demonstrated.

Coöperative marketing, as has been demonstrated in many other lines, is particularly practical and profitable in the handling and selling of perishable products. As we have them in the wholesale marketing of cut flowers, the soliciting consignors, the methods of selling and the methods of reporting sales are all of doubtful character and much on lines of secrecy. Other wholesale marketing ideas might be applied, to insure a continuation of profitable returns on our greenhouse investments. The keen competition is one wholesaler against another, without the wholesome building up of the structure as a whole.

Our competitive system of wholesaling at times runs wild. When the supply is evidently greater than the demand, the wholesaler is at the mercy of the retailer, and the growers have to take all the risk of the wholesaler's judgment. When the demand is seemingly greater than the supply, the wholesaler plays his game to get even with the retailer without giving growers an assurance of a higher average price for our products. Remember, we pay the growing bills all the year around.

Downward wholesale prices start with cold feet among wholesalers because of an oversupply, and upward prices do not begin until the wholesaler is sure of his ground. Each wholesaler stands alone in determining prices at which it is hoped the stock will be sold, and it is not unusual for the wholesaler not to know the market till after the close of a day's business.

Danger in Extremes.

Our first step toward better prices to benefit the entire florists' trade began with our present advertising campaign. The next step to harmonize with our publicity work is to stabilize cut flower and plant prices to the consumer through the retail dealers by stabilizing the prices for which our goods are sold by the wholesale distributor. The extremes of prices, up one day and down another, during the season from the first frost to the oncoming of outdoor spring flowers is an impossible situation for the public to understand. This much we all know, that the sudden unexpected extremes in prices are injurious to the cut flower industry and resented by grower, wholesaler, retailer and the buying public.

For the last two years inflated unnatural conditions have favored us with high prices, but now unforeseen conditions may arise at any time. To forestall any contingencies of unprofitable growing we must dispense with the personal liberty, the freedom to do as one pleases, with our marketing interests in a helpless state. We growers through our organization should lay down rules for the betterment of the trade's conditions. We should not be handicapped for the lack of control in marketing, nor should we continue to trust others, with hope and forbearance, to do it for us. Few wholesalers have held a continuous growth in building up sales, but when we have the whole market before our view under a central agency plan, we will know the weak spots of the market. We should have some knowledge of all conditions as they are, not what is possible.

Under our competitive system we do not build up the market as we should, but permit surrounding cities to creep in to build up their particular territory with our products and then encourage the building of greenhouses to hold their markets. We should be in possession of a plan that would operate to build up this market so that we could all see it grow, how it grows and the possible reasons that make it grow.

To expand this market will be a new function of a central agency. Let us stabilize prices by a maximum and a minimum price plan under the control of a central agency, with the management in the hands of a market manager under the direct auspices of all the growers shipping into the Chicago market.

Plan of Management.

Then we can coördinate the work of stabilizing prices by a form of direct suggestion to the wholesale dealers and thus begin a new system of operations with all the divisions of the trade to stabilize prices as far as it is within our means to bring it about, to stabilize prices for the purposes of assuring a maintenance of a higher average price to avoid as far as consistent the extreme high prices that are obnoxious to the consumer, and to place a bottom price against undesirable low extremes that reflect on the sales effectiveness of the work of our advertising campaign. A central agency will be the means of making cut flower prices to the public that will go far to stimulate sales. Stabilizing prices will tend to create a greater demand and will lessen the speculative tendency of the grower. Such a central agency will fix the line of equation between high and low prices.

The directing officers of such a central agency would be the executive officers of the Commercial Flower Growers of Chicago and the president and secretary of the Chicago Wholesale Florists' Association as members ex-officio. The manager of such central agency must be a man of wide and successful marketing experience, an authority who will remain impartial, promote friendly coöperation, add strength to the market and demonstrate ability to increase the business of the entire market, a man who is familiar with the real conditions and competent to advise growers concerning their marketing.

> Formation of growers into a united body for mutual advancement has led to much discussion regarding the objects to be sought and the methods to be followed. Most important of the subjects debated is the means of making greenhouse products profitable the year around and from season to season. The president of the most successful growers' organization in the country presents a plan to that end.

The essential thing, however, is specific and complete data of the market in its entirety, to check up consignment accounts, to classify the grades of stock of all growers and wholesalers, to improve wholesale commission bookkeeping with a system of record-keeping to show daily receipts as set off by each day's demand, to keep records of prices received for actual bona-fide sales and price averages for growers who wish comparison of results, to reduce to a minimum the difference between the prices quoted by a wholesaler and those received by the grower, to stop any juggling of sales returns, to obtain as far as possible a correct estimate of greenhouse and field crop conditions, to stop the practice of resales against the consignors' interests. Some method should be devised of gathering and compiling data regarding incoming shipments and outgoing bulk sales that will give information to such country buyers, growers and wholesalers as wish to avail themselves of the advantages such information would have to offer to suit their particular purpose.

Meet Marketing Problems.

In obtaining such accurate data for the consignee and the consignor, we keep in direct communication with market developments, with the life of the market as it really is, ready to meet marketing problems as they arise. The central agency will be there with a consolidated front to utilize to every advantage telephone, telegraph, traveling and market advertising to encourage team work in the wholesalers' filling of orders, to watch and scrutinize the difference between what the retailer pays and what the consumer pays. Under some such plan as this I feel that the average price of cut flowers is sure to be raised. More satisfactory sales could be made by sustaining prices rather than giving in to every retail dealer who bears down on prices at the first sign of an increase in supply beyond the control of the wholesaler. Besides all this, we can protect our market. We can build a stronger market with farther reaching effect and increase the annual volume of all sales.

On the other hand we would not directly or indirectly interfere with the free competition of the market in its regular course of doing business, though it ought to be our privilege to expose underhanded practices by grower, wholesaler or retailer. We might find an outlet for an overabundance of stock without the duplicating expense of the present competitive system. We would not interfere with any changes consignors desire to make among commission firms. We would not assume direct authority either over consignments or prices, nor should we desire any direct jurisdiction over any wholesale houses.

Healthier Demand.

With prices on a maximum and minimum plan, the retailers would not expect us to succeed on low prices, so it would be up to us to have a plan to upset any attack on a weak market, so that the retail dealer would be brought to a realization that our goods have a price. Low prices are dangerous in their effect on the public, more so than high prices, and low prices have not been proved to be the means of taking up the waste unless the advantages are to be handed over to the unscrupulous dealer against the legitimate dealer. If we concede that price cutting may temporarily increase distribution through the department store channels we must admit that the price reaction leaves some bad effects upon the regular dealer upon whom we must depend all the year around.

With extreme high prices the reaction is against the advertising stimulant of a healthy every day demand, but if the public will pay a high price, I believe we will all agree to keep up the price. When cut flowers are cheap they sell below the average cost of production. What would happen under such circumstances if the market is continued on the unregulated principal of the law of supply and demand? Prices without bottom and waste beyond redemption. Our oversupply should be utilized to serve a more useful purpose than the killing of prices.

Making Waste Profitable.

Our advertising bureau should devise a way to make waste profitable. We all know that quality will always have its price, that quantity will have its price and inferior stock has a price. The best grower would still get the best prices, the poorer grower would get less.

It will be argued that the assortment of stock in its different grades would make it impossible to divide the grades or precisely match all the products of the different growers. To meet this contention I want to say that a consignment plan was originated as read in a paper at a Chicago Florists' Club meeting during the administration of Fred Lautenschlager, a plan of rose grading and sales accounting to make it practical to establish a market control on such roses as are sold.

Fixing prices under a maximum and minimum plan is still a supply and demand price, since any kind of a demand opens the way to stabilizing prices to a higher average for the grower and likewise increases the income of the commission merchant. The grower could afford to lose one-half of a consignment, rather than to sacrifice the price because stock happens to be accumulating. As long as the public does not demand sacrifice prices why should a retailer offer stock at low prices?

Fixed Prices Not Fixed.

Of what value are fixed prices quoted previous to every holiday by the wholesaler if made without any knowledge of what the conditions of supply and demand may be? The wholesalers' prices two or three weeks in advance mean nothing when prices are subject to change without notice. The prices quoted are not adhered to. Four or five days' previous to shipping, unexpected consignments bring on an accumulation, and then the drop begins on the growers' expected check. A most radical decline in prices takes place. Reports that have come under my observation have shown returns to growers from one-half to one-third of the prices quoted on sales made one and two days before such holidays.

A maximum and minimum principle under similar conditions would render the growers higher average returns, while under our competitive system we shall always have a breaking market just as soon as one wholesaler shaves the prices to some other wholesaler's customers. We growers pay for the shrinkage and take eighty-five per cent of the loss.

Others Show Way.

Other lines of business determine their prices, whether to go up or down, and hold the prices jointly until sufficient cause makes it compulsory to alter the prices. Fruit growers' organizations set prices for their members. The theatrical business eliminates price competition and yet some manage to get more money than is asked at the box office. Our railroad rates are fixed by a commission and we pay them.

Get this clearly in your mind, I do not propose any plan to interfere with the present competitive system other than to take a lead in suggesting to wholesale dealers better facilities for better prices, more uniform prices, higher average prices. I believe every dealer has a reason to commend the plan. A market manager, we will say, costs $50 a day, as the total annual expense would be $15,000. The manager should be able to increase the annual sales revenue of the market as a whole at least $1,000,000 over the highest record of market sales of the last two years. Growers out of this would reap $850,000 and the wholesalers $150,000. Would such an increase to the growers of this market pay for the operating expenses of a central office for this market? These figures show what the possibilities are.

To those who think a plan of this kind impossible of practical application, I suggest a compromise with the opposing elements. Try the experiment and make it prove itself. This is the acid test that will decide for or against the plan. It will either be abandoned as a failure or it will continue as a success.

LANCASTER, PA.

Club Meeting.

The Lancaster County Florists' Club held its September meeting in the office of President Willis B. Girvin, Leola, with a good attendance of members. The newly erected King iron-construction greenhouse, 64x220 feet, planted to 6,000 rose plants, was an object of much interest. Other houses are devoted to roses, carnations, asparagus, chrysanthemums, sweet peas, stevias and callas; in bulbs there are 20,000 Paper Whites and 10,000 freesias, all in fine order, under the able management of the foreman, John H. Schoenberger. Mr. Girvin is also one of Lancaster county's progressive farmers and has many acres of fine tobacco ready to harvest; in addition, he operates one of the most successful feed and milling businesses in this section and is a director of the Brownstown bank.

The meeting was called to order by President Girvin. L. C. Dyer, who is a brother-in-law of our carnation specialist, J. Wade Gaylor, gave a talk on his recent trip to Portland, Ore., as the local representative to the convention of the Kiwanis Club. He spoke most enthusiastically of the wonderful roses in Portland in the month of June and his description of the Canadian Rockies and Yellowstone park was much enjoyed. T. J. Nolan read a quite instructive paper on "Boilers and New Ideas in Heating."

B. F. Barr, who represented the club at Washington, D. C., with regard to the recently proposed quarantine of Pennsylvania's nursery stock, etc., gave an interesting account of the business transacted and a thorough review of the Japanese beetle and its habits.

September 29 the club will visit the dahlia show of the R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., at White Marsh, Md., and the indications are that a large number will attend. Any neighboring florists who wish to join the party should communicate with the club's secretary, Albert M. Herr. H. K. R.

GLADIOLUS WILHELMINA GUDE.

The many florists who attended the S. A. F. convention at Cleveland last month had opportunity to see, among the splendid displays of gladioli there, a new variety that was highly complimented on that occasion and received particular mention from the judges of the trade exhibits. This was the seedling Wilhelmina Gude from Baum's Home of Flowers, Knoxville, Tenn. A particularly fine vase of this flower appears in the illustration on this page. The raiser's description of it is as follows: "A beautiful, dark, flaming salmon-pink; lower petals nicely feathered red, shaded to light salmon; good-sized bloom with edges fluted; from four to eight flowers open at one time, correctly placed on a stout, upright and straight stem. The variety is a strong, healthy grower, with dark green foliage. This gladiolus has all the indications of a good commercial variety."

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Flowers of all kinds continue to be quite plentiful, and the market is fairly steady. Business during the last week has been good, probably due to the cooler weather. Weddings and funerals have made a heavier demand for stock. The supply was composed chiefly of outdoor flowers. Asters are arriving in large quantities and they continue to be of good quality. Gladioli, too, are plentiful and sell at low figures in order to move rapidly. Although somewhat late in the season, they are of excellent quality, with quite a large variety reaching us daily. Calendulas, candytuft, cosmos, zinnias, gaillardia, bachelor's buttons and speciosum lilies are all plentiful.

The new crop of carnations is improving both in size and length of stem and sells moderately well. Golden Glow and Smith's Advance are reaching us daily, but until we get a killing frost these will not be in heavy demand. The supply of roses is large enough to meet all present demands. There has been a fair demand for Brunners.

Various Notes.

George T. Boucher showed some excellent bulbs in his East Main street window last week. Huge vases of gladioli were also to be seen. Mr. Boucher is already advertising the annual chrysanthemum show which he holds in his store and which will take place early in November. From a business standpoint he finds this one of the best means of advertising he has yet tried.

Visitors to the trade last week included A. N. Anderson, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago; Stephen D. Green, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, and J. Wiese, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Frank Kimball, of G. B. Hart, Inc., was a visitor at the New York state fair held in Syracuse, N. Y., last week.

The outlook for chrysanthemums for the season is exceptionally good, with good, firm plants. They are well budded, and it is only a matter of a short time before they will be plentiful. Begonias and cyclamens have the appearance of being quite plentiful.

Alberts, Florist, had a pretty window display last week-end, in which vases and baskets of orange-colored African marigolds were featured. H. J. H.

The Market.

Mums are coming into the market in larger quantities than at any time since they first made their appearance several weeks ago. At first only the earliest yellow mums arrived. Other early varieties are now beginning to be received in small quantities. Asters still have a prominent place in the displays of the local florists, with gladioli arriving in considerable quantities. Prices are moderate. Business is still quite slow, but florists here look forward to a fine fall trade.

Various Notes.

Henry A. Strobell, 931 Broad street, reports that the summer season has been good for him, compared with other years. Transient trade has been slow, but there has been considerable funeral work and more wedding work than usual at this time of the year.

Buel the Florist, 3 West Grand street, Elizabeth, had an appropriate summer window display. The entire floor of the window was covered with sand. A few rocks were scattered here and there. In the center of the window an open umbrella rested upon the sand, the outside toward the street. This had been covered with asters of different colors arranged in rows so as to make a pretty color design.

Philips Bros., 938 Broad street, report that July trade was the best in the history of that firm for that summer month. August business, however, was unusually poor. Trade is now beginning to increase in volume. Frank Philips, who returned from his vacation just after Labor day, a few days later had to have his left tonsil cut out.

A safe in the office of Edward W. Fengar, 149 Linden avenue, Irvington, was broken open with a sledge hammer at night and $150 in cash was taken. The combination lock was broken off with the hammer. R. B. M.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

FURTHER easing of the labor market is indicated by a rapid acceleration of immigration in late months.

CARE in grading blooms for market can not be too great. Consistently well graded stock wins buyers' constant attention.

ARE retailers pleased or otherwise to find chiffon coming down? No one, we think, believes the retail trade has not benefited by the circle of steadily rising prices. But it could not go on forever.

EVERY business house is glad to accommodate regular customers by allowing payment of bills at the end of the month, but infrequent orders of small amount should be accompanied by cash.

THE extremely high and still rising cost of paper hits others besides publishers. Every florist is affected and large numbers are doing what they can to economize in the use of wrapping and packing materials.

ACCORDING to U. S. government labor bureau statistics, prices of nearly all commodities fell in August and in most large industries the number of persons employed showed a decrease. Fuel was the principal commodity which advanced in price during August.

REPORTS of general business failures last week indicated a decided increase over the week before, though they were not so numerous as in the corresponding week of the last four years with the exception of 1919. The florists' trade is in better condition than some others.

"EVERY treasury," said J. Ogden Armour the other day, "has need for a good watch dog who knows the difference between necessary expenditures and those which are not essential," a remark which applies at this time to the small florist's business as well as to the big packer's.

NEXT week the American Dahlia Society will hold its sixth annual exhibition, September 27 to 29, at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, and its annual meeting at the same place at 3 p. m., September 28. At that time much will be heard concerning the trips to leading dahlia growers which some members of the society are making this week.

ECONOMY in greenhouse operation doesn't mean saving money by not spending it, but rather saving some of it by spending the rest more wisely.

COMPARISON makes $50 for a "Say It with Flowers" billboard look like cheap advertising. Every grower should put one alongside his boiler shed.

SPECULATION is an evil which cannot be charged against the florists' trade. Supply and demand alone regulate the price the consumer pays, sometimes to the florists' sorrow.

THE September issue of the S. A. F. Journal, just sent to members, is increased above the size of previous months to accommodate the first installment of the convention proceedings.

WHEN an hour of an employee's time counts as real money the greenhouse owner finds it more profitable to buy the many labor-saving devices now manufactured than to try to make his own.

THE smaller the business the greater the need of keeping collections in good shape at this time and exercising one's careful business judgment. About eighty per cent of present failures are of concerns with less than $5,000 capital and ninety per cent are those having less than $20,000 capital.

SIX double-page advertisements in last issue of The Review and six again this week. With present costs of paper and printing, these big, impressive ads are cheaper as well as more effective than circularizing and the trade is beginning to appreciate it. It costs $120 for 1-cent stamps to send the lightest circular to as many florists as receive The Review, to say nothing of the cost of printing.

F. T. D. ARRANGEMENTS.

Official headquarters for the F. T. D. convention at Indianapolis, Ind., October 12 and 13 will be at the Claypool hotel, where arrangements have been made for the trade display in the Palm room. There are a limited number of tables 3x6 feet at $15 dollars each; tables 3x8 feet will be $20 each and round tables five feet across will be $10 each. Table reservations should be made with O. E. Steinkamp, 3800 Rookwood avenue, chairman of the hotel committee. The rates at the Claypool hotel are: One person with bath, $2.50 and up; two persons with bath, $4 and up. Other Indianapolis hotels are the Colonial, the Dennison, the English, the Lincoln, the Royal, the Severin, the Washington and the Williams.

CHIFFONS AND RIBBONS.

Trade reports from the textile industry have told of considerable recent unsettlement there, but it takes quite a while for a break in the market to be felt by the retail florist who uses chiffons or ribbons. By far the greater part of the chiffons used by the florists of the United States are manufactured in France. They were bought many months ago, long before they were manufactured. The French manufacturers know little of American ideas of competition. They do not regard competition as the life of trade; rather, they look upon coöperation as being the source of profits. Let an American jobber undertake to cancel an order he has placed and in the course of time he learns that the reasons he gives have been passed upon by a council of the French manufacturers and that, if based on a falling market, he not only is refused permission to cancel, but also is refused the privilege of buying from any other house. Consequently it takes quite a while for a change in the manufacturing situation in France to be felt by the consumers of chiffons in America. Nevertheless, orders may now be placed in France at prices about ten per cent lower than those insisted on a month or two ago.

The ribbon market in the manufacturing district in America also has experienced some degree of the drop which has run throughout the textile trades. Manufacturing prices and jobbers' prices all are down perhaps twenty to twenty-five per cent compared with the high point. But florists' ribbons are a special commodity. They are not to be found in mill stocks or in ribbon jobbing houses in the trade centers; jobbing houses in the florists' trade are obliged to have florists' ribbons manufactured to order. They are not in position to take immediate advantage of slight recessions in the market.

In case the present trend of general business is continued, it is probable that there will be gradual decreases in the cost of textiles used in flower stores, but they will be relatively unimportant from the florists' profit point of view, for the reason that the retailer adds to the price of the arrangement whatever the ribbons cost.

READY FOR REAL BUSINESS.

Various lines of merchandise are declining in price and in some industries some unemployment is evident for the first time in several years. But close observers of conditions do not see, for these reasons, a general slump in business, such as would diminish the public's demand for flowers. On the contrary, the belief is general that the present readjustment is knocking off from prices the unnecessary additions caused by speculation, by extravagant and careless buying and by profiteering. When these are removed, it is believed, industries will once more speed up. As the head of the Federal Reserve bank stated last week, "business generally is looking forward to a fall and winter of at least average activity. Sentiment is being helped by the bountiful harvests, by the better outlook for the railroads and by the knowledge that many highly essential developments which have been long deferred by force of circumstances, such as enlargement of our transportation facilities and additions to housing accommodations throughout the country, must soon be undertaken. A broad demand, which will probably extend over a period of years, is opening up for the products of our basic industries, and if in the readjustments ahead of us any lines of business should prove to be overdone there is every assurance that any surplus of brains and energy now engaged in such lines can be readily utilized in other fields of activity."

OBITUARY

William J. Halliday.

In the death of William J. Halliday, of Baltimore, Md., Wednesday evening, September 15, occurred the passing of the last member of a generation of a family which has had much effect on the florists' business in Baltimore. Mr. Halliday was one of five children of Robert J. Halliday, who was one of the pioneers in the florists' business in Baltimore. Mr. Halliday emigrated from Scotland to Baltimore and started in the nursery and florists' business at Pennsylvania avenue and Dolphin street in 1837. Associated with him were his three sons, William J., Robert J. and James; the two girls, Mary J. and Fannie, looked after the store. In later years Robert J. and his sister, who afterward married Daniel Thomas, branched out on their own account. About twenty-five years ago William J. Halliday married Miss Katie L. Bracket, who had spent the greater part of her life in the Halliday employ. After his marriage he, too, embarked in business on his own account and up to the time of his death conducted one of the most exclusive flower stores in the city. His range on Liberty Heights avenue was devoted entirely to orchids, of which he made a specialty. He was a man of quiet and retiring disposition, but any florist in trouble was sure to find in him a friend. His funeral, which was largely attended by the florists of this and near-by cities, was from his residence, on Liberty Heights avenue, Saturday, September 18, at 3 p. m. The floral offerings were numerous and handsome. The trade mourns the loss of one of its best advisers, as well as a friend who was respected by all who knew him. Tate.

William F. Keys.

William F. Keys, of 951 North Gay street, Baltimore, Md., died after an illness of one and a half years at Mercy hospital, September 18, where he had been a patient for six weeks. He is survived by his widow and three children: Mrs. Southern J. Scott, of Florida; Mrs. Edgar Carne, of California, and William F. Keys, Jr., the well known florist of Baltimore.

His funeral was from his late residence Monday, September 20, and was supervised by the Corinthian Lodge of Masons, of which he had been a life member. Interment was in Western cemetery. The funeral was largely attended by members of the trade. The numerous floral offerings were tasteful and attractive. The home was decorated with ferns and palms. Tate.

Thomas D. Long.

Thomas D. Long, former manager of the Elitch-Long Greenhouses, Denver, Colo., was killed near Colorado Springs Monday, September 13, when a new automobile which he was driving got beyond control on a steep grade, turning over in a deep arroyo and killing Mr. Long instantly. Mr. Long at the time of his death was manager of Frank F. Crump's greenhouses, at Colorado Springs. He was returning from Woodman's Sanitarium, where he was concerned with some proposed flower beds, when the accident occurred.

Mr. Long at one time represented Vaughan's Seed Store, of Chicago, as salesman. He was 58 years old.

The funeral was held Friday, September 17, at Colorado Springs, and was largely attended by Denver florists. R. E. H.

Judson Kramer.

Judson Kramer, the active member of I. N. Kramer & Son, Cedar Rapids, Ia., dropped dead Saturday morning, September 18, on a street in Marion, Ia., where were located his residence and the firm's greenhouses. He had just been making a delivery and was cranking his car when death came, from heart failure, at 7 a. m. He was 59 years of age.

Mr. Kramer was a life member of the S. A. F. and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He is survived by his aged father and two sisters.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

The Market.

From "affluence to poverty" has been the rapid change in the market supply. Stock has been plentiful all summer, but last week there has been a sharp decrease in supply. At this time, summer stock being on the decline and winter flowers just coming in, there is little to be had.

The demand for roses has been accelerated by a number of September weddings. All fall flowers, as well, have been popular for parties calling for decorations, table bouquets and corsages.

The supply of asters has considerably lessened. This is especially true of good stock. There is a considerable quantity of poor stock available. The price ranges from $1 per hundred up, according to quality.

Gladioli are also on the decline, stock bringing only $2 and $3 per hundred. Lilies are available, but are not plentiful.

The best of the outdoor stock is still usable. Buddleia, cosmos, zinnias and marigolds are to be seen in displays.

Carnations are appearing in better supply. While the stems are still rather short, they can be worked up nicely in funeral work, small baskets and table bouquets. All colors are available. The demand has been good and all available stock has been utilized. A limited number of chrysanthemums of the early varieties have arrived and are bringing good prices.

Potted plants are meager in variety. Good ferns are available and have been in brisk demand.

Various Notes.

Edwin Mourner, of Shelbyville, and Dave Kelly, of Franklin, were in this city last week.

Bertermann Bros. Co. and E. E. Temperley are the first to cut chrysanthemums in Indianapolis.

The committee in charge of the ladies for the F. T. D. convention will be Mrs. Irwin Bertermann, Mrs. George Wiegand and Mrs. E. E. Temperley.

Greene's Flower Shop and Bertermann Bros. Co. had appropriate windows for the celebration of the G. A. R. convention last week. The American Eagle and shield were conspicuously featured in immortelles, with "Welcome G. A. R." in large letters. The majority of the flower shops have welcome placards in their windows.

John Kilcoyne has returned from the south and is again at John Rieman's shop.

A limited amount of space for trade displays at the F. T. D. convention will be sold. Anyone desiring information should communicate with O. E. Steinkamp, 3800 Rookwood avenue, Indianapolis, Ind. E. E. T.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The week witnessed some improvement in business in advance of the overdue arrival of cool weather. Summer has lingered in the lap of autumn and the conditions have been far from favorable for the prompt reawakening of the seasonable demand for flowers. And yet the business has increased. The improvement in the market situation has been due to two factors, a slightly reduced supply and a slightly increased demand. The demand will, unquestionably, increase by leaps and bounds when the weather keeps the people indoors evenings and Sundays.

The heavy summer rose crops are passing off. Not that there is any scarcity of roses, but that the oversupply is less unwieldy than it was. Roses have been selling cheaply for so long that some persons in each branch of the industry seem not to have noted the change; there have been some extremely low prices in the last week, but those who felt for a firmer footing found reason to feel the need for sacrifice has passed, or nearly so. While it is not likely high prices will be realized soon, the usual late September rally is expected. Roses are excellent, although a few growers who are saving coal have mildew as the result of the cooler nights. Pink is the principal color. Some houses say Russell leads in demand, some Premier and some Columbia; it probably depends on which variety the trade knows to be most abundant in that particular place. The call for red has not awakened and white sells slowly; there are too many white roses in this market just now. Ophelia is abundant, but is not in high favor at this season.

Carnations have come on rapidly in the last week. The supply is at least adequate for the demand and the prospect is for an entirely different season from the last one. The cuts are coming on in quantity much earlier this year. Of course stems are short as yet, but flowers are good. Evidently the plants have had a good summer and are going ahead rapidly.

The supply of chrysanthemums has increased several fold during the week. Golden Glow is the most abundant and best variety, but quite a few October Frost are seen. Even in the high heat of last week sales were made as high as $5 per dozen, which shows a good market as well as good stock. The bulk of the sales, of course, were $2 to $4. Only one pompon variety is seen, in small supply.

Easter lilies continue abundant. There is enough valley, although the demand is improving. Other indoor flowers are not numerous.

Of outdoor stock, there continues to be a glut of poor gladioli, but there are not now too many good ones; it is no unusual thing for a wholesaler who has many pails of "glads" on his counter late in the day to have to go out and buy to fill a shipping order. Asters, too, are on the down grade, although there are a few asters which will class as the best of the season to date and which are selling at the highest prices. If other summer flowers have not gone, the quantity is so reduced they are unimportant to the market as a whole.

Green goods are moderately plentiful, except galax. There is likely to be a larger supply this season than last of adiantum and asparagus.

The Coal Situation.

Next to the prevailing low prices of flowers, the high price of coal engages the attention of growers. There has been just this much change in the fuel situation: Coal of certain not specially desirable grades is now to be had by paying the price. There is little Pocahontas reaching this market and it goes only to those who hold contracts for all-season delivery. Next to Pocahontas, the best liked fuel for growers is that obtained in Franklin county, Illinois. It is not easy to obtain, but Williamson county coal can be had by applying to almost any of the principal jobbers or to the concerns which operate mines in that territory. The asking price is $8.50 per ton for mine run, which, with freight added, makes the coal cost $10.31 per ton at Chicago. Many growers have still to stand a switching charge. There is a feeling that prices are coming down; certain large growers are known to have found them already open to negotiation.

Introducing Mrs. Reid.

Miss Edna Frauenfelder became Mrs. William Reid at a simple home wedding September 18.

The bride is, perhaps, the most widely known of the many accomplished women in the trade in Chicago. When she finished her school life she entered the store of her father, the late C. Frauenfelder, and soon demonstrated unusual ability at designing and decorating. Since her father's death she has been the manager of the business, which is among the largest in Chicago. Mr. Reid travels in southern territory for the A. L. Randall Co. They leave September 23 for a trip on which, after the honeymoon, Mrs. Reid will accompany him on a call on his customers.

Johnson Goes to Rockford.

C. W. Johnson, president of the American Carnation Society and superintendent of the floricultural department of Mount Greenwood cemetery, has resigned his position with the latter institution and, October 1, will remove to Rockford, Ill., to take charge of the greenhouses and retail flower store of the H. W. Buckbee Co. It is said the offer came to Mr. Johnson unsolicited and that the position will afford him an unusual opportunity for the exercise of his exceptional abilities as a cut flower and plant grower. The Buckbee establishment does a large wholesale as well as retail business.

Various Notes.

T. E. Waters celebrated his forty-fifth birthday anniversary September 20. The president of the Florists' Club was born at Beverly, Mass., in 1875. He entered the employ of J. Newman & Sons, Boston, at the age of 12, in 1887, so he has spent thirty-three years in the florists' business.

The question of new leases is beginning to interest the wholesalers, especially those in the Lemoyne building, whose terms expire April 30. When the cut flower houses moved into the Lemoyne building it had stood empty some months, new, and they obtained low rentals. Since then the building and neighborhood have filled up and rents have been advancing steadily. It is reported the agent plans to double the original rates as fast as the leases expire. In other buildings the advances are less sharp but are considerable. Most of those in the Atlas block stood a big boost last May.

C. J. Michelsen, whose opinions on such matters carry much weight, says he does not see how business can be considered otherwise than satisfactory. "We have been making moderate increases in sales, compared to the same dates last year, almost every day since the middle of August and recently these gains have increased considerably. Considering that prices have been lower than last year, to obtain increased sales a much larger quantity of stock must have been sold. The trade does not buy flowers unless they can be passed on to the public and it, therefore, is apparent the demand must have exceeded, and does exceed, the demand last year. The low prices, in my judgment, have been due solely to weather conditions, which have been responsible for the abnormally large supply of stock on the market all summer."

This is the season of autumnal openings on State street, which is equivalent to saying that it is the rush season for Henry Wittbold & Son, who do most of the special decorating for the department stores. George Wittbold, the junior but most active partner, spends most of his time in the downtown district these days, his Pierce-Arrow sport car standing many hours at a time in the market section.

The marriage of Elmer E. Wehrman, son of Fred Wehrman, and Miss Florence Charlesworth, took place Saturday evening, September 18, at the thus far this season, but C. L. Sherer says it now will make up for lost time and be the predominent variety until frost comes.

W. A. Hansen returned September 20 from a fortnight's business trip in the interest of the E. C. Amling Co. He visited a number of the company's sources of supply in the east and, on the way home, called on numerous customers between Pittsburgh and Chicago. He says the business is better in the middle west than it is in the east.

A. Miller, president of the A. B. C., is on an eastern business trip expected to extend to New York this week. The concern is doing an enormous business in French and Dutch bulbs, possibly the largest in America this year.

O. Johnson, who has been selling investment securities since he disposed of his active interest in the Batavia Greenhouse Co., is a frequent visitor in the market. Outside the rush hours his old associates are pleased to entertain him in the same old way.

John Poehlmann was at St. Paul last week when a hail storm broke considerable glass there. He says the garden flowers there are unusually fine, the weather having been ideal this summer.

Peter Reinberg has discarded the Champ Weiland rose in this year's planting. Only a few seasons ago it was one of his leaders.

The American Greenhouse Mfg. Co. this week was awarded a contract by the Odd Fellows' Home, at Mattoon, Ill., for a palm house, 25x28 feet, and a connected house, 24x50, of pipe-frame construction, to be erected this fall.

The Market.

An absence of cold weather, with a fairly good supply of cut flowers from outdoors, continues. As a consequence, prices have not hardened during the last few days, but in some cases the reverse has been true. Some good gladioli still come in and these sell up to $8 per hundred, but the great majority are small and of inferior quality, realizing only low prices. There are still quite good supplies of asters, varying from $1 to $3 per hundred. Heavy rain storms and frosts will probably soon reduce arrivals. The rose market is inclined to weaken a little. For American Beauty there is little call. For hybrid teas the demand is variable, although a terrific hail storm has temporarily stopped shipments from the largest grower of these in New England. The quality is somewhat improved, with a good call for Ophelia, F. W. Dunlop, Mme. Butterfly, Columbia and Premier. The temporary shortage of whites is over.

Carnations are improving and sell at $1 to $2 per hundred. Prices on lilies vary. The supply of colored speciosums is good and the quality is especially fine. A large number of Chrysanthemum Golden Glow are coming in and these realize good prices. Smaller lots of Early Frost are also seen. Dahlias never cut any figure in the local flower markets, on account of their poor keeping qualities. Limited supplies of cosmos and other outdoor blooms are arriving and in the stores bunches of hardy asters, helianthus and heleniums are used. Valley is scarce and dear for the increasing number of prospective brides. Cattleyas are somewhat more plentiful and are cheaper. Ferns, crotons, dracænas and other foliage plants are meeting with a good sale for retail store trade.

At the various retail stores business is improving and numerous fall wedding orders are being executed. Good displays of seasonable decorative plants are to be seen.

The Budlong Disaster.

The Budlong Co., at Auburn, R. I., has the largest range of glass devoted to rose culture in New England, covering some 500,000 square feet, and the terrific hail storm which swept the establishment September 14 destroyed four-fifths of the glass and destroyed or terribly crippled all the plants, in addition to completely destroying hundreds of acres of market garden crops. Hailstones fell as large as lemons and they lay two feet thick along the sides of houses the morning following the storm. Mr. Budlong, Sr., accepted the disaster philosophically and remarked that it might have been worse, as he had the frames of the houses left.

Arrangements have been made with the American Window Glass Co., Chester, Pa., to hold up other orders temporarily and produce the necessary glass for the Budlong range; repair work will be rushed at once. The glass ordered will cost about $80,000 and expressage some $20,000 additional. The total loss on the Budlong greenhouses and farms is estimated at $250,000. A large proportion of their cut has always come to Boston and the firm is optimistic enough to look for a good Christmas crop in spite of what seemed an almost overwhelming disaster.

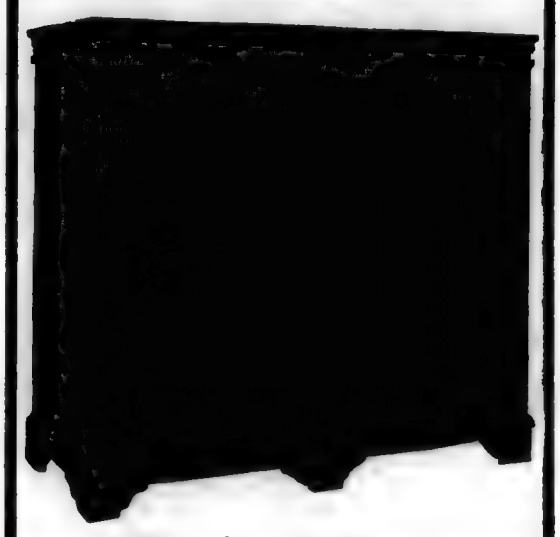
Various Notes.



The Halifax Garden Co., of which Eber Holmes is the new manager, is shipping in a fine lot of Golden Glow mums and will soon have large shipments of roses and carnations. The stock here is looking extremely well.

The annual fruit and vegetable show at Horticultural hall will be held September 25 and 26. On this occasion A. C. Burrage, of Beverly, will make another of his notable displays of 100 specimen orchids in flower.

John K. M. L. Farquhar, who returned from his European trip last week, states that Kew Gardens were in fine shape and just as well kept as in prewar times. The gardens are likely to be considerably extended ere long. A number of noted English estates were visited, the most interesting one being that of the Hon. Viceroy Gibbs, of Aldenham House, Elstree. In France he found a widespread feeling of optimism and at the noted house of Vilmorin conditions were nearly normal. A number of nurseries were visited near Orleans. Stocks were much depleted and prices extremely high compared with a few years ago. He believed that, considering how the European countries had suffered in the great war, horticulture in them was making a really remarkable recovery.

Thomas Roland is marketing an exceptionally fine lot of ferns, crotons and other decorative plants. He has a larger and finer lot of cyclamens than ever before and a superb batch of ericas. Some of the melantheras will soon be in flower. At Revere roses are just coming into crop and look better than ever. A full coal supply is on hand here, but at Nahant much more is needed.

Plans are being considered for lectures and discussions at all the leading flower shows at Horticultural hall in 1921. A prominent lady horticulturist has offered to finance the whole scheme and it is hoped that we may have shows not less than once a month, with lectures on such subjects as hardy roses,

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

Committee Meets October 11.

Through a clerical error, the date of the meeting of the publicity committee in Indianapolis was stated to be October 12. The meeting will take place Monday, October 11.

The city of Cleveland will officially "Say It with Flowers" at the opening of its magnificent new Auditorium March 25, 1922, arrangements having been completed for opening the building with the fifth national flower show, which will be in progress from March 25 to April 1 in that year.

Our Slogan Spans the Ocean.

Last week we reported a subscription of $50 to our fund from Bees, Ltd., of Liverpool, England. In making this subscription, Mr. Horton, of the firm, says: "We have had the pleasure of executing a large number of telegraph orders on behalf of United States florists and are confident that much of this business is the outcome of your publicity campaign. If you have time to read the English horticultural press, you may have noticed that I am interesting myself in a national publicity campaign to promote the increased consumption of flowers. The British Chamber of Horticulture, in conference with delegates from associated bodies, has approved the idea, and I am now engaged in preparing one or two draft schemes to lay before the executive. It occurs to me that, as we shall use slogans for flowers, fruits and vegetables, it would add immensely to the forcefulness of the advertising if one slogan was used for each throughout all English-speaking communities. Please ask the members of your executive committee if they see any reason why 'Say It with Flowers' should not be the slogan for flowers here as well as in the United States, and whether they do not think that United States florists stand to gain and not to lose by its use in a campaign on this side. Traveling Americans would see your slogan emblazoned over here and traveling Britishers and overseas cousins would all help to spread the phrase. Between us we could make 'Say It with Flowers' a spontaneous expression wherever English is spoken.''

LINDLEY FLORIST BOX CO., QUALITY BOX MAKERS Marion, Ind.

How They Do It in England.

In a postscript, Mr. Horton mentioned that the sum he had promised for the commencement of the British campaign was $500, with an additional $500 if any firm would make a like contribution. And yet there are many florists on this side of the water who seemingly fail to see the worth of our slogan and, therefore, do not support our campaign.

Those who use, or wish to use, the dealers' helps put out in the interests of the campaign, glass signs, electrotypes, transfer signs, stickers and billboards, are reminded that all such stock has for some time been distributed by the Florists' Publicity Service Bureau, 225 North Michigan avenue, Chicago, Ill. All inquiries should be sent direct to the bureau.

The Market.

The week ending September 18 was disappointing. Dahlias and roses were the principal flowers. It was too warm for dahlias; they did not keep well. A great many were sold, but the supply was too large. To add to the difficulties of the wholesalers, a large proportion of the dahlias were fancies, superb blooms of selected varieties on long stems, disbudded. For these fancy dahlias the growers wanted a high price. The buyers took the lower grade and left much of the fancy stock to be sacrificed or lost.

Roses fared better than dahlias, chiefly because the rose growers have learned to avoid the dahlia season with their crops and the supply of roses, therefore, was light.

There were a good many asters that were not so good as they have been and a fair number of gladioli.

Beauties, orchids and valley can now be had in special places. Easter lilies are plentiful. Prices fluctuate considerably. The supply of Golden Glow chrysanthemums keeps on steadily. It is a little larger now than it was five weeks ago. Carnations are still in favor. The occasional bunches of better flowers meet with little demand. There is a moderate amount of shipping.

Creating a Demand.

Weeks ago Philip Freud laid his plans for selling Dutch bulbs this fall. Encouraged by the success of his pot demonstration, an elaborate educational window display was decided upon. Mr. Freud engaged an artist to prepare scenery suitable for a background of the window of the Henry F. Michell Co. Warehouses on a Dutch waterfront were depicted, showing the cases of bulbs being loaded on a vessel about to start for this country. Windmills, quaint houses and fields in the distance made you sure that it really was in Holland. Sixteen beds of different de-are at their Best during the next four weeks.

There will be a big cut of very fine flowers.

The standard varieties well grown, novelties and new introductions.

For a decoration or a special occasion we can match almost any color and can furnish flowers in quantity.

No Dahlias are carried in stock. All orders must be placed a day in advance. All orders are filled and packed at the farm. This means only one handling.

The Dahlia Season is short. Place a regular order for shipment every day or according to your requirements.

No order is too small and we can fill the big orders for a thousand or more just as easily.

This is the place to buy your Dahlias.

signs, laid out with exactness, showed just how many tulips, daffodils or hyacinths would be required to properly plant each bed. The number of rows and the distance for planting the bulbs in the rows and also the distance between the rows were shown.

The front of the window was filled by the bulbs themselves, each variety by itself, all correctly labeled, all carefully described as to color and all priced.

Mr. Freud's idea is that small window signs are read and remembered, while large ones often pass unnoticed. He believes that the time and money devoted to the window display will bring excellent returns.

As Others See Us.

An official in one of our city banks was discussing the florists. "You are honest," he said, "but you are not businesslike. When the time comes to meet your obligations you are not ready. You always have some excuse and often you lose your tempers when asked to keep your promises. I think," he added, "that your chief difficulty lies in the fact that you are poor collectors. A good collector is apt to pay his bills promptly."

While this charge has much truth in it, the bank official was reminded that the standing of florists in the business world is better today than it ever has been.

Various Notes.

George B. Kaiser spoke before the September meeting of the Germantown Horticultural Society in the library of Vernon park. Fine vegetables, fruits and fall flowers were exhibited.

The dahlia show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, held at Ardmore, was an all-day and evening affair. The proceeds were for the Bryn Mawr hospital.

John N. May, Jr., of Summit, N. J., was here September 16 visiting some of the growers as the guest of Alfred Burton. Mr. May, who has joined the benedicts since his return from over there, is now associated with his brother, Harry O. May, in his father's business.

The Charles F. Krueger Co. has a fine display of dahlias at the Reading Terminal Flower Shop. Frank X. Alter believes in offering the finest dahlias in named varieties.

David Bisset, of Washington, says that the 10-inch cyclamens of the Robert Craig Co. are alone worth going miles to see.

Edward Reid sailed for home September 22.

Fred J. Michell is unopposed for vice-president of the Florists' Club.

The S. S. Pennock Co. is receiving some nice Pilgrim roses.

Harry Jackel, of Camden, is making a name for his fine dahlias.

M. J. Callahan had a handsome wedding decoration at the Hotel Aldan September 18.

Raymond Brunswick says that the M. Rice Co. business shows the popularity of stock made in America.

ST. LOUIS, MO.

The Market.

The wholesale cut flower market reports a rather dull week, with an abundance of seasonable stock. Although outdoor flowers no longer dominate the market, they are still fairly abundant.

The retailers say that trade is quite dull with them and cooler weather is wanted to stimulate the business. While funeral work has had a good run all the week, the other lines are as dull as in midsummer.

Roses are plentiful and prices are running low in all grades, as the call was light all the week. Splendid stock in Premier, Russell, Columbia, Milady and Ward could be had in any quantities.

The receipts of chrysanthemums are light just now, but soon there will be plenty in all the early varieties. Carnations are not any too many, while the demand could use more if the stock was of the fancy grades.

Dahlias and asters have helped to glut the market and there seems to be no let-up in the daily consignments. The local cut of gladioli is about over; a few shipments from outside points come in. Cosmos is in heavy supply this week.

Lilies have had a large demand and good consignments are received daily. Valley is slow and not overplentiful.

There is always a good supply of greens in this market and a good daily demand.

Various Notes.

The florists' publicity committee failed to hold its regular meeting September 14 as called, owing to the fact that the members were busy entertaining the visiting members of the National Association of Gardeners. Chairman Bourdet has called a special meeting for September 28 at headquarters, 1316 Pine street, at 8 p. m. Every member of the committee is requested to attend, as the meeting will be of great importance.

George Schrieffer, for many years well known to the trade in the wholesale market, is now in the employ of the Geo. H. Angermueller Co., in charge of the cut flower department.

W. J. Pilcher, of Kirkwood, is marketing an especially fine cut of roses in Premier, Russell and Columbia.

The Acme Floral Shop, in the Arcade building, had a $500 funeral job one day last week; it was artistically worked up by Miss Hattie Wray and Miss Turk. The completion of all the stores in the arcade will steady their trade greatly the coming season.

The several cool nights recently caused hurry-up orders from the bosses to complete the housing of plants, among the county growers.

Tulip and hyacinth bulbs are arriving daily in great quantities at the store of the St. Louis Seed Co. and, according to August Hummert, the many advance orders for both local and shipping trade will clean them out in a hurry. Counter sales are also heavy.

Many of the registration places throughout the city were gaily decorated with plants and cut flowers to attract the ladies to register.

Grimm & Gorly advertised last week a special fern sale, which, according to Frank X. Gorly, who is back in harness after an all-summer trip, was a great success. Several hundred ferns were moved the first day.

The Ude brothers, Martin and Paul, have their greenhouse establishment in Kirkwood in excellent shape for the season and expect the usual big cut of early mums and, later, violets and sweet peas.

A. Jablonsky, in Olivette, Mo., has doubled the amount of his glass since last year. It is all in carnations of the leading varieties.

At the store of the C. Young & Sons Co., the busy bulb season has opened and its mail has doubled, carrying orders for bulbs. Excellent window displays caused transient trade to improve.

Visitors last week included two who have many friends in the trade: Walter Mott, representing Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works, Beacon, N. Y., and Philip Foley, of the Foley Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago.

The local committee of the St. Louis Association of Gardeners wishes, through The Review, to thank the members of the St. Louis Florists' Club for the use of their automobiles; the staff of the Missouri Botanical Garden, for the Shaw banquet; the St. Louis Garden Club, for the luncheon, and the St. Louis Association of Park Employees, for the barbecue at Forest park, and the great assistance given them in entertaining the visitors who attended the convention of the National Association of Gardeners.

league opened the season September 15 and there was a large attendance of members of the trade. Many of the members were a bit rusty; still some good scores were rolled. The Roses won two games from the Sweet Peas and the Carnations did likewise with the new Gladiolus team. Frank Windler was high average man of the night. Bowling comes every Wednesday night and all visitors are welcome. J. J. B.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

William Wade, secretary of the Kansas City Florists' Club, has received a letter from Philip Breitmeyer saying that he will be glad to accept the club's invitation to visit Kansas City sometime about the middle of October and deliver an address. It is probable that one or two other officers of the F. T. D. will accompany Mr. Breitmeyer.

T. D. Long, who was killed in an automobile accident in Colorado Springs September 13, was well known and had many friends in this city. He formerly traveled for Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, and visited Kansas City at regular intervals for about five years. Recently he was with the Frank F. Crump Co., at Colorado Springs.

The T. J. Noll Floral Co. had some home-grown carnations last week, which were quite fair for early-season stock.

A CUSTOMER who discontinued his order about two years ago, writes: "We should like to get our cut ferns from you again, as we have never been able to find a quality as good elsewhere."

His letter was addressed to

L. B. BRAGUE & SON
Established 1867
HINSDALE, MASS.

To secure quality stock, dealers will kindly use above address.

Mrs. T. A. Moseley was busy all the week on funeral orders.

A few evenings ago a man stepped into the Muehlebach Flower Shop and ordered a $15 corsage. As there were no orchids on hand, Mr. Neff told the customer he could not make up a corsage for that price; so the man left an order for three corsages at $7.50 each and seemed satisfied that he was getting good value.

THE WOODSMAN CO.
Evergreen, Ala.

Some extra large dahlias and fine celosias are being shown at the Kresge Flower Shop.

The Pinehurst Floral Co. has received an average of 5,000 roses a day all the week and have sold them all.

A. N. Nielson, who bought John Stevens' range, was in the city last week and left for Pana, Ill., Thursday, September 16.

The Kansas City Wholesale Cut Flower Co. has been receiving some fine roses.

Henry Kusik & Co. have been doing exceptionally well in supplies this month. They have been getting some fine roses and carnations.

M. E. Carter, manager of the William L. Rock Flower Co., is home from his fishing trip in the Ozarks.

M. Domoto, of Domoto Bros., San Francisco, was in the city last week on his way home from the east.

A. E. Kutschbach, of Houston, Tex.; R. L. Howard, of the Foster Floral Co., Oklahoma City, Okla., and P. A. Manson, of the Pinehurst Floral Co., Pleasant Hill, Mo., were visitors last week.

The Chandler Landscape & Floral Co. has received a shipment of several thousand cyclamen and begonia plants for holiday selling.

Last week was a busy one at Arthur Newell's shop. There were three large wedding and several funeral orders. For one of the funerals there was a casket pall, 5x7 feet, of Ophelia roses, lavender asters and Farleyense ferns, showered with Ophelia and lavender ribbon. Three thousand flowers and ferns were used for the piece, which sold for $500. An expense account of $50 was also allowed to send a man to Oklahoma. The pall was for the wife of an oil man who has been a customer of Mr. Newell for several years.

Miss Hayden was called back from her vacation in Wisconsin several days before she expected to return, as there was a great rush of orders the latter part of last week. The Edward C. Smith funeral was a big affair and several of the florists were busy on that account. William Murray and W. B. Reid, of Samuel Murray's, were on a fishing trip in Minnesota and this left the force short-handed.

C. E. Thomas has been glazing his greenhouse and making repairs for cold weather.

Adolph Mohr has been selling some surplus stock of cyclamens and begonias. He is feeling well satisfied over his coal supply, which he bought early last spring. Mr. Mohr says an agent for the coal company called on him late last winter and was almost thrown out for trying to sell this season's coal. He finally succeeded in convincing Mr. Mohr that it was the part of wisdom to place an order early and he now finds that he saved money by doing so.

DENVER, COLO.

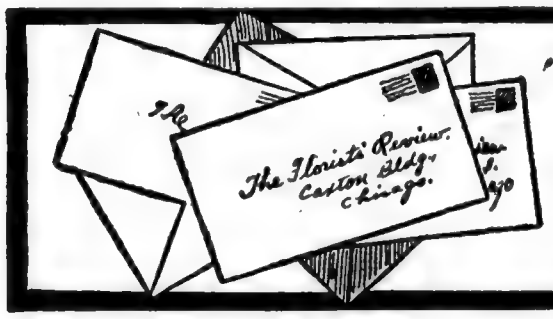
The Market.

The weather was a little too warm during the week ended September 18 to bring the expected increase in business, and the much hoped for frost still holds off. However, there was more funeral work than usual last week and a surprising number of weddings for this time of year, which have helped to keep things going. Roses are plentiful and prices are good. Carnations are coming in more heavily now and the demand is better. Dahlias are still available. The first Golden Glow and October Frost chrysanthemums are coming in now.

Various Notes.

H. A. Clausen, of the America Flower Shop, has returned from his trip through California.

C. B. Johnson, of Sterling, Colo., was a visitor last week.



E. P. Neiman, of the Park Floral Co., is still in the east.

Chas. F. Edgar, of the McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, was also a visitor here last week. R. E. H.

DAVENPORT, IA.

A beautiful wedding September 15 was that of Miss Lauretta Beckman and Mortier F. Forber, son of George F. Forber. The bride is a prominent member of the younger set of the city and Mr. Forber is a promising young business man, associated with his father in the florists' business. Mr. and Mrs. Forber are motoring on a honeymoon to Chicago and other points. J. A. L.

SCIENTIFIC TRAINING IN GREENHOUSE PRACTICE

We offer a correspondence educational service in Greenhouse Management, Plant Propagation and the conduct of retail flower stores. If you are already in the business this scientific training will enable you to attain greater success. If you are working for others this correspondence course will enable you to command more money or establish a business of your own if you are ambitious. We also offer correspondence courses in Landscape Gardening and in Nursery Practice, Management and Salesmanship.

IT'S easy to understand why so many people prefer to ship their flowers to us.

We make prompt returns and secure the best market prices for their consignments.

Good reasons, are they not, why you should ship your flowers to us?

Special opportunity for a couple of good Rose Growers who are looking for best returns. Our present demand is greater than our supply.

TATE'S TIPS

CO-OPERATIVE BUYING.

For Large-Scale Economies.

Among the many reasons advanced for forming the National Flower Growers' Association was the opportunity such an organization would present for coöperative buying of the various things used by the florists in the production of flowers. On first thought this naturally suggested considerable saving by buying in large quantities. We all know that this law holds good in the florists' business as well as in many other industries. For instance, take a wholesaler. A buyer enters his establishment who is known to be a big buyer; is it not reasonable to suppose that he will receive every advantage that can possibly be extended, instead of the wholesaler having to handle perhaps a dozen customers to sell the same amount of stock? Anyone who is familiar with the method of distributing florists' stock will be quick to recognize the advantage of such a sale to the wholesaler and grower alike, if for no other reason than the elimination of handling and of the breakage which is so apt to occur where stock is much handled. But there are much larger transactions than the sale of cut flowers to be considered.

Uniting Against the H. C. of L.

Take the question of cow manure. In the section in which I reside this is a vital question with the man who grows roses. A cartload that formerly cost him 50 cents now costs $5; this is just a single item and there are many more on which the advance is in the same proportion. These are days of efficiency; many of us are tired of hearing this word, but it is like Banquo's ghost and will not down, so that the only sensible thing to do is to recognize it, try to get better acquainted with it and apply it in our purchasing departments as well as in the production end of the business. What is the most efficient way for the florist to purchase the commodities which he must use in his business? I have been doing some investigating along these lines and my conclusion is that the day has come when organized buying is absolutely necessary, if the cost of production is to be kept down.

The next question is, what sort of organization is the proper one to handle this proposition? Those men who launched the National Flower Growers' Association at Cleveland have laid a fine foundation for such an enterprise. Take this organization with a local or unit in every flower center in the country; these locals could take care of all local buying, but we hear a great deal of questioning about the reason for a national organization instead of every local for itself. In this connection we may take the coal question at the present time; the greatest problem regarding the coal shortage is one of transportation. Now, if this association was thoroughly organized, would it not be possible for it to go before the interstate commerce commission and present its claims, that cars might be diverted to those districts which are now suffering through a shortage of cars? The old proverb, "In union there is strength," is just as true today as it was during the war.

Another Growers' Local.

In the course of my investigation of this subject, it was my privilege recently to attend a meeting of about thirty growers, every one of them men who have made a success of their business, but every one of them big enough and broad enough to recognize the fact that they have reached the critical point, that if their success is to continue the cost of production must be brought to a minimum. So, at the suggestion of the National Flower Growers' Association, they have organized themselves into a local organization, although they have not as yet affiliated with the national body. They are going to the bottom of the question of coöperative buying; this was the only question discussed at the meeting referred to. Naturally, none of us knew much about this question; we were simply groping in the dark.

Before the meeting was over, however, we were favored with an address by a man who had had actual experience, the president of a little band of

Never Had the Ancestors

Coming down from Hartford last week on the diner, I asked the waiter if he had any ancestors. "Ancestors, boss—Ancestors! No sir, I never did have no ancestor.

"Why, boss, I sure did have the mumps and the measles; but thank Gawd I never did have the ancestors."

Which amusing statement would seem to point that all of us have things that we don't know we have.

Yesterday, Tony, one of our sons from Sunny Italy, pointed out a point that is going to mean many a nimble dollar to us.

All of us always knew it, but didn't know we knew it.

But what good is knowing a thing, if you don't know you know it?

Next time you are in New York, drop around and meet Tony and let him tell you what a dub I've been.

It may put an idea in your head for more F. T. D. business.

sixty truck growers. He told us of the uphill fight it had been to organize, of how the greater part of their trouble was internal, caused by the faint-hearted ones in their own ranks, of how discouraging it was to go up against large corporations which did not look upon them as anything but a few truck farmers who were not to be considered seriously. But they got together and incorporated, and persistently kept at it, till the consequence is that they are

The Teachings of Truckers.

One of the items he spoke about particularly was cabbage crates, of which they use a great many. The box makers charged them 60 cents each for these and this price still holds good to those who are not members of the association; the members of the association, however, get all they require at 40 cents each. Fertilizer is another big item with the truckers. He told us that the members of his association had bought their fertilizer this year at a saving of $12 per ton; the association was in a position to take all of the manure as well as the car sweepings of one of the large stockyards. He told us that this organization was much the same as a new business, that new features were developing each day, that it was possible to buy through this organization everything which was used on the farm, even including the groceries which were used in the house. While all of the buying was now handled by committees appointed for this purpose, it was fast outgrowing this; in his opinion the day was not far distant when they would be obliged to maintain an office in the city, properly manned and supervised by a board of directors. To give an idea of the large amount of business they had done, he said that, although not every opportunity had been taken advantage of by any means, from January 1 to August 1 they had done $100,000 worth of business on an exceedingly small capital, and the organization is today in a flourishing condition. They have not yet paid interest on their capital stock, but at the recent meeting it was decided to pay six per cent next year.

If such a thing is possible with a little band of truck growers, why not with the florists? Tate.

Floricultural Society. The secretary's report of the four meetings held during the year was read and approved. The report of the treasurer showed $275.80 in the treasury. The treasurer also reported that several organizations had not paid their annual dues and he was instructed to send the secretary a list of such organizations so that they might be notified of the amount due.

At the annual meeting in 1919 notice was given that at the next annual meeting the constitution would be amended to provide for an executive committee to consist of the presidents of the affiliated organizations. This change was voted and the executive committee constituted.

Quarantine 37 Resolution.

President Pierson reported the results of the conference held in New York city June 15 to consider Quarantine No. 37, when 500 or more trade and amateur associations were represented. The conference resulted in an organized effort to secure a modification of the present quarantine rulings. After discussion a resolution was adopted, a copy of which the secretary was instructed to send to the Federal Horticultural Board, as follows:

The New York Federation of Horticultural Societies and Floral Clubs, in annual session at the state fair, Syracuse, N. Y., September 15, 1920, respectfully urges that Quarantine No. 37 be so modified that novelties in small quantities, not to exceed 100 plants, may be imported for purposes of propagation, with soil on their roots, and that they be examined and passed by the federal agents at four ports of entry, i. e., Portland and San Francisco, on the Pacific coast, and New York and Philadelphia, on the Atlantic coast, instead of being sent to Washington as now required, which almost invariably results in the loss of the entire importation, especially of soft-wooded plants.

In regard to the greenhouses for investigational purposes at Cornell University, E. A. White reviewed the meetings of the committees from the federations which had met at the Agricultural College during the last year and reported that, as a result of these meetings, recommendations had been embodied in the general project for the completion of the College of Agriculture. As a result of the activities of the various agricultural and horticultural organizations of New York state and at the request of the trustees of Cornell University, the last legislature passed a bill appropriating $3,000,000 for the completion of the College of Agriculture. The sum of $500,000 becomes available this year. Plans for the greenhouses are included in the general building project and the department of floriculture at Cornell University is now working on the development of the plans, which must be completed and approved by the trustees prior to December 1, 1920. The plan included a modification of the present dairy building to provide class rooms, laboratories and offices for the department of floriculture. This building is in close proximity to the present range of greenhouses used for instruction in floriculture.

at the last meeting to confer with a committee from the New York Vegetable Growers' Association, the Fruit Growers' Association and the Bee Keepers' Association regarding a horticultural building at the New York state fair, reported a joint meeting held in Albany, N. Y., in March. At this meeting a committee was appointed to confer with the chairman of the finance committee of the Senate in regard to an appropriation for the horticultural building. Because of the urgent need of the various state charitable institutions and hospitals, there was a feeling that there should be no improvements at the state fair until these were provided for and during the year no improvements have been made on the state fair grounds except for roads. After discussion it was voted that the resolution passed last year and sent to the various state officials should be again presented to the secretary of the state fair commission, to Governor Smith, to the chairman of the ways and means committee and to the chairman of the finance committee of the Assembly, as follows:

Whereas, New York is the leading horticultural state in the Union;

Whereas, six years ago and each year since, we have brought to the attention of the state fair commission the urgent need of a horticultural building worthy of the extensive fruit, flower, vegetable, bee, seed and nursery stock interests of the state, and

Whereas, the commission by formal resolution agreed that the first new building erected would be to properly house our exhibits, therefore be it these two varieties will be seen on the market this season.

There was as fine a supply of asters on the market last week as I ever saw; the finest brought $6 per hundred without any trouble. When quality is good there is no haggling over prices. In aster stock I never saw better shades; the flowers were large and the stems fine. Gladioli were a little scarce; there is not going to be much of a late crop, as they bloomed themselves out during the summer. Dahlias were a little more plentiful and some good stock was to be seen, but evidently the crop this fall is going to be a short one; there was too much rain during the summer and many of the roots have rotted. There is a good supply of all sorts of miscellaneous stock to be had. Both retailers and wholesalers report business all that could be desired.

is the lateness with which he gets his stock; sometimes it is as late as noon. The wholesale houses are open and ready for business always at 7 o'clock and often as early as 6 o'clock. A retailer's order may be all ready for delivery, except perhaps for 100 carnations or fifty roses; where the grower is late in bringing in that stock, the whole order is held up. Of course, if the retailer is near, a special delivery can be made, but in most cases this is impossible. Since the stock is perishable, only a certain amount can be carried. If the retailer has had a heavy day before, then during the morning members were so well pleased with those results that this year they have gone a step further and have nominated a younger man, Robert L. Graham, Jr. This young man is teeming with enthusiasm and even larger things may be expected this season. Every member has his coat off and is behind the new president; at this time next year Babe Ruth's record will be nothing in comparison with his. The next on the staff is that live one, Joseph Merritt. He is at home in any position you place him; his batting average has run so high that it has been lost track of. C. Harry Wagner can cover more ground around the financial secretary's desk than any man I know of. Albert G. Fiedler, the treasurer, is one of the best pinch hitters that ever swung a bat. C. W. FRAT-M'S

Frat-Ms are a great help to florists who make funeral work. They are exact reproductions of the official emblems embossed in gold and the different colors as required by each Fraternal and Labor organization.

The florist is saved time and worry in the nuisance of lettering, as well as the keeping of such a stock of wire frames, and different colored flowers. Just use such flowers as you have and then attach a FRAT-M with paste to the chiffon, or by the hanger that comes for each, as a card, and that is all there is to it, excepting the comment and commendatory talk for the florist.

Just pick out a dozen of the most used, from the list following, enclosing $2.00 per dozen, and if they don't make you ten times their cost, return those unused and get your money.

Square and Compass, Chapter, Commandery, 32nd Degree, Shrine, Eastern Star, Royal Neighbors, M. W. A., Maccabees, Odd Fellows, Red Men, Knights of Columbus, K. of P., Moose, Jr. O. U. A. M., B. of R. T., B. of R. Clerks, B. of L. E., Br. of Blacksmiths and Helpers, Eagles.

Just give Frat-Ms a trial, you don't have to keep them. We are willing to send them to you and return the money if they don't pay you ten times their cost. Address

STATE FAIR FLORAL CO., SEDALIA, MO.

FORT WAYNE, IND.

The Market.

The condition of the flower market shows a general improvement, although there are still some quiet days. There was a lull in the demand for funeral work last week.

Dahlias are in fair supply, but they show a tendency to droop and do not sell so well as they would if they were good keepers.

Roses are scarce, owing to the heavy demand for them last week. Lily of the valley is too high-priced for the average person. Lilies are in good supply. Carnations are becoming more of a factor on this market. Hydrangeas are seen in many of the flower shops, and are used to decorate.

Various Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Knecht have returned home from an extended eastern trip. Mr. Knecht has his houses all planted for the season's business. He has a number of houses devoted to Russell, Columbia, Shawyer, Killarney and Sunburst. His chrysanthemum stock also has a splendid growth.

Judge and Mrs. William J. Vesey have returned from a trip to New York city and vicinity. The Vesey company has a good market for its stock of the new rose, Butterfly. It is also having a large crop of lilies and orchids.

The Flick Floral Co. has recently had the downtown store redecorated in buff and white. The firm reports a good demand for wedding and funeral work.

The Blossom Floral Co. has received large shipments of palms, ferns and baskets from eastern firms. R. F.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

Salem, Ore.—L. B. Hill, formerly in business in Lewiston, Idaho, will open a store in this city about October 1.

Portland, Ore.—Fire, which broke out in the greenhouses of the Swiss Floral Co., at East Seventh and Hancock streets, September 17, caused $200 damage to the building and a loss estimated at $150 in plants destroyed. The fire is said to have originated from the explosion of an oil lamp.

Centralia, Wash. — Considerable improvements are being made in the greenhouses of E. H. Griffith on Fords Prairie. At present the roof of an older greenhouse has been removed and is being raised several feet to correspond with the height of the houses put in later. Mr. Griffith intends to put in a steam heating system. At present the greenhouses are heated by hot water. A gasoline engine pumps the water from a well and it is heated in two 70-horsepower steam boilers. One-half acre of ground is covered by glass houses, 130x140 feet.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

At the end of last week a light rain fell, which, while not enough to do any good to the country generally, seemed sufficient to damage the chrysanthemums for shipping. The mums are in the center of the stage now and wind following rain—as it usually does—can work a good deal of mischief. Business is patchy, some days good and some days poor, but there is a decided improvement over recent weeks. In the stores the workers are getting back from their vacations and all are looking forward to a busy fall and winter season. Both carnations and roses are improving in quality and increasing in quantity; the price for the former is higher than it has been for many years at this time. A limited supply with good demand about sizes up the situation all around.

The heavy demand for high-grade palms and ornamental plants generally, for eastern shipment, has raised the local price considerably and growers are holding stock firm. Ferns are better in quality and a little more plentiful, a condition which makes for better business, though the price is still above that of recent years.

Visiting a Seed Farm.

A cordial invitation from Douglas Fraser, of Robert G. Fraser & Son, to see their trial rows of flower seeds was too good an opportunity to let slip, since, although the writer is not from Missouri, he likes to be shown once in a while. The first thing seen was the American Beauty strain of aster; the great point about this type is that there are no small side branches as laterals. Each plant breaks naturally into from ten to fifteen large shoots, each crowned with a fine bloom. No disbudding has to be done with this strain. Each flower has a long enough stem and a large enough bloom to be placed in competition with disbudded stock of the ordinary type. While other colors are included, the best ones are shell-pink, lavender, purple and old rose. The dahlia-flowered zinnia is a host in itself, with immense blooms in a great variety of colors. While the pink, rose and crimson shades are excellent, the "buff," a flower immense in size and distinct in color, was particularly interesting. Besides the individual strains, a 3-acre patch of mixed colors was a fine sight. It would have been easy to go through this plot and to pick flowers at random which were as good as, or better than, the best zinnias seen on the Los Angeles market this season. The picotee varieties have received notice before. Other notable varieties of stock were Queen of the Market asters in all colors. These were too far gone to make a good display, being of the earlier types, but the sturdy stems were in evidence, also the free-blooming character of the plants. The King in all colors was equally good. Princess Alice stock showed a remarkable percentage of double flowers, with seed-bearing plants enough to take care of a big demand.

Various Notes.

Another baby girl has arrived to gladden the hearts of John Polder and Mrs. Polder at their home, in Montebello. Both mother and child are doing well and Mr. Polder is wearing a wide smile.

The Alexandria Florist is showing a fine line of stock and reports a big business in both funeral work and box trade. The Russell roses from the north are especially good here.

Duncan Murdoch has been visiting in Los Angeles from Ojai and looks fine. He is quite enthusiastic about his place there.

A good cut of Ophelia roses is coming from Wright's greenhouses to the store and business keeps up well there.

F. Lichtenberg and C. Gutting have returned from a pleasant and success-

HOW TO RAISE CASH

NEW ZINNIA, DAHLIA-FLOWERED
Novelty of our own recent introduction. It is a sure winner commercially. Flowers the exact type and size of the Giant Show Dahlia; 6-8 inches in diameter; 7 new colors and shades unknown to Zinnias heretofore. Trade pkt., 500 seeds, $1.00.

Improved Centaurea Cyanus, Double—(Fraser's True Blue). The color of this charming centaurea is the best blue yet. This strain is fixed, and is highly desired by the Florist Trade. Trade pkt., 1000 seeds, $1.00.

Eventually every Florist will plant Fraser's "Sun-tested" California Asters, Delphiniums and Zinnias.

ASTER AMERICAN BEAUTY—(new colors mixed).—A neighbor wholesale grower, John Bodger, has become famous for his American Beauty Asters. We are handling his seed for the Florist Trade. It is the greatest Aster novelty of the twentieth century, and will stand the test of time. Trade pkt., 1000 seeds, $1.00.

ful hunting trip to the Murrietta Springs country. H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The Market.

Plenty of flowers are coming into the market, but the demand is so great that the market is cleared every day. Good shipping chrysanthemums are now plentiful and all the large wholesale firms, with one or two exceptions, are shipping them extensively. The refrigerator car carries the heaviest consignments, but most of the firms are shipping every day or two by express.

Roses are coming in well and are beginning to be shipped, though not in such quantities as mark the chrysanthemum shipments. Outdoor stock is not plentiful. Dahlias are beginning to be a little scarce. There are still asters, but they are not so good as they were a month or more ago. Orchids are expected to begin coming in satisfactorily about October 1. At present they are scarcely procurable in the San Francisco market. It is not so much a question of price, just now, as of being abie to obtain orchids at all.

Various Notes.

A shipment of roses that promises to open new possibilities was made September 14 by Angelo J. Rossi, of the firm of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., by the plane that left the Marina at 6:30 a. m. Mr. Rossi sent a consignment consisting of several dozen Ulrich Brunner roses addressed to Max Schling, New York. The plane is part of the regular air mail route service which is now scheduled to run every day, relaying mail from San Francisco to New York and return. The plane which left today only goes to Salt Lake, but the mail and shipments will be relayed on to their destination. This idea of sending flowers east by air route is appealing strongly to San Francisco florists, and inquiries are already being made as to whether violets and roses can be accepted as parcel post shipments, by air mail route. Commenting on this, Gen. A. J. Gooch said, "The time may not be far distant when a New York florist may be able to telegraph for violets to San Francisco, and receive them the next day. There are times of year when violets must be worth about 10 cents a head in New York. At the same season we are selling them for $1.20 a dozen bunches and there are about thirty violets in each bunch."

A number of San Francisco exhibitors, including Frank D. Pelicano, were preparing to send exhibits to the annual dahlia show to be held under the auspices of the Alameda County Floral Society at the Hotel Oakland, September 19 to 21.

Admiring crowds gathered to see the dahlia window display last week at Joseph's, 233 Grant avenue. The dahlias were the prize-winners in the recent San Francisco dahlia show. The silver cup and other prizes were displayed beside the flowers. As usual at this establishment, there is an especially artistic arrangement, baskets, bird cages and other bric-a-brac being used to enhance the color scheme. The Jewish holidays and the opening of Livingstone's dry-goods establishment have helped to keep B. M. Joseph and his staff busy.

Podesta & Baldocchi have been doing a large business in providing flowers and baskets for the Jewish holidays, as well as congratulatory baskets for Livingstone's. Podesta & Baldocchi were busy with decorations for Miss Buckbee's luncheon yesterday. They have plenty of fine Russell and Columbia roses, but say that orchids are scarce.

The Art Floral Co. reports business as being quite good, especially in connection with Jewish New Year.

F. C. Jaeger & Son are shipping chrysanthemums heavily and sending out some roses and gladioli. More flowers have been shipped this year during the Jewish holidays than ever before in San Francisco, and F. C. Jaeger & Son had a full share of this trade.

Fresh landscape contracts have come in during the last week to the MacRorie-McLaren Co., while the Jewish holidays have kept the store on Powell street exceedingly busy.

Victor Ferrari, of Ferrari Bros., who largely supply the local market with orchids, speaking of the scarcity of orchids, said: "September is the hardest month in the year for orchids. In

The Market.

There has been a lessening of stock deliveries, partly the result of recent heavy rains, which have prevented the cutting of outdoor flowers, but the demand has at no time exceeded the supply and retailers have found no cause for complaint. Funeral business has been the real trade life-saver and has prevented losses on any items. It is expected that the rains will mean the passing of several varieties of gladioli and a lighter supply of others, while smaller deliveries on asters are certain for a time. The supply of carnations is increasing and more than enough roses are coming to hand to fill all needs. Columbia was in heaviest supply among the roses last week.

Orchids are being cut in large enough quantities to care for the current needs and also to fill shipping orders to San Francisco, a rather unusual situation for this season of the year. Lily of the valley is again being offered. Gardenias are plentiful enough to care for orders.

Among the longer-stemmed flowers for tall baskets, gladioli are still quite popular, but the lighter deliveries have led to the substitution of other flowers whenever possible. One grower has been offering some fine purple monkshood for this purpose. The varieties of dahlias which appear are increasing. Fine Geisha and Corona are coming on. Shipments of California mums are due for a big increase soon. This rain will, for a time at least, affect the quality of local outdoor stock, in which King of Autumn and Golden Glow have been the leaders. October Frost is being grown heavily, as well, and two growers say they can deliver pompons within another week.

Some snapdragons are still being delivered and the same is true of Golden Glow. Dwarf zinnias have been added to the deliveries. Some nice French marigolds have also come in for use in low baskets.

Water lilies are gone and Lilium rubrum is the chief offering for this line in sight at this time. Asters and geraniums, with the ever present ferns, form the bulk of the potted offerings, although several stores have been showing some nonflowering plants with bright-colored leaves. Recent deliveries of ferns have been quite uneven in quality.

Florists who are handling dahlia bulbs report a brisk business on orders for spring planting; window displays showing the various hardy varieties of dahlia have encouraged this business.

Various Notes.

A. C. Aldridge, with the M. Rice Co., of Philadelphia, was a recent trade visitor and reports good business all along the road.

P. F. Rosaia, of Rosaia Bros., has bought a 7-passenger Cadillac automobile and has been taking a number of business trips since then. P. J. Case

The Market.

Gladioli and asters are still the predominating features of the market. Chrysanthemums are beginning to arrive in limited quantities, but a fine cut is promised, since stock never looked better than at present. Roses are being brought in by most of the growers and are starting now to give good length of stem. Lilies, sweet peas, marigolds and dahlias help to give a variety.

Various Notes.

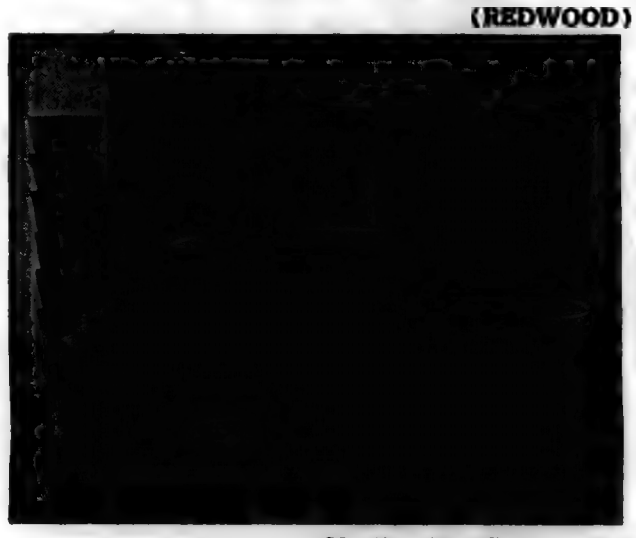
Peters & Sons, of Hillyard, Wash., have bought a new Republic truck to take care of the fuel for the winter, as that firm is burning shavings and finds it profitable. The stock is the finest they have ever had and they will soon be cutting heavily in mums.

A. Reim, of Eugene's Flower Shop, is on the sick list.

Mr. Bernson, of Glenrose Greenhouses, is the proud father of a baby boy.

H. Hill has returned from his vacation and is now with Hoyt Bros. Co., having resigned his position with A. J. Burt.

Miss Helen Burt, of Jack Burt's Flower Shop, has returned from her vacation, spent at Seaside, Ore.



R. Hill, of Lewiston, Ida., and his brother were visitors in this town.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Club was held at the Spokane hotel September 4. The chief topics were cooperative advertising and the finding of the cost price of production.

The interstate fair just held furnished decorating for a number of florists. The floral display at the fair was not up to standard this year. H. H.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, H. G. Hastings, Atlanta, Ga.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

W. W. BARNARD returned September 14 from an automobile trip to Escanaba, Mich., and northern Wisconsin.

EXPORTS of this season's crop of onion seed from the Canary islands are practically finished. They amounted to 58,000 pounds, valued at $87,000.

JOBBERS report bulb business booming. It seems proven that a considerable number of buyers who have been in the habit of placing import orders did not do so last spring and now are buying from American dealers.

ACCORDING to government reports, this season saw an increase in planting for canneries of corn and peas, the former of 1.3 per cent and the latter of 3.2 per cent. There was a decrease of tomatoes planted for canneries of 4.6 per cent and of snap beans of 25.8 per cent.

THE production of white clover seed in Wisconsin this year is estimated to be nearly normal and about the same as, or slightly greater than, last year. In the leading producing section a yield per acre of 240 pounds is reported, compared with 225 pounds in 1919, but this increased yield is offset by a slight decrease in the acreage cut for seed. The white clover seed crop in southern Idaho is reported to be light, and not enough for local requirements is expected.

THE movement of field seeds in most sections from growers' hands has been below normal, according to reports received by the United States bureau of markets. While harvesting was from one to two weeks late for some seed crops in important producing areas, the slow movement this season is to be attributed more to the failure of seedsmen to make bids on samples of seed submitted by growers and local shippers. They seem to prefer to let the growers hold the seed until the seedsmen are reasonably sure of an outlet at a price that would leave them a fair profit.

SUCCESSFUL SEED BIDDERS.

Announcement has been made by the Department of Agriculture of the awards made on the seed bids opened July 23. The successful firms and the seeds ordered from each are as follows:

Aggeler & Musser Seed Co., Los Angeles, Cal.—Onion.
W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, Ill.—Balsam, candytuft.
Barteldes Seed Co., Lawrence, Kan.—Onion.
Bertrand Seed Co., San Francisco, Cal.—Radish.

HELLER & CO.

Professor Hughes' new annual white sweet clover to the De Graff Canning Co., De Graff, O., at $300 per bushel, $5 per pound, to be delivered as soon as harvested this fall. The twenty bushels are half of an estimated crop from five acres of land.

Mr. Crites, of the De Graff Canning Co., is intending to use this as a cover crop and green manure in their farming operations. He has been growing it experimentally and has recently visited fields of it in all parts of the country, especially in Alabama, where it originated and is now growing wild. He contracted for half of the growing crop of the Henry Field Seed Co., whatever it might be, and the crop is estimated at forty bushels. The other half the company is reserving for its retail trade.

These forty bushels constitute the third crop from the start of fifty seeds received from Professor Hughes two years ago last spring. The company raised two pounds of seed from the fifty seeds. Then last year it raised 300 pounds, most of which it retailed at $1 per ounce. It planted about twenty-five pounds of seed on about five acres and expects to get forty bushels from the crop. At $300 per bushel the yield would be equal to $2,400 per acre.

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.

The Harnden Seed Co., Kansas City, Mo., is among the many firms which will curtail on the next catalogue, as the price of seeds will take an opposite course from that of paper.

August Hummert, of the St. Louis Seed Co., took an active part in the reception of the National Association of Gardeners during their convention in St. Louis. Being a leading retailer, Mr. Hummert was deputed by the wholesale seedsmen to do it for them; that he performed the task agreeably goes without saying. W. M.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THE Washington Heights Nurseries, of Knox county, Tennessee, have been incorporated, with a capitalization of $20,000. The incorporators are W. L. Mitchell, Lee McLain and B. L. Johnson.

W. H. BALL, of the Toppenish Nursery Co., at Toppenish, Wash., is authority for the statement that last winter's freeze damaged the Yakima valley peach orchards to such an extent that only home consumption can be filled. He says cannery officials are urging the growers to replant with Tuscan Cling and Phillips Cling.

ELECT OFFICERS AT TORONTO.

At the concluding session, held September 10 in Toronto, Ont., of the convention of the American Association of Cemetery Superintendents, which was briefly reported in The Review last week, the following officers were elected, in accordance with nominations made at a session September 8 in Hamilton: President, F. H. Rutherford, of Hamilton, who was vice-president last year; vice-president, J. W. Kilner, and secretary-treasurer, W. B. Jones, reelected. H. S. Adams, of Jamaica Plain, Mass., as the retiring president, automatically joined the executive committee. Thirty-two new members and two deaths were reported by the secretary; the association's total membership now is 282 active members, one associate and four honorary. W. E. Groves, of Hamilton, president of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association, and W. H. Gray, of Dundas, president of the Hamilton and District Florists' and Gardeners' Association, extended a welcome on behalf of their organizations.

WORSE THAN WAR.

Damage by Quarantine 37.

The letter of Stark Bros. Nurseries & Orchards Co., Louisiana, Mo., in reply to a French nursery firm quoting apparently exorbitant prices for its stock, was given wide publicity recently in the trade press on this side of the water and was later copied in the horticultural journals abroad. In the Horticultural Advertiser, a British publication, one signing himself, "A Dutch Nurserymen," responds by relating the damage done to European growers by Quarantine 37. He writes as follows:

Although it is not my habit to act as a writer, you will oblige by giving me the opportunity to say something about the statement of Stark Bros. re price of plum stocks. The writer is in a position to know a little about this, although not a member of any nurserymen's syndicate. But he knows America and the Americans from his frequent visits to that country, and he knows from experience what the Americans (not the nurserymen, but their responsible government) have brought upon the nurserymen of different European countries. If you do not know it, let me tell you that the American Quarantine 37 has ruined hundreds of honest workers in Belgium (the damage done by this action is larger than the damage done by the Germans), that Quarantine 37 has done large damage to the French nurserymen, and that Quarantine 37 has not only ruined hundreds of hard-working nurserymen in Holland, but it has even ruined the existence of towns like Boskoop and Oudenbosch and others. Aud I would not ask for space to make these statements if I did not know that this measure has also done large damage to the English trade, although I am not in a position to know to what extent. At the same time I must do honor to the English trade policy, which allows nurserymen of all nationalities to do an honest trade.

To finish in the same style as Stark Bros., I venture to say: Look what the American republic is doing to the European nurserymen.

Can you blame the French syndicate for trying to "soak" the Americans, especially on the stocks they can not get elsewhere? Perhaps it would be wise to have two prices, one for nurserymen who are fighting these government actions and another price for those supporting these measures.

HOLDING STOCK ON LAND SOLD.

In the case of Franklin Davis Nurseries vs. Slingluff, 110 Atlantic Reporter, 523, the Maryland Court of Appeals sustains plaintiff's right to enjoin interference with removal of nursery stock from certain land.

The plaintiff company, which is engaged in the business of growing and selling fruit trees, conveyed to the defendant a tract of land on which were young apple and pear trees intended for sale to the plaintiff's customers. By special agreement the right to remove the trees was reserved to the plaintiff, provided the removal should be completed not later than the spring of 1919. Defendant, according to the allegations of plaintiff's bill of complaint, refused permission for the removal of trees. Sustaining plaintiff's right to maintain a suit to enjoin interference with removal, the Court of Appeals says:

"That the reservation of the trees, though made by parole, was valid and effective, is definitely settled by the case of Willard vs. Higdon, 128 Md. 447, 91 Atl. 577, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 339. The effect of the reservation was to retain the ownership of the trees in the plaintiff, and to secure it the right to remove them from the land within a specified time. The defendant's action, as described in the bill, violated the plaintiff's alleged right, while it was being exercised in accordance with the agreement by which it was reserved. Accompanying the defendant's refusal to permit the trees to be taken from the land was the statement of his intention to dispose of the property by lease. Under such circumstances it could not be properly held that an action at law would have afforded the plaintiff an adequate remedy. The specific trees in question were its property, and were required to be promptly and skillfully removed for the purposes of its business. A suit for damages or an action of replevin would not have satisfied such an interest and exigency. The contemplated lease of the property, if made to one without notice that the trees were reserved to the plaintiff, would have seriously impeded the enforcement of his claim in a court of law by any form of action. Besides, the right which the plaintiff asserts is of an equitable nature, the legal title to the soil and the trees being in the defendant, and a court of equity has ample authority to protect such a right by injunction." The usual September rains are missing. This fact will delay shipping at least a week. The ground is hard and dry and it would not be economy to dig trees and shrubs in a general way until there is more moisture.

Albert Hobbs, of C. M. Hobbs & Son, Bridgeport, Ind., visited the local nurseries last week.

J. J. Hedderman has grown some of the best asters seen in this vicinity. They sold readily on the Cleveland market. Vick's Perfection is his standard variety.

T. R. Norman & Sons shipped a truckload of shrubs to Cleveland recently for a special landscape planting.

J. L. Wetzel & Son have many large orders booked for shrubs and ornamentals to be used in landscape work.

Joseph Martin grew a larger field of Delphinium Belladonna for seed this year.

E. H. Schultz and the force of the Wayside Gardens, Mentor, O., have been busy baling straw. T. J. M.

SEATTLE NOTES.

has returned from a week spent on one of the islands in Puget sound.

McCoy's store is receiving a new coat of paint and is being otherwise brightened up. This firm made an attractive window display last week of baskets, featuring dwarf zinnias.

The Woodlawn Flower Shop showed some of the largest marigolds of the season. A feature window was arranged of red-shaded lamps, King of Autumn and red dahlias in unusual combinations. Mrs. Ruth Munch has returned after several months in the Canadian Rockies. Eddie O'Neil is back after a week spent at Seaside, Ore., with Tom Luke, of Portland. Miss Zula Green, bookkeeper, has left for an extended trip in the east.

The Hollywood Gardens supplied calendulas and autumn leaves for one of the largest department store features ever shown in the northwest; in the larger display windows these were augmented by dyed pampas grass and colored cat-tails. Dr. Moore visited Walla Walla recently to oversee the disposition of the wheat crop on his ranch there. He reports a yield of about thirty bushels to the acre.

The Orpheum Floral Co. has handled considerable monkshood lately and this flower was used in most of the baskets calling for long-stemmed flowers. Dahlia novelties were also featured by this firm.

The florists' side of the question was recently presented by J. D. Mansfield, traffic commissioner for the Seattle chamber of commerce, at a hearing before the state public service commission, in Olympia, where the trade is opposing the request of the railways that they be allowed to establish the same rate increase in the state of Washington as was recently approved for the nation as a whole.

Tom Morgan will offer some of the finest late-season mums for this section, according to present prospects.

The Market.

The market last week changed hardly enough to be noticeable, stock being still plentiful. Roses are showing better quality and the supply is increasing daily, Ophelia predominating and the remainder being made up of Ward, Sunburst, Columbia, Premier, Stanley, Killarney Brilliant and Double White Killarney. Gladioli are practically over for the time being, though a later crop is expected any week now. Asters also are on the decline, both in quantity and quality, just a few coming in and those of only fair quality. Dahlias are beginning to arrive in larger quantity, but the stock is still not up to standard. Miscellaneous outdoor flowers, such as calendula, centaurea, salpiglossis and scabiosa, are still coming in, but move slowly.

Various Notes.

William Behl, of the Cleveland Cut Flower Co., is off on a two weeks' vacation touring the east, and expects to wind up at Lake Chautauqua.

Mr. Cares is on a business trip to Texas, and expects to be gone for some time.

Frank Kocour, of the J. M. Gasser Co. retail store, has just returned from a trip to Chicago.

Miss Fannie Evans celebrated her birthday anniversary with a little party.

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

The volume of business last week showed a fair increase, due to the unusually large amount of funeral work. The chief call for stock was for that purpose and the local members of the trade had their hands full to meet this demand. White roses are not in bloom yet and swainsona is coming near an end. Cooler weather is decreasing the outdoor stock. Carnations are coming in and there is a great demand for them. Pot plants are scarce, though a few asters, begonias and ferns are to be had. The supply of roses is not large at this time, yet quite sufficient for the demand. The number of chrysanthemums is increasing, but these consist of only one variety. The demand for greens was good all last week and there is plenty of Asparagus Sprengeri and plumosus.

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

CHANGING BOILER.

Would you advise us to plan a change of our heating system from hot water to steam?

For ten years we have used hot water for heating and it has been satisfactory. The range has been gradually added to until the present. The heating equipment is shown in green on the sketch. This consists of a 4½-inch headline flow and return, with nine 2-inch flows going to the far end of the houses, where each drops into three returns, sometimes four, which again flow into 4½-inch main returns and thence back to the boiler.

The old boiler is a 20-horsepower, return tubular boiler, on which the openings have been enlarged, making it into a hot water boiler. This boiler would be worthless for steam, but could be used a few more years for hot water. Last year, in order to get more heating capacity, we bought an additional boiler of seventy-five horsepower, the Atlas steam boiler, on which the state inspector will pass us for eighty pounds. We connected it in the battery with the smaller boiler, so as to have more heating capacity. If we are to continue using it for hot water we must enlarge the openings. We have hesitated about changing it until we could be sure that we ought not to consider a change from hot water to steam.

Both boilers are located together in the cellar, so that the water level would be below the lowest returns in case steam were used. Therefore we suppose the system should work equally well for either hot water or steam. Would we have to remodel all our present heating pipes in case of a change, or would the 2-inch flow pipes with their 3-inch returns under each bench work all right for steam just as they are? They are valved on the 2-inch flow pipes only, with gate valves.

As we understand it, the hot water plant should require less night attention, but the steam would give us better forcing facilities for special crops; steam would require a night man, whereas we now get along fairly well without one; the new radiation required for the new houses will cost us more for hot water than it would for steam, but what we are desirous of knowing definitely is, would there be enough saving now and later to justify a change?

On the drawing the black lines indicate the present building outlines; the green lines indicate the present heating pipes; the red lines indicate the heating pipes that must be installed this summer and the yellow lines show that we are contemplating doubling the whole plant in the far future. Heat Your Houses with Kroeschell Boilers

YOU'LL BE RICHER

TO THE MAN WHO NEEDS A BOILER

"The customer's interest first"—is the basis of the KROESCHELL standard. This principle makes the KROESCHELL Policy the most liberal of all in the Greenhouse Boiler business. The great variety of boilers that we make places us in a commanding position. It is the KROESCHELL principle to supply only the type of boiler best suited for the conditions. For this reason we always furnish the most efficient boiler unit in every case.

The KROESCHELL has proven its worth in many of the large establishments in this country. It has frequently been selected by the most careful buyers in competition with all other types of boilers. Its efficiency and capacity are completely beyond any other boiler.

KROESCHELL BOILERS have no bulky, soot accumulating surfaces—you avoid the disagreeable work and trouble indispensable to cleaning boilers with complicated and tortuous back and forth passages.

The superiority of our boilers has resulted in the removal and abolishment of hundreds of cast iron sectional boilers—in every instance KROESCHELL BOILERS give more heat with the same piping with less fuel.

sent will show the general arrangement of the houses, looking from the south. You will understand that the house at the left had just been built before the late spring snow and has not yet been heated; the same is true of the south end of the house at the right and also of the narrow house not shown in the picture, which we are now erecting farther to the right.

In deciding the best policy for the future we must especially consider the efficiency of future operation, cost of immediate extensions of heating pipes shown by the red lines, and the possible future cost in case we doubled the whole plant. Also the present size of the mains must be considered, the necessary changes in them that are required for either extension, as well as the fact that the little boiler is good for a few years for hot water heat, but not for steam, whereas the big boiler is good for either, and if the system is changed to steam the big boiler would probably carry the whole plant easily alone.

Our experience with heating systems has been largely limited to this one; observations in various other greenhouses; a study of what William Scott offers on heating in his Florists' Manual, and tables which give proper size of flows for hot water and steam, as well as the amount of radiation per square foot of glass. We have avoided going into further details of the system for the reason that if hot water is continued we will continue along a similar line to what we now have, simply extending it. If steam is decided upon we will take up the study anew, using as much of the present equipment as possible.

M. F. C.—Colo.

We hardly know what to advise in this case. It has been fairly presented. It is unquestionable that piping a greenhouse for steam will cost but little more than one-half as much as when hot water piping is installed, so far as the price of the material is concerned, and if additional houses are to be constructed so that there will be a range of 20,000 square feet of glass or more, it is advised that the change be made at this time. It will not only be possible to use the pipes from the present houses for mains in the new houses, but they may be used as return pipes.

It should be stated that the fuel cost with steam heat is likely to be nearly twenty-five per cent more than with hot water, although some of this may be saved by being able, with a night fireman, to use a cheaper grade of coal than with a hot water system, which is left seven or eight hours at night.

The new boiler should be able to heat all of the houses now constructed, but you should tap it, providing either one 6-inch or two 5-inch flow connections, with returns of the same size.

SAN FRANCISCO NOTES.

June and July we have only stragglers, but about October 1 we ought to have a plentiful supply of Cattleya labiata. The season is late this year. Last year we had them blooming plentifully by September 9 and had enough to ship to the Los Angeles market. This year they are late, and they cannot be hurried.''

J. A. Axell is a stanch advocate of sending chrysanthemums dry, as he finds they will revive if the stem is broken and placed in deep water.

Gen. A. J. Gooch is shipping chrysanthemums north and east by express and east by the refrigerator car. Advices from points as far east as Sioux City, Ia., state that the express shipments have arrived in good condition.

The E. W. McLellan Co. did a large Jewish holiday trade. The company will start cutting roses shortly in considerable quantities.

Enomoto & Co. have now many mums of good shipping varieties and have had good returns from points in the southern states.

The price of mums is now lower and the quality better, according to the United Flower & Supply Co. Two weeks ago the shipping qualities of the mum did not compare with those today, while the price was higher. This company now has a large quantity of cat-tails, both plain and colored.

Domoto Bros. are shipping chrysanthemums every day. They have a great many mums for the refrigerator car each week.

Much activity in weddings and banquets is reported by F. Bertrand, of the Palace hotel flower store. ''We had six affairs in one day and have been kept busy right along,'' he stated.

The Davis-Glendale Co. is arranging to erect a range of greenhouses in the Grandview district, between the San Fernando road and the Burbank line. The first unit will soon be completed. James L. Henderson, vice-president of the organization, will act as superintendent. Greenhouses will be used for growing vegetables in winter, both for use in southern California and for shipment. M. M.

The Market.

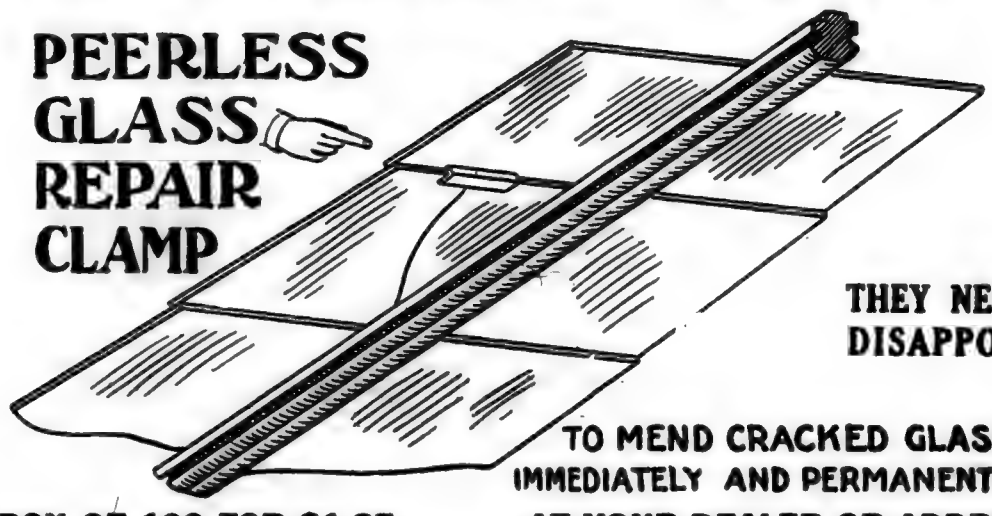
Market conditions last week remained about the same as during the previous week. Orchids are still scarce, and the demand for them has shown an increase. The supply of swainsona was a little better, but the demand is still in excess of the supply. Some fine dahlias were on the market, but did not move fast. Despite the increase in price, Easter lilies continued to move well. The chief supply of the week was made up of lilies, asters and roses. Some few gladioli were available. Carnations are improving in quality as well as quantity. The local members of the trade are now looking forward to the mum season, which is near at hand. Out-of-town business showed a fair increase over the last few weeks.

Various Notes.

George S. Shaffer had a large decorating job at the New Ebbitt hotel last week.

The Florists' and Growers' Union held its regular meeting September 15.

The Washington Floral Co. has been cutting an exceedingly fine supply of roses.



A. J. Schiller donned his top sergeant's uniform and took part in the parade of Foreign War Veterans. He was among the first to answer the call and was injured in action during the latter part of the war. He is now with the Leo Niessen Co.

Marche & Co. were busy with funeral work during the entire week.

E. C. Mayberry, manager of the DuPont Floral Co., was out of town on a business trip last week. G. V. S.

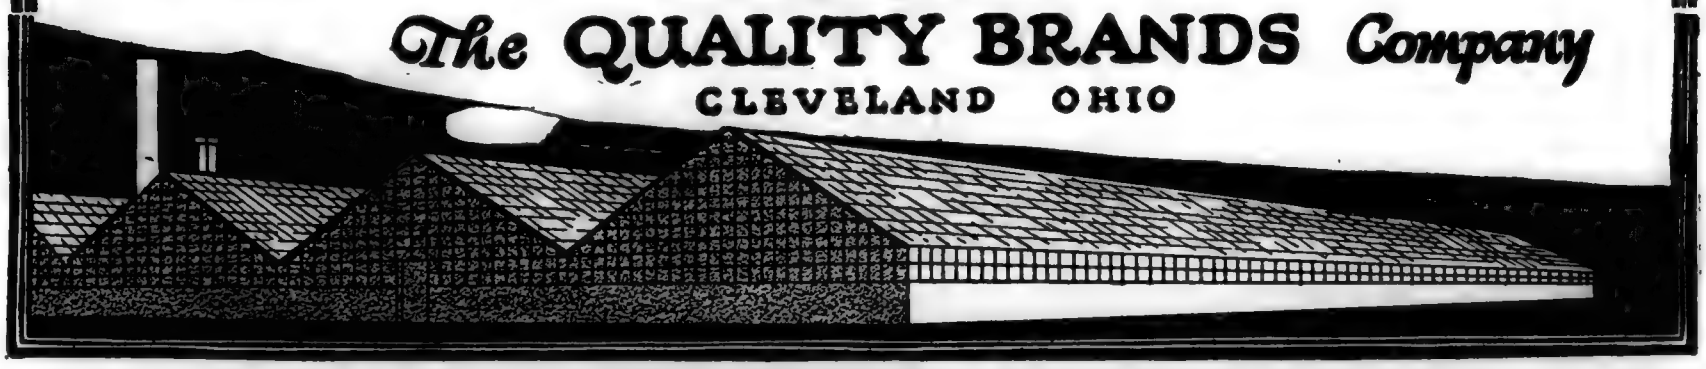
VITAPLASTIC
GLAZING COMPOUND

Some Day We Hope That Your Greenhouses Will Prove This Little Talk

After several barrel tests, the big F. R. Pierson greenhouses, located at Tarrytown, New York, decided to "cover 'em all" with VITAPLASTIC GLAZING COMPOUND.

That was last year.



Well, the "cover 'em all" order went through and we figured we were through for a good many years ourselves, BUT last week another "cover 'em all" order showed up and we started worrying. What's wrong with Vitaplastic?

Then Mr. Pierson told us he had taken over another big range of glass and, of course, wanted Vitaplastic.

If your greenhouses are not absolutely tight, and you contemplate doing any glazing work and saving yourself some greenback money on coal, write us and we will gladly tell you why a Vitaplastic user will say to you, "Cover 'em all" with Vitaplastic.

Our Service Department will be glad to serve you and help you with your paint and glazing problems

DULUTH, MINN.

The Market.

Business has been a little slow for the last few days, slower than at any other time during the summer. Outdoor flowers are still coming in. Sweet peas are about over and what are left are short-stemmed and weather-beaten. Roses are plentiful and some good stock is seen in Russell, Columbia, Premier, Dunlop and Ophelia. White Killarney is poor. Carnations are better, but are not yet up to standard. The first of the chrysanthemums arrived last week, including some good blooms of Chrysolora.

Various Notes.

The Duluth Floral Co. has a window of vegetables grown in Duluth from their Reputation brand seeds. This firm had a large order for the Ray funeral, which included a casket cover of Russell, Columbia and Ophelia roses and a number of elaborate baskets and sprays. Edward Kreimer has returned to Notre Dame University after helping at the store through the summer.

J. J. Le Borious has had a fine cut of gladioli, the chief varieties being America, Mrs. Francis King and Pendleton.

Recent visitors to Duluth were John Poehlmann, of Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, and Philip Weil, of the C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee.

The Quality Floral Co. reports business quite satisfactory for this time of the year. J. E. S.

SNAPDRAGONS

Snapdragons are becoming one of the most profitable greenhouse crops. We make a specialty of these and use Ramsburg's winter flowering seed largely, the best we can get. Our plants are topped and branching, free from rust, clean and thrifty. In packing we wrap each plant separately and pack in shallow, slatted, open top boxes so stock is sure to reach you in good condition. Instruction for growing to prevent rust with each order or write us about it. After October 1st we will have stock from flats which we will ship via parcel post prepaid, insured. We have found that well rooted soil stock does about as well as potted stock.
Keystone, Nelrose, Silver Pink, Buxton's Pink, Enchantress, Ramsburg's Light Pink, Giant White and Yellow; Orlando, Golden Queen and Seneca, three choice fancy varieties; Garnet and Fancy Mixed. From pots, $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000. Packing free.

SEDALIA, MO.

The State Fair Floral Co., Sedalia, Mo., of which Dr. J. E. Cannady is president, after a most successful season has added a new house, 60x200 feet, of American Greenhouse Mfg. Co. construction, to the already extensive plant. Dr. Cannady is quite happy over prospects for the coming season and is ready for it. Dr. Cannady is known as the father of the popular "Frat-Em."

The most elaborate wedding of the season was that of Miss Archias, daughter of L. H. Archias, proprietor of the Archias Seed & Floral Co., to A. W. Klang, of Sedalia. The wedding was most elaborate in every detail, taking place September 15 before one of the most fashionable gatherings of Sedalia. J. A. L.

ADVANCE CO.,

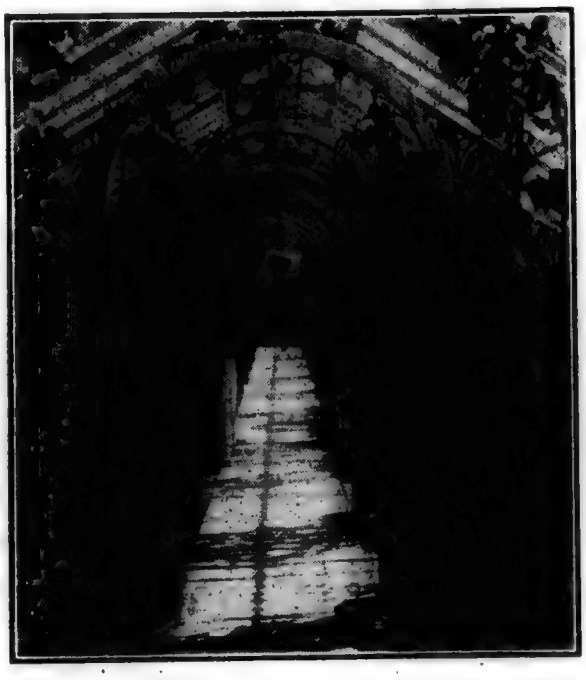
542 North Fourteenth St., Richmond, Ind.

It is one of those layouts of parallel houses which have so much to be said in their favor.

Schwab's Vegetable Range

The name Schwab, means big things done in a big way.

A big way, means not necessarily big in size; but big in that every thing down to the smallest detail was considered.



First, we built him a complete range exclusively for flowers.

Then followed this vegetable range, where Mr. Ireland is doing such wizard work with his growing.

Being practical purpose houses, the rafters are spaced 12' 1¾" apart, just as in our commercial houses.

The houses fronting on the garden are semi-curvilinear.

The two behind it, have our standard angle eave treatment.

View looking down the fruit house arches. You can just see our friend Ireland away at the other end.

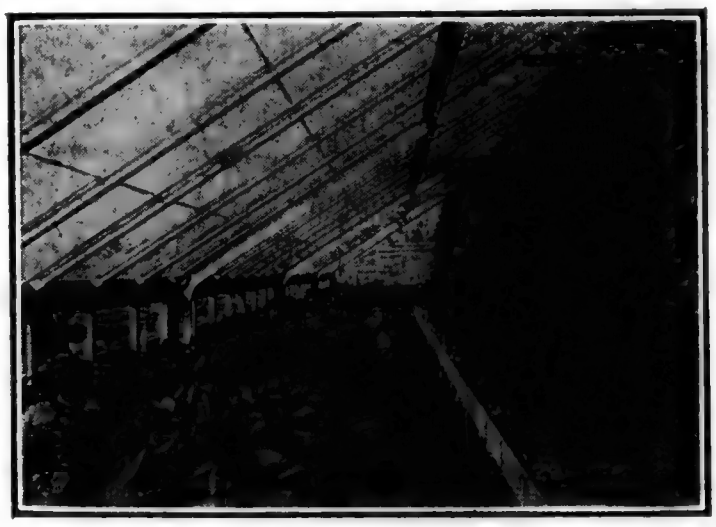
You may recall that we built two practical purpose houses constructed the same way for the late Hetty Green's daughter, Mrs. M. A. Wilks, at Greenwich, Conn.

And later, two big houses for her brother, Col. Green, whose estate is near New Bedford, R. I.

If men like Schwab and Col. Green believe there is much in favor of the practical purpose house, seems like it's worth your while to look into it.

It may mean more houses for the same money.

Or better growing conditions.



Both interest you.

You know we go anywhere for business.

Or to talk business.

Glimpse of the gables, showing both kinds of eave construction.

Among other things Ireland does surpassingly well, is always to have beans "in crop."

An Interesting Letter

FORT MORGAN, COLORADO

June 16, 1920.

John C. Moninger Co.,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sirs: For years I have watched with interest your ads on the back page of the Florists' Review from week to week to see if they offered anything of value to me, and have received many helpful suggestions from them. In noting the greenhouse advertisements of various concerns from time to time it has occurred to me that they were fine for the big fellow, but sometimes they scared the little fellow out by their bigness. There are lots of small florists or vegetable growers who I am sure have been scared out because the ease of the smaller construction has not been brought clearly enough to them. I, too, wish I could have houses built with nothing to do but let the contract and then write a check, but I cannot yet, and as long as I cannot I sometimes think that my time is mighty well spent in helping to put up simple houses like the one shown in the picture.

I am sending this picture thinking it might interest some of your departments. The young lady was simply helping daddy plant tomato seed. Note the daylight clearness of gable, simplicity of construction, etc.

The history of this house might interest you: It was ordered from the John C. Moninger Co., in January; delivered in February; put up in March with our own help; planted to tomato seed in early April; in May and June tomato plants sold from it went a long way toward paying for it; later in July it was benched, piped and planted to carnations, which will give an all-winter crop.

The reason for our adoption of this type of house might be of interest: Roof bars are 14-foot, making the house 24 feet 6 inches wide. Gutters are seven feet high. This gives comfortable headroom all around, makes a fairly roomy house and, when the purlin is placed just halfway on the rafter bars, it makes the purlin posts come in the edges of the aisles, at the same time allowing just four convenient benches and four aisles to each house. This makes a convenient unit for connected houses, which can be built in any number. Further, and not the least important, by hinging the vents at the ridge we can stretch hail screen across from ridge to ridge, fastening it securely to the outside ridges. A wider house would allow the screen to sag too much. If narrower houses were used in this way there would not be headroom under the screen when walking in the gutter. For screening we use 1-inch mesh woven wire in 6-foot widths stretched clear across the range and nailed solidly to the outside ridge. The outside halves of the outside houses are then either left unprotected or else a framework is built to carry the screen over that part. The strips of wire are wired together with a small loop of wire about every eighteen inches, thus making a solid sheet of screen wire over the whole range. Screening in this way has been a complete protection through four hailstorms in nine years, each of which did terrific damage to unprotected glass adjoining.

Yours truly, MORGAN FLORAL CO.,
By L. J. Reid.

Why Fred Eckardt Of Cleveland Says What He Says About One Of Our Standard Greenhouses

"Thank you for mailing three prints of the photographs of Mr. W. D. B. Alexander's greenhouse to me.

"They are wonderful, and illustrate once more, what we had occasion to learn many times, that the greenhouse you built for us, is an object of beauty in its external appearance, and a unit of great attraction in the group of buildings on Mr. Alexander's Cleveland estate.

"The marvelous construction makes economical and efficient work possible, and stands for good results, which is the main point of consideration as far as the gardener is concerned."

Prepared Foliages

If you want the Best Prepared Foliages insist on O. G. QUALITY BRAND. Most of the Leading Jobbers can supply you.

WE are the original manufacturers of Prepared Foliages in America, and for the last ten years have maintained a standard of QUALITY on CYCAS, MAGNOLIA LEAVES, RUSCUS, OAK, BEECH and EVERGREEN which has not been equaled.

Lycopodium

The new 1920 crop now in process of preparation. Our Lycopodium is CHEMICALLY PREPARED. When comparing prices on this item bear in mind O. G. QUALITY LYCOPODIUM is put up full weight 10-lbs. per carton.

Price, $3.50 per 10-lb. carton; bulk, 100-lb. cases, $33.00.

Cycas Leaves O. G. QUALITY BRAND, the best on the market.

Our Cycas Leaves are individually treated, ironed, dyed and painted by the old reliable European process, which insures lasting flexibility and color not to be found in cheaper dipped imitations now being offered. Quality considered, O. G. Quality Cycas are the cheapest. Non-Curling—Flexible—Fast Color:

Inch—	Per 100	Inch—	Per 100	Inch—	Per 100

LE MARECHAL FOCH

GLADIOLUS

Le Marechal Foch

First-class Certificate Haarlem, August 4, 1919. Its color is a shade brighter than America, flowers twice as large as America and its habit of growth is like America. It is as early as Halley and multiplies as Halley. In a few years Le Marechal Foch will be growing all over the U. S. A., and when you are talking about Gladioli you will talk about Le Marechal Foch, because it is the best fine pink color, very early, has extra shipping qualities, and every first size bulb gives three and four strong flower spikes direct out of the bulb.

Notice re Import Last year we had several shipments for customers in the U. S. A. All have been inspected by the F. H. B. in Washington and no pests at all have been found, so all customers have received the goods in good condition. As the inspection by the F. H. B. is very exact, you have to be sure that you get absolutely sound stuff. We therefore beg to inform you that you cannot order Gladioli everywhere, because the inspection has to be done also on our side very carefully, and although our cultures are absolutely pest free, we hand-select all our bulbs before shipping. If you give us your order you can be sure that you will have no trouble at all, as we know all about inspection, packing and shipping. Bulbs for propagating are duty free.

CANADIAN BUYERS are kindly requested to send their list of wants in Gladioli of 1½-inch and over for lowest price quotation.

For Import License address the Federal Horticultural Board in Washington D.C., which gives it freely for propagating bulbs. We allow 7% discount for cash with order, otherwise three months' credit with good references. Hundred at thousand price.

150,000 NEPHROLEPIS

(In variety.)

We are the largest growers of Nephrolepis Ferns in the country; in fact, we are headquarters for them.

NEPHROLEPIS NORWOOD

The most beautiful form of Nephrolepis to date; graceful, compact and symmetrical; a vigorous, healthy grower. All growers are invited to inspect it at our Norwood greenhouses.

Strong Plants.

2¼-inch pots, $3 per doz.; $12 per 100; $100 per 1000
4 -inch pots.....$6 per doz.; $45 per 100
Orders filled strictly in rotation.

NEPHROLEPIS VERONA

Makes a good plant in all sizes. Much finer frond than any crested sort outside of N. Smithii. The fronds are carried on a heavy, wiry stem. We consider it one of the best of the newer introductions.

2¼-inch pots.....$10 per 100; $90 per 1000

NEPHROLEPIS BOSTONIENSIS, DWARF

This is a dwarf form of the old Boston Fern; same character, form and graceful habit.

6-inch pots.....$15 and $18 per doz.
8-inch pots.....$24, $30 and $36 per doz.

NEPHROLEPIS ELEGANTISSIMA COMPACTA

A dwarf, compact form of Nephrolepis Elegantissima, each plant making an ideal shape.

2¼-inch pots.....$10 per 100; $90 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$5 per doz.; $35 per 100

NEPHROLEPIS SMITHII

The greatly improved Amerpohlii. It is a compact form, much finer than Amerpohlii and does not break down in the center. The fronds are carried on wiry stems. This variety will have a wonderful sale up to a 6-inch pot, being particularly showy for basket work.

2½-inch pots.....$10 per 100; $90 per 1000
4 -inch pots.....$6 per doz.; $40 per 100

TEDDY JUNIOR

A Grand New Dwarf Fern.

Fine young plants from 2¼-inch pots, $10 per 100; $90 per 1000
6-inch pots, heavy.....$15 per doz.
8-inch pots.....$24 per doz.
11-inch tubs.....$4, $5 and $6 each

NEPHROLEPIS HARRISII OR ROOSEVELT

2¼-inch pots.....$10 per 100; $90 per 1000
4 -inch pots.....$35 per 100

CROTON LEAVES AND SPRAYS

Cut Croton Leaves and Sprays have been supplied by us in the past few years to some of the leading retail florists, who have featured them in mantel, table and funeral work. Cut Crotons will last in a cool place from three to four weeks. We can supply them every day in the year.

Very highly colored sprays at 50c each. Cut leaves, $5 per 100.

When you have orders for funeral or table work, "out of the ordinary," order Craig's Cut Crotons.

ADIANTUM GLORIOSUM

Same as Farleyense, but as hardy as Nephrolepis.

4-inch, strong plants.....$60 per 100

HYDRANGEAS

FRENCH AND OTAKSA

We have in stock over 60,000 plants in the very best varieties, including Otaksa, Mme. Chautard, Baby Bimbinette, Lilie Mouillere, Mme. Mouillere, Jaconde, General de Vibraye, Radiant, etc. The above are all excellent sorts for forcing.

Plants in fruit, September delivery, $30 per 100
Plants in fruit, ripened, November and December.....40c per fruit

GENISTA RACEMOSA

A large stock of well-grown plants for growing on.

5-inch pots.....$75 per 100
6-inch pots.....$1 each
Larger plants at.....$1.50, $2 and $3 each

CYCLAMEN

This has been one of our specialties for over twenty years. In all our experience we have never seen a finer lot of plants. We are growing our stock in new houses. They are absolutely clean and perfect in every way and not to be compared with weakly, drawn stock offered at less money.

4-inch pots.....$50 per 100
4-inch pots, extra heavy.....$60 per 100
5-inch pots.....$15 per doz.
5½-inch pots.....$18 per doz.

7 and 8-inch pots..$36, $48 and $60 per doz.

This stock will be profitable to anyone buying now.

PHOENIX ROEBELENII

Well grown plants.

18-inch tubs.....$15 and $20 each

MARGUERITES

An exceptionally large and well grown stock, well shaped.

4-inch pots, heavy.....$35 per 100
6-inch pots, heavy.....$9 and $12 per doz.
8-inch pans.....$18 per doz.
10-inch pans.....$30 per doz.

NEW DOUBLE DAISY CRAIGII

A sport of Mrs. Sander. Much freer, large flower, having golden yellow center with white petals. Produces fewer single flowers than Mrs. Sander. Makes an ideal variety for either cut flowers or pot culture. Stock ready now. Orders filled strictly in rotation.

2¼-inch pots.....$20 per 100; $150 per 1000
4-inch pots.....$50 per 100; $450 per 1000
6-inch pots.....$18 per doz.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Owing to the very great increase in price of all materials used in packing of plants, we find it necessary to make a small charge for same, as follows, much lower than the percentage plan:

Full size cases.....$1.50 each
Three-quarter size cases.....$1.00 each
Small size cases.....$0.50 each

Would suggest taking plants in paper pots whenever possible. It is a big saving in both packing and express charges.

TERMS. Cash With Order.—Kindly send sufficient to cover the entire bill. We do not make shipments C. O. D. unless remittance has been made on account to guarantee acceptance. This does not apply to regular customers. Remittances.—Remittances should be made by money order or New York drafts. If money is sent, letter should be registered. All prices quoted in this list are strictly net. Shipping Instructions.—Give your name, post office, county and state and the name of your nearest express office to which shipment is to be made. We have always made it prominent in our printed terms that our goods are sold F. O. B. cars at the point of shipment and are at the purchaser's risk while in transit. Because of the present unsettled conditions we wish to emphasize still further that we do not guarantee safe delivery. The ownership of all goods sold by us passes to the purchaser on delivery by us to the carrier, and the issuing of the receipt by the carrier ends our responsibility. Any claims for damage should be made promptly to the agent at the point of delivery. Correspondence.—We endeavor to answer all correspondence promptly, but owing to the pressure of business we ask that all requests be clearly and concisely stated. Errors.—Keep a copy of your order. We aim to have our orders correctly filled. When we are at fault we shall make satisfactory correction.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

ARREST RAVAGES OF ROSE MIDGE

This is the month when the rose midge conducts its fall campaign, which this year appears to be widespread and fraught with danger for this crop. Precautions are simple, and preventive measures are known. Explanation of them in this article enables growers to combat this pest effectively.

DANGEROUS as ever, the midge is again engaged in its depredations in many rose-growing establishments this fall. This is a time of year when it is usually active, but this season its effects seem to be noted more widely than ordinarily is the case. Inquiries have reached the office of The Review daily, sometimes several a day, from rose growers who found numbers of blasted buds on their rose plants. In some cases the growers were suspicious of the cause of the trouble; in others they were ignorant of the malefactor. All wanted to know the most effective way to combat this pest.

Experiments have found that while generations of the midge mature every two weeks during the summer months, the periods when they seem to be most active are from the latter part of May to early July and from early September to November 1. After the last date the larvæ enter the ground and construct cocoons for over winter. Just now, therefore, is the time when the midge is most destructive and when combative measures will be most valuable.

Description.

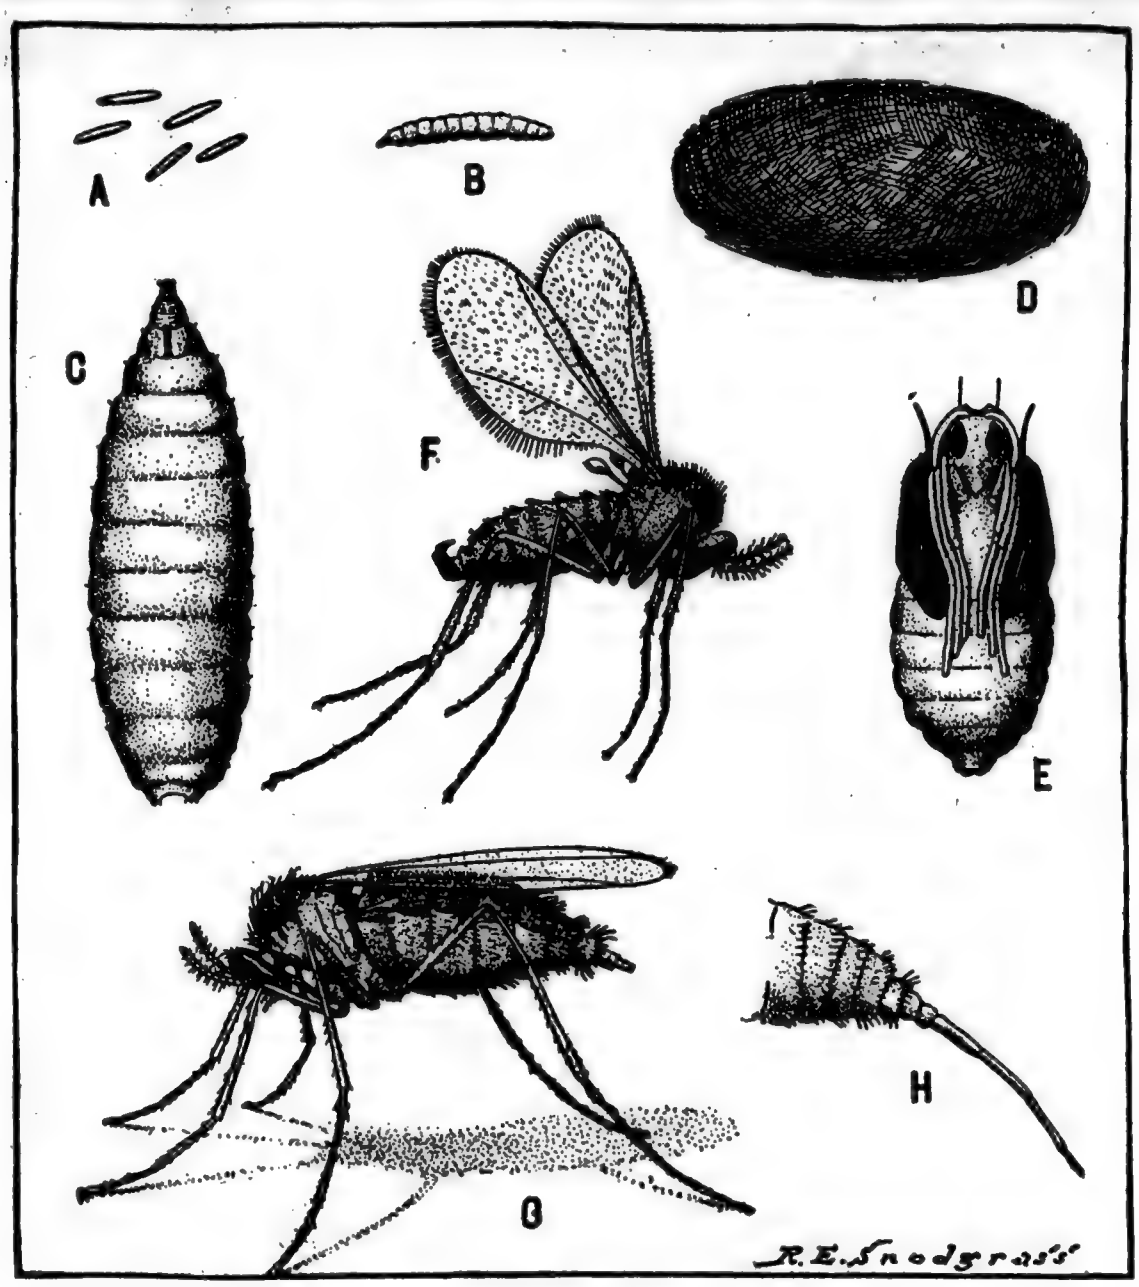
The worm, or larva, which does the damage, is so small as to be scarcely visible to the naked eye. The adult insect, or fly, is only about one-twentieth of an inch long. The egg, which is shown, greatly enlarged in size, in the upper right-hand corner of the illustration on this page, is about one-seventy-fifth of an inch long. In the upper left-hand corner is the newly hatched larva; below is the fully grown larva. To the right, below, is the immature pupa in the cocoon. The length of the full-grown larva is about one-twelfth inch. The eggs, the larvæ and the bodies of the flies are all of a yellowish color.

The larvæ do the actual damage. As soon as they are hatched they cut into the pith or heart of the bloom or leaf bud, completely blasting it. Though the general growth of the plant is not impeded, the flower buds, which the midge prefers, or, in their absence, the leaf buds, droop to one side, turn black and in time fall off.

Larvae of the Rose Midge (greatly enlarged) and Their Work.

Life Cycle.

The female midge, with her long ovipositor, places the small yellowish eggs just under the sepals of the flower buds or between the folded leaves of the leaf buds. Under favorable temperature conditions these eggs hatch in two days, and the young larvæ, or maggots, immediately attack the buds, extracting the sap and eventually causing the petals and leaves to dry up and die. The larvæ grow rapidly, reaching maturity in from five to seven days, and, when full grown, work their way out of the buds and fall on and enter the ground, where they construct small silken cocoons, in which they pupate. Adults appear in from five to seven days and shortly after deposit eggs for the next generation of larvæ, or maggots. In confinement for experimental observation, the life of an adult is from one to two days. The total cycle, therefore, under greenhouse conditions, is from twelve to sixteen days.



Although larvæ have been observed injuring buds as early as February 22, under normal conditions they do not appear in injurious numbers until June or July. In Department of Agriculture experiments at Washington adults were reared in early May from larvæ which pupated in November. During the warm summer months the generations may mature every two weeks and overlapping of broods probably takes place. Larvæ have been observed to be especially injurious during two periods of the year, namely, from the latter part of May to early July and from early September to November 1. On the approach of cold weather the stages are slightly prolonged and about the latter part of November the larvæ enter the ground and construct cocoons. No injury has been reported during winter.

Roses, especially the hybrid teas, are apparently the only plants attacked by this insect. This fact has led to one suggestion to rid houses of the midge, the so-called rotation method. According to this plan, one must throw out the rose plants entirely, clear the benches of all soil, whitewash them and plant to carnations or some crop other than roses for the period of a year. At the end of that time, supposedly, roses may again be grown without danger.

Control.

The opinion of Department of Agriculture observers is "that a severe infestation of the rose midge can be controlled, if not entirely eliminated, in a comparatively brief period by the careful application of tobacco dust on the soil and by persistent nightly fumigation with tobacco in the form of stems, nicotine papers, or one of the volatile nicotine extracts. Where earth walks are present it is advisable to spray the walks with a five or ten per cent kerosene emulsion." This is borne out by the methods of control used by rose growers after practical experimentation.

After conducting experiments in control of the midge, experts of the Department of Agriculture cleaned the pest out of a Maryland range in the following manner: All of the rose beds in the infested houses were covered, October 12, with tobacco dust averaging from one-fourth to one-half inch deep. To prevent the larvæ from entering the dirt walks of the houses, all walks were sprayed with five per cent kerosene emulsion. Simultaneously, nightly fumigation with tobacco stems was inaugurated and continued until October 30, inclusive, and from that date until November 8 the houses were fumigated every other night. The object of this fumigation was to kill all adults before eggs were deposited.

Although this control work was not undertaken until October 12 its effectiveness was soon apparent, and by the latter part of October it was difficult to locate an infested bud. Not only was the midge under control, but the owner was enabled to bring on his fall crop earlier than was the case the preceding year. The following May these houses were carefully examined, and only six larvæ were located. All plants at this time were in excellent condition and gave promise of producing a full crop of flowers.

The rapid elimination of this pest was due no doubt to two causes, (1) nightly fumigation, which killed off the adults before egg-laying took place, and (2) the application of tobacco dust, which prevented the larvæ from entering the soil. Moreover, the tobacco dust served a dual purpose, since it prevented the larvæ from entering hibernating quarters and at the same time fertilized the soil.

In the case of light infestations, the midge can be controlled by systematic nightly fumigations with tobacco fumes, which should be continued until all adults disappear; or by a careful application, at the proper season, of tobacco dust. Inasmuch as the broods probably overlap during the summer, there is a possibility that frequent syringing of the plants would cause much of the dust to wash down into the soil before all larvæ matured; hence there is a chance that some would fall on and enter soil where the dust had lost its effectiveness. It would seem, therefore, that the most opportune time to apply the dust, if not accompanied with nightly fumigation, is during the latter part of October or the first three weeks of November, at which season the last generation of larvæ leave the plants, enter the ground, and construct cocoons. If dependence is placed on the dust alone, it is imperative that the application be so timed as to be on the soil before the larvæ seek winter quarters. No hard and fast rule governing the date of this application can be recommended for all localities, since temperature naturally influences the final disappearance of the larvæ.

Grower's Solution.

The superintendent of a large rose-growing range in the central west which suffered severely from the midge believes that cleanliness is the surest preventive of the midge. After trying other methods of control, he armed his men with rakes and brooms and cleaned his houses as thoroughly as ever did a housewife her parlors in spring. Every particle of trash was cleaned out from under the benches and the surface of the ground was scratched over to let in the air.

The next step in the process of sanitation was to get a quantity of air-slaked lime. If that is not to be had, one can get the unslaked lime and make it into a bed from six to seven inches deep and pour enough water on it to slake it. When it has become thoroughly slaked and is in a mealy condition, say next day, throw it under the benches and on the soil on the benches until everything looks white. You need have no fear of injuring the plants.

The following step in extermination called for, in each house 285 feet long, four small piles of tobacco stems. On each pile were placed a tablespoonful of red pepper and half a teaspoonful of powdered arsenic. If, however, the plants are soft and young, the proportion of arsenic and pepper will have to be slightly reduced. In instances where the plants are badly infested, it may be necessary to make it stronger. The smudge created by burning these piles quite effectually kills the fly.

The final step was to spray everything with a strong solution of nicotine. This spraying destroyed the worms or bugs on the infested plants.

One should be on his guard during rainy or cloudy weather. This is the time when the pest is most likely to manifest itself. Apply the treatment then. It is a preventive as well as a remedy. On light, clear days, spray freely with water. Another point of importance to remember is this: The use of the rake and the broom should not be restricted to any certain time or season. They should be used as regularly as the broom and dust cloth in a well regulated house.

LEATHER NOT A FERTILIZER.

An inquirer in The Review, September 2, asked the value as a fertilizer of refuse leather from a shoe factory. About that time we received a sample of the same thing from a local factory. In order to be sure that its use would be beneficial, I wrote the Pennsylvania state agricultural department about it and was answered as follows:

> Answering your inquiry of September 15, in our opinion there is no fertilizing value in refuse leather and we do not recommend that you purchase it for use as a fertilizer. There is some value in refuse leather as a source of nitrogen or ammonia when it has been specially treated with sulphuric acid, which can be done only by an expert, such as the large fertilizer manufacturers.
> James W. Kellogg,
> Chief Chemist.

I hope the reply will be of interest to the inquirer. D. H. Mish.

IS THE 8-HOUR DAY ENOUGH ?

I note in The Review of September 2 that George Allen is in favor of the 8-hour day. I cannot see how any greenhouse establishment can run on the 8-hour day plan successfully. I am an employee and I find it impossible at times to have everything O. K. at the end of my ten hours.

Mr. Allen also states that the owner, provided he has had a good year, should give his men at Christmas one or two months' salary. I say that one month's salary is a whole lot too much. At that rate he would pay out all his profits. He should give his men who take an interest in his business something nice, at least, at Christmas and Easter.

AMERICAN DAHLIA SOCIETY

SIXTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION.

Society on Own Feet.

The sixth annual exhibition of the American Dahlia Society opened in the roof garden of the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, Monday, September 27, and was continued during the two days following.

The previous exhibitions of the society have been held under the auspices of other organizations, but this year the society held the exhibition entirely on its own account, and there was elation over the fact that it was almost twice as large as any of its predecessors. The large room was filled with exhibits to the point of crowding, but the arrangement of the different displays was excellent, creating a pleasing effect. About the sides of the room and at one end were a number of trade exhibits. The center of the floor and part of one side were completely filled with competitive exhibits of private and commercial growers.

Quality High.

The quality of the flowers displayed was exceptionally good, and the close of the first day found practically all in good condition. The room was splendidly adapted to the purpose of a flower show, the beautiful mural paintings and oriental electric lamps contributing much to the general effect. The price of admission was 50 cents, and the room was crowded shortly after the opening time, 7 p. m.

The judges were James Duthie, Oyster Bay, N. Y.; Prof. Geo. W. Fraser, Storrs, Conn.; Prof. J. B. S. Norton, Hyattsville, Md.; James Kirby, Huntington, N. Y.; J. S. Vincent, White Marsh, Md.; Peter Duff, Orange, N. J.; John McNicoll, Cedarhurst, N. Y.; E. Stanley Brown, East Moriches, N. Y.; and Alex. McKenzie, White Plains, N. Y.

Vincent Gathers Medals.

Th prize for the best undisseminated seedling dahlia was won by Richard Vincent, Jr., & Co., White Marsh, Md., with Patrick O'Mara, a hybrid decorative, on color lines something like King of the Autumn. It had good, straight stems, about three and one-half feet long, and excellent foliage. The variety was also awarded the silver metal of the S. A. F. and the bronze medal of the Toronto Horticultural Society.

John Scheepers, Inc., New York, staged the handsomest exhibit in the show. The wall at the rear was draped to the ceiling with velvet, and on the draping were a number of dahlia blooms in glass tubes, all irregularly placed, but in excellent color arrangement. In the center foreground was an immense basket of Mephistopheles, a glowing red, flanked with dahlias in vases of various sizes. The exhibit was greatly admired, and was awarded a special gold medal as the most meritorious exhibit.

W. Atlee Burpee Co., Philadelphia, staged a splendid exhibit embracing a number of varieties of dahlias against a draped background. Among the varieties was the new Jean Kerr, a grand white, showing splendid qualities for florists' use. The exhibit was arranged and staged by George W. Kerr and evidenced his usually good style. It won the A. D. S. silver medal for the best general display of dahlias.

A somewhat novel exhibit was one by W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J. It was a group of plants of Dahlia Mandaiana in tubs about two feet in diameter. The plants appeared as solid spherical bushes, well flowered, the habit of the variety, clothed to the neck with foliage, being well accentuated.

Trade Exhibits.

Among the exhibitors in the trade section were the following:

C. H. Totty Co., Madison, N. J.—A display of flowers of the company's type of "Star Dahlias," embracing several varieties; roses and perennials.

John Lewis Childs, Flowerfield, N. Y.—A display of dahlia blooms.

C. Louis Alling, West Haven, Conn.—Display of dahlia blooms.

Peacock Dahlia Farms, Berlin, N. J.—Display of dahlia blooms.

Alfred E. Doty, New Haven, Conn.—Display of dahlia blooms.

Stumpp & Walter Co., New York—Display of dahlia blooms with picture effect, bulbs, etc.

W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.—Foliage and decorative plants and perennials.

Mills & Co., Mamaroneck, N. Y.—Display of dahlia blooms.

A. T. De La Mare Co., New York—Exhibit of horticultural publications.

W. C. Noonan, Locust Valley, N. Y.—Display of dahlia blooms.

Lord & Burnham Co., New York—Model greenhouse, a unique exhibit.

W. D. Hathaway, New Bedford, Mass.—Display of dahlia blooms.

O. P. Chapman, Jr., Westerly, R. I.—Display of dahlia blooms and made-up baskets of dahlias.

Blue Ribbon Dahlia Co., Trenton, N. J.—Display of dahlia blooms.

Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J.—Display of orchids, with hybrid cattleyas predominating.

Geo. L. Stillman, Westerly, R. I.—Display of dahlia blooms.

S. Hanfling Co., New York—Display of floral baskets.

Few Seedlings.

The showing of seedlings was poor, little of promise being exhibited. Of course, something exceptional is required nowadays to get to even the preliminary stage, and looking over the exhibits of varieties at this show, one could fairly well estimate the chances of a newcomer.

An unfortunate feature of the show seemed to be a want of system in the recording of awards, a correct record seemingly being an impossibility. The dear public, however, did not mind about this. The visitors were content, with pen or pencil, to note the colors, types and names which appealed to them. It must be said that especial care was evident in the labeling of all varieties.

As far as could be ascertained, the awards in the commercial and open classes, in addition to those already mentioned, were as follows:

One hundred varieties, at least four types, short stems—N. H. Cottam, first; C. Louis Alling, second.

Fifty varieties, at least four types, short stems

Richard Vincent, Jr.

(Re-elected President of the American Dahlia Society.)

—J. Lewis Childs, second; W. L. W. Darnell, third.

Show, twelve blooms, twelve varieties, short stems—C. Louis Alling, first; W. L. W. Darnell, second.

Hybrid show, twelve blooms, twelve varieties, short stems—W. L. W. Darnell, first.

Decorative, twelve blooms, twelve varieties, short stems—C. Louis Alling, first; J. Lewis Childs, second.

Cactus, twelve blooms, twelve varieties, short stems—Alfred E. Doty, New Haven, Conn., first; C. Louis Alling, second.

Hybrid cactus, twelve blooms, twelve varieties, short stems—C. Louis Alling, first; Alfred E. Doty, second.

Peony, twelve blooms, twelve varieties, short stems—John Lewis Childs, first; C. Louis Alling, second.

Collarette, twelve blooms, twelve varieties, one vase, long stems—C. Louis Alling, first; L. B. Linsley, West Haven, Conn., second.

Pompon, nine varieties, nine vases, three in a vase, long stems—C. Louis Alling, first; Alfred E. Doty, second.

Vase of white dahlias, named, one variety, twelve in a vase, long stems—Sarah W. Wakeman, Southport, Conn., first.

Vase of yellow dahlias, named, one variety, twelve in a vase, long stems—Alfred E. Doty, second.

Vase of pink dahlias, named, one variety, twelve in a vase, long stems—John Lewis Childs, second.

Vase of fancy dahlias, named, one variety, twelve in a vase, long stems—J. Lewis Childs, first; Sarah W. Wakeman, second.

Best undisseminated seedling dahlia, long stem—Richard Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., White Marsh, Md., first; J. M. Root, Collingswood, N. J., second.

Vase of cactus or hybrid cactus, twenty-five blooms, long stems, for effect, other foliage permitted—W. F. Jost, East Haven, Conn., first.

Vase of decorative or hybrid decorative, twenty-five blooms, long stems, for effect, other foliage permitted; Dahlia Society of California silver medal—W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., first, with Mandalana.

Vase of peony or hybrid peony, twenty-five blooms, long stems, for effect, other foliage permitted—L. B. Linsley, first.

Pot-grown dahlia—J. R. Bruce, Montclair, N. J., first, with Mandalana.

Twenty-four blooms, cactus dahlias, hybrid cactus dahlias excluded—A. Daly, Leonia, N. J., first.

Decorative dahlias, largest and best display—W. L. W. Darnell, first, winning silver medal.

Peony-flowered, largest and best display—W. L. W. Darnell, first, winning silver medal.

Best five decorative dahlias in one vase, all different named varieties—Sarah W. Wakeman, first.

Best five decorative dahlias, one variety, in one vase—Sarah W. Wakeman, first.

Best collection decorative dahlias, twenty-five varieties, short stems—J. Lewis Childs, first.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Officers Reëlected.

The annual meeting of the American Dahlia Society was held at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, Tuesday, September 28, at 11:30 a. m. The attendance was better than at any previous meeting.

Officers and committees elected were as follows:

President—Richard Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md.

Secretary—Edward C. Vick, 205 Elwood avenue, Newark, N. J.

Treasurer—Wm. J. Rathgeber, 198 Norton street, New Haven, Conn.

Vice-presidents—Geo. L. Stillman, Westerly, R. I.; L. P. Peacock, Berlin, N. J.; E. S. Brown, East Moriches, N. Y.; W. W. Wilmore, Denver, Colo.; James Davies, San Francisco, Cal.

Executive committee—I. S. Hendrickson, Flowerfield, N. Y.; F. R. Austin, Tuckerton, N. J.; C. Louis Alling, West Haven, Conn.; Wm. Noonan, Locust Valley, N. Y.; W. L. W. Darnell, East Moriches, N. Y.

Nomenclature committee—Prof. Geo. W. Fraser, Storrs, Conn.; James Kirby, Huntington, N. Y.; N. Harold Cottam, Wappingers Falls, N. Y.; I. N. Failor, Richmond Hill, N. Y.; E. Stanley Brown, East Moriches, N. Y.; J. B. S. Norton, Hyattsville, Md.; Geo. W. Kerr, Fordhook, Pa.; James Duthie, Oyster Bay, N. Y.

Treasurer W. J. Rathgeber reported the finances of the society in good shape, with a substantial balance in the treasury.

President Vincent's Address.

In his address as president, R. Vincent, Jr., rendered thanks to those who had aided the society during the last year and called attention to the splendid progress of the organization and its flower. Regarding the staging of the show he said:

"We have been five years in existence as the American Dahlia Society. The first year we were under the wing of the New York Horticultural Society and for four years afterwards under the auspices of the American Institute, and, having no privileges but those they granted, we did not make much progress financially.

"When the trustees of the American Institute notified us in February that, on account of finances, they could not give us any help to run the dahlia show, things looked rather blue for a time, as our society had no funds but those which came from the members who paid their dues. We were receiving only a limited amount to send out circulars, publish bulletins, etc., using practically all funds coming in. But we are living in hopes that the present show will not only pay expenses, but also give sufficient funds to the society so that more regular or larger bulletins can be sent to members.

"When we held our annual spring meeting this year, at the time of the flower show at the Grand Central Palace, the question was brought up as to what we were going to do. It was quickly decided that we must hold a show as usual in New York city, it being the home of the society. The question was, where could we hold it? Several offers from department stores were talked about, but none seemed to measure up to our requirements. So the committee named to select a suitable situation accepted the offer from the Pennsylvania Hotel management to rent us the roof garden for three days, September 27 to 29. The question was, could the society manage to give a show without there being a deficit? Some stated that they were satisfied that we could not stage a show as laid out without loss, and there was every probability of our being $1,000 to the bad. One member stated that if that was going to be all he would put up $100 or more, if there were nine to meet it. The reply was, 'Let the show go on; we will back that member up.' The show is going on and at the present time everything looks favorable.

Trial Grounds at Storrs, Conn.

"Too much cannot be said in favor of Prof. Geo. W. Fraser. His work from the beginning has been no easy task, and this year's work with the new varieties under test, giving evidence of magnificent management in the way the varieties have been grown and handled, and their splendid condition at the date of judging, shows a love of the work and an up-to-date way of growing dahlias so as to get the most out of them. Anyone who has varieties at Storrs cannot find fault with the growing and handling in case the judges' award was not up to what he expected, and we sincerely hope that it may be the privilege of the American Dahlia Society to have this good work continued under Professor Fraser's management for years to come.

"We have several affiliated societies that are working with us and have been of great help. More coöperation would have been had but for various reasons which I do not care to state. But with a working body and a secretary who has floriculture completely at heart, we will look forward to his work for an increase in the number of affiliated societies and a successful year. Our motto is, 'Get everybody to love dahlias.' Talk and write about them, grow them, induce others to do the same and to become members of the American Dahlia Society. The east has got to be up and doing, as our sister society on the Pacific coast will be one of the best producers of new varieties and types, and in the east we have got to watch our step or be left behind in the race. Good luck to them! Honest rivalry will do no harm. The thing is, instead of the Old World sending over new varieties and capturing our shekels, we shall be able to turn the tables shortly, and if they want real up-to-date dahlias they will be sending their gold over here for ours."

Pests Discussed.

There was little business to come before the meeting. A great deal of time was taken up with a discussion of ways and means of fighting the tarnished bug. Of all the remedies suggested for the inroads made by this insect, the best seemed to be one offered by George W. Kerr, who said that in his experience kerosene emulsion sprayed weekly when the plants were from four inches high until completion of flowering was most satisfactory as a repellent, and lime on the soil at planting time was also effective in driving the insects away. Nothing seemed to destroy them; all one could hope to do was to repel them.

The borer was another pest considered. A member told of an effective method to combat this. It is easy to see where a borer began its depredations, a deposit at entry usually being plainly visible. If a tobacco stem is inserted in the opening, within a day or so there will be no trouble from the trapped borer and the plant will not suffer.

Some discussion took place as to the practice of willful substitution of varieties by unscrupulous dealers in dahlia roots. A motion, by Professor Fraser, was carried that in cases reported, where a grower failed to make reparation, his name should be published in the society's bulletin.

NEW YORK TO INDIANAPOLIS.

The transportation committee of the New York Florists' Club has made arrangements for the party attending the meeting of the F. T. D., at Indianapolis October 12 and 13, to leave New York on the Pennsylvania railroad on the train departing from the Pennsylvania Terminal Sunday, October 10, at 4:50 p. m. eastern standard time, and arriving at Indianapolis next day at 11 a. m. Philadelphia florists can board this train at North Philadelphia station at 6:41 p. m., and those from Baltimore and Washington at Harrisburg at 8:40 p. m. The rate from New York, including lower berth and war tax, is $43.83. Reservations may be made with C. Lowther, 438 West Thirty-seventh street, New York. J. H. P.

READY FOR F. T. D. MEETING

PROGRAM AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Crowds Two Days.

The tentative program arranged for the convention of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, at Indianapolis October 12 and 13, is packed so full of interesting matter that the sessions are scheduled to start early in the morning and last until bedtime. There are to be three sessions on each of the two days, morning, 9 to 12:30; afternoon, 2:30 to 6, and evening, 8 to 10:30. Something is on the program for each one of these sessions, and it is quite well known that an F. T. D. meeting is full of interest even when nothing is programmed beforehand, since live discussion crops up on every hand. As Secretary Pochelon says regarding the schedule below, "there will be other matters to come up in a spontaneous way which cannot be known in advance."

The preliminary program, given below, will be laid before the board of directors of the association, which will hold an afternoon and evening session the day before the convention opens. Some changes and additions may be made at that time.

The meetings are open to all retail florists, whether members of the F. T. D. or not, and to other persons interested in the trade. All the sessions will be held in the main assembly hall of the Claypool hotel, at Indianapolis.

Preliminary Program.

The preliminary draft of the program as prepared by Secretary Pochelon is as follows:

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 12.

Registration of members and visitors.
Address by Governor Goodrich or Mayor Jewett.
Invocation.
Response by Charles H. Grakelow, of Philadelphia.
Welcome by Anders Rasmussen, president of the State Florists' Association of Indiana.
Address by president, Philip Breitmeyer.
Report of treasurer, William L. Rock.
Report of secretary, Albert Pochelon.
Report of traveling representative, L. Darnell.
"F. T. D. Work During My Time in the F. T. D. Office, and Sundry Experiences," by M. Bloy.
New F. T. D. roll call introduced by President Philip Breitmeyer.
Appointment of judges of F. T. D. window displays.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 12.

Nomination of officers for the ensuing year.
Selection of meeting place for 1921. "Why This Next Meeting Should Be Held in Kansas City," by William L. Rock.
"Credit and Bookkeeping Systems for Up-to-date Flower Shops; also, the Commercial End of Our Industry and the Picture of Our Business from the Eyes of the Man Behind the Books," by Ira W. Harper, of Pittsburgh.
"The F. T. D. from the Standpoint of the Western Union Telegraph Co.," by the district representative.
Our finances at the present and for the coming year, also for future years. Shall all our guarantee fund be invested in Kansas City or shall it be distributed, especially in regard to our Canadian brothers? Shall some part of our guarantee fund be invested in Canada by our Canadian director, W. W. Gammage?

TUESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 12.

Scenic slides and lecture on floriculture in Europe, by E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind.
Talk and film illustration of a most up-to-date western establishment in our industry, the Hollywood Gardens, of Seattle, Wash., by W. A. Moore.
Prices on the Pacific coast, which the public so often misunderstands, being under the impression that there flowers are almost given away. Statements by Mr. Seulberger, of Oakland, Cal., and A. F. Borden, of Los Angeles, Cal.
Illustrated lecture and practical demonstration of floral work, by Max Schling and chorus.
S. A. F. films.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 13.

Consideration of proposed amendments to by-laws.
The great difference between local and direct advertising and the national publicity campaign.
Talks on national publicity by some of those who are connected directly with the handling of this campaign, Henry Penn, George Asmus and Herman P. Knoble.
Our stand, policies and support toward the S. A. F. publicity campaign.
"The National Flower Growers' Association and Future Policies," by J. F. Ammann.
Our stand, support and policies toward this organization.
Our future relationship to retailers in foreign countries, with regard to florists in Germany, Austria and former enemy countries.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 13.

Election of officers.
"Why we need three correspondents in each state and in each province of Canada—one in largest, one in medium-sized and one in smaller town—to send in an approximate price list for the coming four weeks on the fifteenth of each month," by M. Bloy.
"Say It with Flowers" week—F. T. D. window displays by all our members during one whole week in November each and every year.
Talk on novelties such as some of our members feature in their own localities, which could be adapted by a great many of our members to good advantage.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 13.

F. T. D. discussion by our members.
F. T. D. steamer trade and its present new increase.

Hotel Rates.

O. E. Steinkamp, chairman of the hotel committee, makes the following announcement to those who expect to attend. One hundred rooms have been engaged at the Claypool hotel, the headquarters of the convention. The rates at this and other hotels are as follows:

CLAYPOOL HOTEL.
Single room, with shower, $2.50 and up.
Single room, with tub, $3.00 and up.
Double room, with shower, $4.00 and up.
Double room, with tub, $4.50 and up.

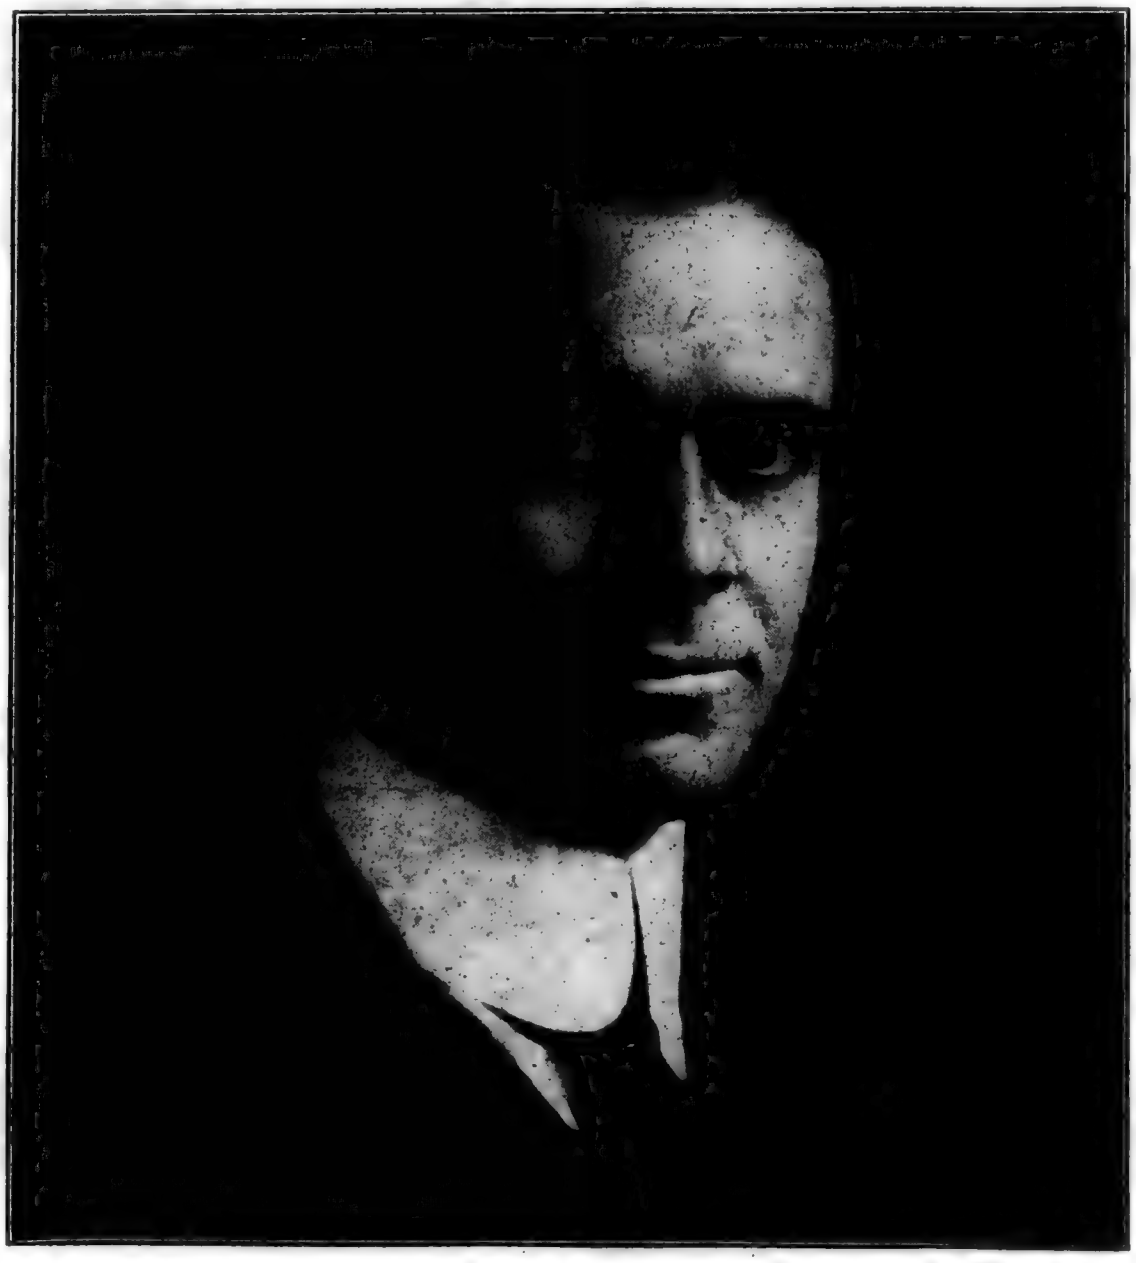
LINCOLN HOTEL.
Single room, $2.50 and up.
Double room, shower and tub, $4.00 and $4.50.

SEVERIN HOTEL.
Single room, $2.50 to $3.50.
Double room, $4.00 and up.

WASHINGTON HOTEL.
Single room, $2.50 and up.
Double room, $4.00 and up.

WILLIAMS HOTEL.
Single room, with shower, $1.75.
Double room, with shower, $3.00.

ENGLISH HOTEL.
Single room, $1.50 to $2.00.
Double room, $2.00 to $2.50.



DENNISON HOTEL.
Single room, $1.25.
Double room, $2.50 and up.

COLONIAL HOTEL.
Single room, $1.75.
Double room, $2.50.

ROYAL HOTEL.
Double rooms only, with bath, $2.50 and $3.50.

Novelty Exhibit.

There will be an exhibit of novelties at the F. T. D. meeting. This novelty display will be separate and distinct from the trade's display and there will

ANNUAL MEETING.

Officers Reëlected.

The annual meeting of the American Dahlia Society was held at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York, Tuesday, September 28, at 11:30 a. m. The attendance was better than at any previous meeting.

Officers and committees elected were as follows:

President—Richard Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md.

Secretary—Edward C. Vick, 205 Elwood avenue, Newark, N. J.

Treasurer—Wm. J. Rathgeber, 198 Norton street, New Haven, Conn.

Vice-presidents—Geo. L. Stillman, Westerly, R. I.; L. P. Peacock, Berlin, N. J.; E. S. Brown, East Moriches, N. Y.; W. W. Wilmore, Denver, Colo.; James Davies, San Francisco, Cal.

Executive committee—I. S. Hendrickson, Flowerfield, N. Y.; F. R. Austin, Tuckerton, N. J.; C. Louis Alling, West Haven, Conn.; Wm. Noonan, Locust Valley, N. Y.; W. L. W. Darnell, East Moriches, N. Y.

Nomenclature committee—Prof. Geo. W. Fraser, Storrs, Conn.; James Kirby, Huntington, N. Y.; N. Harold Cottam, Wappingers Falls, N. Y.; I. N. Failor, Richmond Hill, N. Y.; E. Stanley Brown, East Moriches, N. Y.; J. B. S. Norton, Hyattsville, Md.; Geo. W. Kerr, Fordhook, Pa.; James Duthie, Oyster Bay, N. Y.

Treasurer W. J. Rathgeber reported the finances of the society in good shape, with a substantial balance in the treasury.

President Vincent's Address.

In his address as president, R. Vincent, Jr., rendered thanks to those who had aided the society during the last year and called attention to the splendid progress of the organization and its flower. Regarding the staging of the show he said:

"We have been five years in existence as the American Dahlia Society. The first year we were under the wing of the New York Horticultural Society and for four years afterwards under the auspices of the American Institute, and, having no privileges but those they granted, we did not make much progress financially.

"When the trustees of the American Institute notified us in February that, on account of finances, they could not give us any help to run the dahlia show, things looked rather blue for a time, as our society had no funds but those which came from the members who paid their dues. We were receiving only a limited amount to send out circulars, publish bulletins, etc., using practically all funds coming in. But we are living in hopes that the present show will not only pay expenses, but also give sufficient funds to the society so that more regular or larger bulletins can be sent to members.

"When we held our annual spring meeting this year, at the time of the flower show at the Grand Central Palace, the question was brought up as to what we were going to do. It was quickly decided that we must hold a show as usual in New York city, it being the home of the society. The question was, where could we hold it? Several offers from department stores were talked about, but none seemed to measure up to our requirements. So the committee named to select a suitable situation accepted the offer from the Pennsylvania Hotel management to rent us the roof garden for three days, September 27 to 29. The question was, could the society manage to give a show without there being a deficit? Some stated that they were satisfied that we could not stage a show as laid out without loss, and there was every probability of our being $1,000 to the bad. One member stated that if that was going to be all he would put up $100 or more, if there were nine to meet it. The reply was, 'Let the show go on; we will back that member up.' The show is going on and at the present time everything looks favorable.

Trial Grounds at Storrs, Conn.

"Too much cannot be said in favor of Prof. Geo. W. Fraser. His work from the beginning has been no easy task, and this year's work with the new varieties under test, giving evidence of magnificent management in the way the varieties have been grown and handled, and their splendid condition at the date of judging, shows a love of the work and an up-to-date way of growing dahlias so as to get the most out of them. Anyone who has varieties at Storrs cannot find fault with the growing and handling in case the judges' award was not up to what he expected, and we sincerely hope that it may be the privilege of the American Dahlia Society to have this good work continued under Professor Fraser's management for years to come.

"We have several affiliated societies that are working with us and have been of great help. More coöperation would have been had but for various reasons which I do not care to state. But with a working body and a secretary who has floriculture completely at heart, we will look forward to his work for an increase in the number of affiliated societies and a successful year. Our motto is, 'Get everybody to love dahlias.' Talk and write about them, grow them, induce others to do the same and to become members of the American Dahlia Society. The east has got to be up and doing, as our sister society on the Pacific coast will be one of the best producers of new varieties and types, and in the east we have got to watch our step or be left behind in the race. Good luck to them! Honest rivalry will do no harm. The thing is, instead of the Old World sending over new varieties and capturing our shekels, we shall be able to turn the tables shortly, and if they want real up-to-date dahlias they will be sending their gold over here for ours."

Pests Discussed.

There was little business to come before the meeting. A great deal of time was taken up with a discussion of ways and means of fighting the tarnished bug. Of all the remedies suggested for the inroads made by this insect, the best seemed to be one offered by George W. Kerr, who said that in his experience kerosene emulsion sprayed weekly when the plants were from four inches high until completion of flowering was most satisfactory as a repellent, and lime on the soil at planting time was also effective in driving the insects away. Nothing seemed to destroy them; all one could hope to do was to repel them.

The borer was another pest considered. A member told of an effective method to combat this. It is easy to see where a borer began its depredations, a deposit at entry usually being plainly visible. If a tobacco stem is inserted in the opening, within a day or so there will be no trouble from the trapped borer and the plant will not suffer.

Some discussion took place as to the practice of willful substitution of varieties by unscrupulous dealers in dahlia roots. A motion, by Professor Fraser, was carried that in cases reported, where a grower failed to make reparation, his name should be published in the society's bulletin.

NEW YORK TO INDIANAPOLIS.

The transportation committee of the New York Florists' Club has made arrangements for the party attending the meeting of the F. T. D., at Indianapolis October 12 and 13, to leave New York on the Pennsylvania railroad on the train departing from the Pennsylvania Terminal Sunday, October 10, at 4:50 p. m. eastern standard time, and arriving at Indianapolis next day at 11 a. m. Philadelphia florists can board this train at North Philadelphia station at 6:41 p. m., and those from Baltimore and Washington at Harrisburg at 8:40 p. m. The rate from New York, including lower berth and war tax, is $43.83. Reservations may be made with C. Lowther, 438 West Thirty-seventh street, New York. J. H. P.

READY FOR F. T. D. MEETING

PROGRAM AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Crowds Two Days.

The tentative program arranged for the convention of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, at Indianapolis October 12 and 13, is packed so full of interesting matter that the sessions are scheduled to start early in the morning and last until bedtime. There are to be three sessions on each of the two days, morning, 9 to 12:30; afternoon, 2:30 to 6, and evening, 8 to 10:30. Something is on the program for each one of these sessions, and it is quite well known that an F. T. D. meeting is full of interest even when nothing is programmed beforehand, since live discussion crops up on every hand. As Secretary Pochelon says regarding the schedule below, "there will be other matters to come up in a spontaneous way which cannot be known in advance."

The preliminary program, given below, will be laid before the board of directors of the association, which will hold an afternoon and evening session the day before the convention opens. Some changes and additions may be made at that time.

The meetings are open to all retail florists, whether members of the F. T. D. or not, and to other persons interested in the trade. All the sessions will be held in the main assembly hall of the Claypool hotel, at Indianapolis.

Preliminary Program.

The preliminary draft of the program as prepared by Secretary Pochelon is as follows:

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 12.

Registration of members and visitors.
Address by Governor Goodrich or Mayor Jewett.
Invocation.
Response by Charles H. Grakelow, of Philadelphia.
Welcome by Anders Rasmussen, president of the State Florists' Association of Indiana.
Address by president, Philip Breitmeyer.
Report of treasurer, William L. Rock.
Report of secretary, Albert Pochelon.
Report of traveling representative, L. Darnell.
"F. T. D. Work During My Time in the F. T. D. Office, and Sundry Experiences," by M. Bloy.
New F. T. D. roll call introduced by President Philip Breitmeyer.
Appointment of judges of F. T. D. window displays.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 12.

Nomination of officers for the ensuing year.
Selection of meeting place for 1921. "Why This Next Meeting Should Be Held in Kansas City," by William L. Rock.
"Credit and Bookkeeping Systems for Up-to-date Flower Shops; also, the Commercial End of Our Industry and the Picture of Our Business from the Eyes of the Man Behind the Books," by Ira W. Harper, of Pittsburgh.
"The F. T. D. from the Standpoint of the Western Union Telegraph Co.," by the district representative.
Our finances at the present and for the coming year, also for future years. Shall all our guarantee fund be invested in Kansas City or shall it be distributed, especially in regard to our Canadian brothers? Shall some part of our guarantee fund be invested in Canada by our Canadian director, W. W. Gammage?

TUESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 12.

Scenic slides and lecture on floriculture in Europe, by E. G. Hill, of Richmond, Ind.
Talk and film illustration of a most up-to-date western establishment in our industry, the Hollywood Gardens, of Seattle, Wash., by W. A. Moore.
Prices on the Pacific coast, which the public so often misunderstands, being under the impression that there flowers are almost given away. Statements by Mr. Seulberger, of Oakland, Cal., and A. F. Borden, of Los Angeles, Cal.
Illustrated lecture and practical demonstration of floral work, by Max Schling and chorus.
S. A. F. films.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 13.

Consideration of proposed amendments to by-laws.
The great difference between local and direct advertising and the national publicity campaign.
Talks on national publicity by some of those who are connected directly with the handling of this campaign, Henry Penn, George Asmus and Herman P. Knoble.
Our stand, policies and support toward the S. A. F. publicity campaign.
"The National Flower Growers' Association and Future Policies," by J. F. Ammann.
Our stand, support and policies toward this organization.
Our future relationship to retailers in foreign countries, with regard to florists in Germany Austria and former enemy countries.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 13.

Election of officers.
"Why we need three correspondents in each state and in each province of Canada—one in largest, one in medium-sized and one in smaller town—to send in an approximate price list for the coming four weeks on the fifteenth of each month," by M. Bloy.
"Say It with Flowers" week—F. T. D. window displays by all our members during one whole week in November each and every year.
Talk on novelties such as some of our members feature in their own localities, which could be adapted by a great many of our members to good advantage.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 13.

F. T. D. discussion by our members.
F. T. D. steamer trade and its present new increase.

Homer L. Wiegand.
(Chairman of Indianapolis Decoration Committee for F. T. D. Convention.)

be no charge whatever connected therewith. Growers who have new varieties are invited to send exhibits of plants or cut blooms. Only undisseminated varieties are desired. The local committee will stage exhibits for those who are unable to attend in person. Exhibits should be addressed to A. F. J. Baur, F. T. D. convention, Claypool hotel, Indianapolis, Ind.

At Work in Indianapolis.

Under the leadership of Irwin Bertermann, vice-president of the F. T. D. and general chairman of the local arrangements committee, the florists of Indianapolis are working hard to make this convention a great success.

Some display tables are available for those who wish to make exhibits, in the Palm room of the Claypool hotel, at $10, $15 and $20, according to size. The room rates at the Claypool are $2.50 and up for single room with bath and $4 and up for two persons with bath. Reservations should be sent at once to O. E. Steinkamp, 3800 Rookwood avenue, Indianapolis.

The list of those on the local committees preparing for the F. T. D. convention is as follows:

Show committee: A. F. J. Baur, chairman; Fred Dorner, John Hartje and Thomas Hepler.
Finance committee: Joseph Hill, chairman; Len Elder, George Blackman, W. W. Coles, Fred Kiel and Oscar Carlstedt.
Entertainment committee: E. E. Temperley, chairman; Oscar Carlstedt, Charles Pahud and Edwin Mourner.
Hotel committee: O. E. Steinkamp, chairman; Irwin Bertermann and Morris Marer.
Show window committee: Arno Nehrling, chairman; Albert Pochelon, of Detroit, and Irwin Bertermann.
Publicity committee: Herman Junge, chairman; Ella Grant Wilson, Clarence Greene, George Wiegand, John Rieman, Bert Hetz, Harry Pahud, Frank Rieman, Fred H. Lemon and Harry Bookedis.
Decoration committee: Homer Wiegand, chairman; Otto Larenz and E. A. Nelson.
Reception committee: E. G. Hill, Nixon Gano, Henry Rieman, Glen E. Moore, Frank Morris, Anders Rasmussen, John Grande, Sr., George Gause, Frank J. Knecht and Charles Barnaby.
Ladies' entertainment committee: Mrs. Irwin Bertermann, Mrs. George Wiegand and Mrs. E. E. Temperley.

BIRTHDAY FLOWERS.

In connection with the extensive advertising for birthday flowers now being done in national, city and individual campaigns, the list compiled by Vincent J. Gorly of flowers suitable for the various months of the year has especial interest. Instead of allowing customers to be guided by the lists of flowers for months of the year compiled by candy manufacturers, jewelers or other outside interests, surely it would be better to prepare something for their use which has the sanction of florists. No such list can be made which will suit florists in all extremities of our country. None will be infallible and immutable. But one can be made which will serve as a guide and can be supplemented as conditions or locality require.

The list which appears on this page was sent by Mr. Gorly to 200 florists in all states of the Union. He received 151 replies, of which ninety-five per cent were to the effect that all the flowers could be furnished in the months indicated. Valley in May caused the greatest number of dissenting opinions, twenty-nine out of 151. Larkspur in July and dahlias in October were indicated impossible to supply by eighteen. Mr. Gorly submitted this list at the F. T. D. gathering at Cleveland, when it was decided to defer action until the annual meeting of that body in October.

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

Make Good on Your Guarantees.

That the publicity campaign is to be pushed vigorously during the year to come is assured by the action of the publicity committee, which is already busy with plans for publicity for flowers during the first five months of the year. The committee derived much courage from the optimism expressed at the session of the recent Cleveland convention devoted to a discussion of the campaign. It was there decided that any let-up in the work in progress would be a serious matter for the trade and the committee, true to its purpose, has made specifications for contracts amounting to several thousand dollars to cover this period.

Taking into consideration the guarantees in hand to offset the expense of all this, the committee has felt justified in incurring the liabilities and, as the contracts must be made at this time if we are to have the service of the magazines when required, the order to the agency to go ahead must be given.

One Campaign Fund You Can Trust.

Contributors to the campaign fund who are not members of the S. A. F.—and why they are not is inconceivable—would do well to write to the secretary for a reprint of the address made before the Cleveland convention by S. R. Latshaw, a noted expert in publicity matters. They would surely, after reading this address, become even more enthusiastic over the outcome of the campaign. Those who are not contributors would also do well to obtain a copy of this address, which is most inspiring and presents facts in a most understandable manner.

It is singular that nobody yet has criticized the work of the campaign adversely. Expert opinion has, thus far, been an admission that the campaign has been wonderfully successful, but has been condemnatory of the parsimony of the florists, in that they did not realize the prestige the campaign was creating for them and raise sufficient money to get the full benefit of their opportunity.

Slogan the Trade's Gibraltar.

The slogan "Say It with Flowers" is the cynosure of all eyes in the industrial publicity world. It cannot well be perverted to the use of other industries; hence our complete enjoyment of it for our absolute use. The candy makers, jewelers and other craftsmen have tried to adapt it to their lines, but it stands unassailable; it cannot be pirated. From time immemorial there has been a language of flowers and we derive our slogan from it.

A florist who does not support this campaign is dead to his own interests. It should be supported by every man who has a stake in the industry. It is one great, grand movement to increase the demand for flowers and it operates for the advancement of florists' interests in every community, large or small. The larger the fund, the greater the advancement. The committee wants more money right now—will you deny it to them? John Young, Sec'y.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SOCIETY.

Examining Committees.

Thomas W. Head, president of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, announces the committees to examine new chrysanthemums for the ensuing year as follows:

Boston—William Nicholson, chairman; James Wheeler, Alex Montgomery. Ship flowers to the chairman, in care of W. J. Thurston, manager, Boston Flower Exchange, 1 Winthrop square and Otis street, Boston, Mass.
New York — Eugene Dailledouze, chairman; Wm. H. Duckham, A. Herrington. Ship flowers to New York Cut Flower Co., 55-57 West Twenty-sixth street, New York, in care of the chairman.
Philadelphia — A. B. Cartledge, chairman; John Westcott, S. S. Pennock. Ship flowers to A. B. Cartledge, 1514 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Cincinnati — R. Witterstaetter, chairman; James Allen, J. C. Murphy. Ship flowers to the chairman, Jabez Elliott Flower Market, Cincinnati, in care of the janitor.
Chicago—N. J. Wietor, chairman; E. A. Kanst, George Asmus. Ship flowers to the chairman, 162 North Wabash avenue, Chicago.

Requirements for Entry and Shipment.

Shipments should be made in time to arrive by 2 p. m. on examination days, in order to receive attention from the committee. They must be prepaid to their destination and an entry fee of $2 should be forwarded to the secretary not later than Tuesday of the week in which they are to be examined, or it may accompany the blooms.

Seedlings and sports are both eligible to be shown before these committees, provided the raiser has given them two years' trial to determine their true character; not less than six blooms of each variety are to be shown. Special attention is called to the rule that sports, to receive a certificate, must pass at least three of the five committees.

The committees will be in session to examine such exhibits as may be submitted each Saturday during October and November, the dates of which will be October 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30, November 6, 13, 20 and 27, 1920.

Chas. W. Johnson, Sec'y.

TORONTO, ONT.

The opening meeting of the Hamilton Florists' Club was held Wednesday evening, September 22, when over forty Toronto florists motored over and paid them a visit. There was a musical program, followed by refreshments and dancing. Speeches were made by George Hall, W. E. Groves, S. A. McFadden, H. G. Dillemuth, G. M. Garaghty and Harry James. The members of the Hamilton club will return the visit at an early date. The annual meeting of the Hamilton club will be held October 4, when the election of officers will take place.

Stephen Green, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, has been calling on the trade in Toronto.

A new store has been opened by Mr. Goldie, formerly manager of the floral department of Liggett's drug store.

Hamilton florists have been visiting the greenhouses near-by in a body. Recently they visited the range of the Georgetown Floral Co. and were entertained there. September 29 they enjoyed a corn roast at Mrs. Guthrie's, at Port Nelson.

The Toronto Gardeners' and Florists' Association will hold its meetings the third Monday of the month. Its meeting place is at 22 College street.

The next meeting of the Toronto Retail Florists' Club will be held October 4 instead of on the regular meeting night, to permit as many members as possible to make the trip to Indianapolis for the F. T. D. convention.

J. J. H.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

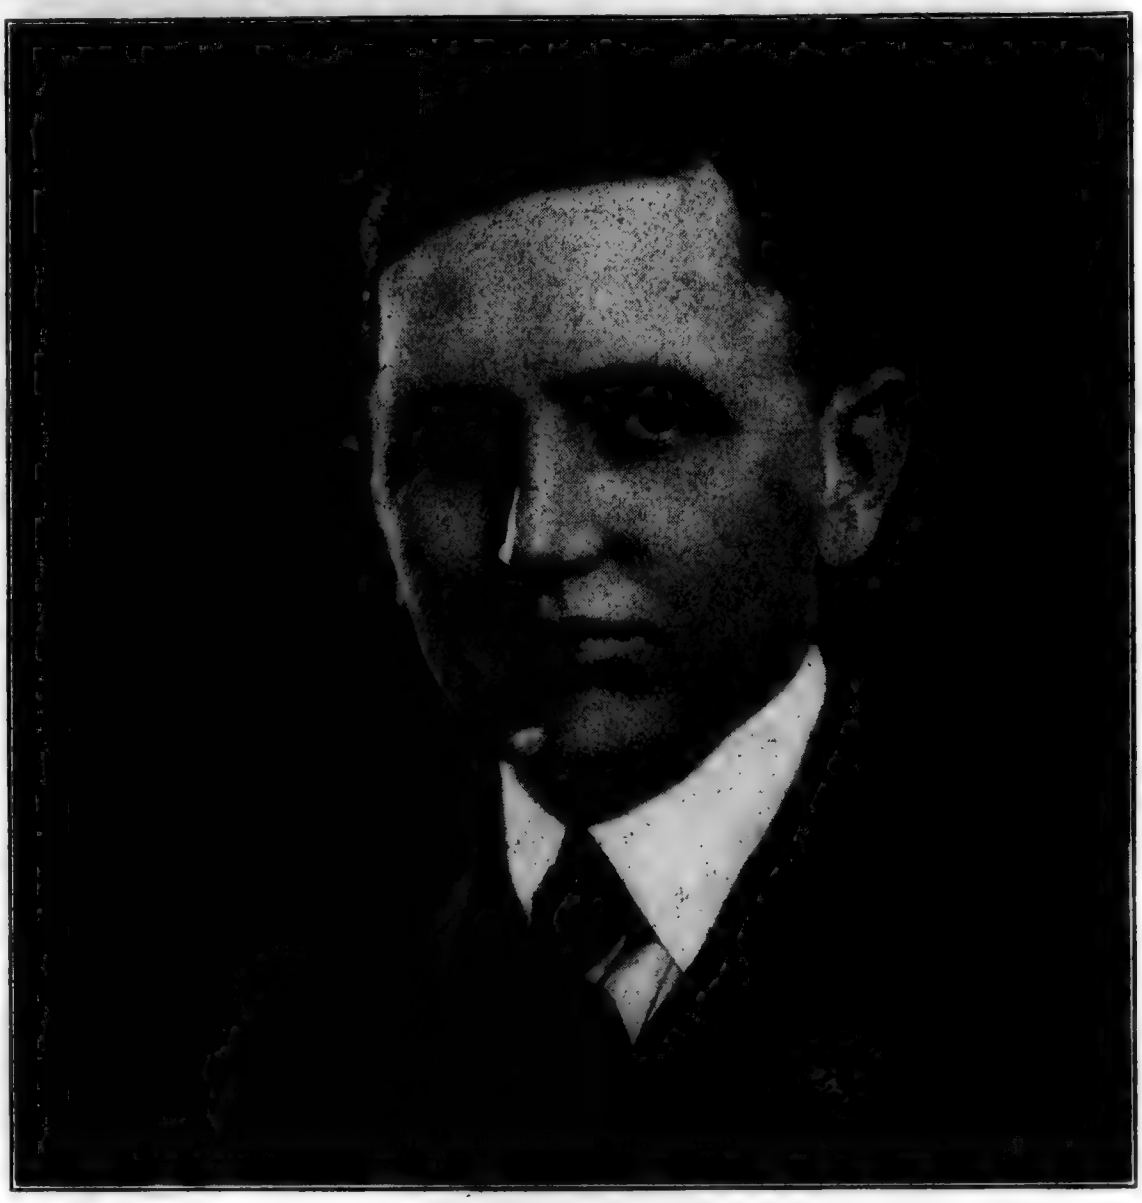
The Market.

Business has been brisk and stock has hardly been sufficient to take care of the accelerated demand. Cut flowers were in exceptional demand last week, due to receptions, luncheons and parties given by the various branches of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and similar organizations. September weddings have also called for a considerable quantity of flowers.

Roses are not adequate in supply and range in price from $4 to $15 per hundred. Carnations are more plentiful and the quality has been improving. Prices have risen to $2.50 and $4, according to quality.

Lilies continue scarce. A few callas have put in an appearance, and there continues to be a limited number of Easter lilies.

Gladioli and asters are few in number and have deteriorated in quality. On display are a few greenhouse-grown asters of good quality, but these are not on the market in commercial supply. Splendid dahlias are now available, ranging in price from $4 to $6 per hundred. These are pink, lavender and bronze.



Greens are scarce and high. Fern leaves are of poor quality and funeral work has been heavy, causing a big consumption of them.

Potted plants have not been so popular in the last two weeks, due perhaps to the limited variety.

Various Notes.

The Indiana State Florists' Association has been making extensive preparations for entertaining the members of the F. T. D. when they convene in Indianapolis October 12 and 13. At a recent luncheon of the various chairmen, reports were satisfactory and indicated a successful meeting. O. E. Steinkamp reports that there is a limited amount of space for special displays at the F. T. D. convention yet for sale. Those desiring space should communicate at once with Mr. Steinkamp, 3800 Rookwood avenue, Indianapolis.

The October meeting of the Indiana State Florists' Association will be held at the Claypool hotel the evening of October 5. All final arrangements and reports will be made at this time and the secretary is desirous of a large attendance.

E. E. Temperley.

(Chairman of Indianapolis Entertainment Committee for F. T. D. Convention.)

E. E. Temperley will go with the Murat Shriners on their pilgrimage to Logansport, Ind., October 5.

The intense heat of the last two weeks has been hard on early chrysanthemums. The cool weather in August had put them in splendid condition, but September has been hot and dry and this has retarded their growth.

Scenes that will long be remembered by citizens of this city were witnessed last week during the G. A. R. convention here. Soldiers from coast to coast were represented. September 22, the day of their large parade, the schools were closed and thousands of school children gave the veterans an ovation. Rose petals were strewn in their path and the majority of the veterans wore flowers in their lapels. Flowers were in demand all the week for special luncheons and gifts. E. E. T.

DENVER, COLO.

The Market.

Business prospects were considerably brighter last week. Practically everyone reported a fine trade and, in fact, it appears that the fall business has started. Carnations are coming in much more heavily and are of good quality. Roses are a little scarce and the demand has been good. A few gladioli meet a fair demand. Prices remain the same. Among the chrysanthemums, October Frost is moving nicely and Golden Queen is beginning to arrive. Pot plants have practically been off the list for months, but now relief is in sight in the arrival of the first pot mums and cyclamens. There were several big weddings last week, which brought more than the usual business.

Various Notes.

Denver thieves have taken a liking to florists' automobiles. A Cadillac belonging to N. A. Benson was stolen from in front of a downtown hotel. Mr. Speth's car was taken from the garage in the rear of his home.

The Park Floral Co. is bringing in some fine cyclamens. This company had the Bennett wedding, one of the largest affairs of the season.

The City Floral Co. is sending in its first cyclamens.

Fred C. Maler is cutting October Frost and Golden Queen now and some fine carnations. Mr. Maler is bringing in some pot mums. R. E. H.

LANCASTER, PA.

The retail florists here were busy last week. The death of Major H. B. Keiper occasioned much funeral work. Some of it was done by J. J. Habermehl's Sons, Philadelphia.

Eugene Weiss, of H. Weiss & Sons, Hatboro, Pa., was a visitor last week and called on many of his friends in the trade.

Maurice J. Brinton, of Christiana, Pa., was married September 21 to Miss Teresa Phillippy, of Greencastle, Pa. Their many friends in the trade extended them hearty congratulations.

The prospects are that a large number of the Lancaster county florists will attend the dahlia show at White Marsh, Md. H. K. R.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

J. J. Hess, of Hess & Swoboda, Omaha, Neb., was filling a large basket to be used as a centerpiece for the store window in honor of the Labor day parade, which soon after passed along the street. The fact that many paraders hobbled somewhat excited the remark that many greenhouse men sometimes suffered from sore feet, "but," added Mr. Hess, "when they can produce such stock as you see here from our houses, conditions are encouraging, the more so when prices are as satisfactory as at present." Stock especially referred to included the trio of roses sent out by A. N. Pierson, Inc., which are considered here the best yet sent out in distinctiveness and productiveness. Hoosier Beauty is also fine and sold as high as $12 per dozen last Christmas. Carnations and chrysanthemums also look promising. Just then the phone rang. Party wanted a bride's bouquet of orchids. "Cannot supply it," responded Mr. Hess, "but we can make a handsome one with Sweetheart roses, even more appropriate." The sale was made. "It's all in the way one handles one's patrons," observed our resourceful confrere, who, by the way, anticipates positive things to happen at the meeting of the publicity committee which precedes the F. T. D. gathering at Indianapolis in October.

• • • •

Lewis Henderson, Louis M. Rogers and the Arnold Flower Shop, Omaha, all had special decorative windows for Labor day.

• • • •

Oliver Lorenz, of the Guthrie-Lorenz Co., Des Moines, Ia., was making up a fine spray of gladioli and asters. He observed that, with the help enjoying a vacation, the boss had to take hold and 'tis well when he can show his ability as being equal to the best, which the majority can do, having risen from the ranks, as it were. "All business is a gamble and none more risky than ours," continued Mr. Lorenz, "owing to the perishable nature of most of the material used. Yet when the volume of trade done is taken into consideration, how small is the percentage of loss! Take the telegraphic branch, for example. We have not lost one account during the time our card has been running in the Pink Section of The Review, which, by the way, has paid us many times over in both direct and indirect business." A combined flower and seed business is successfully carried on in the same store, which is of ample width. When it is mentioned that one and a half tons of blue grass alone was sold last season at retail, some idea of the extent of the seed department may be obtained. A line of insecticides and poultry supplies is also carried. The city dweller has the opportunity to indulge in a free flower show while making a purchase of bug powder. This in itself creates a desire to possess and often results in a purchase.

PLANT THEM NOW

IRISES FOR CUT FLOWERS.

Good for Local Sales.

In the fall of 1918 we planted in our lot of peonies an iris corm between every two peonies in the row, in order to economize on space.

Our Memorial day crop of peony blooms was short in the spring of 1919 and again in 1920, owing to cold weather and too large a planting of late-flowering varieties. There was an abundance of iris blooms, however, and we had a good retail trade on these, at 50 cents per dozen for the mixed irises and 75 cents per dozen for the pallida dalmatica or Princess Beatrice.

I would not advise planting irises for the wholesale cut flower trade. We have sold some of these for city trade when other flowers were scarce, but the flowers are so fragile that it requires careful handling to pack them for shipment.

We send mail orders of these cut in the bud. If cut right, they will open the next day and the blooms are as good as those that open on the plant.

Good Varieties.

Celeste, azure blue, is a good variety. There are usually five or six blooms open on the same stalk at one time. We used some of these in a floor vase with Gypsophila elegans for an entertainment. The hostess afterwards gave us an order for enough roots of this variety to plant a hardy border.

Fairy is not a new variety, but is still one of the best cream whites, tinted with blue. It has an orange beard.

Pallida Mandraliscæ and Kharput are good large-flowering purples.

The old variety, Black Prince, is a dark velvety purple, having a flower of medium size. The color is valuable for contrast in a mixed bouquet.

Queen of May was much admired by those who had never seen a lavender pink iris. It did not, however, prove to be as good a seller as the blue shades of lavender.

Mrs. H. Darwin, white with purple veins, is free-flowering, of dwarf habit. It appears to disadvantage in the garden, since the purple veining of the petals causes the blooms to appear gray from a distance.

Pallida dalmatica is unquestionably the best money-making iris we have ever grown. It is a splendid flower wherever you put it.

Commercial Value.

There is a question as to the commercial value of irises. Pallida dalmatica and many of the other varieties which I have tested have produced twenty-seven corms from one corm at the end of the third year. This was only possible when the iris clumps were dug and divided at the end of the second year and replanted in good soil.

The German iris has a tendency to rot if the corms are planted in wet or too rich ground. When the clumps become so thick that the corms are undernourished some of them will die, especially if planted in the shade, where the corms do not receive proper ventilation. Perhaps because of a tendency to increase so rapidly and to thrive in full sunlight under the most adverse conditions, it has become one of the leading perennials for beautifying large estates as well as cottage gardens.

For Memorial Day Trade.

If the choicer varieties are selected and only a few of each are grown by the retail florist for Memorial day trade, there is no reason why he should not find them profitable to grow.

Garden heliotrope, or valerian, is effective in an iris planting and a few sprays added to the cemetery bouquet give it a lacy appearance.

Valuable for its earliness is Dorothea, an iris which comes into bloom with the late-flowering Darwin tulip, Gretchen.

These flowers are usually in bloom for Mothers' day and the silvery pink of the tulips, mingling with the lavender gray of the iris against a background of blue green foliage, gives a color harmony that is indescribably lovely in the garden. Sara Toedt.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Last week the heat was extreme; in fact, it was much hotter than during the month of July. Previously the weather had been cold and dreary, with one slight frost, which apparently did no particular damage. Outdoor stock is slowing up somewhat, especially gladioli, but asters continue to arrive in abundance.

The blessing of the graves, a Roman Catholic custom, originally started in this city, took place Sunday, September 26. This event calls for many thousands of asters for the decorating of the graves at the Riverside and Holy Sepulcher cemeteries. This usually means the clean-up of asters, but, according to the way the weather is continuing, they may last for some time yet.

Indoor stock shows signs of improvement. Golden Glow and Smith's Advance chrysanthemums arrive in small supply, but have firmer and larger blooms than earlier stock. Carnations are also longer in stem and larger in bloom. There is a fair supply of roses, most varieties arriving daily. Easter and speciosum lilies are in fair demand and the supply is good. Orchids are rather scarce.

Various Notes.

Miss Lillian Wheeler, who has been seriously ill at her home, recently underwent a serious operation for an abscess in her head. She is convalescing favorably.

Valentine Gatz, of Albion, N. Y., motored to the city Saturday, September 25, and called on several members of the trade.

The local trade was fairly well represented at the Batavia fair, which was held last week. A splendid exhibit was made by L. C. Stroh & Sons, of Batavia, consisting chiefly of plants and baskets of cut flowers. H. J. H.

BRAMPTON, ONT.

The Market.

Business has opened up briskly. September is already a long way in advance of last year, according to reports that reach us from all quarters.

Despite the absence of frosts, the outdoor flowers seem to have been all used up, leaving ample outlet for available greenhouse stock.

Orchids are coming in more freely, and at present American Beauties are being cut that far surpass any that have been grown during the last twelve years.

Carnations from the field are arriving in excellent shape, owing to the fine summer weather with which their growth has been favored, and roses are far ahead of their usual standard at this time of year.

The labor problem is now giving no trouble whatever, and the coal situation has been considerably relieved by the recent arrival of some quantities. In fact, everything points to the coming season being able to hold its own with previous records. D. G. P.

AT ARCHIAS WEDDING.

Sedalia, Mo., has not often seen so splendid a wedding as that of the eldest daughter of L. H. Archias, head of the Archias Floral Co. and president of the Missouri State Florists' Association, September 14. Of the event the Sedalia Democrat's society editor wrote:

How a Florist Decorated the Church for His Daughter's Wedding.

"No more resplendent wedding ceremony was ever witnessed in the Sacred Heart church than that solemnized Tuesday morning, September 14, with a nuptial mass at which Miss Elise Archias, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Henry Archias, became the bride of Arthur William Klang, of this city.

"The altars and spacious interior were prettily decorated with woodwardia ferns, palms and baskets of Ophelia roses and southern smilax. Baskets filled with American Beauty roses stood at either side of the beautiful main altar and baskets of roses and ferns decorated the communion rail. The massive pillars were entwined with southern smilax, while graceful festoons of plumosus tied with white tulle bows decorated the chandeliers. The main aisle of the church was converted into a veritable bower of roses by means of staff baskets filled with Ophelia roses and small white chrysanthemums. Maidenhair fern entwined the staffs and handles of the baskets, which were further beautified with filmy bows of pink tulle." The accompanying illustration shows the decorations in the church.

The procession was led by Marian and Ruth Archias, sisters of the bride, as flower girls. Miss Edith Archias, another sister, was bridesmaid and carried an arm bouquet of Columbia roses tied with silver and pink ribbon. The bride carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Leon Archias, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

After the wedding a reception was held at the Archias home, on Fourth street and Sneed avenue. The decorations at the home corresponded with those at the church and consisted of maidenhair fern, which entwined the stairways and fell in festoons from the doorways and lights, together with quantities of Ophelia roses held in ivory baskets. In the center of the bridal table in the dining room was a silver basket filled with Bride roses and tied with white tulle. Streamers of tulle fell from the electrolier and ended in filmy bows at the edges of the table.

After the reception the bride and groom left on a wedding journey to St. Louis and Chicago.

He went to Kitchener to visit his daughter, Mrs. Daley, of the Y. W. C. A. He boarded the 7 p. m. train for Guelph. On the train he complained to the conductor that he was too ill to travel and was assisted to the platform. He died lying on a baggage truck before medical aid arrived. The body was taken to Guelph next morning.

Mr. Hunt was 68 years of age and was born in England. He went to the O. A. C. as a gardener. He spoke all through Ontario on horticultural subjects and was recognized as a leading Canadian authority. Later he was taken on the lecturing staff of the O. A. C. and attained great prominence in floriculture and horticulture. He was consulted on these subjects from all parts of the Dominion and United States, and became well known to florists in both countries.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

J. J. Hess, of Hess & Swoboda, Omaha, Neb., was filling a large basket to be used as a centerpiece for the store window in honor of the Labor day parade, which soon after passed along the street. The fact that many paraders hobbled somewhat excited the remark that many greenhouse men sometimes suffered from sore feet, "but," added Mr. Hess, "when they can produce such stock as you see here from our houses, conditions are encouraging, the more so when prices are as satisfactory as at present." Stock especially referred to included the trio of roses sent out by A. N. Pierson, Inc., which are considered here the best yet sent out in distinctiveness and productiveness. Hoosier Beauty is also fine and sold as high as $12 per dozen last Christmas. Carnations and chrysanthemums also look promising. Just then the phone rang. Party wanted a bride's bouquet of orchids. "Cannot supply it," responded Mr. Hess, "but we can make a handsome one with Sweetheart roses, even more appropriate." The sale was made. "It's all in the way one handles one's patrons," observed our resourceful confrere, who, by the way, anticipates positive things to happen at the meeting of the publicity committee which precedes the F. The Review brings results.

LUMBER is the first item in the growers' list to begin its descent.

DECREASED demand in other lines is turning greater offerings of ribbons to florists.

How long wages can be maintained, while commodity prices are descending, will be an important question during coming months.

PREDICTIONS still are for a further rise in the price of wrapping and other paper used by the florists. Shortage of raw material and mill equipment are given as the causes.

COAL may be had by those willing to pay the price for it. As to a possibility of lower prices dealers will say little, though they declare danger of a shortage has been averted.

EVIDENTLY no florists were present at the closing session of the Sons of Veterans' convention, at Indianapolis last week, when the red poppy was adopted as the Memorial day flower of the organization.

THE rose midge seems to have become much more prevalent this season than in any recent autumn. It can be cleaned out, but the grower who does not take preventive measures is likely to lose one crop.

WHEN the manufacturers' profiteering, the dealers' speculating and the workers' soldiering have been ended, everybody will get down to business on a stable basis. And all will earn enough to buy flowers.

Now that immigration is increasing, the coal and railroad situations may be easier in coming seasons, for, an eastern professor states, ninety-six per cent of the miners in the soft coal mines of our country are foreign born, thirty-one per cent of the meat packers and fifty per cent of all railroad laborers.

ASSISTANCE is being given to girls who wish to obtain college education along horticultural lines by the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, of which Mrs. Francis King, of Alma, Mich., is president. Funds are raised for scholarships at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, at Amherst.

THE rose midge seems to have a special fondness for Ophelia.

ALL the conditions considered, it is remarkable that the flower business has been so good in September.

THE tardy warm weather has delayed the opening of autumn business. A few crisp days will accelerate the market.

No other store has so splendid material for artistic window displays as the florist's. There should be more of them.

How are the lights in your windows these earlier-darkening days? Many a good display has been unnoticed by evening passers-by because the lighting was dim.

RETAILERS in manufacturing centers are feeling the change in industrial conditions most keenly. Unemployment and reduced wages have markedly diminished their sales.

PRESIDENTIAL election is supposed to disturb business each four years, but whatever depressing effect it is having this time is about over, the election being only four weeks away.

GOOD harvests, winter need for goods and certainty concerning the outcome of the political campaign are expected to put business on the upgrade before another month or so passes.

A MONTHLY account carried for accommodation of customers is different from the extension of credit on definite terms. It is a business courtesy that calls for response in prompt payment each month.

THE costs of doing business in the florists' trade can not come down rapidly. Indeed, growing and retailing both will cost more this season than ever before, even if commodity prices in general show some decline.

GROWERS near the cities find now an abundance of common labor, for which there is little use at this season. There still is a scarcity of trained men, although quite a few released from other fields are coming back into this trade.

RETAILERS who have long-term leases expiring in the next year or two face a considerable problem. There is little prospect of relief from high rents for two or three years, with the probability that space in the downtown sections of the rapidly growing cities never will be cheaper than now.

To reach 12,000 trade buyers through a full-page advertisement in The Review costs as little as $37.50, or about three-tenths of a cent per buyer. If you are not certain of it yourself, any advertising man will assure you that is cheaper than good advertising can be bought in any other field.

GET THE MONEY.

Leading houses in the florists' trade corroborate the reports of slowed up collections seen in the financial columns of the general press. It is said collections with wholesale florists and florists' supply dealers have not been so good in September as in August, nor so good in August as in July or June. Retailers heretofore known as prompt pay, in many cases or localities, have been falling behind and the consensus is collections will not improve in October.

One of the weakest points in this trade is the too common lack of collection equipment and neglect of collection effort. The trade's situation in this respect probably never was worse than it is today, for the reason that during the last two or three years money has been more plentiful than plants or cut flowers; buyers paid because they had the money and because they needed further supplies of stock, as well as for the always good reason that prompt payment is wise business. But the result has been many wholesalers have permitted their collection departments to disintegrate until, confronted by the new necessity of seeking funds, they find themselves poorly equipped for the work. They find, moreover, that retailers are in the same boat. Many retailers, pressed for money, are hiring collectors for the first time in several years, to make a systematic effort to get possession of the considerably increased sums they suddenly realize are on the books. The slowing up of collections has brought the retailers to the appreciation of two facts: The cost of living has pretty well caught up with the average family's earning power, so that thoughtless expenditure is no longer in order, and there is a considerable amount of unemployment, at present decreasing in some localities but rapidly increasing in others. This has a pronounced effect on retailers' collections.

It looks like a time to get, if one can, the money past due and to know who's who before granting further credits.

EXPRESS RATES UP AGAIN.

Though costs in other businesses are decreasing, those in the florists' trade are climbing. Express rates have gone up another notch. Further increases in express rates averaging thirteen and one-half per cent were approved September 24 by the interstate commerce commission at Washington. The increases, which apply to class and commodity rates, make a total increase of twenty-six per cent granted the express companies within the last few months.

The express companies had asked for additional increases up to fifteen per cent. The only exceptions made in the new rates are in the case of milk and cream shipments.

For the first six months of this year the express companies lost approximately $21,000,000, according to their report to the commission. The per centage ratio of expense to earnings increased from 109 to 113 per cent approximately over 1919, the report said.

ALMOST INDISPENSABLE.

Beyond its function as a distributor of trade news, The Review has held so assiduously to that even more important work of developing more business and better methods in the trade it serves that recognition of its achievement in that regard is more and more general, though not often stated more emphatically and never by one better qualified to judge than in the following case:

The Review has been on my desk every week since its first publication, and I find it almost indispensable. Its value to the trade in general is wonderful. There is no excuse for ignorance in our business if a person reads and studies The Review.—Arthur Newell, Kansas City, Mo., September 21, 1920.

You can do no greater favor to a new member of the trade than introducing him to The Review.

OBITUARY

[See also page 23.]

Horace R. Hughes.

Horace R. Hughes died at 407 South Lincoln street, Chicago, September 26 and was buried privately at Forest Home cemetery September 28.

Mr. Hughes was 57 years of age, a native of the city in which he lived his life and died. His mother, who predeceased him twenty-three years, was one of Chicago's earliest florists and the two sons were born and brought up in the business. Before the mother's death Horace had taken over the store and greenhouse on West Van Buren street, which for many years formed one of the bright spots on the great west side highway. Eccentric to a degree, Mr. Hughes was a pioneer in flower store publicity, developing many new ways of attracting public attention. His window displays and printed advertising were highly unusual in the day he employed them most freely, a time when he was practically alone in such work. The business prospered and he accumulated considerable property.

Many florists throughout the United States know Mr. Hughes as the inventor, patentee and original distributor of novelty flower boxes, the Mothers' day box, the Shamrock box and others later taken over by T. E. Waters for the Poehlmann Bros. Co., distributors. And Mr. Hughes sold to the trade much of his unique advertising material. He was perhaps the first to apply the syndicate idea to distributing advertising matter in this line of business.

Ill health necessitated some relief from business cares and, instead of being a daily visitor to the Chicago wholesale cut flower section, for the last two years he was rarely seen there. Some six months ago the old stand, at 1859 West Van Buren street, was closed and the proprietor thereafter was unable to leave his home.

In addition to his widow, Mr. Hughes leaves a brother, Lester C. Hughes, who does business as the Hughes Plant Co., at 4630 West Washington boulevard.

Nicholas Thinnes.

Nicholas Thinnes, at one time a large grower of carnations for the Chicago market, died Thursday, September 23, at the end of two weeks' illness in a hospital. His death was primarily due to an accident in his greenhouses. He and his son, Joseph, were engaged in tearing up benches when a board flew up and struck Mr. Thinnes' hand, a nail causing a slight wound. Blood-poisoning resulted and this developed into lockjaw. A further complication set in when he contracted pneumonia. He was 51 years of age.

Mr. Thinnes in 1894 commenced his business career in Chicago growing vegetables under glass. He continued as a truck gardener for twenty years and was well known among Chicago growers. In 1914 he branched out into the florists' field and was soon one of the heaviest shippers of carnations to this market. In 1917 he was made a director in Kennicott Bros. Co. and was instrumental in promoting the policy of that firm in regard to coöperation between growers and wholesalers. In 1914 Mr. Thinnes was responsible for the founding of a large vegetable house, the Chicago Growers Coöperative Co. He was vice-president of this company at the time of his death. Since 1918 Mr. Thinnes had devoted himself exclusively to growing vegetables.

Mr. Thinnes was a member of the Knights of Columbus and of the Luxemburger Brotherhood. Besides his widow, he is survived by six children: Joseph, Margaret, Alois, Frank, Agnes and Cecelia. The funeral was Saturday, September 25, at his late residence, 7046 North Western avenue, and at St. Henry's church. Interment was at St. Henry's cemetery.

S. R. Faulkner.

Samuel R. Faulkner, one of the pioneer florists of Omaha, Neb., died at his home there September 22. Mr. Faulkner was born in Liverpool, England, in 1850. In 1881 he chose America for his future home and located at Omaha. His first effort, which was a 20-acre truck garden, was swept away by a hailstorm just as his crop was about to mature, leaving him nothing. He had at that time a wife and four small children. He took a position with A. Donaghue, with whom he remained ten years, and in 1895 embarked in business for himself again, this time successfully. He continued actively in business until quite recently. Mr. Faulkner is survived by a widow, three sons and one daughter.

Albert Robert Seidewitz.

Albert Robert Seidewitz, one of the most promising young men connected with the trade in Baltimore, Md., died of appendicitis, September 22, at the Maryland University hospital. Mr. Seidewitz was 24 years of age. With his two brothers, William E. and Edwin W., he conducted the business of his father, the late Edwin A. Seidewitz. He is survived by his mother, three brothers and one sister. The funeral, which was largely attended by members of the trade, was held at the home of his mother, on Belvedere avenue, September 24. The funeral offerings were many and handsome. Tate.

John Carney.

John Carney, for the last fifteen years head gardener at the Newport summer estate of Herbert M. Harriman, of New York, died at his home in that city September 21, after an illness of two weeks. Mr. Carney, who was 77 years of age, had been a resident of Newport, R. I., for fifty-two years and was employed on the estates of Mrs. T. Shaw Safe and others of the summer colony before going to the position on the Harriman estate that he occupied so long. He was an expert in his profession and had a wide circle of friends. He is survived by six children. W. H. M.

Samuel F. Pratt.

Samuel F. Pratt, a wealthy landscape architect of Cohasset, Mass., died at his summer place at Newport, R. I., September 23, in his ninety-fifth year. He had been ill for ten days. He had not practiced his profession for a number of years. His body was taken to Boston for burial at Forest Hill cemetery. W. H. M.

Mrs. James K. Allen.

Mrs. James K. Allen, the wife of the veteran New York wholesaler, died September 20 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. D. Morgan, Yonkers, N. Y., after a long illness. She was born in London, England, sixty-eight years ago and was married to Mr. Allen forty-two years ago. She was an ideal helpmate, contributing much to the happiness of the family home at Kearney, N. J., and was well known to many in the trade. Funeral services were held September 23 at the home, in Kearney. J. H. P.

The Market.

It is remarkable how good business was last week. None of the conditions were favorable, because large supply and low prices are listed on the other side when recounting the things which make business good from the point of view of the wholesale market. The weather man may deny it, but the week seems to have been the hottest of the summer (it was 90 September 25) and retail business was dormant in many other lines than ours (State street was asleep). And still the wholesalers rolled up a good daily total of sales, in many cases better than a year ago, when conditions were much better. Then there had been frost, general business was on the boom, the spirit to spend was rife and prices were much better than now. To be selling now more in money value than last year is something to marvel at and is a tribute to the continued ascendency of the market. It would be impossible except for the fact that the shipping trade continues to grow. So many retailers look to Chicago for their regular or special needs that there always is something doing here nowadays. A frost should start a boom.

The rose is the principal item in this market, in supply because in demand for the shipping trade. Warm days and cool nights made roses plentiful and good last week. Columbia is the most abundant variety, but there have been enough Premier and Russell, with too many Ophelia. Butterfly has begun to arrive in considerable quantity, is of fine quality and sells well. Red is not yet in request, but a few buyers order Hoosier Beauty regularly. Any spurt in funeral work cleans up the white roses, but such spurts have not been frequent during September. New-crop Beauties have made their appearance.

Summer-like as the weather has been, the summer flowers are on the wane. Those who planted gladioli for the flowers have cut them nearly all; the growers for bulbs will cut some flowers until frost, but the quality is not of the best and the demand is subsiding. Asters, too, are near the end of their season, mostly burned up. Autumn-blooming perennials are seen in some quantity, but they do not cut the figure the summer bloomers do.

Chrysanthemums have become moderately plentiful and are of splendid quality for summer; they are in all the retail windows, but do not seem in strong request by the public. Pompons are here in daily increasing quantity.

Carnations are so abundant there is plenty of stock for work even with asters going. The quality varies, but some of the carnations are good stock and as much as 3 cents was obtainable for them even in last week's heat.

There still are more lilies than the demand calls for. Valley is equal to requirements and slightly lower in price. Cattleyas continue scarce. Gardenias are available in small quantity. Sweet peas have come.

There is nothing new in the greens situation. Bronze galax is scarce, but other greens do not go up in price; there is, instead, a disposition to sag. Mexican ivy again is available.

The effect of the excessive heat at the end of last week was shown in the quality of the indoor stock on the market September 24 and 25 and especially September 27, while the outdoor stock showed the effect of the heavy rain September 26, but the rain was followed by cooler weather, which promises a quick recovery of the flowers.

September Business.

It was a September far different from last year. There were many more flowers of all kinds, outdoor and indoor. There was no frost; indeed, September was warmer than August. It was the penultimate month before the presidential election, a traditional quadrennial disturber of business. It was the period in which other markets entered a period of readjustment, with falling prices and growing unemployment. It was the dullest September since 1914 with many lines of business, which makes it remarkable that most of the wholesale cut flower and supply houses managed to roll up sales slightly in excess of a year ago. Average prices, of course, were low, the gain being made on volume. As one wholesaler put it, September was a big month, but an unsatisfactory one.

Cornering the Chiffon Market.

Max Ringier did not appear at his place with A. L. Vaughan & Co., Monday, September 13, and shortly thereafter Mr. Vaughan learned, he says, that a local dealer in florists' supplies had delivered to Ringier, billing Vaughan & Co., a quantity of chiffon the purchase of which Mr. Vaughan had not authorized. Investigation resulted, Mr. Vaughan states, in the discovery that six dealers had made similar deliveries, all of chiffon, either just before or just after Ringier left his post, none of the total of several hundred pieces having reached Vaughan & Co. The disposition

"Mr. Allen" Reappears.

In The Review of September 9 Max Schling, of New York, warned the trade against one Arthur A. Allen, alleged to be seeking employment by giving Mr. Schling as reference and abusing the confidence of those who trusted him.

William A. Allen recently was in the employ of Harry C. Rowe at his new store on Sheridan road. Mr. Rowe has a document bearing Allen's signature in which the signer admits that he took certain and various sums to which he had no claim, but Mr. Rowe did not cause Allen's arrest, although he traced the man's recent past and helped make it impossible for him to obtain employment in certain other Chicago stores.

Mr. Schling's warning to the trade concluded:

> A strong notice should be printed in such a way that it will attract the attention of florists, to the effect that they should not engage a man who is not known to the trade in their own city, except when information is first obtained about him. The trade should be protected as much as possible.

Probably the next time "Mr. Allen" applies for a job it will be under some other name.

Various Notes.

The death of Horace R. Hughes, one of the veterans, is reported in this week's obituary column.

The death of Nicholas Thinnes, one of Chicago's pioneer growers, occurred Saturday, September 25. An account of Mr. Thinnes' career will be found in the obituary column of this issue.

William Collatz was in from Maywood, September 27, as a delegate to the judicial convention held that day. After voting he paid one of his rare visits to the market and said that the 225,000 rose plants in the ranges of the Albert F. Amling Co. rapidly are going off crop. They will be on again for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

William Langhout has moved across the alley; he has joined the staff of A. Henderson & Co.

A. J. Zech has returned from a fishing trip into northern Wisconsin. The journey was made by automobile.

The Misses Olga and Anna Tonner returned September 28 from a three weeks' visit to Baconton, Ga., where the Tonner family have large pecan grove interests.

"Dick" Salm has begun to cut his new crop of Beauties. Not a flower came out of the big houses at Union Grove for several weeks, during which every bench was replanted, either with young stock or old plants rested and pruned. Mr. Salm either has unusually good luck or possesses specially good judgment, as he skipped the period which has set some rose growers talking of ways to peg the market and is all set for a larger winter cut than ever before.

P. L. McKee was confined to his bed last week by a light attack of pneumonia which grew out of indifference to a cold contracted on one of his frequent business trips.

Nickolas Dahm, who has earned the title of Morton Grove gladiolus king, was in town September 27, looking things over. He said he cut the last of the "glads" last week, all but a few so badly scattered over the big field it no longer was worth the walk to get them.

C. S. Claussen says that Bonvallet & Co., of which concern he is the "Co.," has finished its season's crop of gladioli with the record of having cut a higher percentage of the possible number of flowers than in any other year since they began growing gladioli at Wichert, Ill. The weather was unusually favorable and the quality of the crop averaged unusually high.

Mangel's ducks have had a long summer of comfort and contentment, during which they have grown steadily and as steadily held a crowd in front of the Mangel window. At present they divide attention with an exhibit of gourds mingled with the autumn flowers in fine array.

Eugene Dramm says no summer month ever was so favorable for rose growing as September has been. The warm days made growth rapid, while the cool nights kept the stock keyed up and held quality at top notch. Mr. Dramm says that in his own case he never cut more or better roses than in September.

August Jurgens, Jr., has become a street car conductor.

Jacob Schulz Co., Louisville, has been sending fine dahlias to this market. Although well grown, well packed and received in good condition, they have not been in request. Chicago never has used the dahlia in anything like the quantities sold in San Francisco, Philadelphia or New York.

E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, began shipping chrysanthemums to this market September 21, an earlier date than in any other year.

Johnson & Chronis, who find the laying-out and care of grounds a profitable department of a retail business, are booking some good orders for autumn planting.

Blaine Wilcox, of Council Bluffs, has been here this week, buying, hiring and posting himself on some of the matters he has not needed to know before.

The Market.

There is a slight improvement in the market as far as demand is concerned, but the supply is in considerable excess of requirements, and clearances, outside of staples, are difficult to accomplish. There is an avalanche of dahlias, mostly of poor quality. Really good dahlias move well, as they are splendid subjects for window display in different forms. But the majority of arrivals are tightly bunched and the bunches are packed into cases apparently with the idea of seeing how many bunches can be pressed into a case. With the temperature running up to 80 degrees, as has been recorded in the last few days, the condition of dahlias so packed on their arrival may be imagined.

Roses are in fair supply and the quality is good, considering weather conditions, which are not favorable to shipments long in transit. White stock is especially scarce and the supply is cleaned up practically before arrival. White Killarney and Double White Killarney seem to be about the only white varieties obtainable in these days and then only in the inferior grades, with the double variety commanding a much better price than the single. In other hybrid teas, Francis Scott Key and Crusader command the highest prices. With American Beauty bringing no more than $75 per hundred for selected stock, it must be admitted that the finer of the new hybrid teas are now on a plane with the premier rose of former years. The new varieties, F. W. Dunlop, Pilgrim and Mme. Butterfly, are now in regular supply, although in limited quantity, and are favorably received. American Beauty is not particularly abundant and the movement of special grades within a range of $30 to $75 per hundred is not difficult.

Cattleyas are in better supply, the labiata variety coming nicely into crop. The demand, too, is better.

The supply of carnations is increasing and the quality of some of the arrivals is unusually good. The demand for these blooms, however, is not great and when the finest are disposed of the remainder is hard to clear.

White lilies are not so plentiful as they were, although the supply is large enough for the demand. There is a fair supply of rubrums. Lily of the valley is not abundant and the quality of arrivals is rather poor.

There is a small supply of chrysanthemums, mainly of Golden Glow and October Frost. The demand is not particularly active.

Herbaceous flowers are in large supply. Gladioli have shortened up considerably, but there is a great variety of other flowers. Long-stemmed ageratums, delphiniums, zinnias, marigolds, cosmos, hydrangeas, hardy and early-flowering chrysanthemums and tritomas are prominent in the offerings.

Various Notes.

The sympathy of the whole trade is extended to James K. Allen, whose wife died September 20 after a long illness. Further notice appears in this week's obituary column.

William Sullivan, until recently manager for the Dolansky-McDonald Co., is to start in business with a brother, at 112 West Twenty-eighth street, as wholesalers, under the name of Sullivan Bros. & Co.

John Lewis Childs, Flowerfield and Floral Park, N. Y., had an extensive exhibit of plants at the Mineola fair last week. In the opinion of many who visited the horticultural section of this fair, it is to be regretted that the space usually devoted to horticultural exhibits has been encroached upon to an extent which makes artistic displays impossible. The fair is an important event for horticulturists in and around New York, on account of the class of visitors, who are of the order particularly interested in horticulture and floriculture.

Monday, September 27, New York was the Mecca for dahlia enthusiasts and their attention was fastened upon the exhibition of the American Dahlia Society, which opened that evening on the roof of the Hotel Pennsylvania.

J. J. Grullemans, of the Wayside Gardens, Mentor, O., growers of perennials, was a visitor last week.

The chrysanthemum show of the Nassau County Horticultural Society is to be held at Glen Cove October 28 and 29. J. H. P.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

The opening of schools and the return from vacations has resulted in a slow but consistent improvement in business during the last fortnight, with a demand that is increasing as the season advances. Apart from asters, however, stock has been a little scarce and cleans up readily every day. Dahlias are found in the market in increasing numbers.

FRAT-M'S

Frat-Ms are a great help to florists who make funeral work. They are exact reproductions of the official emblems embossed in gold and the different colors as required by each Fraternal and Labor organization.

The florist is saved time and worry in the nuisance of lettering, as well as the keeping of such a stock of wire frames, and different colored flowers. Just use such flowers as you have and then attach a FRAT-M with paste to the chiffon, or by the hanger that comes for each, as a card, and that is all there is to it, excepting the comment and commendatory talk for the florist.

Just pick out a dozen of the most used, from the list following, enclosing $2.00 per dozen, and if they don't make you ten times their cost, return those unused and get your money.

Square and Compass, Chapter, Commandery, 32nd Degree, Shrine, Eastern Star, Royal Neighbors, M. W. A., Maccabees, Odd Fellows, Red Men, Knights of Columbus, K. of P., Moose, Jr. O. U. A. M., B. of R. T., B. of R. Clerks, B. of L. E., Br. of Blacksmiths and Helpers, Eagles.

Just give Frat-Ms a trial, you don't have to keep them. We are willing to send them to you and return the money if they don't pay you ten times their cost. Address the exhibition so soon after the recent hail storm.

T. J. Johnston & Co., Providence, had three tables and several shelves of fine dahlias, gladioli, asters, zinnias, ferns, roses and a variety of the decorative foliage plants. A number of the large dahlia growers of this vicinity had exhibits. These included William Steele, of Auburn; W. D. Hathaway, J. A. Nolet and Edgar W. Darling, of New Bedford; John S. Doig, of Barrington: Neil Ward, of Lonsdale, and Ralph W. Clark.

The prize-winners were: W. D. Hathaway, Albert Poulton, Ralph W. Clark, Edgar W. Darling, John Edmundsen, Joseph A. Nolet, E. B. Arnold, Mrs. Ewdy Hodgson, Ephraim Morley, Neil Ward, E. W. Carpenter, George W. Walker, Angell & Cash and T. J. Johnston & Co.

Various Notes.

The soft coal problem is giving the greenhouse men considerable concern because of the increasing price and the reported shortage. A number of the greenhouses have been equipped with oil-burning apparatus, so that the coal proposition does not affect them, but those that still depend upon coal for heating purposes apparently have their troubles cut out for them.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

There is no doubt that business is improving, yet it is nothing to brag about. It is also wholly unassisted by the weather, which has been most erratic —one quite frosty night, then a torrid wave that took all the life out of flowers and made the workers long for some more holiday.

Dahlias have done fairly well in spite of all this. Such sterling varieties as Attraction bring $8 quite regularly, which is not so bad when you come to think of it. The dahlia season is about half over now. It looks like a pretty good season from present appearances.

Asters and gladioli are still to be reckoned with where showy stock is required. Carnations are coming into form slowly. They excite little interest among the buyers as yet. After dahlias come asters and gladioli. The medium grades of roses arouse most interest. Orchids are declining in price. Smith's Advance gives us white in chrysanthemums to reinforce the yellow of Golden Glow. Greens are beginning to sell. Lilies are dull. Leucothoe sprays and wild smilax have arrived.

Bulbs.

The dealers in bulbs are busy getting out their orders, while their salesmen are also busy trying to get more orders. The supply of Dutch bulbs is large and likely to meet requirements. The quality is excellent. The supply of French bulbs is not equal to the demand. California freesias are also short. The supply of Japanese bulbs is unknown. The Japanese methods of marketing the crop are not satisfactory to the dealers. They do not know either the quality or the price as yet.

At the Bellevue.

John P. Habermehl, looking fit despite his accident, discussed the outlook in his handsome store in the Bellevue-Stratford hotel last Saturday. Mr. Habermehl thought the coming season would be a busy one, although large ball orders have been canceled owing to a death in the family. He said that while the business at the Bellevue had not commenced in earnest, there have been some large out-of-town orders that were placed here. The department stores have done some decorating for their fall openings. A good many palms have been sent out for that purpose. One department store had an elaborate decoration of plants and

The Next Meeting.

Arrangements have been made for the next meeting of the Florists' Club to be held Tuesday evening, October 5, at the City Club, on the east side of Broad street, below Spruce. The change is due to the advance in rates at the Hotel Adelphia.

The City Club has offered the Florists' Club a fine room in the third story that will seat 250 persons. If the arrangement is approved it will be continued throughout the winter. There is an elevator.

The speaker of the evening will be Professor Weigel, of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

The annual election of officers will be held.

East and West.

Carpet bed planting, once so famous in Fairmount park, has almost disappeared. The sole reminder lies in the edging of the wonderful cactus beds, where echeverias and alternantheras still flourish. All the rest of the east end of Horticultural hall is changed. The bank where for so many summers the figures of the centennial year 1876 and of the current year were painstakingly laid out with thousands of tiny plants on each side of the broad steps, is now in Scotch firs, while the dozen or more beds in the circle opposite are laid out in cannas, a single variety to each bed, with sometimes an edge of achyranthes. The cannas have done wonderfully well this summer. They present a glorious mass of color of surpassing brilliancy.

The changes in the west end are even more radical than are those in the east end. The west end is the home of the parterre, or sunken garden. The keynote or leading idea of this sunken garden was a series of graceful festoons on the sides to set off a rich, somewhat heavy mass in the center, the whole laid out in turf of velvet. Now the center is a lily pond, styled by its friends a canal. The sides are a tropical jungle. Oh, yes, it has merit, undoubted merit, of the kind that resembles the beauty of the fife and the drum and the bagpipe—wild and discordant in their beauty. What does it look like? It is at its best now in the early morning, when the lilies are in bloom in the long sheet of water, the sides bordered by color and form in variety so great as to baffle description, a riot of shapes and shades that attract while they exasperate by their clash and discord.

Southampton.

My friends poke a lot of quiet fun because of the regular trips to Southampton when there are so many other interesting places to see. Apart from friendship and interest in the grower, the reason lies in the fact that the place at Southampton represents a steady growth entirely within the business, achieved by a leader and his associates without the aid of outside ability or outside capital. In other words, it is a thoroughly conservative place, yet it is a progressive place. The newer varieties of roses, like Columbia, Premier and Pilgrim, lead, while a year's supply of high-grade coal and an endless chain of buckets, with gasoline motor attached, for piling it, add their silent testimony. Still further proof of progress is shown in the two 125-horsepower horizontal return tubular boilers that are just going into position.

Stephen Mortensen has made a careful list of the relative economies of steam and hot water for heating greenhouses. He finds that hot water is the more economical, but not in a large range. His place is outgrowing hot water; so he is changing to steam.

The changes in the greenhouses are few. Premier has replaced Killarney Brilliant, Russell has been increased, White Killarney is being cut down and Pilgrim has been added. Hadley has been cut back and is breaking nicely. Ophelia is about to be cut back.

The orchids are extremely interesting. There are some fancy cypripediums that are pleasing, besides the standard variety, and the leading varieties of cattleyas.

The impression given by a trip through the rose and orchid houses is of thorough knowledge and definite aim.

Various Notes.

Edward Reid is expected home from abroad about October 2.

cinity of 90 degrees, has sent in a larger quantity of greenhouse flowers and their quality has deteriorated. With considerable numbers still arriving from outdoors, prices have a downward tendency. Roses hold the strongest position in the market. The temporary enforced withdrawal of the Budlong Co., Auburn, R. I., the largest shippers to the Boston market, has stiffened prices on roses materially. On red and white colors there is a decided shortage, with prices running from $6 to $25 per hundred. A large number of weddings has created a better call for white roses; other colors are all in good demand. Carnations, with the hot weather, are more abundant. Good flowers realize $4 per hundred, with other grades at $2 to $3. Violets have not yet appeared, but are due this week. Several varieties of chrysanthemums are coming in. Golden Glow is most abundant, but Smith's Advance, Early Frost and October Frost are also fairly plentiful. Prices on these remain good.

The pleasant weather favors the outdoor aster crop and a large number still come in. Gladioli are shortening up, with the best spikes selling up to $12 per hundred. Some dahlias, cosmos, zinnias and other annuals are still coming in. White bouvardia is in good demand for weddings; so is valley, at $15 to $20 per hundred. Swainsonas are temporarily out of the market, as are gardenias and sweet peas. Cattleya labiata is arriving, also small lots of Miss Williams and Harrisoniæ, also some yellow oncidiums and cypripediums. For asparagus there has been a fairly good demand.

At Horticultural Hall.

The annual fruit and vegetable show at Horticultural hall September 25 and 26 was not so large as usual, but quality was excellent. There were no classes allotted to plants and cut flowers, but Douglas Eccleston, superintendent for A. C. Burrage, put up a remarkable group of orchids, including some 225 plants splendidly flowered and finely arranged. One bank included hundreds of flowers of Cattleya labiata. There were also some grand plants of C. Fabia, C. Fabia alba, C. Peetersii, C. Hardyana, several grand plants of C. Hardyana alba, C. Gaskelliana alba, C. Mantinii, brought up the question agitating many growers concerning the dumping of Dutch bulbs in this country for auction purposes and, after some discussion, resolutions were unanimously adopted condemnatory of the practice and recommending growers not to buy any Dutch bulbs next season unless the growers abroad and the Dutch Bulb Growers' Association eliminated this unfair practice; other clubs and horticultural organizations were urged to take similar action. There was a fine display on the exhibits table. The Leominster Floral Co. had a grand vase of Golden Glow mums, awarded a cultural certificate. Wollrath & Sons received a certificate of merit for a handsome new Rex begonia. They also showed a splendid lot of gloxinias; also Saintpaulia ionantha, grown from leaf cuttings taken in February; ferns in variety; Rex begonias, and cyclamens in various sizes up to grand plants in 10-inch pots, awarded a cultural certificate.

Speaking of cyclamens, Mr. Wollrath said that large plants were from seed sown in August, 1919. Plants ready for 6-inch pots were sown last March. Firm potting is essential to successful cyclamen culture and for the last shifts they used a compost consisting of equal parts of heavy loam, well rotted manure and leaf-mold, with some bone meal and sand added. He did not believe in open-frame culture; plants did better in houses and were more under control. Front ventilators were closed on hot days and opened wide at night. Glass now had no shade on it, but cheesecloth broke the sun during the hottest part of the day.

W. H. Golby showed some fine roses, including Pilgrim, Golden Ophelia, which he spoke highly of; Crusader, Mme. Butterfly and a good white Ophelia sport. W. N. Craig showed a number of vases of Gladiolus primulinus in variety, produced from seed and bulblets, and spoke of the great value of the latter for producing late flowers. The W. W. Edgar Co. received honorable mention for Chrysanthemum Early Frost. This firm also had a fine collection of cyclamens, begonias, ferns and other well grown florists' stock.

The lecturer of the evening was Samuel Knowles, a poultry expert, and for two hours he held the undivided attention of a deeply interested audience as he discussed poultry, the moulting period, how to select the best egg producers, how to feed them, how to combat insect pests and diseases, the best type of house to use for them and the other details of successful poultry keeping. An ideal dry mash consisted of 100 pounds each of ground oats, gluten, flour middlings, bran, hominy meal and meat scraps. How to prepare birds for exhibition was shown by specimens supplied by W. N. Craig. Numerous queries were answered and one of the most profitable and entertaining meetings the club ever held did not close until 11 p. m., both commercial and private growers staying until the end.

Various Notes.

The bituminous coal situation is better and those willing to pay prevailing high prices are likely to secure an ample supply. Some small growers, however, will close their establishments.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Business is picking up finely and already there is a shortage of stock in many lines. The growers of chrysanthemums put the price of the earliest cuts too high, and this has had the effect of retarding business in them, a feature which will do harm later in the season when stock is more plentiful. Even local customers, the retailers say, are satisfied to take dahlias rather than pay the big prices asked for mums and the dahlia has the advantage of being presented in a greater variety of colors. Fine gladioli continue to come in, but asters have passed the meridian. Carnations are improving weekly and are bringing prices which are at least favorable to the grower. The showy Buddleia variabilis is making a great hit in the retail stores, associating well with dahlias, chrysanthemums and other heavier flowers.

Funeral work has kept up well. The continued warm weather still militates somewhat against the shipping business, although every week shows an advance over the previous one. Business to cities and towns within 100 miles or so of Los Angeles has more than doubled from that of a month ago, but over the longer, more dangerous routes there is still a weakness. The call for plants is increasing and some good cyclamens are helping out along this line.

Various Notes.

F. B. Wagner, of Bell, is steadily improving his nursery and has a nice stock of ferns ready, besides plants for florists and landscape work. He has just added a new lath house 40x96 feet, a greenhouse 22x65 feet and a new 1-ton delivery truck to his equipment. Hard work and continually sticking to it are the reasons.

The seed ranch of the J. Bodger & Sons Co., at El Monte, is always an attractive place and never more so than when the zinnias are in bloom. Acre after acre of these showy annuals in every imaginable shade is a sight not soon forgotten, while the asters are almost as showy and almost more interesting. The American Beauty strain here, with long individual stems needing no disbudding, is just at its best, immense flowers in every popular shade meeting the eye. The Queen of the Market and other early strains, while past their best, show what they have been, while stocks, petunias, cosmos and other flowers are grown in large quantities. The roguing has been quite carefully done, as indicated by the blanks and the dead plants lying close by and the even appearance of all the beds.

Wright's Flower Shop is showing elegant roses, a large cut coming from the greenhouses daily. T. Wright is at the store each day now and business is picking up rapidly.

S. Purdie, of Purdie & Co., has just returned from a week-end fishing trip at Bear creek and brought the evidence back with him.

The Westrem Garland Florists have made a good start at 404 South Hill street and both partners express themselves as well pleased with the business done the first week. They are carrying a nice line of stock and the store is bright and attractive.

Albert Knopf, of the Redondo Floral Co., was not feeling in particularly good health last week, but was more than usually enthusiastic about business. To use his own words, they "have had no summer," meaning, of course, that the business has kept up well all through the season which is usually dull.

The meeting of the Los Angeles Florists' Club at Christopher's September 16 was not particularly well attended and consequently not much business was done. Only nine members were present.

W. Armacost has returned from his trip to the mountains.

Large shipments of palms continue to leave the establishment of Roy F. Wilcox & Co., at Montebello, much of the made-up kentia stock being exceptionally fine. A good cut of roses is already being taken from the new plantings, which promise well for the coming season.

The stock of baskets at the store of S. Murata & Co. is most complete and varied. Many of the newer designs are unique and have not been seen in the city before. Some brass ware is especially choice and attractive and the customer would be hard to please who could not find something to suit all requirements here. Excellent shipping mums are being handled and Mr. Murata says that his growers are in fine shape for the season. W. L. Morris is now with this firm, in the shipping department. Albert Znojil has returned from his vacation in the mountains and at San Diego, after a most enjoyable time.

Darling's Flower Shop, always attractive, is exceptionally so now, fine showings of choice stock of everything

HOW TO RAISE CASH

NEW ZINNIA, DAHLIA-FLOWERED
Novelty of our own recent introduction. It is a sure winner commercially. Flowers the exact type and size of the Giant Show Dahlia; 6-8 inches in diameter; 7 new colors and shades un known to Zinnias h retofore. Trade pkt., 500 seeds, $1.00.

Improved Centaurea Cyanus, Double—(Fraser's Tru Blue). The color of this charming centaurea is the best blue yet. This strain is fixed, and is highly desired by the Florist Trade. Trade pkt., 1000 seeds, $1.00.

Eventually every Florist will plant Fraser's "Sun-tested" California Asters, Delphiniums and Zinnias.

ASTER AMERICAN BEAUTY—(new colors fixed).—A neighbor wholesale grower, John Bodger, has become famous for his American Beauty Asters. We are handling his seed for the Florist Trade. It is the greatest Aster novelty of the twentieth century, and will stand the test of time. Trade pkt., 1000 seeds, $1.00.

ROBERT G. FRASER & SON, Seed Growers, PASADENA, CALIF.

on the market being most tastefully arranged. Mr. Darling still keeps up his flying, but so far has not persuaded Manager John Gordon to go up. "One foot on the ground, at least," says Mr. Gordon.

A beautiful casket cover of red roses was one of the pieces made by Lichtenberg's for the funeral of the widow of a well known banker this week, for which there was a good deal of work, well scattered among the retailers. Carl Brose, of this firm, is going to exhibit some of his high-bred Airedales at the coming stock show in this city.

No matter how large a city gets, it still retains some of the gossip that is usually associated with villages and such gossip is bandied around in an underhanded way instead of aboveboard. For this reason it was refreshing to get a straight-from-the-shoulder letter from Roy F. Wilcox denying the rumors that his firm had contracted its whole output of cut flowers to one concern. Mr. Wilcox comes out in the open, thanks his customers in a manly way for their trade and promises to do all in his power to help along the business generally. This is the right spirit and is bound to win.

R. G. Fraser & Son are enthusiastic about the future of California-grown seed and in a conversation with D. G. Fraser the fact was again brought out that much of the seed grown on the Pacific coast is sent back to the east and even to Europe and returned again to private growers in California. "We can beat the world for quality," Mr. Fraser says.

H. R. Richards.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

The Market.

Chrysanthemums are coming in quite satisfactorily, of more variety and of better stock than the earlier arrivals on the market. Growers and shippers are all enthusiastic regarding this season's crop of mums. Carnations are coming in more plentifully, though the supply is not yet equal to the demand. Roses are becoming more plentiful, especially Russell. The first violets of the real fall crop began coming in last week and a few tentative shipments are being made, though the business of shipping them extensively is not expected to open up till the middle of October. There are still some dahlias and a scattering of gladioli. Asters are scarce and not of good quality.

Various Notes.

At the Alameda County Floral Society's annual dahlia show, held at the Hotel Oakland September 19 to 21, over 100,000 blooms were on view and crowds flocked to all the days' exhibits. Frank D. Pelicano won the first prize for the most artistic basket in the show, displaying an unnamed 1919 dahlia all gold in color. Other prize-winning exhibitors in the professional class were Miss A. Hodgens and Carl Salbach, of Oakland. A. F. Schulte was the show manager. More than 500 varieties of dahlias were exhibited.

Members of the California State Floral Society shipped a number of dahlias to the exhibition of the Dahlia Club of Los Angeles, held at the Hotel Alexandria September 23 and 24. Frank D. Pelicano, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., attended to the packing and shipping.

Now that passenger traffic with the Orient is opening up more extensively, the farewells said with flowers are assuming quite profitable proportions to local florists. Podesta & Baldocchi stated last week that steamer baskets of flowers and bridal bouquets are keeping them busy. David Lichtenstein, the Terminal Florist, on the Embarcadero, said: "There is much travel on outgoing steamers to the Orient and the demand is large for baskets and bouquets for outgoing passengers."

"Everybody seems to be jubilant," said J. A. Axell. "We have a bounteous cut of roses now, particularly Columbia, Ophelia and Russell. We are shipping mums and roses every day, with the largest quantities going by the refrigerator car on Friday."

At the store of the E. W. McLellan Co., where packers were putting mums and roses in boxes for immediate shipment, the report was: "All varieties of mums are now coming in and we are shipping them daily by express, as well as some roses. On Friday the shipments are unusually heavy. Our winter rose crop will begin coming in soon."

General A. J. Gooch has had a number of orders for violets already and he is making experimental shipments as far as Vancouver, B. C., and Tacoma, Wash. He is trying mum shipments to Texas by ordinary express, as a number of orders are immediate and there is only one refrigerator car a week.

Progress in the shipping business is reported by F. C. Jaeger & Son. This firm has sent mums by express as far as Chicago with success and also to Louisiana.

Enomoto & Co. are receiving considerable consignments of mats and friezes

The Market.

There has been a satisfactory improvement in the amount of business reported for last week, with all of the trade sharing in this increase, while prices have been, on the whole, without change. There has been more or less rain to interfere with the quality of outdoor flowers; this is specially seen in the shorter-stemmed gladioli, the more easily blown asters and the poor-keeping cosmos.

The more colorful flowers have been catching the buyer's eye lately, and every firm reports a splendid sale of baskets during recent weeks. In most of these some form of outdoor flowers has been combined. There has not been the sale of roses there was several weeks ago. Mums are coming in more freely and California shipments are beginning in earnest.

The situation as affecting roses presents really no change. Columbia and Ophelia are the varieties most common at present, with Ward and Russell offered in large enough lots to fill all orders. The California growers of violets have advised the trade that they will hardly be able to start shipments before the middle of October. Gardenias are not in oversupply, but the demand is not large. Better shipments of California lily of the valley have been delivered. Orchids are plentiful enough to fill local needs and all further shipping orders for the California trade.

Lilies are now practically limited to rubrum and this is being used in set pieces and for low baskets. Greens are becoming scarcer, and there has been a consequent increase in the use of autumn leaves.

New-crop carnations are still so short-stemmed that they will not bring good prices, and the old stock is not of much account.

Various Notes.

There has naturally been a great deal of interest expressed in dahlias, since the supply is increasing and public attention was called to this flower by the dahlia show, held here September 16 and 17 in the show rooms of the Randall-McLaughlin Co., at Western avenue and Madison street. More than 500 varieties of this flower were on exhibition, including sixty-five seedlings which have not yet been named. More than 5,000 registered at the show. Most of the florists made some display of dahlias in their own windows during the show. The judges at this year's show were Fred Rowe, of L. W. McCoy, and Mrs. S. Sawyer, of Everett, Wash.

W. S. Hoyt, president, and S. Younkin, secretary and treasurer of Hoyt Bros. Co., Spokane, were Seattle visitors recently. Both say that growing conditions there have been more than satisfactory this season, and that less stock was shipped for that market than ever before.

Harry Crouch, of the Woodlawn Flower Shop, has returned from a three weeks' vacation trip to Lake Quinault, in the heart of the Olympic mountains. He was accompanied by Thomas Rhoades. E. W. Clark and Edward Osborne. Mr. Rhoades, who has been in the east for several months, will again assume his position with the Woodlawn Flower Shop.

Dr. Walter A. Moore, of the Hollywood Gardens, has gone on an extended business and pleasure trip to cover all the larger eastern cities. He will spend the greater part of his time in New York city. This shop made a feature of the first fine bronze mums received from California, using autumn leaves and green with these flowers in a huge basket for an effective window.

Ralph Anderson, an ex-service man, has been added to the sales force of Kenney's Home of Flowers. William Goldsbary has sold his town house and will move to his Rainier Beach residence shortly, where he has a number of perennials under cultivation.

Fred Gust, who represented the McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, in this territory, has returned from a selling trip, in which he covered Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Oregon and Washington. He states that everywhere he found retailers more satisfied with the business outlook and ready to consider purchases of normal supplies.

Anna J. Burns, of the Burns Floral Co., spent a part of last week at Vancouver, Wash. This firm has been handling some fine potted ferns of the smaller varieties of late.

Mrs. Morgan has been supplying the bulk of the violas offered here, and this temporary monopoly has meant for her large returns.

Felix Rosnia showed some large Mina Burgle dahlias and monkshood in one of his Third avenue windows to good effect.

The Fremont Floral Co. is to pay less attention to neighborhood retail trade in the future. At present this firm is showing some of the largest and finest ferns produced by local growers.

Butterfly and Dunlop roses which equal anything seen earlier in the season, despite the unfavorable growing conditions of late.

L. W. McCoy handled one of the smaller church weddings recently in a way which attracted trade comment. Pink and white gladioli in tall wicker stands, potted hydrangeas and Columbia roses, lilies and small palms were used.

Calla lilies are again being offered by a number of growers, marking an unusually quick growing season for this flower. H. M.

BOSTON NOTES.

The anthracite situation is more disquieting and the state last week was put on rations, but an early alleviation of existing conditions is hoped for.

The Welch Bros. Co. is having a strong call for its high-grade valley and American Beauties. It is carrying a handsome lot of Adiantum Croweanum and Glory of Moordrecht; also Phœnix Roebelenii.

The local branch of the National Flower Growers' Association held a well attended meeting September 27 and received several new members, also discussing some matters of great importance to the trade. It would seem to be the duty and to the interest of all growers to join this excellent organization, for in union there is strength and now is the time for union.

The Houghton Gorney Co. has had some excellent wedding orders of late and reports a good fall trade. A. L. Bock, formerly with Randall's, of Worcester, and Penn's, is now a member of the efficient staff here.

Miss Marion R. Case, of Weston, who donated $1,000 to be used in prizes at the 1920 exhibitions of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, has made an offer of a similar sum to provide lectures to be given at the various exhibitions through 1921. Miss Case is an enthusiastic horticulturist and many members hope she will be nominated as one of the directors for the coming year.

Speaking of his experiences abroad, J. K. M. L. Farquhar says that railway traveling on the European continent is slow and uncomfortable, with far more passengers than seats. He found Brussels to be the busiest and gayest capital in Europe. France has a splendid harvest and will have twenty-five per cent of a surplus for export. Vilmorin's are doing a wonderful work and are, he considers, the finest seed firm in Europe. Many seeds formerly purchased in Germany will hereafter be produced in France.

Several local men interested in Quarantine 37, including A. C. Burrage, J. K. M. L. Farquhar and Thomas Roland, attended a meeting on the subject in New York this week.

At the Beacon Florists' I found all hands busy and John Eisemann, the proprietor, showed me some good wedding orders he has booked. A good business is being done in bulbs here at present.

At John J. O'Brien's, on Beacon street, the large store always looks attractive. Among the choicer flowers here are a fine assortment of orchids, gardenias, Beauty and all the newer roses and bouvardia. W. N. C.

TATE'S TIPS

TELEGRAPH PUBLICITY.

Engineering for the Trade.

We are just entering upon another flower season. From October 1 to July 1 the season will be on; what it will mean to each individual is largely up to himself. We have our organization, and the machinery is, or should be, in the best of running order for the coming year, but at the beginning it will be well to stop for a few moments, look the entire machine over for any weak spots that may exist and see that, if any exist, they are repaired before the start.

Everyone of us at some time has taken a long railroad journey and I know of no better illustration of the point I am trying to make than the engineer of one of our fast express trains. Perhaps we are embarking at the point at which the train is made up; we see the engineer bring his locomotive from the roundhouse and couple it onto the waiting cars. That engine has been gone over and groomed to the last minute, but is the engineer satisfied with this? The minute it is coupled we see him get down from his cab, with his long-necked oil can, and there is not an oil cup, bearing or part of the running gear of the engine that he does not inspect in the few minutes before he starts; there is nothing taken for granted. He knows that, barring accidents, he can depend upon his engine to fulfill what is expected of it.

Are You Really on the Job?

But when the train is under way, does his vigilance lapse? No, it has really just begun; his hand is on the lever and his eyes are on the right of way and on the various gauges by which he is surrounded. The fireman is just as vigilant; his eyes are ever on the steam gauge; perhaps there is a heavy grade to ascend and more steam will be needed. The two men in the engine cab form about the best example that I know for the retail florist to follow. They will leave a certain city at a given time; they are due to arrive at another city, perhaps 100 miles away, at a given time, and in the majority of cases they do it. Now why is this possible? It is because, from the time the members of that crew take possession of their engine at the roundhouse until they leave it at the end of the run, they are on the job.

The retail florists' business is just as delicate a piece of mechanism as a locomotive. Yes, I will go farther and say it is more intricate. If you are going to reach your destination at the end of the season. like the train, on time, it will require just as careful watching and as constant care as the locomotive. No matter in how good condition your organization may be at the start, if it is not watched and studied and cared for, you are going to lose time, and for the engineer on the florists' train, losing time means losing money. The train may lose time and then strike a favorable piece of road and make it up, but this is not the case with the florists; lost opportunities are gone forever.

Chain Stores from Telegraph Wires.

In looking over the trade's machinery, let us consider a branch of the trade which is still in its infancy, a branch which holds untold opportunities. Indeed, outside industries which have some idea of the machinery of telegraph delivery cannot but marvel at the opportunities the florist has. Did you ever stop to think that by this means you can have a branch store in every city of the United States and Canada? Now, Mr. Retailer, let us suppose for a moment that you, as an individual, had a chain of stores covering this vast territory; such an enterprise would require a great deal of publicity, national as well as local. As a matter of fact, this is just the position of everyone organized for telegraph deliveries. This organization, planned to keep the risk at a minimum, is functioning better each year; the retailer is beginning to wake up to the possibilities, but while the telegraph delivery business means a great deal to some members of the trade, there are many who hardly know what it means. But there are in every city a bunch of live wires engaged in it, who are quick to use every legitimate means to get trade. Like the engineer of the train already referred to, their eyes are never off the right of way; they are ever jockeying their machine that they may get more speed out of it. Indeed, some live florists have gone so far as to make telegraph delivery business a special department of their stores, with an energetic man in charge of this department whose sole business is to see that it is a success.

One Key to New Business.

True, when this department is conducted in this way it is much the same as starting a new business; it may be a little trying at first, but let one man devote his entire energies to it and new developments will present themselves each day; you will soon find that you have a new business instead of a department. It is not uncommon now in some of our large cities for the telegraph company at Christmas and Easter

Ten Thousand or One

Sometimes I sometimes think that mostly things are mostly too much.

Let me explain.

Last Spring I rode a good part of an afternoon through a ten thousand tree peach orchard, in full bloom.

Imagine it, 10,000 times 10 thousand blooms that stretched like a wonderful pink fabric for miles and miles!

The next day drove up to an old nigger cabin that had just one tree in bloom by its corner. An old Mammy came to the door, and I remarked on the beauty of the tree.

"Yes sirree, boss, I reckon you is right. 'Taint much of a tree as size goes; but its blooms sure does glorify dis old cabin. Just sort of makes it smile all over like it was going to a party.

"An doan you ask me for to break off none of dem flowers for you, cause I ain't gwine to do it. Dey just gwine to stay there glorifying, until dey just drops to glory demselves."

As near as I could figure it out, that old nigger knew about as much about saying it with flowers as you and I can ever hope to.

to install a ticker in the stores of some of the florists most active in telegraph delivery work, to take care of orders. If this business were given the attention it deserves, is it too much to expect that the day will come when a Morse key and operator will be part of the equipment of every first-class flower store? You will, of course, say I am optimistic, to say the least. Let me remind you that I once rode in street cars drawn by mules; that I have left the greenhouses with a load of plants behind old Dobbin and have been the best part of the day delivering them; to make those deliveries today, an hour would be ample. Did you ever on a cold night sit up and watch half a dozen old brick and flue furnaces? We never thought at that time that today florists would be burning oil. There is nothing impossible in this world. American brains can develop the telegraph delivery business just as the many other things have been developed that at one time seemed impossible. Tate.

CINCINNATI, O.

The Market.

Business is increasing as the fall comes on and stock is plentiful enough to go around at popular prices.

Gladioli and asters are still holding on, but are of an inferior grade. Dahlias are arriving in larger numbers and better condition and are going well at $4 to $8 per hundred. Some of the largest and best sellers are Hortulanus, King of the Autumn and Springfield.

Roses promise a slight glut, brought on by the exceedingly good weather, but at that they are holding their own as to price, ranging from $4 to $15 per hundred.

Lilies were a little more plentiful last week than they had been previously and were welcomed by all the retailers, because they are unexcelled for funeral work. Carnations are showing the result of sunshine by arriving in excellent condition and by the greater length of stem. Some good delphiniums arrived and also some excellent mums, both yellow and white.

New southern smilax is finding a good market, due to the fall openings at the department stores and the fall weddings.

Various Notes.

Fred Gear's window trim is quite clever and snappy and shows unusual taste.

E. G. Gillett is receiving excellent Sunburst roses and also some good asters.

C. J. Jones, of Walnut Hills, reports his brother in the Highlands as dangerously ill.

C. E. Critchell is receiving some extra fancy dahlias and some good mums.

H. W. Sheppard was especially busy last week on weddings and store openings. Mr. Sheppard reports business exceptionally brisk.

Charles Lantry, of G. Mickley's force, has returned from a vacation trip through Indiana.

J. Baer was on the market every day last week three or four times, which means that his force was on the jump constantly.

Charles Pommert has sent in some excellent Peak gladioli, which found a ready market.

Mr. Janzen, manager of Buck's Greenhouses, Washington Courthouse, O., and Mrs. Buck were in this city to visit the automobile show and went back in a new car. G. H. K.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

Pittsburgh is commencing to get back into its stride. Conditions have changed considerably in the last week. Business along all lines is improving and the demand for good flowers recalls old times.

The wholesalers, after the glut of the last several weeks, are beginning to clean up all their good stock every day.

There are still some good gladioli coming in, which bring good prices. Asters are holding up in quantity, but too many of them are of the poorer quality. The large, fine stock brings splendid prices, but the poor stock moves with difficulty at any price. Roses are much improved. There are just enough good roses to take care of the demand, but there are quantities of the shorter grades. Chrysanthemums are not plentiful. Golden Glow and Smith's Advance are the only ones on the market. Orchids are scarce and demand good prices. Carnations are improving every day and there are enough of them to supply all demands. Plumosus strings are still scarce at $1.50 per string. Adiantum and other greens are quite plentiful.

The supply houses are busy making shipments. It looks like real holiday times to see the baskets, poinsettias, ruscus and all the things sold at Christmas.

and Crusader roses, which, with some fine Russell, Premier, Columbia, Ophelia, Richmond and Wards, make up a good collection of roses for the florist.

Harvey Sheaff, of the E. A. Williams Co., Inc., spent last week in the east looking up novelties for the winter season. This company has been having a showy window of dahlias arranged in baskets.

The McClements Co., which has been making a specialty of fruit baskets combined with garden flowers, is showing some people the uses that can be made of the common flowers when arranged artistically.

The coal situation has not eased up, so far, right here in the heart of the coal district. The trouble seems to be the lack of cars for shipping, and a number of local florists are still without even a start on their winter's supply.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Corbin, Barnesville, O., visited the wholesale supply houses in this city.

H. A. Frishkorn, western representative of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., has just returned from a successful trip. He reports the western florists much worried over the coal situation.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. had a banquet for its sales force Thursday evening, September 23. Afterwards matters pertaining to business were discussed. H. J. H.

SCRANTON, PA.

The Market.

Business during the last week has been good in all lines. There were a number of weddings during the week, which kept the stores busy. The cold weather, with the help of the rains, has decreased outdoor stock a little. Dahlias are in big demand, especially the larger varieties. Roses are plentiful, with the supply larger than the demand. Carnations, as usual, find a ready call; they are good for the first of the season. A few mums are seen in some stores. Greens of all kinds are plentiful.

Various Notes.

A. L. Besancon & Co. report a busy week in wedding decorations. Funeral work has also been good.

The Vanston & Conwell Co. is putting on a bright appearance. The store has been painted and a general overhauling done inside.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. McClintock and family have returned after spending the summer at their cottage at Falls, Pa.

Peter Atherson, manager of the New York Floral Co., has returned after spending his vacation at Elmira, N. Y.

B. E. & J. T. Cokely are working day and night getting out fall orders. They report business better than in any previous year.

Mrs. M. Muir is visiting her sister, in Boston, Mass.

J. W. Beagle is growing some fine Boston ferns, for which he finds a ready sale.

Palumbo the Florist has added a Ford truck to his delivery service.

Anton Schultheis' greenhouses are in prime condition now, as all summer Mr. Schultheis has been giving them a general overhauling. From present in-

The Market.

The expected improvement in cut flower conditions did not come last week. The sun was strong and the weather was more like that of July days. All markets had an abundance of stock, which did not move as expected, and prices, instead of advancing, almost dropped to summer levels. A great deal of stock was left over after morning sales.

Of the stock coming in, roses are showing a big improvement in quality and an increase in quantity. Premier and Columbia are showing well, with a good demand for choice stock. Ophelia is good in flower, but short in stem. Russell is not yet in good color, while Milady is fine and some excellent Killarney is seen daily. Carnations are making a good showing, but the sudden hot spell did them no good.

An abundance of asters is still coming to this market daily; they are much used in funeral work. Most of them are short of stem. Last week many cut gladioli arrived and the demand cleaned them out. Dahlias are also in heavy supply at present. All of the fancy varieties are picked up each morning, while the common sorts are lumped off at low prices.

Many cut wild flowers are still coming in and help to crowd the market, with small returns.

Splendid valley can be had daily. An especially good supply of Easter lilies arrives each day, with the demand good.

Chrysanthemums are not plentiful as yet. Cooler weather should bring out a good supply in the early varieties. Smith's Advance and Golden Glow are the only varieties arriving so far.

Greens are in good supply and everything in this line has a large demand.

Wednesday evening, October 6. President Martin Ude says that a matter of great importance will come up for discussion.

Frank Hespen, manager of the Carlton Flower Shop, at 1122 North Union avenue, reports that the business has been quite satisfactory since the opening.

Fred L. Heller, according to special notices in the daily papers, has withdrawn from the Memorial Flower Shop, located at 2716 North Sarah street, and Fred Seibel is now the sole proprietor and has assumed debts and outstanding accounts.

rists' publicity committee, called a meeting of this committee for Tuesday evening, September 28. At this meeting the fall and winter advertising campaign was laid out, so as to begin the work by October 1.

Mrs. Knouer, who spent the summer in Chicago, her former home, is back in her old position as head saleslady in Vandervoort's floral department.

Frank O'Leary, with Grimm & Gorly for the last three years in the St. Louis store, has been appointed manager of the firm's store in East St. Louis, Ill.

The October meeting of the St. Louis Florists' Club will be made especially attractive by a dahlia exhibition. The meeting will be held in Kirkwood, at the establishment of the W. A. Rowe Floral Co. Any growers having fine varieties of dahlias would please the trustees by staging an exhibit of them.

John Held, in the south end, has completed all his improvements at his Tennessee avenue greenhouses. He and his son, Charles, are ready for the season to open and they expect their usual large cut of chrysanthemums.

The members of the George Waldbart Floral Co. say that they have had an exceptionally good business month during September. Funeral work was especially heavy and society events are opening well for next month. This firm has many advance orders booked. Andrew Hoffmann and Fred Michel, of this company, are looking forward to a busy season.

The St. Louis Association of Gardeners will hold its October meeting next week, when all committees which had arrangements in charge for the recent convention of the National Association of Gardeners will make final reports.

All members of the trade received invitations to the Bova-Bommarito wedding September 26. The wedding took place at St. Charles Borromea's church. The groom, Anthony F. Bova, is president of the Red Bud Floral Co. and a member of the St. Louis Florists' Club. Monday evening, September 27, was specially set aside for attending florists.

Oliver K. Sanders, who has charge of the retail store of the Sanders Nursery Co., 623 Clara avenue, invites inspection of this splendid retail establishment, with its large conservatory in the rear. The greenhouses, in Clayton, Mo., of which Edgar and Frank Sanders are in charge, are in fine shape.

Edward Westmann, local representative of the Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, was touring southern Illinois last week, calling on the florists in small towns in the interest of his firm, with good results.

Morris Le Vine, representing Lion & Co., New York, called on the trade last week.

Henry Jennemann, of Webster Park, Mo., and D. Davis, of Clayton, Mo., dahlia specialists, are cutting many fancy varieties; the blooms are being disposed of in the local wholesale market at good prices.

league enjoyed a most exciting evening September 22 in the games between the Carnations and the Sweet Peas, of which the Sweet Peas won all three. Many cigars were wagered on the result, Captain Hermann, of the Carnations, being a heavy loser. In the other games the Roses met the new Gladiolus team and won two of the three games. A number of visitors in the trade attended and enjoyed the fun. Wednesday, September 29, the Roses met the Carnations and the Sweet Peas played against the Gladioli. J. J. B.

The Market.

Last week was an extremely busy one for all the retailers. Two big funerals, for which orders were scattered among a number of florists instead of being confined to two or three as often happens, and several smaller funerals, besides weddings and general business, have kept everybody going at high speed every day. The season has opened in a way that promises good fall trade and that is what is anticipated. The summer has been unusually favorable for outdoor stock because of the cool weather and frequent rains, but this has not interfered to any extent with business on the whole. Summer business averaged up to normal years and even better.

It was feared that the supply of asters and dahlias in home gardens would keep back trade until frost, but this fear has been found groundless from the numerous orders turned in the last two weeks. With summer vacations about over, schools all opened and entertaining started, it is felt that the season is really here and in such manner as augurs well for the next few months. It is safe to say that a careful search would not find a single pessimist in any branch of the florists' business in Kansas City.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. had a wedding order September 23 that was one of the most elaborate in years. Palms, Australian fern trees and foliage plants, hampers of yellow mums and tritomas were used lavishly in the church where the ceremony took place. Yellow mums predominated as the chief note in the color scheme of the home decorations.

C. T. Reinhardt's mums are looking well and promise a good crop. He is moving. They are not arriving in any great quantities as yet, but the quality is all that could be desired. There were still some fine gladioli on the market last week, but they have had their season and were not so much sought after. Cosmos is plentiful and is used a great deal. There is a good supply of all sorts of miscellaneous stock to be had.

Greens are plentiful. A vast amount of smilax is being used in pall work. It seems to be becoming more popular each day.

Nearing October 11.

Everyone connected with the trade is becoming more enthusiastic each day over the approaching "Say It with Flowers" week of October 11. Last week the committee held daily meetings, laying plans to make this the greatest week in the history of the florists' business in this city. First, they are going to establish general headquarters; several places have been considered, but the favorite location seems at this time to be the Academy of Music. This is a central location and it is one of the largest theaters in the city. Then there is to be one of the largest "Say It with Flowers" theater parties held in this house during the week that was ever held. Arrangements are being made to have flowers and plants everywhere about the house.

Next there is the decorated automobile parade that will go from one end of the city to the other. The committee is trying to get everything in Baltimore that is run by gasoline in this parade, and will have "Say It with Flowers" pennants on everything in line. There will be plenty of good music and there are prospects of some good out-of-town floats.

Then there is going to be a banquet at the Hotel Rennert and a dance following. The ladies are going to be in on everything. These are just some of the more prominent things that the committee has decided upon; there is not going to be a dull moment during the entire week. Every man, woman and child in Baltimore will see and hear of "Say It with Flowers" during this week.

The committee is as follows: Robert L. Graham, Jr., who was recently elected president of the Baltimore Florists' Club, chairman; Isaac H. Moss, Thomas Stevenson, Albert Fiedler, Arthur Richmond, Robert W. Johnston, William Feast, Charles H. Cook, M. S. Merritt, Claymore Sieck, Herman Cook. The Deatel Advertising Service, which is composed of experts at the publicity game, is giving them every assistance.

Various Notes.

James Hamilton, William Feast and Robert L. Graham, Jr., spent a day last week judging the gardens for the home garden committee of the Women's Civic League.

John J. Perry, of the S. S. Pennock Co., was at home under the doctor's care last week. It is hoped it will prove nothing serious and that he may be out in a few days.

These are busy days with William F. Ekas, getting the building of the Baltimore Wholesale Florist & Supply Co. remodeled and the florists' supplies installed. Tate.

Oshkosh, Wis.—Ward B. Davis has purchased the seven large greenhouses of Louis Otto, who has been in business in Neenah, Wis., eighteen years, and will conduct that business in connection with his present one in this city. Elmer E. Ferson, a member of Mr. Davis's force, will take charge of the Neenah end of the enterprise and will occupy the residence which is on part of the 5-acre tract acquired. The capacity of the Neenah range is considerably greater than that at Oshkosh and will enable Mr. Davis to enlarge his business greatly. He plans to open a store in Neenah, also.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, H. G. Hastings, Atlanta, Ga.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THE Wholesale Seedsmen's League held a meeting at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, Thursday morning, September 30.

THE fall catalogues coming to hand have not their former bulk. The high cost of paper has compelled radical reductions.

CANDIDUM bulbs have arrived from the north of France. The crop was short and the bulbs run small. Orders were cut one-third.

CHICAGO onion set growers lunched together at the Hotel Sherman September 23 and congratulated themselves on the contract price of $1.25 per bushel.

THE Department of Agriculture wishes to bring to the attention of American dealers in vegetable and flower seeds the ever-increasing market for their product in Brazil. Catalogues are desired.

SEEDSMEN have lived through a number of months of such conditions as only recently have developed in numerous other trades. They have a fellow feeling for the automobile men and others who have found the market fading with high-priced stocks on hand.

THE onion set crop did not keep up to its early promises, according to Albert H. Smith, treasurer of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago. While the first part of the crop was of exceptionally fine quality and in amount gave rise to expectations of seven and eight bushels to the pound planted, final developments indicated about five bushels to the pound.

A. S. T. A. APPOINTMENTS.

President H. G. Hastings has announced the following appointments on committees of the American Seed Trade Association for the coming year:

Legislative committee: Charles D. Boyles, chairman; George S. Green, A. E. Reynolds, M. H. Duryea, W. S. Woodruff, Wilbur Brotherton.

Postal laws committee: G. F. Bradley, chairman; David Burpee, E. H. Dungan, W. D. Weedy, Charles H. MacKubbin, M. Kurzweil.

Experiment stations committee: L. L. Olds, chairman; E. L. Martin, A. E. McKenzie.

Garden bureau: L. H. Vaughan, chairman; A. M. Eldridge, David Burpee, M. L. Germain, Louis B. Reuter.

Nomenclature committee: Francis C. Stokes, chairman; Josiah Livingston, R. D. Edwards, F. G. Cuthbertson, C. N. Keeney.

Resolutions committee (necrology): W. H. Barrett, chairman; C. D. Coe, Chas. P. Guelph.

Tariff and customs committee: J. C. Vaughan, chairman; Lem Bowen, S. F. Willard, J. M. Lupton, F. B. King, S. F. Leonard, Robert Nicholson, G. G. Stumpp, A. B. Clark.

Seed testing apparatus and publicity committee: C. C. Massie, chairman; Kirby B. White, J. L. Hunt, Hugo Teweles, George S. Green, W. S. Hill.

SWEET PEA ACREAGE LARGER.

The total acreage planted to sweet peas for the production of seed this year is estimated by growers and dealers to be about 2,000 acres, compared with 1,500 acres in 1919, about 550 acres of which were Spencers and 950 acres grandifloras, both including mixtures. Because of a decreasing demand for grandifloras, most of the acreage this year is of the Spencer type. Part of the crop in California was a failure, because of lack of moisture during the winter and spring months and the prevalence of aphis during the summer.

The average yield per acre of Spencer sweet peas ranges from 300 to 500 pounds and of grandifloras 500 to 800 pounds, and the total production in a normal year is estimated to be 600,000 pounds. About one-fourth of this total production is said to be exported, mostly to England.

MORE DUTCH BULBS.

The steamer A. F. Luckenbach arrived in New York from Rotterdam September 23 with 834 cases of Dutch bulbs, bringing the season's total to date up to 35,775 cases. This total is almost twice as much as the 18,762 cases which had been received a year ago, but it is still short of the final total for last season, which was 36,026 cases. However, the last shipment of that total did not reach this country till January 8, 1920.

The consignments were as follows:

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.

"Bumper crops of all kinds of corn and cereals are in sight," observed Manager Windheim, of the Nebraska Seed Co., Omaha, Neb., who recently returned from a tour of the state. "Farmers will not hoard crops as in past seasons, owing to the banks' refusal to make advances. The result will be felt by the retailer, who will be able to buy for early delivery on an easy market."

"Splendid crops of everything with the possible exception of blue grass," reports Manager Luck, of T. Lee Adams Seed Co., Kansas City, Mo. "A few days of real warm weather will do wonders to the corn crop locally, much of which is green. We had a banner seed season."

S. Bryson Ayres Co., Kansas City, Mo., is the latest addition to the ranks of local seedsmen. Henry Wertheim has charge of the retail store. S. Bryson Ayres heads the forces at the seed farm of 100 acres, where the range of ten houses is located, hitherto used almost entirely for the growing of the company's special strain of sweet peas. Some idea is conveyed of the quantity disposed of in one season by the statement that shipments to a local florist for one month totaled a few dollars short of $2,000. W. M.

have amounted to the following for the three different grades: Yellow Bermuda, 49,529 pounds, valued at $77,647; crystal wax, 7,876 pounds, valued at $18,088, and red Bermuda, 952 pounds, valued at $1,274, totaling 58,357 pounds and $97,009, in comparison with 69,592 pounds and $74,245 for declared exports for 1919. While these figures clearly show a decreased production, they are decidedly in excess of estimates, which placed the 1920 crop at 40,000 to 45,000 pounds. It may be that certain amounts of old seed were mixed with new and thus increased exports, although it is not thought that the better class of dealers do this intentionally.

The decreased crop, which was due to small plantings and unfavorable weather, brought about higher prices, as indicated by the figures for quantities and values. Larger plantings are expected this fall following the high prices which have been realized and because of the fact that onion bulbs for planting are abundant and low in price.

From eighty to ninety per cent of the Canary islands' onion seed crop is shipped to the United States, and it constitutes the principal item in the islands' exports to this country.

IMPORTS OF PLANTS AND BULBS.

In the national government's last quarterly report of horticultural imports, the total receipts of plants, bulbs, trees, shrubs and vines for the months of January, February and March, 1920, are valued at $436,222. A little more than half of the stock represented in that total is of a bulbous or tuberous character, intended to be cultivated for flowers or foliage, and is classified in five groups as follows: Hyacinth bulbs, astilbe, dielytra and lily of the valley clumps, to the number of 2,000, at $200; lily bulbs and calla bulbs or corms, 1,234,000, $125,093; lily of the valley pips, tulips, narcissus, begonia and gloxinia bulbs, 7,567,000, $114,723; peony, herbaceous, Iris Kaempferi or germanica, canna, dahlia and amaryllis bulbs, 5,000, $413; all other bulbs, roots, root stocks, corms and tubers which are cultivated for their flowers or foliage, 176,000, $5,912.

Aside from the foregoing five groups, the items of chief importance in the report are these: Bulbs, mature mother flowering, imported exclusively for propagating purposes, 16,000, $1,415; rose plants, budded, grafted or grown on their own roots, 25,841, $1,106; fruit and ornamental trees, deciduous and evergreen shrubs and vines, and all trees, shrubs, plants and vines commonly known as nursery or greenhouse stock, n. s. p. f., 31,000, $2,681; Myrobalan

B. E. HAMMOND has been propagating nursery stock in Lake City, Ia., since last spring.

HIGH cost of paper seems likely to lead nurserymen to send out fewer catalogues and do more advertising in the trade and public press.

To cut down catalogue costs, the California Nursery Co., Niles, Cal., asks those on its mailing list to sign and stamp a return post card to obtain its catalogue.

PLANTING PERENNIALS IN FALL.

Successive Border Flowers.

The well arranged perennial border is a perpetual delight. As new pictures unfold from day to day one wonders whether this type of ornamental planting is not the climax of perfection in achievements horticultural. The long, stately pageant of the season begins with the primulas, German irises, foxgloves, columbines, oriental poppies, hardy feverfews and is followed by Maltese cross, or lychnis, sweet williams and other pinks in many species. Succeeding these come the bewitching blues of the hardy larkspurs and the hollyhocks in a myriad of colors. Midsummer is ablaze with the finer perennial phloxes, which cover a season of two or three months, while the striking, picturesque heads of the yuccas later are seen at their best. In late summer the rosy-purple spikes of gay feather, or liatris, the golden yellow of heliopsis and the various rudbeckias, gaillardias and veronicas enliven the scene. Goldenrod, the sedums, boltonias, wild asters and Japanese anemones bring up the rear of the procession and linger even after killing frosts have wrought desolation throughout the precincts of lawn and garden.

Most Plantings in October.

Most perennials may be handled quite readily in autumn and an ideal time in which to begin such plantings is the interval extending from September 15 to November 1. Whether the stock is purchased, transplanted from a coldframe or obtained by the division of old clumps, the soil conditions which prevail at this time can scarcely be improved upon. Sweet williams may now be divided and will give better results than if moved in the spring; an old clump of hardy larkspur, or delphinium, becomes the source of numerous strong divisions; worn-out plants of hollyhocks will be rejuvenated by transplanting and will flower more profusely next summer in consequence of it. Baby's breath, or gypsophila, and upright virgin's bower, or Clematis recta, both fine for making bouquets, beside sea lavender, or statice; mullein pink, or agrostemma; Chinese bellflower, or platycodon; rudbeckias, and evening primrose, or œnothera, are all excellent plants that must not be omitted. The gas-plant, or dictamnus, in its white and pink forms, is yet another old plant that is indispensable.

Effective Groupings.

Perennials are of especial value in any piece of planting which is being developed along naturalistic lines and they can be utilized in so many ways that it is possible to give only some general directions for locating and displaying them. Much depends on the ingenuity and resourcefulness of the planter. Should there be unlimited space, colonies of yuccas, foxgloves, hollyhocks, hardy larkspurs, irises or peonies which embrace twenty-five or more plants of a kind will become striking features of the landscape and are always greatly admired. Often such colonies may be effectively edged with low plants like Young's evening primrose, lungwort, hardy feverfew, stonecrop, or sedum, and old woman, or Artemisia stellariana. On lawns of limited area perennials may be planted in small, informal clumps or groups before masses of evergreens or shrubbery, or in small openings which frequently occur along the margins of such groups. The perennial border is usually a long, narrow bed situated in front of a garden fence, alongside a walk or facing a tree or shrub growth of some kind. In it plants are usually grouped according to height and the possibilities for diversity and variety in arrangement are without limit.

Divided According to Height.

For convenience in planting, perennial plants may be subdivided into three groups according to height. Hollyhock, hardy larkspur, gay feather; American senna, or cassia; tall rudbeckias, boltonias and wild asters are the taller ones and ought to be used in the back row or for the center of groups. Next in height come the foxgloves, Canterbury bells, sweet williams, perennial phloxes and low-growing rudbeckias, all of which lend themselves admirably to massing and ought to be banked in front of the taller kinds. As low, border or edging plants, the third group of perennials will consist of lungwort, or pulmonaria, which has handsomely mottled ing of peonies at this time must not be overlooked, as autumn is about the only time when this can be successfully done. The last two weeks of September are the right time, as the plants then have time to make some root growth before freezing weather. Old, crowded clumps should be broken up and reset, but must not be expected to flower freely for a season or two after transplanting. For commercial purposes a rather limited list of the tested, proven varieties will give better results than extensive collections of untried kinds. Festiva maxima, Duchesse de Nemours, Couronne d'Or and Marie Lemoine are a good succession of whites. In pink one cannot go wrong by planting edulis superba, M. Jules Elie, delicatissima and Richardson's grandiflora. One of the best reds for florists' use is Felix Crousse. For the home flower garden the foregoing list may be supplemented with such varieties as Eugene Verdier, pink; Mme. Jules Calot, dark pink; Mme. Crousse, white, flecked crimson; Mathilde de Roseneck, pink; La Perle, pink; Modeste Guerin, light red; La Cygne, milk white, midseason; Baroness Schroeder, light pink; Milton Hill, light pink, late; Sarah Bernhardt, rose-pink, late; Karl Rosenfield, handsome, dark crimson, rare and scarce; Walter Faxon, bright rose, midseason; Soulange, lilac white, late.

Hinsdale, Ill.—Stanley Zukowski, who was once employed at the Wolniewicz gardens, North Claremont avenue, Chicago, has bought a farm in this town, paying $400 per acre. Ten acres of this he is going to use exclusively for commercial flower production.

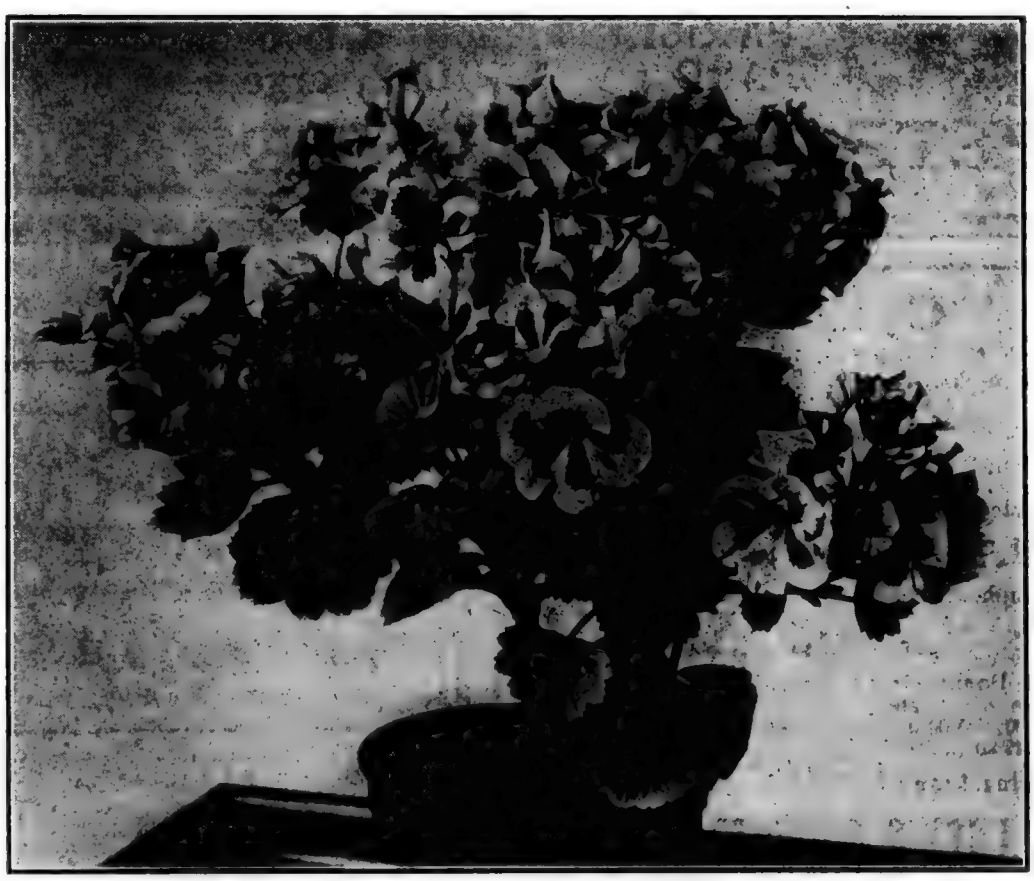
CLEVELAND, O.

The Market.

Stock last week was accumulating to a large extent until Saturday, when most of the stock on the market, with the exception of Easter lilies, cleaned up, and left the wholesalers with a chance for a fresh start. The first mums are coming in a little better now, although the quantity is small. Asters are poor and few in quantity, while dahlias are better in quality and the supply is increasing steadily. Marigolds are exceptionally good at present and are cleaning up well, while other miscellaneous stock, such as calendulas, salpiglossis, annual larkspur and tritoma, are adding to the variety of the market. The weather here has been hot, interfering with the keeping qualities of stock, especially shipping stock.

Various Notes.



Martin Janoch has sold his store.

John Kirchner has just returned from a trip to Tiffin, O.

Jack Fratus, formerly with the Park Floral Co., is now at the retail store of the J. M. Gasser Co. W. A. R.

LINTON, IND.

Marion Aikin and Earl Aikin, his son, who are funeral directors, have opened a flower shop in connection with their undertaking work at this place. They have gone into the flower business in a continuous way. They call the shop the Rosery and look forward to doing a good business. They were led to take this step by the quantity of business in funeral flowers offered to them before they were regularly in the flower business. The population here is about 6,000. They have found that in places of this size large numbers of orders for funeral flowers are offered to the undertaker, who, if he is not a florist, turns them over to a florist, receiving a commission. Aikin & Son believe that an undertaker who is also a florist can soon work up a good volume of business of other character than funeral work.

FLORISTS' TELEGRAPH DELIVERY

Come to the meeting in our city on October 12th and 13th and be the guests of your Hoosier friends for a few days. We will do our "durndest" to make your stay both pleasant and profitable.

While here, arrange to visit our establishment. You may find us in not quite our usual "apple-pie" order in some departments, but after making allowance for an extraordinarily busy summer with our building, etc., you will be pleased with our general appearance and the prospects for getting good stock in case you order from us later on.

You will be interested in our

New Carnations and Chrysanthemums

"Harvester" is our new white carnation, which we feel sure will make a place for itself as a free flowering, high grade carnation.

"Edna" is Nic Zweifel's new red, which he has turned over to us for dissemination. Take it from us, it's a good one. Then, too, we have a bed of Strout's "Maine Sunshine," which is certainly a fine yellow and should appeal to those who appreciate the out-of-the-ordinary things. We have other new ones, too, but these three will interest you most at this time.

It will be a little early for the Mums, but you will like the looks of some new varieties we have coming on.

City cars running to our place pass right by the door of hotel headquarters.

NEWPORT, R. I.

The recent exhibition of the Newport Horticultural Society was one of the best fall displays seen here in several years, although few novelties were shown, gladioli and dahlias composing the principal features. E. W. Darling won the first award on dahlias by commercial growers, with W. D. Hathaway second and Joseph A. Noelet third, all from New Bedford, Mass. Other winners in the dahlia classes were Frederick P. Webber, C. M. Bogholt, James Hooper, William MacRay and Frederic Franco. The leading winners in the gladiolus classes were C. M. Bogholt, William MacGilvray, Frederick P. Webber, E. W. Darling, H. D. Hathaway, Joseph A. Noelet and the Mattapoisett Flower Fields, of New Bedford.

Joseph P. Cook, chief engineer of the Thomas Young, Jr., range, at Bound Brook, N. J., was married here last week to Miss Mary C. Sheehan, on Thurston avenue.

Miss Emily Ritchie has returned from her vacation, which she spent on Long Island, and is now in charge of the store of Ritchie's Greenhouses, on Broadway, during the absence of her sisters, Misses Anna N. Ritchie and Marguerite S. Ritchie, who have gone on a two weeks' vacation to the White mountains, N. H.

William Carr, head gardener at Rockridge Farm, Middletown, and Mrs. Carr left last week on an automobile trip through Maine.

Patrick Healy, Jr., decorator for Wadley & Smythe, returned to New York last week, where he is to be married at an early date. W. H. M.

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

The supply and demand are about evenly balanced; both are good. Gladioli are disappearing from the market, but asters and dahlias hold out still. Carnations and mums are arriving in good condition and roses are showing up well. The weather has been good for outdoor flowers lately.

Various Notes.

Columbus florists are busy with corsage and funeral work, which is taking all the flowers available. Two well known residents of Columbus died last week, the Fifth Avenue Floral Co. having the family blanket for both funerals. This company is doing a good out-of-town business as well.

The Bexley Floral Co. is putting up a new house for lilies.

The range of the Fifth Avenue Floral Co. is looking fine. This firm has one house with 8,000 roses, all of them young plants.

S. F. Stevens & Son are building a new office.

B. H. Flynn is gathering weeds and curing them to be used in wreaths.

Underwood Bros. have been busy with funeral work. W. F. F.

SALT LAKE CITY.

The Market.

Heavy rains during the last three days have put an end to asters, gladioli and almost all other kinds of outdoor stock. Cecile Brunners and feverfew are about the only survivors.

Roses are arriving in fine shape and market conditions are much improved. Carnations have not yet started to crop, and what few can be obtained clean up well.

Funeral work was heavy last week, and, with no outdoor stock lately, indoor stock has cleaned up every day.

Various Notes.

The Miller Floral Store had an abundance of wedding work last week.

E. A. Lambourne has a fine window of strawflowers and painted grasses.

The Cramer Floral Co. has just finished painting and remodeling the store inside and out, and everything looks fine. G. J. B.

ORCHIDS

If You Are Interested In An Exceptional Opportunity Phone or Write Us

Here's an opportunity to buy Orchids such as was never heard of! For a quarter of a century, Clement Moore, the celebrated amateur, has gathered from every known source, the very cream of the productions of growers and hybridizers.

In addition, he has been hybridizing most carefully for many years. The result has been the 500 rare and exclusive species and hybrids that have made the Clement Moore collection famous the world over.

And now we are able to offer you your selection from this great collection.

There is not room here to describe the scores of rare and choice plants, but if you will give us a call (Rutherford 90), we will gladly make an appointment to show you this wonderful collection, which is at Hackensack.

There are, among other things, hundreds of Cattleyas and Cattleya hybrids now in sheath and bud, that offer a most exceptional opportunity to the grower, as well as to the amateur.

Phone Rutherford 90 - today. Or write for list. Don't take any chances by delaying. They're being spoken for fast.

Greenhouse Heating

POINTS ON PICKING BOILERS.

For Economical Operation.

Every florist is naturally vitally interested in the economical operation of his greenhouse. Among the many things that engage his attention, the selection of a suitable boiler is of paramount importance. Unfortunately, in many cases this question has not had the consideration it should have had at the proper time, and, as a result, the owner is confronted by the tragic realization that his boiler is not doing what he expected or what was claimed for it.

Frequently purchasers are influenced by the fact that a boiler is made in a neighboring city and a saving in freight and time of shipment can be effected by buying locally. The purchaser will, no doubt, realize, on further thought, that this is one of the last things to be considered in selecting the boiler for the greenhouse.

Because of the fact that few florists are engineers, I wish to suggest a few points for your consideration regarding boilers which I believe are important. In the first place, it would be well to give some thought to the manufacturer and his organization. What service does he give to customers and how far does he go to back up his product? His reputation is as important to you as yours is to your bank.

Difference in Ratings.

Another important point to the florist is the question of the catalogue rating of the boiler. Let us take, for example, two boilers of different makes, each rated at 2,000 square feet. Upon comparing the catalogues, we find that one has a larger grate area than the other and is, on the whole, of larger outside dimensions. This brings us to the matter of firing period, which may not be mentioned in the catalogue, but upon which the rating of the boilers is based. It will, no doubt, be apparent that if the two boilers mentioned above are to produce the same amount of steam or hot water per hour, the one with the smaller grate area and generally smaller size will have to be fired more often than the larger one and will consequently burn more coal in doing the same amount of work. Most low-pressure boilers are claimed to be rated on an 8-hour firing period; that is, attention once in eight hours, with about twenty per cent reserve capacity for kindling the next fuel charge. It is important, however, when comparing different manufacturers' boilers of the same rating to ascertain that the ratings of the boilers to be compared are based on the same firing period, as this has direct bearing on the fuel consumption.

As you all know, a heating season is composed of a large number of comparatively mild days and a relatively small number of extremely cold days. Greenhouse owners are compelled, however, to design their heating plants of sufficient size to maintain proper temperatures under the most severe conditions, and this means that for a considerable

"The customer's interest first"—is the basis of the KROESCHELL standard. This principle makes the KROESCHELL Policy the most liberal of all in the Greenhouse Boiler business. The great variety of boilers that we make places us in a commanding position. It is the KROESCHELL principle to supply only the type of boiler best suited for the conditions. For this reason we always furnish the most efficient boiler unit in every case.

The KROESCHELL has proven its worth in many of the large establishments in this country. It has frequently been selected by the most careful buyers in competition with all other types of boilers. Its efficiency and capacity are completely beyond any other boiler.

KROESCHELL BOILERS have no bulky, soot accumulating surfaces—you avoid the disagreeable work and trouble indispensable to cleaning boilers with complicated and tortuous back and forth passages.

The superiority of our boilers has resulted in the removal and abolishment of hundreds of cast iron sectional boilers—in every instance KROESCHELL BOILERS give more heat with the same piping with less fuel.

portion of the season their plant is larger than is necessary. From the above it will be evident that a boiler which can operate under all conditions of load with a degree of economy remaining almost constant will certainly effect a substantial saving in fuel cost.

In visiting the greenhouses of other florists, have you ever noticed how often the chain running from the damper regulator to the draft door is disconnected? This is usually evidence that the regulator has failed to operate properly. The damper regulator, although a small part of the boiler, is of great importance if you wish to avoid frequent firing or constant attention for regulation. Along with other heating accessories, the damper regulator has also had its share of developments and improvements, with the result that today there are regulators of the all-metal type which are rapidly superseding the old rubber diaphragm type. In these all-metal regulators there is no rubber to vulcanize, rupture, or otherwise become inoperative. They are quite sensitive and will last as long as the boiler under ordinary conditions.

Much has been said by heating men about the tight damper in the smoke pipe, one of the frequent causes of trouble. To overcome any difficulties from this source, some boilers are equipped with a combination cold air check draft and choke damper, included as a part of the smoke hood, making the hand damper unnecessary. An absolutely tight damper in the smoke pipe will invariably cause back draft and the escape of coal gas from the boiler. If a hand damper is installed, it should be placed so that the cold air check draft is between it and the chimney flue.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

Business fell off slightly last week, due to the warm weather which prevailed. The supply of orchids was much better, and naturally the prices showed a decrease. Asters were good in quality as well as quantity. Easter lilies took a sudden drop in price, and the demand remained good during the last few days of the week. Funeral work still constitutes most of the business. Dahlias arrived in large quantities, but did not move well. Some good roses were on the market and moved briskly, with fair returns. The demand for potted ferns did not reach the mark set during the previous week. However, table ferns moved well. Out-of-town business was satisfactory, considering the warm spell of weather.

Various Notes.

The Florists' and Growers' Union, 17,387, held a special meeting September 22 in order to settle several important matters which were brought before the organization.

Members of the Washington Florists' Club and the Baltimore Society of Florists were the all-day guests September 29 of Richard Vincent, Jr., at White Marsh, Md., where a dahlia exhibition was held. G. V. S.

Asbestfalt

An Elastic Cement That Expands and Contracts With the Weather

Make your greenhouse weather-tight with Asbestfalt, the elastic cement that never gets hard, cracks or peels in cold weather or runs in hot weather.

$1.25 per gallon. Why pay more?

You can't get anything better no matter how much more you pay. The ingredients are of the purest; weighs but 10 pounds to the gallon.

With the scarcity of coal and its high prices, the careful application of Asbestfalt will more than pay for itself by keeping your greenhouse air-tight.

To insure best results, apply Asbestfalt with our Liquid Putty Machine, price $2.00. With every barrel purchase of Asbestfalt, one machine free.

SAN FRANCISCO NOTES.

by every incoming steamer from Japan. Chrysanthemums of many varieties and new-crop Ophelia and Russell roses are coming from their nurseries.

Domoto Bros. are shipping fine cut Russell roses as well as mums.

A new shipment of many kinds of Japanese china jardinieres has been received from Japan by the United Flower & Supply Co. The first violets came in from the nurseries September 21.

The C. Kooyman Co. is getting ready to receive its first shipment of bulbs from Holland.

The Misses Hannon were busy last week with funeral work. A number of out-of-town orders have also been filled.

Julius Eppstein, of the Hotel St. Francis, has been so much occupied with weddings during the last few weeks that he is led to believe September is more the bride's month this year than May proved to be.

The MacRorie-McLaren Co. had a striking-looking basket of Eucalyptus ficifolia in its window display last week. The coppery flame color of this variety seems to be developed by the California climate or cultivation, for when first imported from Australia the color is more red. Business is holding up well, according to Louis J. Capurro, the manager.

The C. C. Navlet Co. is starting to do a good business in bulbs. Large posters in the store draw attention to the advisability of attending to bulb purchases without delay. M. M.

Permanite

Will outwear any other Glazing Cement. It never dries—never runs and is just elastic enough to absorb the expansion and contraction natural to the glass in weather changes. This keeps it tight to the glass, repelling cold air and rain and saving your valuable coal pile as well as delicate plants.

Guttercote

is well named. It is easily applied with a brush and puts an absolutely waterproof coat on your gutters, many times heavier than ordinary paint. Rebuild old gutters with Guttercote.

IT GIVES EARLIER—BETTER—MORE BLOOMS

Are other growers getting their "Glads," Asters, Dahlias and other summer cut flowers into market before you do?

Do you see bigger and cleaner stock in the wholesalers' windows?

Do you find that when your sales memorandum comes back, all your stuff has not brought the day's top prices? Something wrong!

Nine times out of ten, you'll find that your most successful competitor is a user of Skinner System Irrigation, with the wonderful Silver Stream Nozzle, that gives earlier, better, more blooms.

Isn't it time you gave yourself an equal chance, with the other fellow, by using just as up-to-date equipment as he has?

Then the first step, is to send in the coupon below. On receipt of which, will gladly quote you price on equipment for your requirements

The Market.

A much larger variety of mums is offered in the local flower shops now than at any time since the first blooms came in several weeks ago, and the quantity is increasing daily. Gladioli are becoming scarce, though asters still hold a large place in this market. Dahlias are beginning to arrive. Prices are, on the whole, quite reasonable.

Various Notes.

Push-cart flower venders are more numerous along Broad street than usual.

William H. Witheridge reports business fair. He does not expect a big increase in trade until the frosts kill flowers in outdoor gardens.

The Rosary Floral Co. has an attractive store window. More than half of the window is taken up by a pool of water. In the center is a cobblestone fountain with water continually playing from it. A white picket fence runs along the front of the pool. The sides and back are banked with ferns.

SNAPDRAGONS

Snapdragons are becoming one of the most profitable greenhouse crops. We make a specialty of these and use Ramsburg's winter flowering seed largely, the best we can get. Our plants are topped and branching, free from rust, clean and thrifty. In packing we wrap each plant separately and pack in shallow, slatted, open top boxes so stock is sure to reach you in good condition. Instruction for growing to prevent rust with each order or write us about it. After October 1st we will have stock from flats which we will ship via parcel post prepaid, insured. We have found that well rooted soil stock does about as well as potted stock.
Keystone, Nelrose, Silver Pink, Buxton's Pink, Enchantress, Ramsburg's Light Pink, Giant White and Yellow; Orlando, Golden Queen and Seneca, three choice fancy varieties; Garnet and Fancy Mixed. From pots, $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000. Packing free.

The Market.

Business has not changed enough this summer to be noticeable. A steady run of funeral and wedding work has kept trade somewhat better than last summer. Outdoor flowers have suffered from the extremely hot spell, which lasted two weeks, but September 26 the rain was a big help to the asters and gladioli, and the temperature has gone down from 90 degrees to about 70 degrees.

Various Notes.

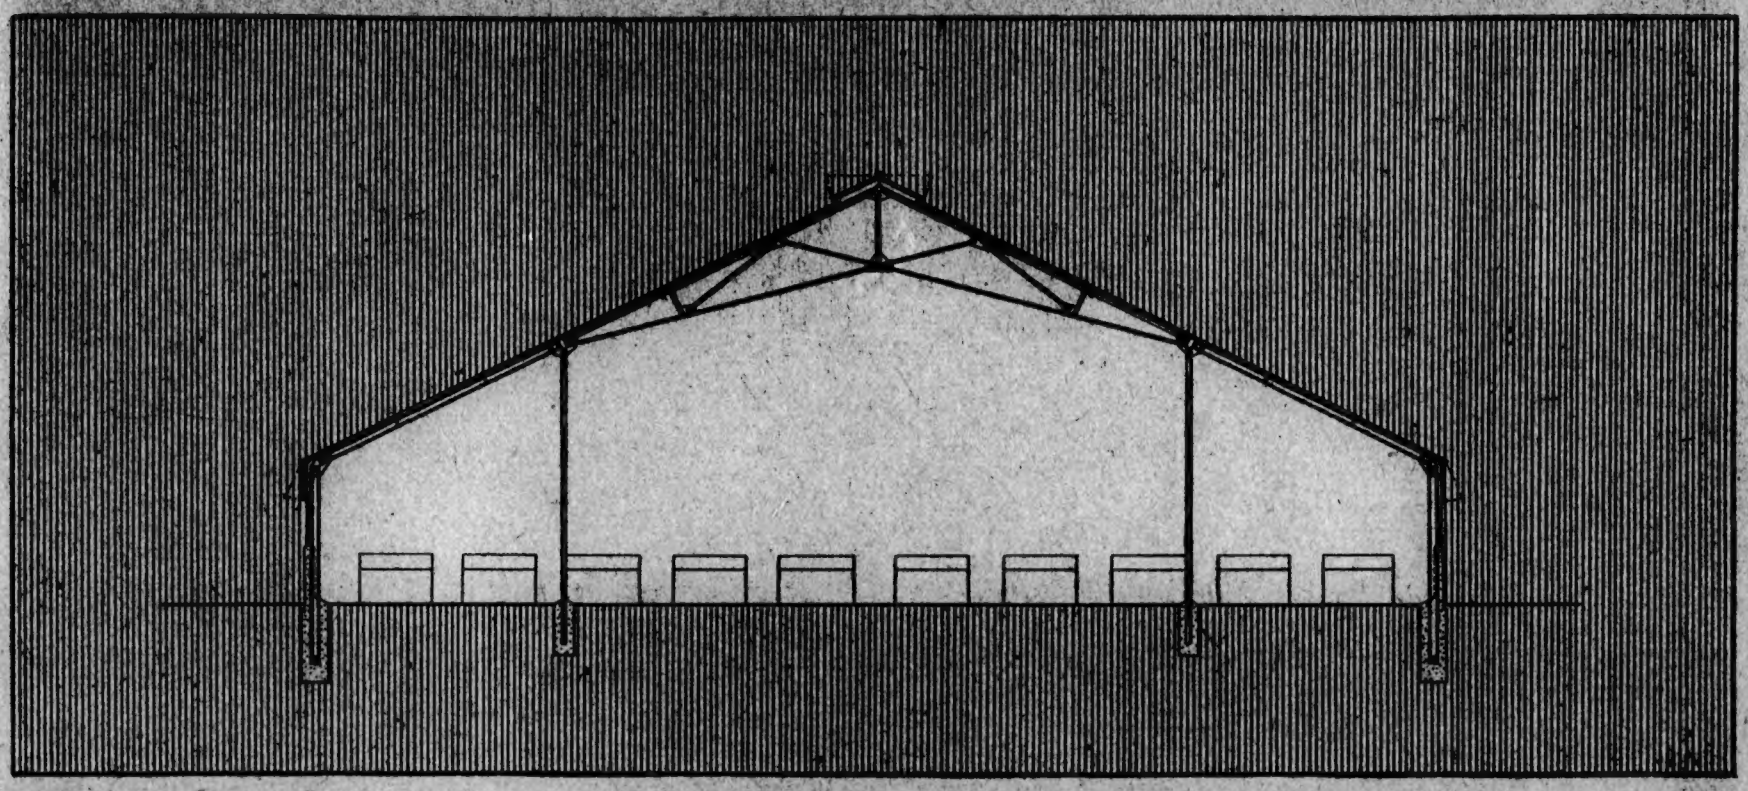
The floral exhibit at the northeastern Michigan fair, Bay City, which has just come to a close, was one of the most creditable displays of flowers and plants ever shown at those fair grounds; in fact, it was so good that the Saginaw-Bay City Floricultural Society received $407 in premium money of the $500 put up. The floral exhibit at the Saginaw county fair, which will be held next week, will also be staged by the florists of Saginaw and Bay City, and all receipts will be placed in the treasury of the society to defray the expenses of the Michigan State Florists' Association convention, which takes place March, 1921.

The next meeting of the Saginaw-Bay City Floricultural Society will take place at the greenhouses of J. B. Goetz Sons, Monday evening, October 4. Many things of interest are expected to be heard from President Hamilton, who has just returned from Sweden after a two months' visit to his aged parents.

Visitors of late were Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Meyer, South Bend, Ind.; Henry Heilemann, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Keit and Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Boehringer, of Bay City, Mich. G.

DULUTH, MINN.

The Market.



Chrysanthemums were in much better condition last week, the chief varieties being Chrysolora and Smith's Advance. Roses are in good condition, with Columbia much in evidence. Asters are still good and plentiful. Funeral work has been fairly brisk.

Various Notes.

The big event of last week was the Merrial wedding. The church was decorated with southern smilax, with Easter lilies intermingled. Along the aisle were tall standards, on which were used 1,000 Easter lilies. On the church porch large baskets of Columbia were used. At the home the dining room was decorated with White Killarney roses and the table center was of lily of the valley. The living room was decorated with Columbia roses, some in vases and some in wall baskets tied with blue ribbon; 700 roses were used. In the grounds many baskets and window boxes were filled with Golden Glow chrysanthemums. The bride's bouquet consisted of White Killarney roses and the bridesmaids carried Ophelia roses. J. J. Le Borious had charge of the decorating and the Duluth Floral Co. made the bouquets.

Visitors last week to Duluth were John Elzinga, of the National Bulb Farms, Benton Harbor, Mich.; Charles H. Grakelow, Philadelphia; Henry Fox, Philadelphia, and Mr. Hall, of the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia. J. E. S.

The Market.

Business has not changed enough this summer to be noticeable. A steady run of funeral and wedding work has kept trade somewhat better than last summer. Outdoor flowers have suffered from the extremely hot spell, which lasted two weeks, but September 26 the rain was a big help to the asters and gladioli, and the temperature has gone down from 90 degrees to about 70 degrees.

Various Notes.

The floral exhibit at the northeastern Michigan fair, Bay City, which has just come to a close, was one of the most creditable displays of flowers and plants ever shown at those fair grounds; in fact, it was so good that the Saginaw-Bay City Floricultural Society received $407 in premium money of the $500 put up. The floral exhibit at the Saginaw county fair, which will be held next week, will also be staged by the florists of Saginaw and Bay City, and all receipts will be placed in the treasury of the society to defray the expenses of the Michigan State Florists' Association convention, which takes place March, 1921.

The next meeting of the Saginaw-Bay City Floricultural Society will take place at the greenhouses of J. B. Goetz Sons, Monday evening, October 4. Many things of interest are expected to be heard from President Hamilton, who has just returned from Sweden after a two months' visit to his aged parents.

Visitors of late were Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Meyer, South Bend, Ind.; Henry Heilemann, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Keit and Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Boehringer, of Bay City, Mich. G.

Are You Ready for Cold Weather?

Are your boilers in good shape? It might be a good idea to give them a coat of Moninger Metal Kote paint to prevent rust and make them look neat. A covering of Asbestos Cement will save fuel. We have the cement in stock and can ship at once.

How are your heating pipes? Perhaps you will need to renew some or make some changes to improve the circulation. We carry a very large stock of all kinds of heating goods.

How is your greenhouse roof? You can lose an awful lot of fuel if there is no putty where the glass lies in the bars. An application of Moninger (black or white) liquid glazing cement will make the roof wind and rain tight.

There are a thousand and one things you might need for your greenhouse establishment. Just drop us a line and we will ship or quote at once.
